The same officers raided the farm of Fred Fetus, also in Colchester, Friday forenoon and discovered a quart of whiskey. There they met with opposition from Mrs. Fetus, who was inclined to offer battle. Both Mr. and Mrs. Fetus were taken before the town court where the former was charged with reputation and sale on which he was fined one hundred dollars and costs. Mrs. Fetus was assessed five dollars and costs, for resisting an officer.

In the afternoon in the same town, the officers came across some barrels containing about three hundred gallons of mash for distilling purposes, on an abandoned farm. There was evidence that the place had been used for making liquor extensively. The mash was dumped on the ground and an investigation will be made to determine the identity of the person owning the mash and the land.

WILLIMANTIC CAMP MEETING OPENS WITH MANY PRESENT

(Special to the Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC CAMPGROUND, Aug. 16.—Today was the opening of Sunday at Willimantic campground. As usual the meetings were in charge of the campground auxiliaries of the Women's Foreign and Home Missionary Societies of the Methodist Episcopal Church. The W. H. M. S. had charge in the 10 a. m. service.

The bright weather of the morning brought out a large number at this service. The choir-leader of the week, Rev. J. G. Sallis, of Mystic, being absent, his place was ably filled by a choir-leader of several summers ago, Edward A. Wheeler, of Providence, son of Van R. Wheeler, the treasurer of the Campground Association.

Mrs. W. C. Gallup, of Moosup, had charge of the services. She is president of the Norwich District W. H. M. S. Its secretary, Mrs. A. S. Muirhead, of Willimantic, read the Scriptures. The district superintendent, Rev. M. E. Genter, of Norwich, offered prayer. A solo was given by Mrs. Raymon Blinn, of Talcottville.

As Mrs. Margaret Weatherstone, a speaker from Boston, failed to appear, one always pleasing to a campground audience took her place, Mrs. Cora Downs Stevens, of Hartford. She emphasized the three points of God, and home, and native land, and stated that 27,000,000 children in the United States knew nothing of church or Sunday school. She gave a graphic description of the taking of anti-toxin to Nome at the time of the diphtheria epidemic, and stated that the missionaries who received it were W. H. M. S. people of New Haven. Among the Indians, are 35,000 children that have neither mission nor private school to go to. Down in the Southland the W. H. M. S. has worked among the mountain whites, and children are glad to go to schools even if they are five or more miles away.

At one o'clock the children's meeting was held in the New London House. It is led, as for several seasons past, by Miss Ruth LaFarge, of Hockanum, district Junior League superintendent. Mrs. Jane E. Read, of Worcester, who conducted these meetings for a period of 30 years, is able to be on the grounds again this season, but, on account of feeble health, is confined to her "Gem" cottage on Wesley Circle.

The 2 p. m. service in the tabernacle was under the auspices of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society. A large audience gathered to hear of work in India. By coincidence there were three missionaries from India on the platform, Miss Clementina Butler, whose father, the late Dr. William Butler, founded Methodist missions in 1857; Rev. Christian Borup, of the Presbyterian Board, now on a furlough; and Miss Ruth Manchester, who received her inspiration to go as a missionary from this campground, some five years ago, Mrs. George E. Keith, president of West Norwich district had charge.

Mrs. Grace Boardman, of Norwich, read the Scriptures, and the district superintendent offered prayer. Miss Ella M. Stanley, of Highland Park, spoke of this being the 50th anniversary of the forming of the campground auxiliary of the W. H. M. S. She introduced as the speaker of the afternoon, Miss Ruth Manchester, of Lucknow College, India. The latter went to India in 1920. She emphasized the remarkable growth of the college during the last five years. Miss Clementina Butler followed with an earnest plea for colleges for girls in India. She and Rev. Mr. Borup sang together a Hindostani song, the title of which was "Victory to Jesus Christ." After an offering, Mr. Borup spoke of the many nationalities and language in India.

At four o'clock there was a children's missionary meeting in the tabernacle, which was addressed by Mrs. Cora Downs Stevens.

Last evening the two women's societies held a joint meeting at the tabernacle, speakers of the day taking part.

At 8 o'clock Saturday evening in the tabernacle the Epworth League Institute held the annual "Get-Together."

Rev. N. B. Burton, of Putnam, president of Norwich District Epworth League, started the ball rolling by calling for the singing of several familiar hymns, after which he offered prayer.

He then called upon the fourth vice-president of the District League, Rev. Roger C. Stinson, of Danielson, who had charge of the amusements. A large space was made by moving back the chairs. The first game was called, "The Last Couple Out." This was followed by "The Minister's Cat."

IT gives us great pleasure to announce NO-NOX our new Motor Fuel. NO-NOX is the product of many months of exhaustive, scientific and chemical research by a staff of our own skilled chemists, infinite care being given to all details to insure the absolute perfection of NO-NOX Motor Fuel. Strenuous nights and days were spent in our thoroughly equipped laboratories by these scientists before NO-NOX Motor Fuel was perfected. Hard grilling road tests followed to develop any weakness overlooked in the laboratory, and we are now ready to offer the most efficient anti-knock fuel in the world.

Manufactured in one refinery under the same skillful supervision and from the same grades of crude, it is continuously uniform which means much in carburetion. When the carburetor is once properly adjusted it requires no further change—care should be taken to see that the mixture is not too rich as NO-NOX works best with a thin mixture, thus insuring economy. With NO-NOX, perfect combustion takes place at just the right position of the piston head which entirely does away with carbon knocks or motor detonation—promoting greater efficiency of the engine, smoother operation of the car on the road, in traffic, and especially on heavy grades.

This wonderfully efficient gas is guaranteed to be Non-Noxious, Non-Poisonous and no more harmful to man or motor than ordinary gasoline.

Drive to the nearest Gulf Service Station and try it out. It is readily distinguished by its color.

GULDEN'S SALADRESSING MUSTARD

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

At the morning service at the Westfield Congregational church Sunday, the formal resignation of Rev. Walter Byron Williams as pastor was read to the congregation. Rev. Mr. Williams resignation was forecasted the past week, as previously told in The Bulletin, that he may become, during the early fall, pastor of the North Congregational church at Berkeley, Cal.

It was stated Sunday afternoon that there will be a meeting of the church next Thursday evening to act on Rev. Mr. Williams' resignation, to elect a committee to arrange for the calling of a new pastor, also a committee to act with the pastor as to his dismissal from a charge in this field—a field where he has done splendid work and from which he will go at the general regret of the church he has served.

Rev. Mr. Williams' letter of resignation was as follows:

Canaan, N. H., August 13, 1925.
The Westfield Church,
Danielson, Conn.

Dear Friends:—In the eight years I have been in Danielson the relations sustained with the members of the church and congregation have been so cordial, your response to my proposals so generous and hearty, the liberty you have given me has been so full, your efforts to make the way easy for me have been so large and so constant, that my natural inclination is to resolve to remain always.

I have realized, however, that this inclination is unwise. My pastorate has been long for these times. A call has come to another field and I have decided to follow wisdom rather than inclination and have accepted.

I do this with no dissatisfaction whatsoever with this church, the people or the community.

Will you, then, permit me to resign my pastorate and release me from my duties on October 1, 1925?

With this request let me assure you of my faith in you, my love for you and my earnest hope for your strong future, to which I feel my going at this time will contribute.

Wishing ou grace, mercy and peace.
WALTER BYRON WILLIAMS, Minister.

At the North Foster Baptist church Sunday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, there were funeral services for Rev. Searls S. Young, oldest Baptist minister in the state of Rhode Island and a native of the town of Killingly, born in March, 1832. A large number attended the funeral services and the burial. A. E. Wood was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

The early education of Rev. Mr. Young was obtained in the schools of Killingly. He studied later at the New Hampton, N. H., theological school, now the New Hampton Literary institute. Seventy-two years ago, in the same house in which he died, he married Miss Alma Hopkins. Two sons were born to them, Irving dying in childhood and Myron in 1916. Mrs. Young died in 1906 in Ben Lombard, Ill., where the family resided for thirteen years.

In 1862 Mr. Young enlisted in the Union army and saw service with the Seventh Rhode Island volunteers, until he was wounded at Fredericksburgh. After returning to Rhode Island he served as pastor of the Morning Star church, Foster, for 18 years. He also was pastor of the Line church of Foster and of the North Foster church, where his funeral services were held Sunday.

Rev. Mr. Young leaves a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Myron Young, two grandchildren, Willoughby and Manford Young, and three great-grandchildren.

C. D. Mowry, veteran agent at Dayville for a railway express company, writes The Bulletin to tell of his experiences in raising sweet corn in Killingly and trying to sell it in this town. What he has to say was inspired by a story that appeared in this column Saturday morning and had to do with the sale of 300 dozen of sweet corn raised in Danielson and sold at wholesale in Providence for five cents a dozen—after three cents a dozen had been refused. Mowry, while engaged as a farmer in the Mashentuck district of the town, had his own experiences in trying to sell corn and other things in town, where the retail prices were very good. Today, as a railway express agent and out of the primal occupation of raising things to feed people, he may well remark, "I was amused by the article about the corn." It isn't so funny to the man who is taking five cents a dozen for his crop, that represents many days of hard work. No, indeedy!

The two plants here of the Paco Mfg. Co., and the plant of the Powdrell-Alexander company at Putnam, an allied concern, will resume operations this (Monday) morning after having been idle for two weeks. Suspension of operations at these mills was in no sense what is known in ordinary parlance as a "shut-down." It is the plan of the operators of these mills to give their several hundred employes a vacation each summer and have it over with. The organizations will resume work this morning and will remain intact from now on—vacations out of sight and out of mind.

Members of various national guard units throughout Connecticut were on the rifle range Saturday and Sunday practicing for places on the state rifle team that is to represent Connecticut at the national rifle match at Camp Perry, O., next month.

Christopher Andrews left Sunday for a motor trip to Boston, where he is visiting relatives.

Jacob A. Hirsch of Worcester was a visitor with friends in Danielson Sunday.

There will be a session of the town court this (Monday) morning to hear cases developing over the week end.

Miss Kathlee Burns of Hartford was with relatives at Alexander's lake over the week end.

A class is being prepared at St. James' churchto receive the sacrament of confirmation in about a fortnight.

A parish supper and lawn fete at Dayville, Saturday afternoon, attracted a number from Danielson and vicinity.

Another stretch of concrete walk is being built in Water street opposite dwellings built by W. S. Brown a few years ago and since sold by him to various individuals.

In the sun, Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock, thermometers in several sections of Danielson registered 100 degrees.

It appears likely that it will be well on toward September 1, before work is really in full swing on the construction of concrete roadway between Morin avenue and Elmville.

Millmen from this section had a grand time Saturday, at the outing of the Eastern Connecticut Mills association at Rocky Point.

MANY AT CARNIVAL BUT NOT TO SPEND MONEY

(Special to the Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Aug. 16.—A carnival went away from Danielson during the wee sma' hours of Sunday morning. It had been here a week, The Captain Put Engine company of the fire department took a small commission on the business done. The commission should have been $5,000, if the host of people who went there and the hundreds of machines that created a traffic jam about the grounds signified money to be spent. But it didn't. It appears the boys were saving money for gasoline. They came, they saw, but most of them did not spend; at least, not very much. The carnival left here for Norwich.

WEATHER FORECASTERS PULLED THE WRONG LEVER

DANIELSON, Aug. 16.—Looking back over the long distance weather forecasts of the late winter and early spring, one who is trusting and more or less gullable rises up in protest. One gink—official known as a scientist and tolerated quite considerable on that exalted account—broadcasted the fact that there would be no hot weather during the summer of 1925. He said this would be because of sunspots. He's in the discard, in view of the fact that it has been hot enough most of the time since early June to make a loafer out of a man addicted to work, but unable to thrive well under temperatures of 90 degrees and over.

And then, too, this was to be a dry summer and every drop of water should be saved against a drought that was to be something terrible! Most people have thought for the past six weeks that a raincoat was the most valuable garment they had in stock. Something has got to be done about these weather prophets! One way to severely punish them would be to make them pay advertising rates for the publication of their forecasts.

It has been hot enough and wet enough in this section of New England this summer to tempt a Florida real estate salesman away from his swamps and rattlesnakes and get him to selling undersea lots in Danielson and vicinity.

PUTNAM

People from Putnam and vicinity who took part in the legislative outing at Rocky Point were Representative and Mrs. Samuel Rich, Mrs. G. A. Hawkins, Representative William Fechie, Police Captain William J. Jarvis, Joseph Plesais, State Bank Commissioner John B. Byrne and Miss Katherine Byrne, State Highway Commissioner and Mrs. John A. Macdonald and Mrs. D. C. Park, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Cortis, Mr and Mrs. Edward Desaulniers and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Faucher of North Grosvenordale; Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Tatem and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Clark of Eastford; Judge Charles M. Perrin and Senator Child of Woodstock.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Dugas are on an automobile trip to Canada to visit relatives. Their daughter, Miss Irene Dugas, will enter a finishing school at Juliet, Canada and will specialize in French. Miss Dugas is a graduate of the class of 1925 of the Putnam High school.

Captain of Police Jarvis, Sergeant George Laird and Patrolman Joseph Paige have returned from New Haven where they attended the Twenty-second annual convention of the Connecticut convention of the Connecticut State Police Association.

Leon T. Wilson and family have returned from their cottage at Pleasant View where they have ben for the past six weeks.

Mrs. Eldon S. Johnson and daughter, Bernice of Willimantic spent the week end with Mrs. Johnson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Adams of South Main street.

In spite of threatening weather, between three and four hundred persons from all parts of Windham county took part in the annual field day of the Windham County Farmers' Association. The first stop was at the farm of H. B. Buell in Eastford where the following program was given: Address by H. B. Buell; inspection of the up-to-date farm storage; a trip through the fine orchards and an inspection of the pure bred Jersey cattle. The next stop was at the farm of S. H. Peckham at Woodstock where an inspection was made of the barn and Mrs. Peckham gave the history of his breeding work. The cattle were all numbered and assembled in groups, including the old foundation stock, the herd sire and his daughters and the recently purchased pure breds. It was an excellent demonstration of what breeding can accomplish.

Because of the rain the afternoon program was at the Fair Grounds instead of Roseland Park. Addresses were given by Dr. L. F. Rettger, bacteriologist at Yale University and C. E. Henry of the Whiting Milk Company. Talks were made by Dr. G. P. Pilsley, president of the Windham County Farmers' Association; Whitman Danielson, secretary and treasurer of the W. C. F. Assn.; Frank L. Davis, county agricultural agent; John R. Stromberg, chairman of the field trip committee; Carl Musser, secretary of the American Guernsey Cattle Club and Mr. Blair of the Whiting Milk Companies. The visits to the farms were most instructive and the speaking program was interesting. The trip was an exceptional success notwithstanding the rain.

Mrs. Edward Snow and daughter Geraldine, of Ardmore, Pa., returned to their home Saturday after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Mansfield on Grove street. Mrs. Snow is the wife of the former well known headmaster at Putnam High School.

When Putnam's new Boy Scout troop met at the armory Friday evening, Terence McGarry was elected troop treasurer to succeed Herbert Clark, who resigned after having been chosen a patrol leader.

Fred Bernard of Canal street, was arrested on a charge of non support made by his wife and was found guilty by Judge Geissler in the city court. On learning that there was a warrant out for his arrest, Bernard gave himself up and furnished a bond of $500 for his appearance with Charles Rucki as surety. The wife, Celia Benard, made a statement to the court that her husband was not supporting her but upon cross examination by Attorney Mixon, admitted receiving money and food and having a home that the defendant provided. Judge Geissler after asking the defendant a few questions found him not guilty.

Right Rev. E. C. Acheson, D. D., Suffragan Bishop of Connecticut and H. Mansfield, Chancellor of the diocese visited Putnam for the purpose of adjusting property matters of St. Philip's Mission. The bishop and chancellor met with the executive committee, and it was decided to build a rectory on a lot near the church and to begin the work at once. For present occupancy Mr. Alder has rented the lower flat of the Marshall Kenyon House, on Grove street.

August 27, a number of the members of the Putnam Country Club will be guests of Willimantic club which has recenly opened a fine new course.

Master Harold MacKenzie of Worcester is spending two weeks with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Adams of South Main street, while Mr. and Mrs. MacKenzie are on a trip to Nova Scotia.

Mrs. Gilbert Rogers who has been visiting her father, Joseph Ryan, of Railroad street, has returned to her home in Norwich with her two children, who have been visiting their grandfather for the past three weeks.

Miss Beatrice Wainwright of New York, a well known singer and musician, is the guest of Miss Noyes at Topsfield, Pomfret.

Leo Reaves of School street is now making rapid progress toward recovery from injuries received when struck by an automobile in front of his home, more than three weeks ago. He has regained consciousness and is able to talk and understand what is said to him.

Royce D. McAllister, for several towns surrounding Putnam, has resigned to become supervisor in the schools of Washington, Conn. Mr. and Mrs. McAllister, who have been living in South Woodstock, will move to Washington in a few weeks.

WM. ADAMS SHOT HIMSELF AFTER DRIVING TO BACK ROAD

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Aug. 16—The body of William Adams, 35, of East Putnam was found Saturday in his car, a Ford runabout, on a little used road two miles from Chepachet, R. I. with a bullet wound in his head. On the floor of the car was a revolver, his own, with an empty shell. There is but little doubt that the wound was self inflicted.

He was unmarried, and an employe of a small textile mill in East Putnam owned by Dexter Elliott of Thompson.

He was last seen alive Wednesday evening when he drove his car up to the garage in Chepachet and inflated one of the tires. This wast just before dark and remained there but a few minutes. To an acquaintance he said that he was not feeling well; but it has since been realized that for the past month he has not seemed to be in his usual spirits.

After an inquiry, the coronel pronounced the death to be suicide and state dthat it had probably occurred shortly after he was last seen alive, Wednesday evening.

Adams lived in Putnam about fifteen years and since his removal had visited here occasionally. He was in service abroad during the World war.

NOANK

New life lines will soon be put up on the beach at Groton Long Point. This summer several persons have come near drowning at one place where there is quite an undertow. The borough authorities thought it best to put in the life lines.

George Carpenter, while at work at Mason's Island, stepped on a board with a nail on it, the nail entering his right foot. The injury was painful and has kept him from work for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Davis and family, of New Haven, spent a day in the village visiting friends.

Alfred Ballastrini is in Shannock, R. I., to attend the wedding of his brother, Romeo and Helen Salois, which is to take place today (Monday, Aug. 17, and is to be best man.

William Crowell is in Brooklyn, N. Y., for a few days.

William Tourjee has returned from New York.

Fred Philips, of Newport, is having a few days' vacation at his home on Prospect Hill.

Harry Edie has returned to Cornfield Lightship, after a short furlough at his home.

Friday's rainstorm left the streets and gutters in bad shape. The streets had about an inch of water on them so the trolley tracks were covered. It was the hardest rain of the summer.

In spite of unpleasant weather Thursday evening, a straw ride by the young people of the Baptist church was taken from Noank to Pleasant View, Atlantic Beach. Refreshments were served on the truck.

Vesper services are held at Groton Long Point Sunday afternoons during the summer, at the Casino. The exercises include inspiring services and excellent music. The preacher for Sunday afternoon was Rev. L. T. Dorchester, D. D., of Hartford.

An iron fence is being erected at the Parks property, on Noank road.

Miss Katherine Campbell has returned to Boston after visiting local relatives.

James Banks and daughter Alice have returned to Hardy, Mass., after a visit here.

Noank band, under the leadership of F. Scaplan, will have practice in Mechanics hall soon.

E. Luinott, of Hartford, was at Groton Long Point over the week-end.

Elihu Rathbun has been at Fishers Island.

John Donahue is spending a few days in Hope Valley.

WESTERLY

With the pleasant weather of Saturday night and Sunday, records of automobile traffic to the beach, not Watch Hill, Weekapaug and Pleasant View were broken Sunday, the number of cars with Mass., Conn., N. Y., and N. J., markers for that space of time far exceeded previous records. The Mooney motor buss coaches making half-hourly trips to the beaches carried capacity loads, beginning early and ending at a late hour.

Mrs. R. Jefferson, Mrs. L. W. Jefferson, Miss Minnie Jefferson and A. W. Jefferson are members of an automobile party which left Saturday on a trip of ten days over the Mohawk Trail, through Springfield, Mass., and the Berkshires, returning through Vermont, New Hampshire and Maine to Portland and back to Westerly for the remainder of a two-weeks' vacation trip.

Archie A. Marr, formerly of Westerly, was a visitor in town over the week, after four year absence, now being located with an automobile agency in New York city. Saturday morning he left Westerly for Boston, to return by automobile.

The annual picnic outing of the Rhode Island Ones of the Westerly Fire department is to be held Sunday Sept. 6th at Barnes' Point, Brightman Pond. A Rhode Island clambake is the attraction which awaits the firemen at the end of this "run."

James Salimeno returned to Newport, R. I., Sunday morning, after a short visit with relatives and friends in Westerly.

The feast of the Assumption was celebrated Saturday in Westerly at St. Michael's church, Pawcatuck, by Italian speaking people of Westerly, especially the former residents of Tusa, it being the special day of their patron saint. At 11 o'clock a. m. aerial bombs were exploded. Masses were attended at 5, 6, 7 and 9 o'clock. At 4.45 p. m. a street parade by the East Greenwich Columbus Independent band was held through Liberty Broad, High and Canal streets to the carnival lot off Stillman avenue. From 10 to nearly midnight the sky was brilliantly lighted with set pieces and fireworks ending in a grand display following the playing of "The Star Spangled Banner" by the band.

At the home of her mother in Gloucester, Mass., Saturday, occured the death of Miss Frances Lynch, 35, daughter of the late Michael Lynch, and a former resident of Westerly. She was the niece of John Lynch of Stillman avenue, and Mr. Lynch went to Gloucester Sunday morning. There survive her four sisters and three brothers.

An automobile accident occurred on West Broad street, Saturday afternoon when the rear end of the Buick roadster, 79-645 Conn., of Helen Retchford, 360 Main street, Norwalk, Conn., was run into by the Dodge sedan, 79-265 Conn., of Frederick L. Johnson of 279 Winthrop street, New London. Slight damage was done either automobile. West Side Police Patrolman C. Wilson Brown investigated the accident.

Miss Bertha Hahn returned to her home in Norwich Sunday, after a visit at the Atlantic View Inn, Atlantic Beach. From the same place Mr. and Mrs. Newberry have returned to Hartford; Ray Olason, Clifford A. Evarts and Mr. and Mrs. O'Neil and daughter Jean to their homes in New Haven.

Mrs. Alice Little of Clinton street, Misses Doris and Alice Little, Samuel Little, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Robinson, Miss Eva Gumley, and Mrs. E. Little, all of South Manchester, have been guests at the Atlantic View Inn, Atlantic Beach.

Rev. and Mrs. Samuel F. Maine and daughter, Priscilla of Phoenix, R. I., are at their cottage near the tabernacle.

Rev. and Mrs. John Miller of East Thompson, are at the Stafford Springs house. Mr. Miller is president of the Stafford Springs house association, and Rev. Frank Chamberlain is vice president. Old fashioned Methodist meetings are held daily during the camp meeting session at 1 and 6 p. m.

Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Lyon of Staffordville, are at their cottage on Foster avenue.

Mrs. Helena Richardson, of Boston, has purchased and is occupying the cottage at 4 Simpson avenue, formerly owned by Mrs. John Hawkins, of Jewett City.

Rev. and Mrs. J. M. Von Deck of Oneco, are at Friendship cottage, 27 Church Circle. With them are their children Ernest and Charlton, Alita and Edith.

Mrs. Edith Matthews of Staffordville, joint-owner of the cottage, has for her guests from the same village her mother, Mrs. Sarah Babcou, and her niece, Miss Ruth Bosworth.

The Ladies' Improvement association held the annual bazaar in the auditorium Friday afternoon. It was well patronized in spite of showers. Mrs. Grace L. M. Boardman of Norwich, had charge of the lead-pencil table which was in charge of Mrs. Edith Matthews of Staffordville, and Mrs. Anna Purdie of Willimantic. Misses Gladys and Alberta Boardman sold candy. Ice cream was served by Kingsley Luce, of Jersey City and punch was poured by Misses Laura Carter, and Katherine Constantine of Rutherford, N. J., Mrs. Julia Huit, of South Manchester, and Miss Alice Strong of Boston, had charge of the apron table, while books were sold by Mrs.

SCHOOL OF NURSING

The school of nursing connected with the William W. Backus Hospital in Norwich, Conn., is now registering students for the September classes. This school is registered in Connecticut and the course of instruction is two years and four months given in a general hospital of 90 beds. Students must be graduates of grammar school and have one year of high school work. A new nurses residence opened this year affords each student all of the comforts and conveniences of home.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

Harold H. Comins, 37, died Thursday evening at his home in Hartford, following an operation performed three weeks ago at the Hartford hospital. He was removed from the hospital to his home Wednesday, and grew weaker steadily until his death. He had been in ill health since last May.

Mr. Comins was born in this town, Nov. 8, 1887, the son of Charles W. and Nettie A. Snow Comins. He spent his boyhood here, attending the public school, and then entered the High school, being graduated in 1902, and entering Amherst college the same year. He was graduated from Amherst in the class of 1907, and later attended Bay Path Institute. After his graduation from Bay Path Mr. Comins taught in the Danbury High school, for six years, resigning to become purchasing agent for the Aetna Life Insurance company in NNew York city. For the past year Mr. Comins has been proprietor of the Aladdin Book and Brass shop, in Hartford.

His marriage with Miss Elizabeth Sanders, of Hartford, took place Aug. 16, 1924. Since that time he has been a resident of Hartford. Mr. Comins was a 32nd degree Mason, member of the Danbury lodge, and was a Shriner.

He is survived by his widow, of Hartford; his mother, Mrs. Nettie A. Comins, of this town; a sister, Miss Hazel Comins, and his grandmother, Mrs. J. D. Dimock, also of Stafford Springs.

Announcement has been made by the Connecticut company of a change in the running time of trolleys between Stafford Springs and Hartford, reducing the present time 15 minutes. The revised schedule will become effective Sunday, Aug. 23. Under the proposed schedule the last trolley going through to Hartford will leave here at 9:30 p. m.

Following is the schedule announced, using standard time: Leave Hartford for Stafford Springs (and Rockville), 5:15 a. m., and hourly until 9:15 p. m., then 10:15 p. m. to Rockville only. First car Sundays leaves at 6:15 a. m.; leave Stafford Springs for Hartford, 5:15 a. m., 6:30 a. m., then hourly until 9:30 p. m., with the 10 p. m. trolley to Love Lane only. Sundays the first car will leave at 6:30 a. m.; leave Rockville for Stafford Springs, 4:30 a. m., 5:45, 6:15 a. m. and hourly until 10:15 p. m., with cars leaving Sundays at 5:45, 6:45, 7:15 a. m. and hourly until 10:15 p. m.

Plans have been perfected for the Canoe Carnival, Saturday, Aug. 22, at Sandy Beach, under the auspices of Tolland County Y. M. C. A., in charge of Frank Condon, county secretary. The events are open to others besides members of the "Y" otherwise qualified. Races will include a 220-yard race for boys over fifteen years of age, singles; 220 yards for boys under fifteen years, singles; 220 yards for boys over fifteen, doubles, and 220 yards for boys under fifteen, doubles; a 220-yard race for girls and young women, two paddling; a midget race, small children; open canoe race, long distance (length of the Lake), four paddling; a hand paddling contest, and tilting contest completing the program, which will be opened with a parade of decorated canoes, with prizes offered for the best entered.

The annual reunion of the Holmes-Cady society is to be held at West Rock, Crystal Lake, Thursday, Aug. 20. Lunch will be served at 12 o'clock. Persons connected with either the Holmes or Cady families are privileged to attend.

BOZRAH

Augustus Horrick has been spending a week with Mrs. O. A. Bishop.

Miss Mildred Grandy has returned after six weeks' course at summer school in New Haven.

Mrs. John H. Miner, of Rehoboth, Mass., is the guest of Mrs. A. J. Grandy.

A meeting of the Bozrah Rural Cemetery association was held Friday at the home of the president Jabez Bailey, of Yantic. Several new members were received.

STERLING

Much talk pro and con about town officers has aroused the town of Sterling where Irving E. Frink has been first selectman for seven years and the republican party is proud of the fact that he has made a fine record.

Mr. Frink will be nominated again. Last year he polled 111 democratic votes out of 165.

Business is much better at the United States Finishing Company's mills here. Old hands are being sent for and the same rule that Agent Harold B. Mowry has always followed, "Let every one get his share of our good luck," is still the motto.

Beautiful Sterling, one of the prettiest, busiest, most up-to-date towns in Connecticut and Rhode Island cannot be kept down. Prosperity with a big P is just ahead.

Sigel Burdick of Hope Valley, R. I. Elder John Burdick of West Greenwich, R. I., and many other Burdicks were here Saturday to attend the Frank Burdick part. The Burdicks show the world there is lots of them when a birthday rolls around.

Station Agent Jim Wallace is being boomed for town clerk. A democrat trying hard to land a job that the republicans have first, second and third mortgages on!

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Montgomery and children, Sarah Jeanette, Charles Bertrand and Billy Taylor Montgomery, spent Sunday with Mrs. Montgomery's sister, Mrs. Charles H. Hill, of Plainfield.

Peter Mutney who has been employed on the addition of Union Cotton Mills at Moosup, has finished his work and has returned home.

A. H. Knight of Riverpoint, R. I. was a visitor in town Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wilcox and son John Wilcox, spent Sunday at Putnam.

Peter Mutney, Mrs. Belverie, and Lester Belverie were in Apponaug, R. I., Saturday.

HAMPTON

Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Phillips and daughter were New London visitors on Sunday.

Guests at Hillview farm last week were Mr. and Mrs. William Parrott of New Haven, Mr. and Mrs. George Russ and little daughter, Eleanor, and Miss Ruth M. Russ, of Willimantic.

Edward Fitzgerald is suffering with blood poisoning in his hand.

Mr. and Mrs. Dwight T. Phillips and daughter, Isabelle, Mr. and Mrs. Asa T. Burdick and son, Malcolm, and Earl Byars, visited friends and relatives in Worcester, Mass., Aug. 3.

Frederick Suridge is at his home here, after undergoing an operation at a hospital in Hartford.

Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Whitehouse were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Jackson and little son, of Mount Hope, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Thompson and Mrs. Alice Kenyon of Hampton Hill.

The next American Legion meeting is to be held at the home of Roger Sherman, as usual, Saturday night, and is to be Ladies' night.

LAUREL GLEN

Hattie White was a caller in Westerly, Thursday.

People from here availed themselves of the opportunity of attending the inspection of the Westerly hospital at its opening, last Monday and Tuesday.

Eli King is visiting relatives in Maine.

THE WILD CARROT

Those who do any traveling through the country will not be surprised at the statement that complaints are being made about the large increase in the amount of wild carrot. Weeds will flourish where garden truck will not and there isn't anything much worse in the way of wild growth than the wild carrot.

From the amount of it that is to be seen in country districts no one would suppose that it was against the law to permit it to go to seed and yet such is the fact. Wild carrots and thistles are placed in the same category of undesirability and the responsibility of cutting them in the highways in front of property as well as on the property itself is required by the law.

Wild carrot is a wrecker of good grass land. It grows on the slightest encouragement and where it gets a foothold other things are crowded out. It is for the purposes of protection that the toleration of wild carrot is made unlawful, the protection of others as well as self.

Any land owner who has a real regard for his property and what they are expected to produce requires no law to hasten the eradication of wild carrots and thistles. He is alert to the desirability of exterminating such a pest and it is only natural that he should desire the hearty cooperation of his neighbors. Where all are engaged in the same endeavor effective results are sure to be obtained but it is the too prevalent disregard for others and a shirking of one's own welfare which make legislation upon such matters necessary.

And yet the wild carrot law would appear to be failing to function, as all that was expected of it. Certainly the prosecutions under it are few and far between and yet there fields upon fields which are overrun with it. In some instances they have replaced the grass crop and not only getting worse from year to year but extending the area of control.

Whether there is a law or not the outstanding fact is that when all land owners respond to the apparent duty to self and others the wild carrot will disappear, but it is bound to thrive as long as there is negligent and half-hearted spirit displayed against it.

BAD HEADLIGHTS

Paradoxical as it may seem the headlight continues to be one of the dangers of the highway. This is because it does more than is expected of it. Sending a shaft of light into the eyes of the fellow coming in the opposite direction, making it impossible for him to determine his side of the highway and see whether he is actually on it or off it, is extremely bad. It invites trouble, collision or ditching, and is all the more deplorable because it is so easily remedied.

There was a time when the glaring headlights came in for so much criticism that they were made the subject of legislation. Special lenses have dealt with that phase of the matter but the failure to regulate the lights so that the rays will be thrown down onto the highway, instead of horizontal or into the eyes of other drivers, still leaves a serious situation.

Lights which are focussed so that the full width of the roadbed is plainly disclosed do not shine in the eyes of other drivers, and yet all that is necessary is to observe the headlights of cars at a dark point along a highway and it will be noted that the proper focusing of lights is respected more in the breach than in the observance. It is apparent that the lights of some cars have been regulated but the rays of others shoot out directly ahead in some cases, up in the air in other instances and there are cars where one light is focused up and the other down, to say nothing of the cars with one light which is so strong as to approach a searchlight.

There is quite as much reason for the proper focusing of headlights as there is for equipping cars with legal lenses. Unless it is done the safeguarding of night driving is not accomplished. Experience may aid in overcoming the handicaps of the bright and improperly focused lights, and it may be possible to duck back of some green shade to overcome such conditions, but that doesn't overcome a wrong condition which can be so easily remedied.

AN IMMIGRATION TEST

The inspection of immigrants is a matter which calls for careful work. It ought not to be slighted, and in view of the laws which have been passed by congress for the restriction of immigration it cannot be tolerated.

Immigration Commissioner Curran at Ellis Island has expressed criticism of the methods which are being followed by his superior and takes the position that it is giving encouragement to the entrance of those whom it is desired to keep out of the country for physical and mental reasons. Whether he is justified in the opposition he manifests will be disclosed in time. As yet it would appear that he was trying to interrupt the operation of the machine, of which he is a part, without waiting for the outcome of the test that is being made.

It has been well understood what congestion has existed at Ellis Island and what hardships have been shouldered by those desiring to enter this country by coming to our doors only to find out that they must go back across the ocean again. In the effort to relieve this, examinations abroad have been suggested and approved. Congress has given authority for such action and the immigration bureau is, by the orders which Commissioner Curran takes exceptions to, putting this to a test by arranging for inspection of British and Irish Free State subjects. To say that this is showing partiality is unwarranted inasmuch as conditions are probably as favorable there as in any country for a tryout.

When it is pointed out that states are paying out large sums for the maintenance of aliens who should never have been admitted no one will deny it, but there is nothing as yet to show that changed methods will encourage this condition. If it is going to do so now is the time to find it out and end, once and for all, all thought of such a plan. Inasmuch as the proof of the pudding lies in the eating the criticism by the commissioner would appear to be more fitting after he has seen the effects of the test.

THE WORLD COURT

When it is reported that President Coolidge is planning to renew efforts in behalf of the world court, it represents no change of sentiment on his part. He has long been an advocate of such action and it is to be gathered from the report that he believes not only that favorable action should be taken but that it should be done at this coming session of congress.

Coupled with this report, or at least coming at the same time with it, is one to the effect that a canvass of the senate shows that more than the necessary two thirds is favorable to adherence to the permanent court of international justice. This means much if it can be accepted as the way the senators will vote. Much will depend, of course, upon the form which the resolution takes that the senate will be asked to vote upon, and yet it is to be expected that it will be drafted with the care that would accomplish the desired end without arousing needless antagonism.

There may be those who are unalterably opposed to the court and would do their utmost to prevent favorable action. The number may be small but even the few have been able to block action by the senate and stand in the way of majority sentiment.

It is quite evident that such action as is undertaken will be in accord with the policies of the president. Much weight will be given to his views and the manner in which he believes entrance should be effected. For that reason special attention will be directed to such suggestions as he has to make in dealing with such an important question. In this as in other matter he can be relied upon to look carefully after the nation's welfare.

KEEPING IN TOUCH

When Amundsen went in search of the pole he went by flying machine. When MacMillan went into the far north for exploration purposes he went by ship but carried seaplanes with him for use after he got there.

When Amundsen started on his flight to the pole he left behind all means of communicating with the world such as the wireless, but when MacMillan set out he carried with him an equipment which would not only make it possible for him to keep in touch with the flying machines as they set out for explorations, but of keeping in touch with conditions back home and of letting it be known what he was doing and what was happening to him and his party.

Amundsen had trouble on his polar trip and only by good fortune did he get back to civilization. There was worry over his absence and much talk and some plans for relief expeditions. No one knew just what had happened to him until he had returned and told about it. The conditions were such that he might have furnished one of the unsolved mysteries of the north.

MacMillan has also encountered trouble. It was in fact to be anticipated under the conditions to be met up there, and even though he went under different conditions than did Amendsen and is to stay for a longer period, there is much satisfaction to be gained from the fact that he has carried with him the means of keeping the world informed about his accomplishments and troubles. The two expeditions clearly show the value attached to making use of the air for communications as well as for covering distances.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

A toothbrush used for dampening seams for pressing saves time. The brush opens the seam as it is drawn along and facilitates the work.

To cut bias folds, fold the bias material the desired depth for as many folds as needed, then crease with a hot iron. It is easy to cut biases prepared in this way.

When froning between buttons on a blouse place on a folded Turkish towel. The bottons will sink into the towel and the spaces between them will be froned smooth.

When making apple pies in a hurry, chop the apples fine. They will bake more quickly.

Jelly that will not jell may be used in sweetening apple sauce and pies, thus imparting an unusual flavor.

When threading your sewing-machine needle, turn the flashlight on the opposite side from the thread and the eye will show up plainly.

Small screw eyes screwed into the right-hand side of the icebox with the proper distance apart make a very convenient holder for ice pick.

Adding hot milk instead of cold to mashed potatoes makes them lighter. Mash well, add salt and butter and hot milk last. Beat for a minute with a fork.

DRINK FOR CHILDREN

To make a good healthful drink for children pour a glass of cold milk into a shaker, or a glass jar or milk bottle, if you have no shaker. Add two or three heaping teaspoonsful of malted chocolate on top of the milk. Cap tight and shake well. For very young children use only one teaspoonful of the malted chocolate. It may be served hot or cold.

BON VOYAGE BOXES

All but seasick travelers will welcome a "bon voyage" box containing peppermints, nuts, candied ginger and sour lemondrops.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Despite the fact that the American summer is usually notable for its heat, which at times approaches tropic temperature, nevertheless it is never wise to start on a summer holiday without including some kind of a wool dress. Kasha is the material par excellence for the more important woolen frock, but equally lovely, while not so expensive, are the light-colored flannels and twills which are used for smart little jumper frocks and ensembles designed for wear at the seashore.

A rival in attractiveness is a frock of maize linen, a becoming note of simplicity being introduced by the use of a white linen vest and a long rever edged with white. Pearl buttons and gay hand appliqued flower motifs lend a finishing touch.

Lovely little medallions of handmade petit point, combining dainty colors, make suitable decorations for handkerchiefs, frocks and scarfs about the house.

Lingerie sets of cotton voile in exquisite colorings, lace trimmed.

A new fashion consists of wearing a long hand-made tunic of heavy white georgette over a slip of lack satin.

CLEANING KID GLOVES

To clean kid gloves put them in a screw top jar with enough gasoline to cover and shake well. Let them stand over night and in the morning shake again, rinse in clean gasoline, shake and hang out to dry. Any small articles can be cleaned in the same way.

YELLOW AND BLUE

The littlest girl has not been neglected this season, particularly when the designers turn out such quaint costumes as a simple little smocked frock of yellow and blue voile that has an accompanying coat of English velet embroidery bound with a band of yellow.

SCRUB YOUR SHOES

The popular white sports shoes which play such a prominent part in summer costuming can be prevented from acquiring a gray or grimy look by an occasional scrubbing with soap and water.

Flaked or powdered soap is most convenient for the purpose because it can be flusted on to the dry canvas and scrubbed in with a wet brush.

First brush the shoes well to remove the dust and accumulated white powder from former cleanings. Shake the soap over the surface and scrub with a small brush dipped in warm water, making a stiff lather which stands up on the shoe. After standing a few minutes scrape off the suds and rinse by running hastily over the surface with the brush dipped frequently in clear water. Try to keep the canvas from being water soaked at any time.

After washing, whiting may be applied if desired, to protect the surface.

Place in a window or in the open air where drying can take place quickly.

WASTELESS MEAT

Cheese has been called the "wasteless meat" because science has proved that cheese contains three times as much nutriment as lean beef. When eaten as a "meat," as the main dish of a meal, it is as easily digested and assimilated by the average person as any other high-power food. The average family will do well to eat more cheese and less meat during hot weather.

A BIT NEW

At a luncheon recently where the guests were well acquainted, the hostess had each girl's initials on her place card instead of the full name and filling out the initials were adjectives describing the girl instead of her name. For instance, one girl's initials were S. S. W. and on her card were the three words, Small, Stylish, Witty.

POTATO MUFFINS

Cream two teaspoonfuls of butter and add two tablespoons of sirup. Add one egg which has been well beaten, then one cupful of mashed potato and mix thoroughly. Sift together one cupful of cornmeal, one cupful of barley flour, four teaspoonfuls of baking powder, and one teaspoonful of salt, then add them and two-thirds cupful of milk alternately to the mixture. Bake the muffins in greased pans for about 30 minutes.

KNITTED HATS

The knitted head covering seems from custom associated with winter wear but there is nothing wintry about the newest horsehair hat. This is knitted of the hair and is so loosely done that it is practically transparent. These hats are trimmed and edged usually with silver or gold ribbon.

FEATURE FUR LINING

There is every indication in evidence that fur linings will be a feature of next winter's coats. Already furriers and leather workers are laying in large stocks of lustered doeskin and gazelle. Incidentally neither leather comes from an animal in the least like a deer or a gazelle. Collars will be of fox, skunk and marten.

FRIED FISH

The only possible way to fry fish crisp and brown without first dipping it in egg and crumbs is to dry it thoroughly, dredge both sides with flour and drop into boiling deep fat. In this way the fish will crisp all over at once and cannot help but be satisfactory.

LAUNDRY HINTS

Perspiration stains may be removed fom white clothes by dampening the article with lemon juice and salt before the clothes are put into soap and water.

Try froning men's soft collars on a Turkish towel doubled to four thicknesses. The collars will iron much easier. They will be smoother and shine like new when finished.

Irons will keep hot a long time if kept on the soapstone of a fireless cooker.

Before washing your sweater sew the buttonholes shut. This will keep them from stretching.

Place a slice of lemon with the rind cut off in the boiler along with the clothes next washday. It will not injure them in any way and will make them beautifully white.

AIDS FOR THE COOK

To prevent a scum from forming on cocoa beat the beverage with the egg-beater until a foam forms on top, when it is finished.

When making gelatin, use a pitcher to mix the powder and water; then when the ingredients are easy to put into the mold it is an easy matter to pour the liquid in.

When baking stuffed peppers, place them in muffin-pans. The peppers will keep their shape much better when cooking in an ordinary baking-dish.

When making French dressing, put the ingredients in a small clean jar and shake it vigorously. You will find this much easier than stirring the dressing with a fork.

Instead of chopping cabbage for slaw, use a large meat-grinder. You will find it much easier and the work is done just as well.

Keep the vinegar from sweet pickles and put it into a bottle or glass, leaving the spices in it. When making salad dressings, strain out the spices and use the vinegar. It gives a delicious flavor.

TO HOLD PAPERS

A net shopping bag, such as can be purchased at the 5 and 10 cent store, is handy to hang in the cellar way to hold odd pieces of wrapping paper and string. These wrappings come in mighty handy at times and yet are out of the way when tucked in the bag.

STUFFED SPARERIBS

Stale bread made fine and moistened in lukewarm water, thoroughly dried, and then mixed with salt, pepper, butter, parsley, and sometimes sage, sometimes onions. Ribs should be cracked at the market and rolled in, cylinder form and tied together. Steak may be cooked this way also. Fish may be stuffed with this, too.

BANANA SPARERIBS

Peel and scrape three or four bananas; press them through a sieve. To a cup of this puree, add one cup of sugar and the juice of half or a whole lemon, let cook until boiling throughout, stirring often, or cook in a double boiler; let chill, add a teaspoonful of vanilla, and serve as a sauce for any variety of ice cream. The sauce is also good for cornstarch pudding or boiled rice.

CONCERNING WOMEN

Ohio has more than 30,000 women wage-earners.

Danish women have had the municipal vote since 1908.

One-fifth of all the working women in the United States are under 20 years of age.

Mrs. Myrtle S. Bradford has been elected president of a national bank in Greenville, Illinois.

Australia had 483 brides under 17 years of age in the year 1923. The youngest was only 13.

Twenty-three out of every 100 women and girls over 15 in the United States are engaged in gainful occupations.

By way of paying them a compliment the Greeks carved the names of their wives or sweethearts on the soles of their shoes.

More than 15,800 Canadian women are actively interested in the industry of agriculture. Of this number only 1195 are native born.

A mother and daughter who were married on the same day in Kansas City three years ago were recently divorced on the same day in Los Angeles.

RECIPES

Pilaff of Chicken: Pick over and wash one cupful of rice, put it in a saucepan with one pint of rich beef or chicken stock, one-half a teaspoonful of salt and one teaspoonful of onion juice. Cover and cook slowly until the liquid is absorbed, then add one pint of stewed and strained tomato. In five minutes season to taste, then cook slowly until the tomato is absorbed. Cut one pint of cooked chicken into dice and saute it until a golden brown in butter. Turn it carefully into the rice, add two tablespoons of butter, cover, and set at the side of the fire for 20 minutes and serve on a platter.

Green Corn Pudding: To two cups of corn pulp (or canned corn) add two cups of stewed and strained tomatoes, one teaspoon of salt, one-eighth teaspoon of pepper, one and one-half teaspoon of sugar, two eggs slightly beaten and two tablespoons of melted butter. Turn into a buttered baking dish, cover the top with a thin layer of buttered bread crumbs, and bake in a moderate oven until firm in the center (about 30 minutes.) This is an excellent way to use the left-over corn or tomatoes. Serve with roast veal, roast pork or ducklings.

Peach Tart: For each large peach allow one tablespoon sugar and one tablespoon water. Fill baking dish with sliced peaches, add sugar and water. Cover with pie crust, bake in moderate oven about 30 minutes. Serve hot with cream.

SUGGESTIONS FOR SOLVING CROSS-WORD PUZZLES

Start out by filling in the words of which you feel reasonably sure. These will give you a clue to other words crossing them, and they in turn to still others. A letter belongs in each white space, words starting at the numbered squares and running either horizontally or vertically or both.

THE best way to get rid of bed bugs is by spraying all suspected places with Flit.

Flit spray destroys bed bugs, roaches, ants, and insect eggs. The cracks and crevices where insects hide and breed are readily reached by Flit spray. It is clean, easy and safe to use.

Kills Household Insects

Flit spray clears the house in a few minutes of mosquitoes and disease-bearing flies. Spraying Flit on garments kills moths and their larvae which eat holes. Extensive tests showed that Flit did not stain or injure the most delicate fabrics.

A Scientific General Insecticide

Flit is the result of exhaustive research by expert entomologists and chemists. More than 70 formulas were tested on various household insects before Flit was finally perfected. Flit is a 100% effective insecticide containing no inactive (inert) ingredients.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Church Entertainment.

Mr. Editor:—I have been reading the article in Thursday's Bulletin written by R. E. Martin and it so interested me I want to add approval, and say a few words in regard to church entertainment.

So many in these days think the church is the place for all kinds of amusement and forget it is God's house and was built for his worship. Some say we have got to do these things to save the young people.

But the question is how far are we to go, and where shall we draw the line? Some may ask shall we not make the church attractive and so desirable that the young will want to go there? Most certainly we do, but we do not think the church was made for a theatre or eating house.

How many of the young people who come into the church today can tell you why they are there?

They know nothing of conversion or the second birth as we find it in the New Testament.

Who is to blame for this? has not the love of pleasure and a good time had much to do with their lack of spiritual life?

Let us all hope and pray for a spiritual revival that will open our eyes to the good of all, both old and young.

Some Questions

Mr. Editor:—I recently read in the columns of your much esteemed paper an article, vehemently denouncing evolution written by Katherine Strouse.

I take pleasure, through the medium of the Bulletin, to propound the following questions to Katherine Strouse and my readers:

Who is God? What is God? Where is God? What does God do?

If the ancients made their gods how do we know that we are not making our God?

May we not be communing with a mere idea?

My appreciation would be very great if Katherine Strouse would give her own conception of God without fortifying herself behind the strongholds of the Bible.

Respectfully,
WILLIAM GLOWACKI

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

James J. Walker, upon whom has fallen the choice of Tammany Hall for the Democratic nomination for mayor of New York City in succession to John F. Hylan, is a member of the New York state senate and a recognized leader of the democrats in that body. He is a product of the Greenwich Village section of the metropolis and a graduate of the College of St. Francis Xavier. He comes naturally by his Tammany affiliations, since his father before him was one of the district leaders of that organization. The son studied law and was admitted to practice in 1921. Three years previous, at the age of 27, he had received his first election to the general assembly at Albany. As a state lawmaker Mr. Walker's name has been identified with numerous important pieces of legislature. He introduced the Walker boxing law and was the author of the ratification resolution for Woman Suffrage.

From Small Beginnings

James Watt, the Perfector of the Steam Engine

About a hundred years ago a kindly old gentleman wrote about himself: "I am not enterprising—I find myself out of my sphere when I have anything to do with mankind."

That man, James Watt, was one of the world's greatest inventors. By perfecting the steam engine he set in motion millions of factory wheels; led the way to railroad engines that carry civilization even into the wilderness; made possible marine engines that drive ships on all the seas; and prepared for the use of steam in mining for treasures greater than those of Golconda. He had surveyed for canals and bridges; had invented the copying press for office use; had made a machine with which to copy sculpture and an instrument for measuring distances. The Royal Society had printed his treatises, and the great and wise were proud to be called his friends.

James Watt had struggled with poverty and with physical weakness, had done all his great work, and still thought he was not enterprising. His mind was set on accomplishing even greater things.

His father had not been able to care for him and the boy had worked as an instrument maker. Glasgow workmen had forbidden him to open a shop of his own, since he had not served a full apprenticeship. One day he was asked to repair the model of a crude steam-pump. "Why," thought he, "must the cylinder be cooled by water? Why must one end of the cylinder be open?" Months after that he made a condensing tank, kept the cylinder hot; closed both ends; and made the steam push one way as well as the other. He made valves and thus saved power. He invented the whistling governor, the indicator, and the throttle valve.

Oddly enough, he opposed the use of steam for moving engines, and stipulated that no steam carriage should come near his house. Perhaps he did not realize the greatness of his service for man; perhaps he often felt that he was not enterprising. Men do not always know how great is the service they perform.

Stories That Recall Others

Collecting a Debt

A manufacturer tells how he collected a bad debt. He says:

"I had a bill against a man in this vicinity and it had been standing so long it had grown whiskers. I decided to send the man a statement every day for a month, so every morning my office girl addressed a 'dun' to him. At the end of the month I sat down at my desk and wrote my friend a note and sent it to him by registered mail. The note read.

"'For heaven's sake, man, go down to the postoffice—you've got mail.'

"And on the following day the fellow appeared and made full settlement of a bill I thought would never be paid."

OBITUARY

Lewis A. Tillinghast

Lewis A. Tillinghast, formerly of Taftville died at the New Haven hospital Saturday morning. He underwent an operation early in the week, but failed to rally sufficiently to overcome the effects of it.

Mr. Tillinghast was born in Plainfield, Conn., November 22nd, 1846, the oldest son of Stephen G. and Lydia Small Tillinghast. He married for his first wife, Emma O. Tucker, of Voluntown, who passed away in 1880 leaving one son, William Lewis Tillinghast. Later in life, Mr. Tillinghast married Carrie F. Ford, of New Haven, who passed away in 1911 leaving two children, Fannie T. and George C. Tillinghast.

Mr. Tillinghast was connected with the Ponemah Mills at Taftville, over fifty years, resigning his position last spring and taking up his residence with his daughter in New Haven, and also with his son, George, in Nyack, N. Y.

Lewis Tillinghast was widely known in eastern Connecticut as a man of sterling qualities of mind and heart, of quiet demeanor, strong friendships and simple manner of life. He lived in Taftville over fifty years and knew nearly every man, woman and child in that vicinity. Mr. Tillinghast outlived his family with the exception of his only sister, Mrs. Adelaide J. Clapp of this city. His health of late had been poor, finally breaking down some weeks ago when he was removed to the hospital for surgical attention.

Guiseppe Paparella

Following a short illness the death of Guiseppe Paparella, 55, of 15 Pond street, Norwich, occurred Thursday in New Haven. Mr. Paparella was one of the older Italian residents of Norwich, having lived here for the past 15 years. He was born in Italy in 1870 and was married there in 1890. He was a member of St. Patrick's parish.

He is survived by his wife, four daughters, Mrs. Vito Paparella, Mrs. Michael Formiglio, Mrs. Patsy Tombara and Miss Frances Paparella, and one son, Frank Paparella. There are also 11 grandchildren.

Mrs. Albert M. Brown

Following an illness of several days, during which time she was tenderly cared for by loved ones, the death of Nancy Amelia Peckham, widow of Albert M. Brown, occurred Saturday evening, at 7.15 o'clock.

She was born in North Stonington, December, 11, 1841, the daughter of Margaret Peckham and John O. Peckham. Her girlhood was spent in that village but the greater part of her life was spent in Ledyard, when in January 1862, she was united in marriage with Albert M. Brown, whose death occurred there about 9 years ago.

Following the death of her husband she moved to Preston and had since made her home with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bennett. While a resident of Ledyard and Preston she endeared herself to many and the news of her death will be received with sorrow by a host of friends.

She is survived by one son, Philetus A. Brown of Ledyard and two daughters, Mrs. William H. Bennett and Mrs. Earl Bennett, both of Preston; two grandchildren and three great-grandchildren; also one brother, Robert A. Peckham of Preston and a half brother and half sister, John O. Peckham of Norwich and Mrs. Louisa Hollowell of Preston.

MAIN STREET HILL OPEN TO TRAFFIC

One side of Main street, from Market street, to Washington square, was re-opened to traffic Saturday morning, the street having been closed for the past month while the new pavement was being laid. The laying of the pavement is now completed as far as Washington square with the exception of a small section in front of Schwartz Bros. store.

This section will be completed as soon as the other side of the street is thrown open to traffic, which will be within a short time. The laying of the pavement on each side of the trolley track at Washington square is progressing rapidly.

FORMER COUNTY AGENT SPEAKS AT FARM BUREAU OUTING

The annual field day of the New London County Farm bureau was held Saturday at the home of Ellery Ellyn at Waterford, over 450 members of the association, their wives and families enjoying the day at the shore. Lebanon sent the largest delegation to the outing, numbering 112, while the following towns were also represented by large and small delegations, Norwich, Franklin, Waterford, Bozrah, Colchester, Stonington, North Stonington, Ledyard, Preston, Griswold, Montville, Salem, Groton, Lyme and New London.

Shortly after arrival at the shore many of the members enjoyed swimming, this branch of sport proving one of the biggest events of the day. At noon a fine basket luncheon was served, after which the speaking program was held.

Imbert Fellows, Norwich, president of the farm bureau introduced as the first speaker of the afternoon, Horace W. Tinkham of Warren, R. I., federal appraiser for the Federal Land bank of Springfield, Mass., who is also connected with various co-operative organizations in New England. He was followed by Harold F. Johnson, formerly county agent of the New London County Farm Bureau, now secretary of the Federal Land Bank of Springfield. Mr. Johnson spoke on the Functioning of the Federal Land bank, and during his talk he stressed the importance of the bank to the farmer, stating that they could make more use of it than they had been doing in the past. The bank is formed primarily, he said, as a farmer's bank and for long time mortgage loans, and because of this is used by many who desire this type of loan.

Following the speaking of the afternoon a long sport program was run off all towns in the county entering the competitive events. Competition was keen between the representatives of Waterford and Lebanon, with Norwich running third. The match between the first two named was not settled until the final events, after which Lebanon was found to be the winner, with 142 points scored; Waterford second with 138 points scored and Norwich third with 72 points scored. Banners were awarded the three leading teams.

The field day, which proved to be one of the best ever held by the bureau was arranged by Fred Dimock of Waterford, E. W. Jones of Lebanon, Mrs. H. H. Leland of Waterford, Alfred Crofts of North Stonington and Arthur H. Davis of Waterford, secretary of the New London County Farm bureau.

FATALLY INJURED WHILE "JUMPING" QUAKER EXPRESS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Aug. 16.—With the death of William Berry, 16½ years old, of the last known address of 19 1-2 First street, Los Angeles, Calif., at the Lawrence Memorial and Associated hospital, New London, at 9:55 o'clock, Sunday morning, was the sad ending of the tragedy, which had its beginning at the Westerly station of the New Haven railroad. In company with his brother Ray Berry, 22, he attempted to "jump" the Quaker express, leaving Westerly shortly after 1 o'clock Sunday morning. In doing so his coat caught on the iron fence and he was held in such a position that the train struck him, inflicting injuries from which death occurred.

A telephone call to the Westerly police from a pay station phone, gave the information that a man was injured in an automobile accident on Canal street and as a result a considerable time was lost in finding the injured man. Medical Examiner Dr. Michael H. Scanlon finally located Berry in the baggage room of the Westerly station and an examination showed that the unconscious man had sustained an extensive laceration of the scalp on the left side of the head, the compound depressed fracture of the ball of the cranium, bruises, abrasions and cuts on the left side of his face and a cut over the right eye. There were indications that internal injuries were sustained in the chest. The No. 1 train was stopped and the injured man placed in the forward vestibule and accompanied by the doctor taken to the hospital in New London.

Ray Berry was taken to the Westerly police station by Sergeant of Police Michael Curtin and held there. Telephone instructions from New London from railroad police at 4:30 a. m. were to hold him until the railroad police could come to Westerly.

BREAK IN TWELVE INCH WATER MAIN

A break in the water main in the Southern New England Telephone company manhole at Broadway corner about 8 o'clock Saturday night, threatened for a time to damage thousands of wires running through the conduits at this point, also to flood the basement of the building at the corner of Main and Shetucket streets, occupied by Woolworth's Five and Ten Cent store.

Word was despatched to the Norwich fire department as soon as the break was discovered and Deputy Chief Taft with men from the Central station went to the scene with a pumper, which was immediately put into action to draw the water down and allow members of the water department to make the necessary repairs to stop the leak.

Foreman James Casey and Foreman Elicq with a gang of men soon cut off the water at this point and recaulked the bell-joint on the 12-inch main, which runs through the manhole.

The leak was caused by excess vibration at this point of the road and is the second at this particular manhole within a year. This last break did not cause the damage that was experienced in the first break, when over 500 wires were put out of commission, greatly affecting service.

DROPPED MESSAGE TO PARENTS FROM PLANE

Airplanes have a capacity of dropping messages from the clouds, one type of which serves to spread death and desolation, the other to spread tidings of joy. It was one the latter kinds of messages that it was the pleasure of Mr. and Mrs. Chester J. Bushnell of Sunnyside avenue, to receive Saturday noon, in the form of a letter from their son, Lieutenant William Bushnell, a member of the Governor's Foot Guard.

Lieutenant Bushnell, in company with one of the army aviators at Niantic flew over this city for about 20 minutes Saturday morning between 11 and 12 o'clock. The plane was flying low when it circled over the business district and attracted considerable attention. Later it circled over Laurel Hill and when above Sunnyside avenue, circled about so as to pass over the Bushnell residence.

Attracted by the sound of the airplane, members of the Bushnell family were surprised to see a man lean out of the plane and drop a package which landed within 50 feet of the house. Upon opening the package the letter was found from Lieutenant Bushnell, the first personal letter to be delivered to Norwich by airplane.

RESCUED ELDERLY MAN FROM THAMES RIVER

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 16.—E. J. McNamee, 157 Park avenue, Woonsocket, R. I., had a close call from drowning in the Thames river this morning, when he fell from the municipal pier. He was rescued by sailors on the public landing awaiting launches to take them to their ships. McNamee is of advanced years and Saturday night was given shelter at the police station. Shortly before 1 o'clock this morning he went to the municipal pier where he sat down on a stringer and apparently fell asleep, falling into the river. His cries for help were heard by the sailors and after being rescued he was taken to the police station for the night. When taken from the river he was badly exhausted.

JOSEPH SIMBORSKI HELD FOR SUPERIOR COURT

Joseph Simborski, 35, of 23 Summit street, this city, appeared before Judge Arthur F. Libby Saturday morning, in police court, and was bound over to the criminal term of the superior court, after probable cause had been found. Simborski was charged with statutatory burglary, but pleaded not guilty. In default of bonds of $1,000 he was taken to jail. He was the man found in the High street goat shed early Saturday morning.

According to testimony of Officer Frank Gwiczdowski, it was shortly after 2 o'clock Saturday morning when he was notified by Tony Saragusa of 104 High street, that man was prowling about his yard and had gone to a shed where he kept his goats. Upon learning of this Officer Gwiczdowski got into touch with headquarters and with other officers went to the Saragusa place and arrested Simborski, who refused to come out of the shed. The man was hatless, coatless, and was hiding behind the shed door when the officers arrived.

Tony Saragusa, owner of the goats, testified that he heard a noise in the back yard about 2 o'clock, and saw a man sneaking toward the goat-sheds. He watched for a time then ran for the police. He then went back to the house and saw the man in back of the goat shed. Two of the goats, he testified, were found on the road.

Officer Patrick Shahan testified to finding the accused behind the door. He was greasy and sweaty, the officer said, and it was difficult to make him come from behind the door. The man did not smell of liquor and did not seem intoxicated when arrested.

Captain Murphy testified that when Simborski was brought to headquarters, five men there smelled of his breath and there was no smell of liquor. When brought to the station the man refused to give his name. He would not talk, remaining silent about everything. Previous to his trial and through an interpretor, Judge Libby asked the accused if he wanted a lawyer and the man replied "No."

Testifying on his own behalf, Simborski said that he has been working and living around here for five years, having a steady job. He refused to tell where the steady job was held, in reply to a question by the court, to explain his presence in the shed. Simborski answered that he was drunk and with another fellow from Thamesville (whose name he did not know), he went to the shed. He claimed that the "other" man accompanied him to the shed and had also bought the liquor.

The court asked what became of the other fellow and Simborski answered that he got away. Asked why he hid, Simborski replied that he did so thinking they would not find him. The court then asked him why he resisted borski replied, "I don't remember." borski replied, "I don't remember."

Simborski is about 35 years of age, of Polish nationality, is of muscular build and weighs between 180 and 190 pounds. He claims not to understand English. Six men charged with violation of city ordinances paid the usual $5 for their offense and the unusual number of regular cases of intoxication brought the session to a close.

MORE ADDITIONS FOR MOHEGAN PARK FAMILY

Several additions have been made to the menagerie at Mohegan park during the present summer, all of which were received with pleasure by the park officials. Additions to the park menagerie are always welcomed and it is hoped that in the manner the park may some day have a large menagerie, which will be a great attraction. The gifts received during the past few months have been as follows:

P. J. Bannon has contributed a jungle cat of the jaguar species. It was caught at Acapulca, Mexico.

J. E. Ringland of Plain Hill has given three handsome Golden Sebright bantams.

E. Gleason of Boswell avenue has presented the park with a pair of homer pigeons.

Mr. Graham, of Lisbon who gave a monkey that he caught in Panama a year ago, has now added a macaw that he brought from Panama to his park contributions.

Two young deer also have been added to the herd and they are attracting a great deal of attention.

Bath houses for women have been constructed at the pond and are much appreciated. A life guard is on duty daily. He is Paul McNamara of Slater avenue and his hours are from 9.30 to 12 and 1.30 to 5.

FIVE MORE DRIVERS PRESENTED "RED TAGS"

Five automobile drivers were presented "red tags" over the week-end for violations of the local traffic rules. Four arrests were also made by the police on intoxication charges. The week-end was an unusually quiet one for the police department.

ALLEGED DRUNKEN DRIVER STRUCK SMALL BOY

Steve Sabosavic, small son of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Sabosavic of 78 High street, was knocked down Sunday evening near his home by a machine, the driver of which is said to have been intoxicated. According to the story told the police, the machine after hitting the boy and slightly injuring him, failed to stop.

Fred Kobolenco, an eleven-year-old boy who saw the boy hit, ran after the machine and got the number, which he turned over to the police.

Cod Liver Oil in Sugar Coated Tablets For Punk Kids

Forget the nasty-tasting, stomach upsetting cod liver oil and give the thin, puny, underdeveloped children McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets if you want to give them a good appetite and put pounds of good, healthy flesh on their bones.

Doctors know all about them and so does Lee & Osgood Co. and all good pharmacists all over America, for they are in great demand, because they are not laggards but show results in a few days.

They are not expensive either—60 tablets—60 cents and children take them like candy.

A very sickly child, age 9, gained 12 pounds in seven months and is strong and healthy.

One skinny woman gained 9 pounds in 24 days.

The Kobolenco boy said that after hitting the Sabosavic boy the driver, a few feet along, ran into the curbing and then narrowly missed hitting another machine.

Sergt. Matthew Delaney notified all police officers on duty to be on the watch for the machine and to arrest the driver.

LINEMAN CHARLES MUMFORD DIED SUNDAY MORNING

Burns received by Charles Mumford of 320 North Main street, on Friday, Aug. 7, while working on what is known as a "dead line," for the Eastern Connecticut Power company, at Montville, proved fatal, death occurring Sunday morning at the Backus hospital, where he was rushed immediately after the accident, in which three other members of the force received minor burns.

Everything possible was done to save the life of Mr. Mumford, but his injuries were very severe and death followed a lengthy fight for life. Born in Ira, Vt., July 2, 1886, the son of Eden Gafney and Patrick Mumford, he spent his early life in that city and on April 25, 1911, in St. Mary's church, Fairhaven, Vt., he was united in marriage with Miss Grace O'Brien, the ceremony being conducted by Rev. Father P. J. Houlihan, rector of the church.

Mr. Mumford came to Norwich about 10 years ago and for a time was employed with the City of Norwich Gas & Electrical department and later with the Connecticut company. Following his occupation as an electrician, Mr. Mumford later became connected with the Eastern Connecticut Power company when he received the injuries which resulted in his death.

He was a member of St. Mary's Memorial church and also of the Eastern Connecticut Power club. Since coming to Norwich Mr. Mumford had made many friends and news of his tragic death will be received with profound sorrow. A loving husband and father, he will be sorely missed in his home circle, and his many friends will extend their profound sympathy to members of the family in their sad bereavement.

Mr. Mumford is survived by his widow and one daughter, Delorise, eight sisters, Miss Teresa Mumford of Glen Falls, N. Y., the Misses Elizabeth and Clara Mumford of New York city, Mrs. John Fitzsimmons of Schenectady, N. Y., Miss Margaret Mumford of Saratoga, N. Y., Mrs. Edward Dumphy of Florence, Vt., Mrs. Patrick Burke of Castleton, Vt., and Miss Mary Mumford of Rutland City, Vt., also two brothers, Patrick Mumford of Norwich and George Mumford of West Rutland, Vt.

GROTON LONG POINT SUMMER RESIDENT KILLED

William Dowd, 34, of 123 Orange street, Springfield, Mass., assistant manager of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company branch office in that city and a summer resident at Groton Long Point, was instantly killed at Hartford Saturday morning when the car in which he was driving struck an iron guard railing along the railroad tracks at the East Hartford underpass. One of the rods was driven completely through his body and thrusting him out of the drivers seat into the rear seat. The car continued 14 feet before it came to a stop, so entangling the rail with the car body that an acetylene torch had to be used to free Dowd's body from the rod.

With Mr. Dowd in the car was Geo. C. Graham of Genessee street, Springfield. He was half asleep on the rear seat at the time of the crash and could give no account of how the accident had happened. Graham was owner of the car and meeting Mr. Dowd in Hartford Friday evening has offered to drive him to Springfield. Mr. Dowd said he would drive the car to that city.

Mr. Dowd leaves a wife and two children who have been spending the summer at Groton Long Point. Police investigating the accident did not hold Graham in any way liable, but he will probably appear as a witness in the hearing.

LOST CHILD RESTORED TO HER PARENTS

A five-year-old girl whose home is on Roosevelt avenue, got lost in Mohegan park late Sunday afternoon and finally was restored to her parents at police headquarters Sunday evening. The small girl went to the park with a brother and wandering around the park became lost.

A boy found her in the park and took her with him to Boswell avenue, where several residents of that section tried to find out where she lived. As the child seemed to have no idea as to where her home was a call was sent in to police headquarters and the child was sent after.

When she arrived at police headquarters members of the family were waiting there for her, having just made a report of the child's disappearance.

AUTO TRAFFIC UNUSUALLY HEAVY OVER WEEK-END

Warm weather and clear skies was responsible for unusually heavy automobile traffic over the week-end. Sunday the state highways were crowded with automobile parties, many of them headed towards the shore resorts. Thousands of machines passed through Norwich during the day and traffic continued heavy until late at night. Within the space of two minutes 24 machines passed over Preston bridge Sunday at the peak of the traffic. Many out of the state machines were noticed, most of them heading north, presumably bound for mountain and shore resorts in northern New England.

ARRESTED IN CONNECTION WITH THE "MALLET MURDER"

CAMDEN, N. J., Aug. 16—(A. P.)—Joseph Rotondo, 35 years old, today was arrested by county detectives in connection with the brutal "Mallet murder" yesterday of Mrs. Catherine Audia, 42, and her three-year-old son, John.

Rotondo, a life-long friend of the family, was born and raised in the same little Italian town from which the Audia family came five months ago. He lost his mining job near Columbus, O., and came to Camden practically penniless. He was given shelter by the Audias until able to care for himself.

Neighbors declared today that robbery was the motive of the killer. Mrs. Audia, they said, always carried large sums of money concealed about her person. The slayer is believed by the police to have gone to the cellar with the woman on the pretense that he wished to buy wine which Mrs. Audia had for sale and there to have beaten her head to pulp with the heavy briefcase-fayer's mallet which was found with the body. Seeing the child playing in the cellar, they presume the slayer killed him to close his mouth.

Joseph Audia, husband of the dead woman, was said to be an influential member of the Camden branch of the Italian Fascisti, while Rotondo was known to have argued early and late with his friend against the principles of Premier Mussolini's party. Last night, neighbors said, the Fascisti held a secret meeting and, in a candle-lighted room, clustered about a bare table on which lay a fragment of the murdered woman's blood-stained clothing, swore vengeance on her slayer. Today Fascisti, dressed in the black shirts of the organization, marched through the streets, vowing to avenge the death of their comrade's wife.

Lawrence P. Doran, chief of the Camden county detectives, after putting Rotondo through a severe grilling, declared that the man had failed to account for his whereabouts at the time the double killing took place.

JOE GILBERT'S SINGLE IN NINTH WINS GAME FOR ASHLAND TEAM

(Special to The Bulletin.)

JEWETT CITY, Aug. 16—At Ashland Park Sunday afternoon before the largest crowd of the season the Ashland A. A. defeated the fast J. B. Martin team in the first game of the series, a hard fought battle, 6-5.

The Velvetmakers draw first blood in the first. Joubert singled to right and took second on a wild peg, reached third on an infield hit and scored on "Jim" Murphy's sacrifice fly to center.

In the fifth J. B. Martin opened fire again scoring three runs.

With the score 4-0 against them the locals launched one of their famous rallies. Robertson, first man up, singled to centerfield, Guillett got on on an error, Rainey reached first on Decelles' error, Robertson scoring on the play. "Spike" Liberty hit a home-run in rightfield, tying the score. "Nap" Liberty was safe at first on an infield hit, took second on a wild peg over first. Nap scored on a double by Raill.

In the last half of the ninth with the score at a deadlock, Raill doubled again to left and scored on "Peewee" Gilbert's sinshing single to right field.

It was announced at the game that the first game of the series between Moosup and Ashland A. A. will be played at Ashland Park, Sunday, Sept. 6th.

Owing to the big St. Jean De Baptiste meeting at Ashland Park next Sunday there will be no game on the local grounds.

Tuesday night at 6:30 the Ashland A. A. meets the fast Eastern Conn. Power of the Norwich Twilight League.

There will be no admission or collection at this game and it is hoped that there will be a record breaking crowd present.

TIGERS BEAT WHITE SOX IN BATTING SPREE

DETROIT, Aug. 16—Georges Connolly was batted out of the box in the eighth inning when the Detroit Tigers went on a batting rampage and made enough runs to defeat Chicago 11 to 9 in a wild game in which nine pitchers saw service.

Excessive wildness gave the locals an early lead, but the Tigers bunned out in the eighth when they batted Ted Lyons [illegible] for three hits and seven runs.

Dutch Kerr finished the pitching for Chicago after replacing Connolly and stopped the visitors' scoring. Score:

ONLY FIVE PETITIONS ARE FILED FOR NEW LONDON COUNCIL OFFICES

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, August 16.—The smallest number of nominations for the office of member of city council to be made since the adoption of the present form of city government four years ago, will be that when the citizens of New London cast their ballots for at the annual election to occur next month. The nominating petitions now on file at the office of the city clerk is five, three of these being for members of the council, whose terms of office expire this year, Mayor Waldo E. Clarke, William C. Fox and Lucius E. Whiton. The other two nominees are Mrs. Emily C. Spiers and James A. May. The time limit for the filing of petitions expired at midnight Saturday.

The rectory and convent of St. Mary's Star of the Sea parish have been attractively repainted, in brick red, with cream trimmings. The exterior wood work of the church has been touched up also, in wood green, with trimmings of white.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Berry, wealthy Hartford residents, have been cottagers on Ocean avenue, at the beach for a number of years. Friday was Mrs. Berry's birthday and in celebration of the event she was complimented by a bridge party of five tables given by Mrs. C. E. Foley, at Mabrey's. There were handsome prizes and, the guests made Mrs. Berry the birthday gift of an elegant vase. Mrs. Foley served delicious refreshments.

Gus Christopherson ought to stick to his trade as a master plumber. If he did that he would have escaped prosecution in the city court, Saturday for the theft of seven auto tires, new and used stock, from A. H. Frink, a labor union enthusiast who has a business on the side by which he makes money. His place is in Church street and Christopherson has a shop nearby. The loosed not away with the automobile tires and disposed of them on Tilley street. Then it became known that police officers were aware of the theft, were seeking to locate both the tires and the thief, and that they probably had an idea where both would be found. Christopherson then took the tires to Waterford, where, it was represented, he threw them into a lot where they were found by children. This was the story told in police court, but there are some statements in it that will not be accepted as literally true. He had arranged to make good to Frink for the tires that were missing and which were represented to be valued at more than $30 with the tires that were recovered. With the understanding that Christopherson would do as he had agreed to, he was fined $5 and a jail sentence of ten days was suspended in execution.

Stanislaw Gustaznewski, with a load he couldn't carry was bumping around among the railroad tracks near the railway station. The police were requested to take care of Stanislaw before that task fell to some undertaker. He was fined $10 by Judge Prince.

John A. Heikel, a warrant officer at the submarine base, was to have answered to a charge of reckless operation of an automobile, but a child who was run down by the Heikel car was unable to appear in court because of the injuries he sustained, so the case was over till the 5th of September.

Louis Itzcovitch, who ran down a boy on the outer end of Bank street was to have appeared also, but the injured boy was not in condition to appear, so that case also was continued.

Theresa Perry and Manuel Prockett were concerned in a breach of peace some days ago, when they were arrested. The case was not ready for trial Saturday, so it went over to September 12th.

The theatrical company that offered "The Revenue Man" for patronage at the Lyceum theatre Friday and Saturday was financially embarrassed here. Threats of attachment brought some bank checks which will make further trouble for the company if they prove worthless. Frank Teller, who represents himself to be the producer, and the alleged owner of 15 per cent. of the play, and L. J. Iskowich, the treasurer, threw promises to creditors and talked money in amounts that indicated they were handlers of big amounts of it, but they did not come across and produce any real money to creditors. The company was at the hotel today trying to negotiate a settlement of their bill without, it was said, much prospect of success. The performance was attended by about a score of patrons last evening, and these declared the play to be such as would not last for lack of merit. Teller, in knickerbockers and hatless, spoked the part of the owner of a six cenith portion of the play. He was declared to be the real "cunning" as he flitted about making excuses for his inability to pay.

The state police of Groton barracks and deputy sheriffs are making an effort to obtain clues which will lead to the arrest and conviction of a gang that have engaged in two holdups in nearby surrounding towns of late. Three suspects, all New London young men, were rounded up Saturday, but John Bouchette, Waterford, one of the victims of the highwaymen, failed to identify either of the suspects.

Following the holdup of Bouchette in Waterford, Thursday night when he was relieved of $25, a man, who did not give his name, reported to the local police Friday night that he had been held up and robbed of $50, about three miles west of Chesterfield, earlier in the evening. The man stated that he was driving in his automobile when a machine containing the robbers appeared beside the car and he was requested to allow the holdup men the use of his pump. As he started to comply with the request he was attacked by the robbers and after he had been relieved of his money, he was beaten.

James Santangelo, 3 Griswold court, was taken into custody early Saturday morning by Sergeant Patrick Murphy charged with taking an automobile owned by Anthony Melia, proprietor of the Ideal Rooming house, 43 Bank street, without the permission of the owner. Santangelo escaped punishment in the police court, however, for the accused was not presented in the police court. Santangelo went to the garage where Melia stores his car and after enjoying a ride for several hours returned the machine, but in the meantime Melia discovered that the car was missing and reported the fact to the police.

Philip Brooks, of 22 Pearl street; John Swanson, Niantic; Virginia Fisher, Groton; Katherine Saunders, Centerbrook; Henry Watrous, Ivoryton, and Warren Grace, United States Coast Guard service, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged Saturday.

Philip and Mary Butleman have sold a house and lot on Tilley street to Morris Mallove.

Funeral services for Marie, wife of George A. Baier, were held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at 48 Shanley street, Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ, officiating. The bearers were Paul Fendler, Charles Sebrie, Frank Rothen, Henry Byerley, Fritz Vogt and Gustave Pittman. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

One of the largest crowds of the season to visit Ocean Beach was that which went to the shore today. The immense throng was augmented by several hundred excursionists, who came here this afternoon from Greenport.

Early Saturday morning, the candy store owned by Andrew Chio, located on city property at the approach to the Fishers Island Navigation company's pier, foot of State street, was entered and about $4 taken from the cash register. Entrance to the place was gained by the crook climbing over a transom on the north side of the building which had been left open. The theft, it is believed, was committed by one of a number of gang of bummers, who alternate between working as laborers at Fishers Island and boozing in this city. During their stay in New London the bums loiter and sleep on the Fishers Island Navigation company's pier and the municipal pier.

A. G. B. Hunt, of Stroudsburg, Pa., formerly of New London, at which time he was manager of the Connecticut Power company, is spending a fortnight in this city, being accompanied by his wife, who is a sister of Mrs. Thoms Wilkinson, of Stonington.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Gladstone H. Stevens, Newark, N. J., to Miss Mildred E. Saunders, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Saunders, 14 Whittlesey street, an employe of the Winthrop Trust company. The wedding will take place early in the fall.

Miss Frances Antis, 32 Squire street, parked her automobile, a Chevrolet coupe, on Meridian street, between State and Church streets, Friday night and after absenting herself three hours returned to where she had left her machine only to find that it had been stolen. Miss Antis reported the theft to the police and last night the machine was found by state police, abandoned on the highway between this city and Norwich.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel Saturday caused the operators' licenses of Charles Parks, Poquonoc Bridge; Arthur G. Clark, Flanders and William Hoffs, North Bank street, to be suspended. The trio of operators were recently prosecuted in the police court on charges of using their automobiles for purposes of prostitution, lewdness and assignation.

At a meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Ancient Order of Hibernians it was voted to send eight delegates to the state convention to be held in Bridgeport, August 19 and 20, with headquarters at the Hotel Stratfield. The delegates are Mrs. Anna T. Henley, Mrs. Margaret F. Watterson, Mrs. Sarah Mansfield, Mrs. Henry McIninch, Mrs. Frank Spelman, Mrs. Mary F. Herlihy, Mrs. Patrick Harkins and Mrs. Andrew J. Rowley.

Charles Peterson, 48, residing at 205 Montauk avenue, was arrested this morning by Sergeant Nelson Smith at the request of the Groton state police, who hold a warrant for Peterson's arrest charged with non-support of his minor child, a resident of Stratford. Peterson, who is a carpenter, will be taken to Stamford Monday for trial.

State police officers attached to Groton barracks raided a dozen stores in Groton Saturday afternoon and seized as many slot machines, which were being operated, in violation of the gambling laws. The proprietors will be before Judge Cornelius C. Cosgrove in the Groton town court Monday morning. The machines were installed in the stores about a year ago, but when several store proprietors in Waterford were prosecuted and convicted of violation of the law and the same style of machines were ordered removed from New London stores, the Groton proprietors caused the machines in their places of business to be placed in storage. Recently, however, the machines were placed in operation again and because of that fact the arrests Saturday were made by Sergeant Gorgas and three of his officers.

Walter O'Connell, of Waterford, a youthful cyclist was struck by an automobile owned and operated by James R. Rainey, also of Waterford, this afternoon at the corner of Bank and Howard streets. The boy was knocked from his wheel, but escaped injury other than sustaining minor bruises. The cycle was slightly damaged.

An automobile owned and driven by Byron C. Vine, 216 Howard street, struck and killed a dog on West Coit street this afternoon. The dog did not have a collar or license tag and its owner is unknown.

Policewoman Jane H. Cassidy resumed her duties today after having her vacation of a fortnight, part of which time was spent in New York and the remainder on a motor trip to Canada.

Joseph La Sala, of Montville, was arrested this morning by Sergeant Nelson Smith charged with violation of the automobile law in not being possessed of an operator's license or registration. He will be given a hearing in the police court Monday morning.

Archie Blatchford, a sailor, stationed at the submarine base, reported to the police at 1:15 o'clock this morning that his Ford sedan, which he had just purchased, had been stolen from State street. This forenoon Blatchford found the car abandoned alongside the highway just north of Fairview on the Groton side of the Thames river. It is believed that another sailor used the machine to assist him in getting back to the base.

Mendel Zimmer, 21 Midway place, and proprietor of bathing houses at Ocean Beach, was taken into custody this afternoon by Sergeant Nelson Smith and Patrolman Ernest Opperman charged with violation of the city ordinance prohibiting the soliciting of business on the Boardwalk. He furnished a bond for his appearance in the police court Monday morning. Zimmer was taken into custody upon complaint of Hyman Schwartz, 12 Easterly place, who detected Zimmer going along the beach front and attempting to obtain patrons of his bathhouses. Schwartz sought Sergeant Smith and Patrolman Opperman and asked for Zimmer's arrest.

Elisha Stanfield, colored, 28, residing at 207 North Bank street and Minnie Kerson, colored, 29, of the same address where she claims to be employed as housekeeper for Stanfield, were arrested early this morning when their house was raided by Acting Lieutenant James Gaffney, Sergeant Partick Murphy, Motorcycle Officer George McCaskey and Potrolman Clarence Martin. They were charged with keeping a disorderly house. June Brown, colored, of 158 Main street; Viola Brewer, alias Viola Mayo, colored, 29; and Carl Danely and Carl Branum, white, of the United States Coast Guard destroyer, 19 and Maurice O'Rourke, white, of the United States Coast Guard destroyer, 16, were taken into custody charged with frequenting. Stanfield and the Brewer woman, who is a laundress and the wife of Lonnie Bewer, and Brown were released on bail, Edward Jones qualifying on the bonds of Stanfield and the Brewer woman in the sum of $200 and becoming surety of Brown's bond in the sum of $50. Danely, Branum and O'Rourke furnished a cash bond of $50. All of the accused will be in the police court Monday morning.

The Kerson woman recently caused the arrest of William Gross, a sailor, whom she alleged attacked her in her home, after forcing a door. When Gross was arrested he was in possession of a half pint of hooch, which he stated he purchased from Henry Gavitt. The next day Gross acted as stool pigeon for the police, purchasing two more half pints of booze from Gavitt. The latter was arrested and was fined $150 and given a suspended jail sentence of 10 days.

E. G. MORGAN, OF E. BERLIN COLLAPSES ON THE STREET

NEW LONDON, Aug. 16—Edgar G. Morgan, about 65, of East Berlin, is a patient at Lawrence hospital tonight, having been removed to the institution from State street early this evening in a weakened condition due to heart trouble.

Morgan was in the vicinity of the bus station, corner of State and Potter streets when he collapsed and a Dr. Summers, a Brooklyn, N. Y., physician, who was nearby, examined the man and ascertaining the seriousness of his case, notified the police. Patrolman Howard Sloan and John Foley caused Morgan to be placed in the police speed automobile and rushed to the hospital where it was stated that his condition is serious.

HIS HOME A PIG PEN, FRANK GRAHAM IS ARRESTED

NEW LONDON, Aug. 16—Frank Graham, of Providence, but who has resided in Waterford four years, was taken into custody this afternoon by Waterford authorities at the request of special agents of the New York New Haven & Hartford railroad as a suspicious person.

Graham, who has managed to maintain a mysterious existence during his residence in Waterford, was arrested by Waterford constables last Tuesday and while being held at the Waterford railroad station pending the arrival of railroad police to take charge of him, he managed to escape. When located about 6 o'clock tonight he was rearrested.

Graham has resided continuously, winter and summer, in a pig pen, near the railroad tracks and his actions of late have caused the railroad police to suspect him of car-breaking and possibly the placing of a railroad tie across the tracks. The latter incident occurred about a fortnight ago when the tie was struck by a switch engine. No damage resulted, but had a passenger or freight train struck the tie the train might have been derailed. Graham denies all knowledge of both incidents.

HARRY WARNER DIES AT MORRISTOWN, PENN.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 16.—News of the sudden death of Harry Warner, son of the late Earl Warner, a native of this city, was received here last evening. Mr. Warner was in late years a very successful business man in Morristown, Pa. He was a client in New London for many years. His father, Earl Warner, was judge of probate in New London at one time. The body of Harry Warner will be brought to this city for burial, as he has relatives here and here his parents resided for many years and here they are buried.

Mr. Warner is survived by a sister, Jewell, who was named for the late Marshall Jewell, at time governor of Connecticut and later postmaster-general.

The young man is a nephew of Judge Edgar M. Warner, of Putnam, clerk of the Windham county superior court. His aunt was the late Mrs. Fanny Robinson Sibley, of California, for many years librarian at Otis Library, Norwich. He leaves cousins in New London, Putnam and New York.

JEWETT CITY

The third annual outing of the Eastern Connecticut Mills Association held at Rocky Point Saturday was attended from Jewett City by Norman B. Parkhurst, Prentice W. Chase, Walter A. Richardson, George H. Prior, F. D. Truesdell, Thomas McGowan, L. M. Carpenter, T. B. Duggan, Charles Cornell, Louis Gingras, Louis Giullotte, Casper Dugas, Alex DesJardines and A. L. Stebbins. An excellent shore dinner was served, a ball game resulted in a victory for the North against the South, and an up-to-date programme was presented.

Mr. and Mrs. William Duggan have returned from their wedding trip, and are at home at 76 Slater Avenue.

Well seasoned oak slabs $12 per load. P. J. Melady, tel 14.—Adv.

Mrs. E. H. Hiscox spent the week-end with Mrs. Edward J. Farrell, in Wauregan.

Judge John E. Prior of Moosup brought to E. F. Burleson last week a white cardinal flower, which he gathered while out on a country trip. It is exactly like the very red Cardinal flower, only in color.

Mrs. J. B. Palmer reports hummingbirds which visit her hollyhocks each year.

Deputy Game Warden W. R. Palmer arrested Charles Lanius of New York at Pachaug Pond for fishing without a license. He was tried in Judge Barry's court and fined one dollar and costs, amounting to $11.60.

Rev. A. H. Clement has been asked to arrange the programme for the six church conference to be held in Pachaug the first Wednesday in September. Rev. William Fryling of Wauregan and Rev. G. Frederick Goodenough, of Ledyard are the speakers.

Miss Susie Morgan's name was omitted from those who read, during the recent programme given at the lawn social, in Pachaug.

James Duggan has returned to Dedham, Mass., after a week spent at his home in Jewett City.

Miss Olice Sanger of Cleveland, Ohio, has been a guest at Miss S. K. Adam's.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE AWAKES

Earth's Builder—Love

"He that built all things is God."—Heb. 3:4.

Cathedral glories mark this world
Our fathers builded for man's home,
Sublimely wrought, from chaos brought
Through ages past, for those to come—
Slow centuries saw rude scaffolds rise,
Foundations deep, unshaken, laid,
Firm laws established, changeless made
Then Earth, revolving thro' the skies.

God, the Great Architect, conceived
Vast plans that swept the aeons through,
From nebulae, star worlds achieved,
Eternities in infinite end,
Without beginning, without end,
Himself the Ever Living One,
His works sublime but clearly tend
To show His Empire but begun.

But grander than uncounted spheres
Evolved by God's own word and plan
Is the Redemption that appears
Through Christ His Son, for saving man:—
Builded in love, and on the rock
Of His almightiness it stands
Forever to withstand the shock
Should even Orion loose his bands.

For LOVE sublimest is of powers
Possessed by even the Divine,
Surpassing far creation's hours
As suns the planets darkly outshine:—
Aye wonderful the Sovereign Mind,
Wondrous th' unnumbered worlds above.
Yet other marvels fall behind
The greatest marvel—GOD IS LOVE.

By Rev. George G. Phipps.

A Laughing Song

When the green woods laugh with the voice of joy,
And the dimpling stream runs laughing by;
When the air does laugh with our merry wit,
And the green hill laughs with the noise of it.

When the meadows laugh with lively green,
And the grasshopper laughs in the merry scene;
When Mary and Susan and Emily,
With their sweet round mouths sing, "Ha, ha he!"

When the painted birds laugh in the shade,
Where our table with cherries and nuts is spread:
Come live, and be merry, and join with me
To sing the sweet chorus of "Ha, ha, he!"

By William Blake.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE AWAKES

Probably the most misunderstood bird in our country today is the sparrow. They are everywhere and most people call them nuisances and kill them as fast as they can without a feeling of regret.

It is around the sparrow that the great argument as to the value of birds is centered. Clubs have been formed in this country to kill rats and sparrows and some clubs have been formed to kill the poor sparrow.

The sparrow is a thief we will admit and he steals much grain from the farmer, even drives off other birds because he wants everything for himself.

The value of the sparrow was shown when the state of Maine set out to rid itself of sparrows. Thousands were killed off and the following year caterpillars multiplied and thrived in the state, eating the leaves from fruit trees and actually killing trees in many places. A similar thing happened in France.

There is probably not one bird living which has not some good in it and in some way, perhaps unknown to us, helps us in living by destroying insect life which does thousands of dollars worth of damage every year to crops in this country and throughout the world.

Let us be careful lest we fail to protect those birds which are our best friends, thus bringing down upon ourselves much damage and trouble which we can avoid by befriending our feathered friends.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE AWAKES

Dear Uncle Jed: Washington's school was very limited. He was taught only a few of the things that boys now study; but what he did learn he learned thoroughly and read. There were but few books which he could find to read; but those few he read still he understood them perfectly. Many of the copy books which he read when a boy are still in existence. They are all neatly kept. Some contain the rules of arithmetic and the most difficult sums under them, all written out in full.

Another has a whole course in bookkeeping; and in another several pieces of poetry are written. In one of these books are several pages containing what he calls rules of behavior in company and conversation. They were written out by Washington when he was about thirteen years old. Washington left school when he was 16 years of age. At that time a large part of Virginia belonged to Lord Fairfax, who had never surveyed his vast estate. Although a mere boy George had learned surveying. One day Fairfax sent for the young surveyor and said to him, "I want you to survey my land beyond the mountains. You will find life in the wilderness full of hardships. Indians and wild beasts will molest you, but I will pay you well for your work. You will not lack food for the woods are full of wild turkeys and other game." The boy accepted the offer, crossed the mountains, and lived a rough life for three years. Thus he learned to be a good soldier.

A Queer Noise

Dear Uncle Jed: This winter when I was staying over to my sisters I went out doors and I heard a queer sound. I listened and I heard it again. I went down to the hen coop and the hens were making a great fuss. I looked and what do you suppose I saw? To my surprise I saw a tame duck trying to get into the hen coop. I called my sister to come and see it. She came down to the hen coop and she said it was a muscovy duck. My sister and I tried to catch it but every time we tried it would fly up into a tree. It is a female duck. Her colors are green, white and black. She is setting now underneath a pile of ties. I do not know how many eggs she is sitting on. When she is setting she squeals like a rat. My sister gave it to me for my birthday present.

About Indians

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to write about the Indians and hope you will enjoy my story.

The Indians lived in America before the white people lived here. They lived in wigwams which were made of skin. The women did all the housework and moving. The men did the hunting, fishing and fighting. The Indians moved very often from place to place. They did not have guns like the white people, but instead had bows and arrows. When the white people come to America, they traded with the Indians. The Indian women carried their babies on their backs or hung them on trees. The wealthy belt was made of Wampum.

A Christmas Present

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about my Christmas present. I had a doll for Christmas. I had to sell some books. I sold eight books, the Farm Life at 25 cents a year. My doll came from Spencer, Indiana. Her name is Betty Lou. I am going to tell you how she is dressed. She wears a pink dress and a pink and white cap and little slippers and socks.

My Trip on the Barge

Dear Uncle Jed: This the second time I have written to you. So now I am going to tell you about my Trip on the Barge. I enjoyed myself very much coming up the sound. I thought everything was so beautiful. As we arrived in New York bay the first thing that interested me was the Statue of Liberty. But when I went ashore in New York my aunt took me to Battery park. There I saw a lot of little children. I asked my aunt if I could buy them some ice cream and candy with my spending money. The children were so pleased that they took hold of my hands and called me their little Fairy. I went back on the boat feeling pleased that I had spent my money for them and made them so happy.

I hope the Wide Awakes will do the same.

Mrs. Timmy's Shocking Discovery

'Tis sometimes better not to know
What neighbors do, or where they go.
—Old Mother Nature.

Both Mrs. Timmy the Flying Squirrel and Mrs. Whitefoot the Wood Mouse were much disturbed by seeing Spooky the Screech Owl around again. However, they did not see him again that night, so concluded that it was just chance which had brought him over there. You know the Wood Mice and the Flying Squirrels prefer the dusk to daylight and that is just the time that Spooky the Screech Owl prefers. So the members of the Flying

"What is it?" she whispered

Squirrel family and the members of the Wood Mouse family always have to keep their eyes open for members of the owl family.

It was only two or three mornings after Mrs. Timmy and Mrs. Whitefoot had seen Spooky that Mrs. Timmy came hurrying home a wee bit late. Already the Black Shadows had fled away from the Green Forest. It was quite light there. Mrs. Timmy climbed to the top of a tree and prepared to make one of her wonderful jumps and glides through the air to land on the foot of the apartment tree in which her home was. Just as she prepared to jump she suddenly dug her claws into the tree and held on with all her might. And she held her breath, too.

Spooky the Screech Owl, on those wings which make no sound, had just sailed past and had gone straight to that very apartment tree in which Mrs. Timmy and Mrs. Whitefoot lived. He had gone straight to a big entrance about half way up the tree and Mrs. Timmy sat there staring across at that entrance with eyes filled with unbelief and fright. Even while she looked Spooky's face appeared in the doorway. He sat there for a few moments, snapping his bill. With the sound of each snap Mrs. Timmy's timid little heart thumped.

Spooky looked sleepy. He blinked and blinked. He was sleepy. He, too, had been out longer than usual. So he didn't stay sitting in his doorway very long. Mrs. Timmy saw him disappear. She waited until she was quite certain that he wasn't likely to be seen again. Then she jumped and glided down to the foot of the apartment tree. Her home was around on the other side and you should have seen how quickly she dodged around that side after alighting on the trunk at the end of her long glide. You see, she was fearful that the little thump she made in landing might be heard by Spooky.

Mrs. Timmy started up the tree. As usual she started to pass close to the entrance of Mrs. Whitefoot's home. Mrs. Whitefoot was nowhere to be seen. Mrs. Timmy squeaked softly. Mrs. Whitefoot popped her head out.

"My goodness, Mrs. Timmy, whatever ails you?" squeaked Mrs. Whitefoot. "You look as if you had seen something shocking."

"I have," whispered Mrs. Timmy. "I have the most awful news for you."

Little Mrs. Whitefoot began to look frightened. "What is it?" she whispered.

"Spooky the Screech Owl is in this very apartment tree," replied Mrs. Timmy, also whispering.

"What?" squeaked little Mrs. Whitefoot, so startled that she forgot to whisper.

Little Mrs. Timmy nodded her head. "It's so," said she. "He's in that big apartment half way up on the other side. I saw him go in though I waited and waited, he didn't come out. Do you suppose that he had been living there all this time? I shall not sleep a wink today, just thinking that that robber is so close at hand."

"Neither shall I," declared little Mrs. Whitefoot. "I shall be too busy to do any sleeping. I shall move at once."

AUCTIONS.

AUCTION NOTICE
By WITTER BROS., Auctioneers. Office 42 Main St., Danielson, Conn. 40 acres of improved farming land, complete set of up-to-date buildings, including a modern cider mill equipment, all standing crops, 2 automobiles, live stock, horses, poultry, complete line of farm implements to be offered as a whole at public auction, Sat., Aug. 22, at 10 o'clock, A. M. New Time, on the premises known as the Calvin Nichols farm located 2 miles northeast of Pulnam, Conn., in the Sawyer District. This is a high grade proposition for any person desirous to engage in the farming business. The terms are exceedingly liberal, the amount of cash due at time of sale will represent the difference between the amount of the mortgage of $6,700 and the sale price of the farm. The owner of this high class property is sick and is positively retiring from the farming business. The management of the sale will reserve the right to sell the personal property separate from the real estate, providing a satisfactory offer is not obtained. Come Rain or Shine. Sale by order of Joe Piemonte.

TAFTVILLE

Mrs. Martin Wohlleben and son Walter Wohlleben of Norwich avenue have returned from New Bedford, Mass., where they have been visiting relatives for the past two weeks.

Many of the men connected with the Ponemah Mills of this village and the Totokett Manufacturing Co., of Occum, were at Rocky Point, R. I., Saturday, to attend the third annual outing of the Eastern Connecticut Mills association.

The carnival conducted by the Sacred Heart church last week drew a big crowd to the grounds of the Parish school Saturday evening. The affair has been quite a success and a goodly sum has been realized for the benefit of the church.

The A'o-wa-ki-ya Camp Fire Group which has been spending the past two weeks at the Pettibone Cottage at Pine Grove, Niantic, returned to the village Saturday. Those in the group were Miss Edna Krodel of North B street; Miss Mary Martin of Norwich avenue; Miss Betty Archibald and Miss Rose Hodkinson of Providence street; Miss Florence Lukoff of South B street; Miss Celena Adams of North Third avenue; Miss Louie Unsworth of North B street; Miss Melba Monty of Riverside Grove and Miss Elizabeth Newton of North A street. The group has been in charge of the guardian, Mrs. Eugene N. Monty, and she was assisted by Miss Isabel Thompson during the second week and Mrs. Neil Finlayson during the first week.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond A. Pingree and daughter of Saylesville, R. I., are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Axel L. Aberg and family of North Third avenue.

George N. Beardow, Miss Anna M. Beardow and Master Newell Beardow of Providence street, and Miss Anna Morse of Newark, N. J., who has been visiting Miss Beardow at her cottage at Pine Grove, Niantic, have left for a two weeks automobile trip through New York state.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold M. Pingree of Goodyear were guests of relatives in town over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Hindle and son, Edmund H. Hindle of North Third avenue spent the week end with friends in Providence, R. I.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert P. Hoyle of South B street have returned from a week's stay in Boston, Mass., where they visited their son, Thomas Hoyle.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Grant of the Old Canterbury Turnpike have been spending several days in Boston, Mass.

Word has been received in the village of the death of Lewis Albert Tillinghast, following an operation at the New Haven Hospital. Mr. Tillinghast was a resident of the village and was in the employ of the Ponemah Mills for over 50 years. He retired from active work last spring to make his home with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Roy L. Taylor of New Haven. He is survived by three children, William Tillinghast of Las Angeles, Cal., George Courtland Tillinghast of Nyack, N. Y., and Mrs. Roy L. Taylor of New Haven. There are several grandchildren and a sister, Mrs. W. W. Clapp of Norwich. Mr. Tillinghast was a general favorite in the village where he resided for so many years, and the community received the news of his death with sorrow.

Miss Edith Adams of North Third avenue is spending a few days with

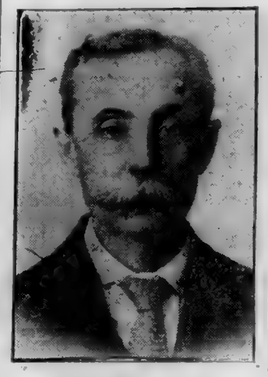
COMPLETES HALF CENTURY OF SERVICE WITH NORWICH DRUGGISTS



CHARLES F. ENGLER

Fifty years is a long time for any person to live, and when a person spends fifty years in the employ of one concern it is worth mentioning. Today (Monday) Charles F. Engler completes a half century of service with the Lee & Osgood Co., wholesale druggists on Main street. He is receiving congratulations of his many friends.

In fifty years many things have happened. The telephone, telegraph, wireless, automobiles, phonographs, airships, submarines, etc. Anyone is fortunate to have lived through the past fifty years.

Many changes have taken place in the drug business in this time. Mr. Engler has seen the store of Lee & Osgood grow from a small building to a five-story brick block, and the growth in the variety of items has increased to fill this building. Mr. Engler has two sons in the drug business—George G. Engler, at the Broadway Pharmacy, and Louis T. Engler, who travels as drug salesman for the Lee & Osgood Co.

"EPHPHETA" IS MEANT FOR EACH, SAYS MSGR. MAY

Preaching at the 7:30 Mass in St. Patrick's church, Sunday, the rector, Rt. Rev. Msgr. Michael Henry May, having read the gospel for the eleventh Sunday after Pentecost, Mark 7. 31-37,—narating the restoration of hearing and speech to the man deaf and dumb—directed attention to the fact that Christ's command to the afflicted man, "Ephpheta," which is, "Be thou opened," had been said to every Catholic at the time of baptism.

The preacher expressed the wonder how many among his great congregation had always been careful to keep this command of the Redeemer, to listen with open ears to the instruction of God through His church, to hear and conform to the advice of God's ministers. Also he wondered if each had kept his ears open to the voice of conscience, heeding its admonitions, warnings, inspirations. It is the weakness of too many, he said, to have ears opened, rather to the alluring sounds of the world, which shut out the call and the voice of God. He stressed the danger of such spiritual deafness, urging a keener listening for those finer things which mean self-uplift, true charity toward others, progress toward the saving of one's soul.

Incidentally, since it was the feast day of St. Joachim, spouse of St. Anne and father of the Blessed Virgin Mary, Msgr. May referred to these model parents, this model husband and father, complimenting the members of the Rosary Society, who were receiving Holy Communion in a body, on honoring Saint Joachim through their devotion to his blessed Daughter.

The altar hangings and vestments were white, as was the rule the previous day, the Feast of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin—a feast commemorating the pious belief of the faithful in the tradition, that, as the life of Mary differed from that of every other living person, since she had been chosen by the Almighty from among all the women of Israel as worthy to become the Mother of His Son, so her death must have been unlike that of all other human creatures—that she was assumed by her Divine Son into Heaven.

In noting Saturday's feast, the local priests had the assistance of two parish young men. Rev. Henry J. Coleman, now stationed at New Haven, and Rev. James Osmond O'Brien, ex-service man, who goes to the Diocese of Montana Sept. 1st. So great had been the number of confessions in honor of the Mother of the Christ-Child that Msgr. May required the aid of Rev Myles P. Galvin in giving Holy Communion, Sunday morning, at 7:30.

On Motor Trip to Maine

Miss Marjorie Barber, teacher of Occupational Therapy at the Norwich State hospital, left Friday on a two weeks' vacation, as the guest of friends on a motor trip through Maine, New York, Massachusetts and the White Mountains.

Mrs. Alfred Linderson at her summer home in North Stonington.

The annual outing and clambake of the Ponemah Wheel Club was held at the Poquetanuck Drawbridge, Sunday.

Mrs. Francis Hunter and daughter, Miss Alice Hunter have returned to their home in Cambridge, Mass., after spending several weeks in town, the guests of Mrs. Hunter's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Heselton and family of North B street.

Charles Hammond of Taunton, Mass., has been spending a short time with friends in the village.

The general committee in charge of the Pioneer Day celebration is to meet tonight (Monday) at Ponemah hall. Others who are interested are invited by the committee to attend the session and give their suggestions for making the affair the success that the Taftville Pioneers want it to be. Most of the village societies have taken some sort of action on the part that they are to play in this big observance of Old Home Week, and most of them will be found in the line of march to Ponemah heights when the visiting Pioneers are to be escorted in parade from Ponemah hall after their annual meeting and election of officers.

Saturday being the Feast of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary and a holy day of obligation, there were special masses at Sacred Heart church, all well attended. Those who worked attended the early services.

With the placing of the road machinery and equipment, work on the new state road from the village over Merchants avenue and Gallows hill to Norwich Town began last week. The contract has been awarded to J. Arborio. The work will begin at the point where the present state road ends, viz., at the corner of Merchants avenue and the Old Canterbury Turnpike, and proceed to the Norwich Town end of the road at Harland's corner.

Clarence J. Nagle of the Ponemah house has purchased a new automobile.

Those who travel over the Newent road, stop to admire the beautiful dahlias in bloom at the residence of Rev. and Mrs. William J. Reynolds of Lisbon.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Airey, Miss Phyllis Airey and Miss Elsie Airey of North Second avenue have been recent visitors at Rocky Point, R. I.

Miss Louise Sigrist has returned to her duties as nurse in the welfare department of the Ponemah mills after enjoying a two weeks vacation.

SAYS FOOT THROTTLE IS SAFETY FACTOR

If Motor Vehicle Commissioner Stoeckel were to criticize the driving of women as a class, "it would be in connection with the various operations which call for backing," says the August bulletin of the motor vehicle department written by him. The bulletin is devoted to a discussion of everyday driving practices which go to mark a person as a good or bad driver and have much to do with traffic hazards.

"An experienced operator, when it becomes necessary to place a car alongside the curb in a crowded place, accomplishes it by putting the rear wheels in first," says the bulletin, which, after explaining the process in detail, continues: "It is not easy, takes practice to do it right and should be a part of the education of every driver. Women as drivers do not often park in this manner, probably because they have not been informed."

A good driver, according to the bulletin heading, doesn't slouch at the wheel, let his automobile skid, burn his brakes going down hill, "ride the clutch," spin the rear wheels, drive chiefly with the hand throttle, flood his carburetor in an emergency nor fail to see that his car doors are closed.

For skidding the commissioner sees no excuse. "To skid is bad driving," he says; "not to skid is good driving. This has been brought home many times by this department. Skidding is one of the most serious offenses and ought to be sternly scrutinized from the reckless driving standpoint rather than from the standpoint of unavoidability."

The proper position for an operator, it is pointed out, is to sit squarely behind the wheel, erect and not on the backbone. "He should look out over the wheel and not peek through its spokes." If the position is right, the tendency is not so apt to be present to "ride the clutch," that is to keep the left foot intermittently at least pressed against the clutch when it is not directly the intent of the operator to disengage. The ultimate result of this practice is to wear out the clutch and meanwhile render less efficient a delicate piece of automotive machinery upon which good drivers place much reliance for safety. Such drivers invariably leave their cars in gear when going down hill, shifting to first and second speed according to the degree of grade, and use their foot and hand brakes alternately to "brake against the engine," which means to control the speed by means of the brake without disengaging the clutch under such circumstances. "The process indicated will put any car which is anywhere near in condition down any hill with the brakes cool and at a reasonable rate of speed, so the smell of burning brakes is not an indication of road defects or too steep a hill but that the driver does not know his business," says the bulletin.

Use of the foot throttle to feed gasoline to the motor is recommended under normal conditions, as the automatic shut-off of fuel upon the removal of the foot is in itself an important safety factor. "The hand throttle is distinctively used for two purposes. One is to regulate the amount of fuel to feed the car while stationary but with the engine running. The other is its use in starting after the car has been standing parked on an up-hill grade." In such cases as the latter, the department recommends holding the car with the foot brake, using the foot ordinarily used for the foot throttle, and feeding fuel to start ahead by the hand throttle while gradually letting in the clutch with the left foot and gradually releasing the brake with the other. The practice of running a car exclusively by the hand throttle is discouraged.

The carburetor, "soul of the car," should not be tampered with by any except experts. Instances of railroad crossing accidents caused by choking the carburetor by a flood of gasoline and the consequent stalling of the motor, are cited. When this happens as a train approaches the department suggests the use of the self-starter to pull the car a few feet ahead and out of the path of the oncoming locomotive. "But, of course," the commissioner observes, "the preventive for an accident of this kind is not to take a chance on crossings."

The dangers arising from open automobile doors are also emphasized, and it is suggested that the driver, he being in charge, should see to it always before starting that all the doors of his car are shut.

WILL REMODEL OLD VAUGHN OFFICE BUILDING

Plans have been about completed and bids are shortly to be received by the Norwich Palace Theatre corporation, for the remodeling of the former Vaughn office building, 11-15 Ferry street, which building is controlled by the corporation.

It is proposed to convert the second floor of the building into modern offices, and the third and fourth floors will be fitted up for lodge rooms. The proposed changes will greatly improve the building and offer for use headquarters for offices and lodges, a number of which have been seeking space in the building.

OVER 2,000 ATTEND LYME ART EXHIBIT

The end of the second week of the Lyme Art Association's annual exhibition shows an attendance of over 2,000 to date, with a score of paintings sold. In the past week, there have been visitors from seven states outside of Connecticut, some coming from New York, New Jersey and Massachusetts.

ST. PATRICK'S PEOPLE SURPRISE REVERED NUNS

During the school vacation, the eight Sisters of Mercy of the Immaculate Conception Convent on Perkins avenue, belonging to St. Patrick's parish have been absent from Norwich, first attending summer schools in various cities, later spending several weeks in annual retreat. Friday afternoon, the Superior, Sister M. Ricarda with three other nuns returned to open up the convent for the coming year.

To their surprise, they found the interior of the three-story building completely and expensively renovated, as a testimonial from the entire parish, under the supervision of the rector, Rt. Rev. Msgr. May. Recognizing the valuable work of the holy nuns, as teachers in the parish school at a merely nominal salary which goes into the community fund, as ministering to the sick and aged, sewing and otherwise working for the poor, the great parish planned this surprise, which so delighted the returning Sisters.

The work began in the pretty little chapel, where Mass is celebrated each morning for the household. Here, as throughout the remainder of the house, the woodwork, floor and ceiling were done over, the lights renewed and new carpet provided. This chapel seats sixteen. The beautiful white altar, stained glass windows, organ, etc., all received attention.

The small reception room opposite the light and pleasant refectory, the kitchen and pantries on this floor, all came in for careful renovation. Halls, radiators, baths, plumbing, etc., nothing has been overlooked. On the second floor, the business office of the Superior, the six "cells," or small rooms of the individual Sisters, and above all, the community room in which the members of the household assemble for study, sewing, conference and recreation hours, are in splendid condition. Especially in the community room has the rector exercised his taste in making it an inviting gathering place for the busy teachers after the work of the day. Notable are two pictures brought from Rome, artistic copies of Raphael's "The School of Athens" and "Dispute," in the Vatican, in the softest of colors, and elegantly framed. The ceiling of this room has been newly paneled, the book-cases and tables done over, etc. In an alcove, with fine portraits of the two Bishops of the diocese, is a framed greeting to the industrious and consecrated nuns, conveying the blessing of His Holiness, Pope Pius, as given at the request of Msgr. May during the latter's recent visit to Rome.

The third floor is in equally complete condition, the ten cells and bath, sewing room, and other departments of the house being in the exquisite neatness and order always associated with the thought of the home where busy Sisters live and work.

It having become known that the linens and vestments of the convent chapel are beginning to show signs of wear, the generous women of the big parish are taking up the matter of supplying these, also of providing the cells with new blankets. The president of the parish Rosary Society, Miss Annie G. Stanton has consented to take charge of this project, into which so many will enter with zest.

The little local community of nuns is most admirably and efficiently headed by Sister M. Ricarda, a native of New Britain, who was transferred to the Norwich convent about two years ago from the convent in Ansonia.

STORRS EGG PRODUCTION SHOWS ANOTHER DECREASE

STORRS, Conn., Aug. 16.—In the forty-first week of the Storrs laying contest the total production was 4655 eggs or a yield of nearly forty-eight per cent. This is seventy-four eggs less than for the previous week. The grand total for all pens to date is 175,013 eggs. The Leghorns tried again this week to capture the whole honor roll but the Barred Rocks prevented this by getting one pen on the list. Hanson's Leghorn Farm from Corvallis, Ore., and J. of White Leghorns from Charlotte, N. C., tied for first place with a lay of 57 eggs each. Hilltop Farm's pen of White Leghorns from Suffield, Conn., made second place with a total for the week of 55. Another pen of the same breed entered by Lewis Farms, from Davisville, R. I., took third honors with a total of 53 eggs. Keewaydin Farm's pen of Barred Rocks from Darien, Conn., was a close fourth with a lay of 52 eggs for the week.

One of the outstanding features of the contest this year is a White Leghorn hen, No. 1338, owned by Edgar Stoughton of Wapping, Conn. This bird has been unusually persistent in laying large eggs. In cases where an egg weighs over 2.8 ounces, it is checked on the record as an X3 egg. This particular bird has seventy-five per cent. of the eggs she has produced recorded as X3 eggs. One of the eggs laid had an equatorial circumference of 7 1-4 inches and a polar circumference of 8 inches. From the dimensions it will be observed that the egg was of normal shape but abnormally large. The bird in question has laid more unusually large eggs than any hen in the contest for the last five years. This Leghorn is a large bird, weighing 6 1-4 pounds. This fact, to some extent, explains her ability to lay large eggs and also keeps her production up to the 136 eggs she has recorded for the present contest.

BARN BURNED ON EASTERN POINT ROAD

Lightning Friday night struck a barn on the James Denison estate on the Eastern Point road at Baker's cove and set it on fire. Those in the house were not aware that the barn had been struck until the flames from burning barn were seen. A telephone call was sent to the Pioneer Hose company, but by the time the firemen arrived the whole north end of the barn was on fire, and as there is no hydrant near the property, little could be done to save the barn. Consequently the firemen stood by to guard the house, which was threatened.

The barn which had been used as a garage, was burned to the ground. A cars which had been in the garage was gotten out safely, but a Ford truck that was standing near it was destroyed.

MORE CANDIDATES FOR LEGION COMMANDER

Reports about the state mention several new names for nomination for election to the office of department commander of the American Legion of Connecticut which will hold its convention in New London Aug. 27, 28 and 29. The new names are Harry S. Jackson, a member and past commander of the Eddy-Glover post of New Britain and Kenneth C. Cramer of the Hartford post and Justus J. Fennel of Stamford. Already the names of Maj Gen. Morris B. Payne and Col. Henry S. Dorsey have been prominently mentioned but it has become known that Gen. Payne would not accept the nomination, because of the business and military pressure at present.

Developing Indian Town

Steps have been taken to develop the property known at Old Saybrook as Indian Town. Original ideas attend this development, which promises to be still another factor in making Old Saybrook a noted summer resort town.

The property involved borders in part on Long Island sound and is near Indian creek to the east of Chapman's point. One of the peculiar features associated with the development is that the highways running through the land are called "trails" instead of streets, and the "trails" are all Indian naes—Owaneco, Uncas, Attawanhood, Obed and Red Bird.

DAYLIGHT SAVING POPULAR IN THIS STATE

Less than one-ninth of the people of Connecticut observe standard time this summer, according to a survey made throughout the state. As nearly as can be approximated by returns received in response to inquiries sent to the several town clerks, 1,339,169 of the 1,503,443 people in the state follow daylight saving time, leaving 164,276 on standard time.

The latest population estimates based on school enumeration returns as of September, 1924, made to the state board of education, were used to determine the proportion of people observing standard or daylight saving time. In some instances, the town clerks reported that a certain fraction of the people in their towns followed daylight saving time and the remainder standard time. In computing the totals, these fractions were applied to the population figures for those towns. Clerks in a handful of towns, including Brooklyn, Coventry, East Windsor, Franklin, Hartland, Newtown, Prospect, Salisbury, Voluntown and Waterford did not answer the inquiry, and the information was supplied from other sources.

Seventy-three of the 169 towns in the state reported that they are on standard time, without qualification: sixty-seven including all but one of the cities reported that they are on daylight saving time and twenty-nine reported their people to be divided, most of them nearly evenly between standard and daylight-saving time.

BROTHER AND SISTER ARE AUTO VICTIMS

NEW LONDON, Aug. 16.—William Shailer and sister, Miss Marion Shailer, both of Brooklyn, N. Y., are patients at Lawrence Memorial association hospital tonight suffering from serious but not believed to be fatal injuries they sustained early this evening in East Lyme. The maching Mr. Shailer was driving was in collision with an unknown car. Mr. Shailer and his sister sustained deep lacerations on the head and were removed to the hospital immediately following the accident. The accident occurred on Plant Hill in front of the property recently acquired by Fred Stone, well known actor. The Shailer car collided with the unknown machine and both were thrown to the highway. Following the accident State Police Officer Joseph Bobnick, Groton barracks, was assigned to investigate the cause of the collision and upon his return to the barracks tonight for some unknown reason he refused to divulge the name of the driver or the owner of the car in collision with the Shailer machine.

RUM SHIP TOWED INTO NEW LONDON

NEW LONDON, Aug. 16.—Revenue Cutter Beale of the fleet of rum chasers stationed at this port seized a fishing sloop in Block Island sound this afternoon laden with, it is understood, 300 cases of Scotch and rye whiskey. The sloop was towed into port and moored at the state pier. The crew will be arraigned before United States Commissioner Russell T. Corcoran at the custom house tomorrow.

POETRY

REAL PRESENCE.

Not on an Altar shall mine eyes behold
Thee.
Tho' Thou art sacrifice, Thou too art
Priest;
Bend, that the feeble arms of Love may enfold Thee,
So Faith shall bloom, increased.

Not on a Cross, with passion budded around Thee,
Thorn-crowned and lonely, in Thy suffering;
Nay, but as watching Mary met and found Thee,
Dawn-robed, the Risen King.

Not in the past, but in the present glorious,
Not in the future, that I cannot span
Living and breathing, over death victorious,
My God—my Brother-Man.

EARLY GOLDENROD.

In the first droway heat of August noon
Ere yet the pastures are embrowned and dry,
Or yet the swallow breathes her parting sigh,
Under the red sun and the crimson moon,
Greeting us all too soon.

Comes the plumed goldenrod with flaunting train,
And lifts her yellow head along the way
Where sweet wild roses bloomed but yesterday,
And foamy daisies nodded in disdain
At July sun and rain.

With thy approach the year seems waxing late,
And yet its ripest fullness is not come
Far off we scarce can hear the "Harvest Home,"
The apple-pickers loiter at the gate,
Well pleased with maids to wait

When I the sunshine of thy blooms do hold,
And pluck and bear thee home with fond caress,
I am the richer for thy lavishness.
Thy Midas touch hath turned the land to gold
For me to have and hold.

—Abbie Frances Judd.

No longer need a clothing store salesman take a suit to the window to show the prospective customer the effect in daylight, or even turn on a special light, says a note from Science Service. Instead, he will soon be able to hand the customer a pair of daylight spectacles, which have been invented by Dr. Hermann Weiss, of Vienna. Already they have come into wide use in laboratories in the textile, paper and dye industries, where it is often necessary to judge the color of solutions. They are of blue glass, which absorbs some of the yellow rays in which the ordinary incandescent lamp is rich, but which are not present in such abundance in sunlight.

There has been a decrease in the last few years in the number of blind people throughout the country. The census of 1910 gave a total of 57,272 in the United States, while ten years later this had fallen to 52,567. In other words, in 1910 there were 623 blind people a million population, while a decade later there were only 597. The proportion of the blind to the population varies widely in different states. Wyoming has only 154 blind a million of population, which is the lowest recorded; New York has 405; Indiana, 759, while the state with the highest proportion of blind is New Hampshire with 1,632 a million.

Promise Made to President Coolidge by Administration Financial Leaders of Legislation Before Payments of the New Year Are Due—Estimates of Treasurer Mellon Presented—Representative Tilson Promises to Give the Bill the Right of Way in the House.

PLYMOUTH, Vt., Aug. 17.—(AP)—Enactment of a tax reduction bill before March 15 when first payments of the new year are due was promised to President Coolidge today by administration financial leaders.

Substantial reductions in the income rates, both surtax and normal, as well as elimination of many of the miscellaneous taxes was declared possible after a conference here between the executive, Secrtary Mellon, Snator Smoot of Utah, chairman of th finance committee, and Representative Tilson of Connecticut, who will be the republican floor leader next session.

Estimates of the treasury were presented by Secretary Mellon and the tax program began to assume definite shape. Mr. Mellon made no definite recommendations but Chairman Smoot and Mr. Tilson later declared for a cut in the surtax rates, applying on incomes of $12,000 and over, from the maximum of 40 per cent. to 20 or 15 per cent. They also proposed a reduction of the normal rates from two to one per cent. on incomes of $4,000 and under from 4 to 3 per cent. on incomes between $4,000 and $8,000 and from six to five per cent. on incomes over that amount.

Early action of the tax reduction bill which will be the major domestic issue before the next congress is predicted on the plan of Chairman Green of the house ways and means committee to call that committee together in October for consideration of the measure. President Coolidge will leave to his committee and treasury experts most of the work of drafting exact terms of tax legislation.

If the committee has prepared its bill by the opening of congress in December, Representative Tilson declared today he would give it the right of way on the house calendar so that it can be sent to the senate by the first of the year. This would leave two months for action by the senate and the ironing out of differences between that body and the house.

Although the payment due March 15, on incomes of this year it is the plan to make the income tax reductions retroactive to this year. Changes in miscellaneous rates would become effective upon enactment of the law.

Difference of opinion existed on the extent to which the miscellaneous taxes can be cut or wiped out. Both Senator Smoot and Mr. Tilson believed many could be completely eliminated so a combined definite declaration pending receipt of final treasury figures on the amount of surplus available for tax reduction.

The estimates today by Secretary Mellon took into consideration only the effect which certain cuts in taxes would have on the treasury. He did not have final figures on the condition of the treasury last June 30, close of the fiscal year. Likewise he made no definite recommendation as was the case two years ago when he proposed a maximum surtax rate of 25 per cent.

Probable Tax Reduction.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17—(A. P.)—While treasury officials have as yet fixed upon no program of tax reduction for recommendation to congress, their studies of the situation convince them that government finances will at least bear a reduction of the surtax to 20 per cent. and of the maximum normal tax to five per cent.

This would represent a cut of one per cent from the normal and take 20 per cent off the maximum surtax, the present rate being 40 per cent. These, of course, are not final figures, and it may be that an even lower reduction in the surtax will be proposed.

The attitude of the treasury on the so-called nuisance taxes, such as those on automobiles and accessories, has not been disclosed, but a number of leaders in congress have declared for a removal of all of these levies on the ground they have a bad effect on business and constitute a nuisance to the public.

Some congressional leaders also have expressed the hope of a reduction of the maximum surtax below 20 per cent. and still others would like to see the personal exemption increased to $3,000. They realize that some of these reductions probably cannot be accomplished at this session.

The hope of the treasury, as officially voiced today is that congress will enact a law which will cause the least dislocation of business and will bring the maximum return to the government. The backbone of such an act, in this view, will be a much lower maximum surtax rate.

Indications of the clearing up of the situation became apparent today even before President Coolidge's announcement, when it developed that the Belgian commissioners had made arrangements to sail for Europe saturday aboard the Majestic.

While President Coolidge and the American commissioners were conferring at Plymouth, Acting Secretary Winston of the treasury received what was regarded as an encouraging message respecting the Italian debt situation. Mario Alberti, the new Italian minister for foreign affairs, cabled assurances that his efforts would be directed toward finding a solution of the debt question.

WOULD FIND RELIEF FROM DEPENDENCY ON HARD COAL

BOSTON, Aug. 17—Governor Fuller tonight called upon the governors of the other five New England states to join him a conference at the state house here next Friday morning, "to take definite action on the fuel situation with the object of relieving New England from its dependency of anthracite as a fuel."

The governor sent telegrams to all governors of New England inviting them to the conference.

In announcing his action, Governor Fuller said:

"The annual threat of another anthracite coal strike because of wage and working agreement disputes between the miners and operators presents to the citizens of Massachusetts and New England a straight-from-the-shoulder challenge.

"Why do we continue to remain the unwilling victim of this continuous and annual fight for this fuel when substitutes apparently as good and reliable may be secured?

"To long our section of the country has stuck to anthracite while other sections of our country never use it.

"In a little over twelve years the price of anthracite has increased 125 per cent. The retail price in Massachusetts is almost double the pre-war price. And still we are always kept in fear we cannot secure it.

"The time has come to break away from this unnecessary condition of affairs which has been our lot for years, become independent of anthracite."

OPERATIONS AGAINST TRIBESMEN IN MOROCCO

FEZ, Morocco, Aug. 17—(A. P.)—An army corps and a mixed brigade under the command of General Boichut has begun operations on a large scale with the object of reducing the territory of the Taoui tribesmen. This announcement is contained in an official communication issued today.

The action began with the intensive artillery and airplane preparation on the enemy centers, the communication adds. The operation is proceeding normally.

Marshal Lyautey, the French governor-general in Morocco, is going to Oerzan on a tour of inspection to view for himself the results of the recent operations on that sector. The marshal declared today that he was not going to Vichy, France, to take the cure.

MAN ABSENT FROM COURT WAS SERVING TIME IN JAIL

GREENWICH, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Howard Ross, of New Haven, charged with operating an overloaded truck, failed to appear in court when his case was called today and the case was adjourned until tomorrow. Later the authorities learned he was serving ten days for another automobile law violation.

JUDGE'S HOME WAS PARTLY WRECKED BY AN EXPLOSION

ASHLAND, Ky., Aug. 17.—(AP)—Circuit Hall, the large brick home of judge W. H. Flannery at Catlettsburg, was partly wrecked early today by an explosion believed to be of dynamite. The charge tore away the front porch and broke all the windows in the house and adjoining homes. Eight persons sleep in the home were tossed from their beds but were not injured.

NO DEVELOPMENTS IN THE HARD COAL DEADLOCK

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 17.—(A. P.)—John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, today professed ignorance of any early developments in the anthracite wage deadlock as asserted in rumors reaching his headquarters here from the outside.

Philip Murray, international vice president, and Thomas Kennedy, international secretary-tresurer, arrived today. They joined Mr. Lewis and Van A. Bittner, chief union organizer from West Virginia in a secret conference an what was believed to be soft coal matters.

At his conclusion Mr. Lewis withheld any statement other than to say that only "routine subjects" were discussed and that the meeting had no significance.

It was doubted in miners' circles here that any initiative in resuming the scale negotiations broken off on August 4 at Atlantic City would be likely to come from so-called "independent" anthracite operators. The independents were a distinct minority, numerically speaking, it was explained. Those with voice enough to propose such a resumption, it was said, were already represented on the operators' scale committee.

Mr. Lewis said today he expected to stay here the remainder of the week.

MUSSOLINI SAYS THERE IS NO SUCH THING AS LIBERTY

LONDON, Aug. 17—(A. P.)—"I maintain there can be no such thing as liberty," Benito Mussolini, the Italian premier, is declared to have said to a correspondent of the Daily Express in Rome. "Liberty exists only in the imagination of philosophers, who seek their unpractical philosophy from the sky. My philosophy is drawn from very near the earth for those of the earth."

Asked whether he was content with the fruits of his philosophy as materialized in Fascism, Mussolini replied, "fully content, fully content with Fascism—with its results, with its future promises."

Following out his idea that liberty is impossible, the premier went on: "Civilization is the inversion of personal liberty. In the long run it resolves itself into a matter of space, more liberty, and those who would benefit from the advantages of civilization must necessarily pay in the coin of personal freedom."

"Mass cannot govern mass; quantity cannot govern quantity," Mussolini added.

YOUNG WOMAN SUFFERING FROM LOSS OF MEMORY

UNION CITY, N. J., Aug. 17.—(AP)—A young woman found suffering from loss of memory yesterday was still unidentified in the North Hudson hospital tonight.

Police became somewhat skeptical concerning the case when a man who gave his name as Captain Patrick Leighton and who said he was attached to "the British embassy in New York" partially identified the young woman as "Lady St. Anatel," of London, who he said had been missing from her English home for two weeks. Inquiries at the British consulate in New York revealed the fact that no Captain Leighton was attached to the consulate there or to the embassy in Washington.

Zionists Were Stoned.

VIENNA, Aug. 17.—(A. P.) — A group of Zionists making an excursion on a chartered steamer on the River Danube were stoned today at St. Langenpeara and their steamer was fired on at Kornesburg, nine miles northwest of Vienna, by an excited crowd. No casualties are reported. It is said that anie-smitic threats have frightened many Zionists from attending the coming Zionist congress here.

MISS EDERLE READY FOR ENGLISH CHANNEL SWIM

CAPE GRIS-NEZ, France, Aug. 17—(A. P.)—The American girl Gertrude Ederle is ready and anxious to start on her great swim of the English channel. The time fixed for the start is 7:25 tomorrow morning. When she awoke from a ten hours' sleep today she said "How I wish tomorrow was today."

Miss Ederle shows no dread of her approaching task, no nervousness—just enthusiasm to get into the water and get going. She did not concern herself with the weighty conferences among her trainers and counselors, who met twice today to decide upon the starting time and talk over how she ought to carry on.

"Just look after all those details," she told her chaperon, Miss Vieta. "My job is to swim the channel."

It was determined to send the American girl into the water at the point of Cape Gris-Nez 4 hours and 20 minutes before high tide instead of the traditional four hours, so as to get the fullest advantage of the strong current. This current should carry the swimmer as far to the southwest as possible before the tide turns and sweeps towards Calais into the North Sea.

Miss Ederle intends to hit the regular 27 strokes to the minute gait and will try to keep it up throughout.

"The custom has been to urge channel swimmers to make all possible speed the first four hours," Miss Ederle's trainer, Jabez Wolfe said, "but in this case our job will be to prevent this speedster from swimming too fast at the start."

Miss Ederle tonight was all ready for the swim, except for another long sleep and a triple coat of grease. She is going to have the heaviest application of fats any swimmer ever had, her trainers say they will apply a quarter of an inch of lanolin, then a light coat of vaseline, topping it off with about a quarter of an inch of a preparation Wolfe has concocted from the heaviest grease he could get.

WAITED IN VAIN FOR RETURN OF HIS WIFE

HARTFORD, Aug. 17.—(AP)— Lawrance L. Roe kept a long vigil at the Conning fountain in Bushnell park today in the hope that his wife, Ella Marie Roe, from whom he separated last fall by mutual agreement, would come to him and effect a reconciliation.

Mrs. Roe had written him proposing a reconciliation for the sake of their child, but her letter failed to reach Mr. Roe, who travels for the Broderick Publishing company, in time to meet her in Bushnell park, August 8. Believing her to be in this city, Mr. Roe said Sunday he would wait for her the following day at the fountain in Bushnell park where they had often passed many a happy hour together.

Early today Mr. Roe left the Morgan house, at 151 Asylum street, where he has been staying the past few days, and went to the fountain to keep the tryst. A lonely, forlorn figure, he looked in every direction for a sign of his wife approaching. Hungry and tired, he returned to the Morgan house late in the afternoon. He had to leave on a hurried trip to Brooklyn, N. Y., but left word at the rooming place that he would resume his search for his wife Wednesday.

DENTIST CHARGED WITH SUFFOCATING HIS WIFE

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Aug. 17.—(AP)—Examination of prospective jurors to hear evidence in the case of Dr. Thomas Young, a dentist, on trial charged with suffocating his wife, Mrs. Grace Young, with a heavy dental gas last February and sealing her body in a cistern beneath their Beverly Glen cabin occupied the first session at the trial here today. The panel is expected to be completed tomorrow.

The dentist exhibited but a mild interest in the wrangling of the defense and prosecuting attorneys as the latter outlined their major contentions that he killed the woman and sealed her body in the crypt, assisted unwittingly by Patrick Grogan, Jr., her 28 year old son, who mixed the concrete for the dentist to pour over the body.

Further the state held the drilling was the dentist's first move to gain control of Mrs. Young's $1,500,000 estate, bequeathed her by her late husband, Patrick Grogan, known as the "Olive King."

ENGINEERS TO EXPAND IN BANKING BUSINESS

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 17.—(A. P.)—Banks patterned after the one already established in Boston are to be organized by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers in New Haven, Hartford, Bridgeport and Waterbury and later in other places, according to William J. Hall, the state representative of the organization. The banks will be operated by the New England Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers Securities corporation, the holding company oranized by the brotherhood, with a capital of $2,000,000.

Mr. Hall pointed out that the banks will not confine their activities to union labor investors, but will be open to commercial houses and the public in general.

RESULTS OF SLEEPLESS TESTS NOT YET COMPILED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Six of the eight George Washington University students who spent sixty sleepless hours as subjects for scientific study, returned to more normal activities today after a 12-hour nap, but the other two, having slept four hours, resumed the marathon for an unannounced period.

The deliberate defiance of Morpheus ended last night, but Prof. Fred A. Moss, who remained awake with the students, has not yet assembled the results of the various tests given his charges. A final examination was held today, after the students had slept, to determine their reactions after the long vigil.

Expect Agreement On Belgian Debt

PLYMOUTH, Vt., Aug. 17.—(A. P.)—The stand of the American government on terms for refunding Belgium's $450,000,000 debt was determined at a conference here today between President Coolidge and Secretary Mellon and Senator Smoot of Utah.

What terms the administration would be willing to accept was not disclosed, although the statement was made that the president expected an agreement to be reached when negotiations between the Belgian mission and the American debt commission are resumed tomorrow in Washington.

After Mr. Mellon, who is chairman of the American commission and Senator Smoot, who is a member, had discussed with him for two hours the situation growing out of negotiations already held, the executive issued the following statement, written in pencil in his own handwriting:

"Secretary Mellon and Senator Smoot have reported to the president the details of the Washington conference. The progress is satisfactory. No deadlock has developed. The secretary and senator came to inform the president of the proposals before making the final agreement. The conference will reconvene at 3 p. m., Tuesday when it is expected final agreement may be reached, after which a full and complete statement will be given to the press by the American commission."

Secretary Mellon and Senator Smoot, acting for the commission which wished to acquaint the president with the exact situation with a view to obtaining his sanction to any agreement it might see fit to make, arrived here shortly before 10 a. m. They motored this evening back to their special car at Ludlow, planning to reach the capital by noon tomorrow.

Both the treasury secretary and Senator Smoot declined to be drawn out on the nature of the American demands, the Belgian proposals or the possibility of concessions in an effort to reach an agreement. They appeared optimistic that a settlement would be effected.

They went back to Washington prepared to give their colleagues the benefit of the president's views before the final stage of the negotiations with the Belgian mission which expects to sail for home on Wednesday. There is nothing, however, to indicate whether the administration would be willing to accord the Brussels government more liberal terms than those granted Great Britain, which were accepted by congress as a satisfactory precedent for refunding settlements with other debtor nations.

Brought to this hamlet from Ludlow in a White House automobile the two debt commissioners were greeted by the president on the front porch of his father's home, which had been screened off from the public by bed sheets. Behind this shield, which had been put up by the president and Mrs Coolidge assisted by two deputy sheriffs on duty here, the conference involving nearly a half a billion dollars was held.

Pausing at noon, the president took his guests to the nearby village of Tyson for lunch at Echo Lake Inn which Mr. Coolidge had patronized before but not since becoming president. He and his visitors dined in the public dining room as guests former Governor Stickney of Vermont, and signed the old register on which the age of 21 the president had scrawled his name as "J. Calvin Coolidge." The register also bore the signatures of William McKinley, Mark Hanna, Gen. Nelson A. Miles and others of prominence.

TAKING PRECAUTIONS FOR NEW YORK PRIMARY

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—(A. P.)—Unusual precautions were ordered today by the police department to safeguard the primary election results, September 15. For the first time in the history of the department the lists of registered voters will be examined before the election to make sure that only those entitled to vote may do so.

"The object of this order," said Mayor Hylan, "is to insure as near an honest primary as can be had. It is rumored that 50,000 people have removed out of one borough since the last primary enrollment. The great majority of election inspectors are honest, but everybody remembers 1917, the $2,000,000 slush fund year, when the primaries were stolen from Bennett by the slush fund crowd and 50 little fellows went to jail."

Neither Governor Smith nor State Senator James J. Walker, the Tammany candidate, were active today. Governor Smith's first speaking date in the campaign, it was announced, will be August 27 in Brooklyn when he will occupy the platform with Senator Walker.

REALLY MARRIED WHEN ACTING MARRIED ROLES

ORANGE, N. J., Aug. 17.—(AP)—When Miss Mary Madeline Dugan and William J. Reid, Jr., members of the senior class of Orange High school, played married roles in the senior play in June few knew they really were husband and wife. In fact, it was not known to members of their families until Saturday night when they told of their elopement April 25 while the play was still in rehearsal.

Mrs. Reid is eighteen years old and her husband is a year older. He had planned to enter Yale University this fall.

TWO BOYS INJURED BY COLLAPSE OF WATER TANK

NEW YORK, Aug 17.—(AP)—One 8-year-old boy was critically injured today and another badly hurt when a twenty-foot steel water tank, containing more than 20,000 gallons, collapsed. The boys were playing in a vacant lot in the Chelsea district of Manhattan, adjoining the building supporting the tank, were trapped in the wreckage.

Peter Rogers was in a serious condition tonight, while Edward J. Costello's chances of recovery were reported to be good.

Gasoline Reduced Two Cents A Gallon

Cut in Price is Effective Throughout New England —No Change in New York.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—(AP)—The Standard Oil Company of New York today reduced the tank wagon price of gasoline two cents a gallon throughout New England, making new quotations 18 cents a gallon. The wholesale price of 20 cents a gallon in greater New York was not changed.

The Sinclair and Tidewater oil companies today also announced cuts of 2 cents in New England.

SCOFFED AT EFFICIENCY ANTI-AIRCRAFT SERVICE

"MITCHELL FIELD, N. Y., Aug. 17.—(A. P.)—Congressman F. H. Laguardia, of New York, today derided the efficiency of the anti-aircraft service as a defense from air attack for New York after watching competitive tests of the anti-aircraft service and the air service over Fort Tilden from an airplane.

Firing at two targets dragged by Martin bombing planes from cables 2,000 feet long and sagging from 300 to 400 feet below the altitude of the planes, the anti-aircraft forces scored only five hits out of 8,000 50-calibre machine gun bullets fired during the first test and 14 hits out of the same number of shots fired during the second.

The planes flew at altitudes of 2,000 feet in both cases, and it had been freely predicted that the targets, which were 15 by 5 feet in size and of deep blue color to make them entirely visible, would be completely riddled.

Congressman Laguardia, himself a major in the American air service on the Italian front during the war, said he was preparing to report on the tests to the next session or congress.

"To claim that Fort Tilden is a defense for New York against invading airplanes is either a misstatement or based on lack of information," he said. "Today's conditions were perfect for anti-aircraft fire, and I noted 21 separate flights across the target on eight of which there was actual firing on any one of these 21 trips, either bomber could have annihilated Fort Tilden.

"It is ridiculous to assume that the bombing planes would fly as low as 1,000 feet. When I was leading the bombing squadron over the Italian front during the war, we never flew under 10,000 feet. Where would the anti-aircraft units be then."

LAFOLLETTE OPENS CAMPAIGN FOR UNITED STATES SENATOR

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 17.—(AP)—Robert M. La Follette, Jr., opened his campaign for United States senator to fill his father's unexpired term with a statement today setting forth his policies.

He announced he was a progressive candidate for the republican nomination on a platform "endorsed by the votes of Wisconsin three years ago when Robert M. LaFollette was elected to his fourth term in the United States senate." His statement was largely a reiteration of the three principles.

During his campaign, he said, he would discuss questions and problems that are at stake in the contest, which will culminate in a primary, probably late in September and a special election shortly afterward.

Governor Blaine, who will call the election, is expected to return from a trip to the northern part of the state this week.

La Follette indicated he would make known further plans and would begin an active campaign after the election call is issued.

He declared he did not seek support merely because he was the senator's son.

La Follette's statement said he believes leasing laws should be re-written to insure against repetition of the Teapot Dome affair and "further thefts" of the nation's resources. Other points in his platform include operation of the Muscle Shoals project by the government, repeal of the Esch-Cummins railroad law, reduced freight rate on agricultural products, opposition to the use of the injunction in labor disputes, curtailing of appropriations for war purposes, opposition to the Mellon tax plan, nomination of the president and vice-president by and also the election to be by direct vote, opposition to the League of Nations and World Court, investigation of the federal trade commission and tax reduction to benefit those least able to pay.

$5,000 SUIT AGAINST THE CITY OF NEW HAVEN

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 17.—(A. P.)—Because he claims his home became ill, float away and because his chickens and patients refused to live under water, Stanley Z. Grabowski of this city today instituted a $5,000 damage suit against the city of New Haven in superior court.

Mr. Grabowski owns the home in which he lives. The rear of it faces towards Ferry street and has flower beds, potato patches and a chicken coop. Some years ago a little creek made its way along the east end of Ferry street, and carried all the excess rain water into the Quinnipiac river. Then the city raised the roadbed about six feet and provided a rain pipe for the rain water and the creek. It is the claim of Grabowski that this drain pipe is stopped up most of the time and that every heavy rain brings a lake to his yard. He prepared for legal action following the last heavy rain.

ARMY AIRPLANES ARE TO CONVEY GOVERNORS

HARTFORD, Aug. 17.—(A. P.)—The war department has authorized the department of air service at Mineola, Long Island, to detail airplanes to go to the respective capital cities of the New England states just prior to September 16, and to take on there the governors of the states and bring them by air to the state fair at Charter Oak park on Governor's day, September 16. The governors of the states will be guests of Governor Trumbull, who will also come by airplane. United States Senator Hiram Bingham will fly up from New Haven. He is to be the speaker. U. S. Senator George P. McLan will be present.

TO CARRY STATE FILM TAX CASE TO U. S. SUPREME COURT

Counsel For Complainants Asserts That An Appeal Will Be Taken Immediately and That Suits Would Be Brought Against the State "On Other Grounds"—Special Federal Court Has Decided the Law Constitutional.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 17—Preparations are being made to carry the controversy over Connecticut's motion picture tax and censorship act to the United States supreme court, following a decision filed here today by the special federal court, which heard the case on July 10, holding that the new law is constitutional and enforceable. The special court consisted of Federal Judges Henry Ade Rogers, Henry Goddard and Thomas Thatcher.

Benedict M. Holden, of Hartford, counsel for the complainants, the Fox Film Corporation of New York, and the American Feature Film Company, Inc., of Boston, said that an appeal to the higher court would be taken immediately and that suits would be brought against the state on "other grounds." The complainants had asked for an injunction against enforcement of the law, but their petitions were denied by the special court.

The court held that the law was purely a police regulation, and that it is not a burden nor is it directly or substantially a restraint on interstate commerce such as conducted by the complainants.

The new law became effective July 1 but it was announced that no tax would be collected until July 8. When no action was filed, State Tax Commissioner William H. Blodgett notified all exhibitors of films to keep a record of pictures shown so that the tax might be collected if the law was upheld. The exhibitors, it was announced today, will now be called upon to produce these records.

The law provides for a tax on films brought into the state of $10 for 1000 feet of film and 50 cents for each hundred feet of film over that unit in length. News reels or films of educational or scientific value, however, are not taxable.

CONN. TAX ON FILMS IS HELD CONSTITUTIONAL

NEW HAVEN, Conn., August 17—The Connecticut law which imposes a tax upon moving picture films shown in the state and also providing for censorship of the films by the state tax commissioner, was held to be constitutional in a decision filed here today by the special federal court which heard the case on July 10th.

IMMEDIATE ENFORCEMENT OF FILM TAX EXPECTED

HARTFORD, Aug. 17—Immediate enforcement of the moving picture tax law in this state is expected to follow a conference tomorrow at which Attorney General Healy, Arthur L. Shipman, assisting lawyer for the state, Tax Commissioner Blodgett and Special Tax Agent John J. Splain, of New Haven, will be present. "I can see no reason why the state should not set the machinery in motion for the enforcement of the law in view of the decision made today," Mr. Shipman said tonight.

Mr. Shipman added that he could not forecast the outcome of the conference but said that as the decision covered the case thoroughly, there was apparently no bar to state enforcement of the act at the present time. The threats of future injunctions and higher court petitions should not affect present state procedure, he said.

AVIATORS ARE SKETCHING ARCTIC MOUNTAIN COUNTRY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—(AP)—A vast, uncharted stretch of Arctic mountain country has been traversed by aviators of the MacMillan expedition in a flight to deposit supplies at their new base on Ellesmere Island.

Navy men aboard one of the airplanes reported they had seen many square miles of jagged, snow-covered peaks never looked upon before by men. Deep valleys divided the towering ranges, and in one place there was an uncharted lake, frozen over.

The area thus explored was in the northwest section of Ellesmere Island, known to geographers heretofore only in general outline.

The district thus explored for the first time was a part of Grinnel Land, which makes up the northwest section Ellesmere Island. The exploring plane was the navy ship NA-1, and her discoveries were described by Commander Byrd, who was on board, in a radiogram received today by the navy department.

"Found high, uncharted mountains," said the message. "Saw many square miles never seen before by man, covered with snow.

"There was an uncharted lake thrown over. The ruggedness, irregularity and many deep valleys presented a magnificent but awful spectacle. The air was the roughest ever experienced by us."

RECORD NUMBER SEEKING ADMISSION TO STORRS

STORRS, Aug. 17.—(AP)—The legislative act limiting the enrollment of the Connecticut Agricultural college to 500 students at any one time, coupled with the fact that a record breaking class is seeking admission at Storrs, may cause many young men and women of Connecticut to be refused admission, it was indicated today.

Figures obtained from the registrar of the college today showed that 409 paid applications for admission had already been received, and there are six weeks yet before the college officially opens. Of this number 240 are upper classmen and 169 are applicants for admission to the freshmen class. Last year's freshman class numbered but 175 when college opened in September.

President Charles Lewis Beach said today that the legislative act is quite satisfactory to the trustees and faculty as it enables them to raise the entrance requirements and select those who promise to profit most by a college education. "In the future," he said, "students will be selected for admission who rank in the upper two thirds of their graduating class in high school."

PROHIBITION AGENTS ARE IN GENERAL CONFERENCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—(A. P.)—Having concluded his individual conferences with the prohibition division chiefs and state directors, Assistant Secretary Andrews of the treasury will meet practically all of them tomorrow in a general conference.

As near as can be learned from those arranging for the meeting, the purpose is to have a general discussion of the whole prohibition enforcement situation on the eve of the coming into effect of the reorganization of the dry forces Sept. 1.

The first announcement regarding the general conference was that thirty of the seventy division chiefs and state directors only would attend, but this was supplemented today with the statement that it was intended to have present all of the officers except the directors from Hawaii, Porto Rico and Alaska.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

Secretary Jardine had his tonsils removed.

Another conference on Canadian border smuggling was announced.

The commerce department noted a marked reduction in American coffee drinking.

All state prohibition directors were called to confer with Assistant Secretary Andrews.

The department of agriculture indicated an intention by farmers to sow more winter wheat this fall.

TWO BROTHERS IN NARROW ESCAPE AT GRADE CROSSING

WETHERSFIELD, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Alfred C. Ehrhardt, 35 years old, of 131 Cleveland avenue, and his brother, Louis, 24 years old, of 1287 Main street, Hartford, had a miraculous escape from death this afternoon when the four o'clock Hartford to New London train on the Valley road struck a delivery truck on which they were returning to Hartford at the Nott street crossing near here.

The men had been watching a freight train ahead of them and did not notice the on-coming train. The younger Ehrhardt suddenly caught a glimpse of the train when it was about twenty five feet from their truck. "Let's jump for our lives, Al," he shouted, But the older brother believed they had no chance and bade Louis goodbye. Alfred explained that their truck had been traveling with a heavy ice box up an incline at eight miles an hour when they caught sight of the train. Suddenly the truck went into high gear, the quick move made the vehicle lurch forward so that the front part had cleared the tracks when the train hit the truck. Louis was knocked clear and Alfred, seated in the front part of the automobile, escaped injury when the rear part of the vehicle was smashed away with the icebox. The heavy icebox which the men were taking to Hartford was smashed to a mass of splinters.

"Two of the luckiest guys in the world," are the words of Alfred Ehrhardt, in his story of the accident.

A THREATENING LETTER SIGNED "DUTCH" ANDERSON

HARTFORD, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Coincident with the receipt in several parts of the country of threatening letters signed "Dutch Anderson," the following letter was received by the Courant yesterday:

"Editor, Courant: "You can say for me I've got east safely and shall visit and 'personally' thank a lot of kind witnesses who have or will later help to hang my friend Chapman.

"You now know how two of the squealers out in Indiana were 'thanked.'

"DUTCH ANDERSON."

One of the news associations is understood to have received a similar letter and Columbus, Ohio, dispatches say that William J. King, a private detective of that city, received the following message, signed as was that to the Courant:

"You may think newspaper publicity will help you, but it won't. You're next."

King is said to be responsible for the imprisonment of Reginald Forsythe, another of Gerald Chapman's pals. The letter was postmarked Cleveland. A previous one was posted at Toledo.

That received by the Courant was posted at Springfield, Mass., at 8 p. m., Sunday evening.

FLED FROM MONKEY HE "FISHED" FOR AND CAUGHT

BUDDS LAKE, N. J., Aug. 17.—(AP)—Fishing with a banana and an orange for bait today resulted in the capture of a trained Simian by pajama-clad Ralph Jordan of Elizabeth, N. J., and the capture of Jordan in turn by the monk.

Jordan came to visit his father-in-law for a quiet rest, and went to bed on a sleeping porch. At dawn he was awakened by a monkey chattering at him from a tree.

Then, armed with the fish pole and fruit, he angled from a branch. The ape leaped, clutched at the pajamas and held on, while Jordan dashed screaming through the house. Brought to terms the monkey was found to belong to a nearby resident.

14-YEAR-OLD BRIDGEPORT GIRL ATTEMPTED SUICIDE

BRIDGEPORT, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Because her father accused her of "running around with the boys," 14-year-old Julia Lubisky, 267 Main street, attempted to commit suicide about 9:50 o'clock tonight at her home. The child maintained her innocence of the accusation, and directly after the argument went into the bath room of the home and swallowed a dose of poison. She was taken to St. Vincent's hospital in the city ambulance. Her condition is not considered serious.

WILLIMANTIC

George W. Shepaum of this city is the possessor of a copy of The Willimantic Journal of July 1, 1864, a newspaper now out of existence. Its editor was William L. Weaver, who also published the History of Ancient Windham, containing a genealogical record of the early families of the present towns of Windham, Mansfield, Hampton, Chaplin and Scotland (all included in Ancient Windham.) Among the old family names mentioned were: Abbe, Windham and Mansfield; Abot, Hampton; Adams, Mansfield; Agard, Mansfield; Allen, Windham, Scotland and Mansfield; Ames, Mansfield; Anderson, Mansfield; Armstrong, Windham and Mansfield; Austin, Mansfield; Averill, Hampton; Babcock, Windham, Mansfield and Coventry; Backus, Windham; Badger, Windham; Baker, Scotland; and Windham; Balcam, Mansfield and Windham; Balch, Mansfield; Baldwin, Mansfield and Windham; Ballard, Hampton; Barker, Windham; Barrows, Mansfield and Windham; Bass, Windham and Scotland; Bassett, Mansfield; Bemis, Hampton; Bennett, Hampton and Mansfield; Bibbins, Windham; Bidlack, Hampton; Bill, Hampton (Chaplin); Billings, Hampton. In this issue of the Journal interesting mention is made of the Civil War, in which the defeat of Lee's army by General Grant's forces is predicted with optimism, following the occupancy by General Grant of the Weldon railroad, the channel of communication with the Carolinas, Georgia and the Gulf states. The "Air line" movement to build the railroad from Willimantic to Middletown and furnish a direct route by rail to Boston is also discussed in an editorial. Statements made in The Norwich Bulletin relative to the railroad proposition are reprinted. At that time forty-five miles of road, or one-third of the entire distance of 135 miles from Boston to New Haven had been constructed, the paper states. Another item notes that the price of domestic labor in New York has largely increased. In 1864 the washerwomen received their $1 per dozen and a maid-of-all work in a quiet family of six asked and received $10 per month, with a small girl to wait on her at $5 per month. Yet hundreds of shop girls were receiving $3 per week out of which they boarded and clothed themselves. The article states that the superior healthfulness of housework cannot be denied and if it is made that keeps a robust girl out of the kitchen, the motive diminishes the pity for her present situation.

Thomas Pageau 55, who was found dead Sunday morning at 8:30 o'clock on the floor of the kitchen of his home, 37 Meadow street by his sister-in-law, Mrs. Henry Pageau was born in Baltic in May, 1870. He came to this city when about ten years of age and had been employed by the American Thread company for the past twenty-seven years. Although he had been out on strike for nearly six months his friends stated that he did not appear depressed over this fact. It was more firmly established Monday that he had been taken ill and in reaching for medicine had taken a bottle containing formandehyde. There was evidence that he had been seized with a violent vomiting spell and died later after being stricken with a hemorrhage. His bed had been occupied. Pageau's wife and daughter were in New Britain at the time, having gone there about a week ago to take up work. He leaves besides his wife, Mrs. Doria Pageau, a daughter, Miss Rose Marie Pageau, a brother Henry Pageau, and a half-sister Mrs. Leona Mercier of Hartford. He was a member of the St. Jean Baptist Society and of Conseil Florimond, l'Union St. Jean Baptiste d'Amerique.

None of the tenants put in an appearance at the hearing of a number of summary process cases of former operatives of the American Thread Company which were continued from July 6th, and taken up before Justice of the Peace Curtis Dean in the superior court chamber Monday forenoon. These tenants are still occupying company tenements. Judgment was rendered in three cases, the plaintiffs being: Steve Goudyk of 56 Ives street; Lori and Julia Alibozyk of 73 Ives street and Adolph and Emma Rondeau of 112 Ives street. The case of Louis Dubina, 80 Ives street and Frank Soiglon, 11 Ives street were reviewed. Previous orders of execution are to be carried out. The cases of Alvina and Ida Bernard of 124 Main street and Helen and Mabel Sweet were dismissed as since July 6 they had vacated the tenements they occupied. The work of evicting tenants of company houses in cases where the tenants are strikers is nearly completed but five families of former operatives remaining in tenements at the present time. These tenants were warned June 2, last at the time when nearly one hundred and fifty families were ordered to vacate in ten days. Some one hundred summary process notices followed, in legal sequence.

Dr. W. P. S. Keating of this city is so far the only one of five men appointed by Governor Trumbull to serve on the new state eclectic medical examining board to have accepted the appointment. The declined the appointment and one, Dr. F. R. Ematrudo of New Haven, has failed to make a reply.

Charges of breach of the peace and intoxication, to which he pleaded guilty, were brought against Joseph Beaudry of Temple street in the police court Monday morning. Abraham Krug, owner of a dining car was the complainant in the case, he stating that in an argument Beaudry threw a glass against the ceiling of the place causing a return shower of glass to litter the floor. Beaudry was turned over to Police Officer Leo Piche. Deputy Judge Russell A. Andrews imposed a fine of $5 and costs on each charge, amounting to $16.15 which was paid.

Mrs. Charles L. Brand, 55, died at her home, 52 Walnut street Sunday after a lengthy illness. She was a native of this city, and the daughter of Dennis and Johanna Clifford. She leaves besides her husband, a sister, Mrs. John Casey of this city.

Mrs. Helen McAvoy, widow of James McAvoy, who was formerly connected with the American Thread Company in this city, died at the Masonic Home in Wallingford Monday morning. She is survived by one son, Dr. George McAvoy of New York, a daughter Mrs. Louis Lincoln of East Orange, N. J., and four grandchildren.

Funeral services for Miss Mary Rotlo were held Monday afternoon at two o'clock at the home of Frank R. Post, in Hebron. Burial was in Gilead cemetery, Arangements were in charge of Avery and VanZandt.

The one and one-half story house owned by Fred Post and occupied by Frank Porter and family, on the Gilead road near the New Haven Dairy Company barns in the town of Hebron, was destroyed late Saturday afternoon by fire of unknown origin. Fishermen passing by discovered the blaze, the Porter family being away on an outing for the day. A few articles of furniture were saved by the men who broke through one of the doors. The loss is estimated at $3,000. Insurance of $800 was carried on the furniture by Mr. Porter.

William J. Rathbun was charged with obtaining money under false pretenses, in police court, Monday morning. He was not put to plea, on his request for a continuance of the case which was granted to Saturday, August 22. A bond of $500 was furnished by Horace J. Rood of Windham. Frank Press, a local grocer, is the complainant in the case. The allegation is that Rathbun obtained $45 from him on July 14, last on a false check.

Miss Blanche Hervieux was tendered a miscellaneous shower recently in honor of her approaching marriage with C. Corveille of Wauregan. Miss Yvonne Vincelette and Mrs. Henry Cote were in charge of the affair which was held at the latter's home. Present were Misses Louise Coutu, Lucia Theroux, Lea Turcotte, Leda, Caisse, Mina Arbour, Laura Theroux, Delia Pageau, Aldea Coutu, Marie Turcotte, Arzelia Rousseau, Eva Chabot, Aurise and Blanche Hervieux and Mesdames, Adele Pairier, Aldea Lapan; also George Caisse, Louis Cyr, O. Gaudreau, Nelson Lawrence, W. Caisse and H. Chagnon.

Mrs. Michael J. Tubridy of Maple avenue has returned from an enjoyable trip in Canada and the northern states. Several thousand miles were covered by rail, motor and boat during one month, Mrs. Tubridy was accompanied by her daughter, Marion who stopped off for a visit with her aunt, Mrs. Mary Quinlan in Port Arthur, Canada. She will return here within a month accompanied by Miss Gertrude Hearty, of Buffalo, N. Y. From Montreal Mrs. Tubridy went to Winnipeg, Duluth, Minn., and the Great Lakes, returning to the United States by way of Toronto.

Fire broke out in the boiler house of No. 4 mill of the American Thread Company, Sunday afternoon, when a 2300 volt wire came in contact with an iron pipe above the boiler, causing the sparks to set the wood work, rafters and panels on fire. Members of Engine Company No. 1 responded to a still alarm with the Reo Chemical truck and extinguished the blaze with four gallons of chemicals. The damage was slight.

Chief Inspector William Clark, in charge of the United States Immigration Service was in this city recently having been ordered here by the Assistant Secretary of Labor, following a complaint by the investigation bureau of the Federation of Labor that the immigration law, as it affects Canada and the United States, had been violated by some of the families brought to this city by the American Thread Company.

Ernest LaLiberty, proprietor of a local restaurant has instituted civil proceedings against William Blount for the recovery of $20 said to be due him for meals served to the amount of $12.25. Constable William D. Kelley garnished the wages due the plaintiff Monday. The case will be heard before Justice of the Peace Curtis Dean.

The past week although motor vehicle traffic through and about the city was well up at the peak of all past records, no accidents were reported and no arrests were made for violations of the automobile laws.

The opening meeting of the twenty-fourth week of the strike of operatives of the American Thread Company was held in Central Labor Union Hall Monday morning and was largely attended. Addresses in English, Polish and French were delivered by Organizers Alexander Murka and Horace Riviere.

Willimantic Rotary Club members will gather on the grounds of the Aime J. Martineau home on Pleasant street, at five o'clock this (Tuesday) afternoon for a clambake and an out-of-door program in charge of James P. Mustard and John C. Tracy. Guests are expected to be present.

CHILD STRUCK BY CAR DIES TWO HOURS LATER

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Aug. 17—Michael, five and one half year old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Nascin of North Windham Road was fatally injured, about 9:45 o'clock Monday morning, when he ran down an embankment in front of an automobile operated by Mrs. Eleanor K. Lewis, of Woodstock Valley. The boy sustained a fracture at the base of the skull and other injuries which caused his death at St. Joseph's Hospital two hours later. The body was viewed by Medical Examiner Dr. Louis I. Mason and was turned over to Killourey Brothers. Coroner Arthur G Bill of Danielson was notified and Mrs. Lewis was held under bonds of $2,000 pending the decision of the coroner following an inquest which he will hold here Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The woman was booked on a charge of reckless driving, at police headquarters. Among stories which ran wild following the accident was one that Mrs. Lewis had left the child lying in the middle of the road and driven on to this city. This rumor has been proven false. While driving along the road a short distance north of the Nascin home a child ran out of the Nascin yard at the same time that she met another machine coming from the opposite direction. Mrs. Lewis stopped her machine and when the child had reached a point of safety she started again, when the Nascin boy came running down the road embankment and was struck. She brought her machine to a stop and the boy was picked up by other persons and brought into the Nascin yard. Mrs. Lewis started to take the injured boy to the hospital but was prevented from doing so and the child was taken in another automobile accompanied by his older brother, Joseph Nascin. Mrs. Lewis then drove on to the local temporary barracks and notified Sergeant Russell I. Harmon of the affair. The two and Officer Keith in turn notified Chief of Police Allan McArthur. Michael Nascin was born in this city, February 22, 1920. Besides his parents he leaves five brothers and four sisters.

EPWORTH LEAGUE INSTITUTE OPENS AT CAMP GROUND

WILLIMANTIC CAMPGROUND, Aug. 17.—The Epworth League Institute, held in connection with camp meeting, had its first morning watch at 8 o'clock Monday in the tabernacle. It was in charge of Rev. N. B Burton, of Putnam, president of the Norwich District Epworth League, who spoke briefly. This was followed by short prayers and testimonials on the part of those present. As the weather was beautiful, a large number was present.

The instructors at the Institute this season are entirely new, with the exception of Mrs. Cora Downs Stephens, who again has the work of the Sunday school and of Home Missions. The first period is devoted to Foreign Missions. The instructor in this department is Rev. Charles F. Lipp, D. D., a returned missionary from India, who gave a vivid picture of life in the houses and customs of India.

Dr. Gornall and Prof. Walter B. Foley, both from Chicago, who were to begin instructions today, were not able to reach the grounds Monday. Dr. Gornall speaks on Stewardship. Prof. Foley talks on Epworth League Methods. Junior League methods were discussed by Miss Marenda Prentis, of New London. The latter explained the need of the church supplementing the teachings of the day school by religious instruction of the children on special days set apart for it, as well as in the Sunday school.

At 11:15 Dr. Harold W. Ruopp, of Jamaica Plain, spoke on "Mountain Peak Experiences of the Young Man of Galilee." These addresses are open to all, and are held daily in the auditorium, unless stormy, otherwise in the tabernacle. There was a large attendance. The Gospel of Mark was written about 35 years after Jesus died; Matthew, about 80 A. D.; Luke, 80 to 85; and John 100 A. D. Mark is the story teller of the wonderful works of the Son of God. Matthew writes as a Christian Jew to his unconverted brethern. Luke was an M. D. Gentile, and wrote for all folks, and speaks of Jesus as a helper, a healer, a great friend, who appeals to man's love. John wrote a devotional and theological gospel.

Now Jesus spent the larger part of His life earning bread for Mary's family by the sweat of His brow. He was a master builder. He was surely no weakling but a young giant, who attracted sturdy fishermen. He grew mentally to be a keen thinker. He grew also in favor with God.

On the afternoons throughout the week inspirational addresses are given, mostly by preachers on Norwich District. The addresses are termed, "A Series on Broadening Our Christian Relations."

Rev. J. Garfield Bills, of Mystic who is choir director this year, led the opening song service. Scripture was read by Rev. W. E. Barrett, of Willowvale, N. Y., and prayer was offered by Rev. W. E. Newton, of Attawaugan. After announcements by District Superintendent Genter and an offering, the speaker of the afternoon, Rev. Jerome Geer, of Thompsonville, was presented. His theme was "Getting Better Acquainted with God."

Gold, not God, is the quest of many, or happiness, or emotional feeling. The quest of truth is the essential thing. This is found only in finding the Christ who said, "I am the way, the truth and the life." The sermon was followed by brief remarks by Mr. Geer. Rev. A. S. Muthead, of Willimantic pronounced the benediction.

Recreation hour is at 4 P. M. Many of the young people assembled on the playground at the northwest of the camp for games under direction of Rev. Roger C. Stimson, of Danielson.

The first meeting of the Stafford Springs Camp Meeting House Association was held at their cottage on Wesley Circle at 6 P. M. Rev. Samuel F. Maine, of Phenix, R. I. had charge, in place of Rev. Frank Chamberlain, the vice-president, who was called home for a funeral at Hope, R. I. Rev. John Miller, president of the association, was also called back to his church in East Thompson, to attend a funeral. Both return tomorrow.

The preacher of the evening was Rev. J. W. Carter, of Jewett City.

This evening the preacher is Rev. W. E. Plaxton, of Hazardville, whose theme will be "Giving Jesus a Fair Chance."

INVEST IN BLACK POINT

WITH ASSURANCE OF PROFIT.

No other real estate investment in Connecticut today offers more in quality and value for the money invested as Black Pt. plots. Measured by either the high standard of natural and developed beauty or the material and practical standard of price—this is absolutely true. A Woodland Park—Club House—Tennis Courts—rocked and oiled roads—good drinking water piped to your door—electricity—scientific planning, due to our 45 years' experience—all of these and the rest of the fine development work accomplished here, add greatly to the value of every home site and business plot. Improvements under way are costing over $75,000.

Come and see Black Pt. this week, see what has been done here in a short time—what is being done every day to build up a high grade and distinctive resort where people of the best sort will find it well worth their while to visit and to live.

The opportunity is a notable one for those who buy this season—so great that you cannot, in your own interest, pass it by.

The average price of all plots is about $600 and a four-year period is allowed in which to complete your payments.

At the service Sunday night a solo was sung by Mrs. J. W. Jackson of Mystic, entitled, "I do not Ask, oh Lord."

The first speaker was Miss Ruth Mansfield, who talked on "What Does the East think of the West?" She told of the mystification of a Mohammodan girl over lynching in the United States, of the surprise of the people over divorce. She spoke also of the appreciation of American good things on the part of orientals, telling of a woman who proclaimed prohibition in a small province over which she was ruler, saying to Miss Manchester, "Your country set the example."

The second speaker was Mrs. Cora Downs Stevens, and her theme was "Immigrants Forced to Come to the United States Against their Consent; the Negro." She told of a negro girl who became an educated woman, and founded a university costing half a million.

EXPECT RECORD BREAKING CLASS AT C. A. C.

STORRS, Aug. 17.—The legislative act limiting the enrolment of the Connecticut Agricultural college to 500 students at any one time, coupled with the fact that a record-breaking class is seeking admission, may cause many young men and women of Connecticut to be refused admission.

Figures obtained from Registrar George S. Torrey today show that 409 paid applications have been already received at Storrs, and college does not officially open until Sept. 23. Of this number, 240 are upper classmen, and 169 are applicants for admission in the freshman class of 1929. Last year's freshman class numbered but 178 students when college opened in September. In order to reserve places for upper classmen, these students have been advised to pay their registration fee at once. There are a number of these yet to be heard from, and it is expected that this group will push the total applications still nearer the 500 mark set by the legislature.

Asserting that the trustees and the faculty found the legislative act limiting the enrolment quite satisfactory, President Charles Lewis Beach of the college in his annual report to the trustees, the Connecticut Agricultural college has more applicants for admission to the freshman class than can be accepted. The legislature at the last session limited the enrolment to 500 students at any one time. This regulation is quite satisfactory to the trustees and faculty, as it enables them to raise the entrance requirements and select those who promise to profit most by a college education. In the future students will be selected for admission who rank in the upper two-thirds of their graduating class in high school.

Under the new rules, the college will be forced to refuse admission to many applicants who would have formerly been accepted. In view of this, the faculty at Storrs has voted to raise the admission standards as a measure of insuring an entering class of superior ability. Following are the changes that have been made as a result of the limiting of the enrolment of 500 students:

Admission to the freshman class by certificate. A student who stands in the upper two-thirds of his high school class and is recommended by his high school principal will be admitted, provided his high school is one that is approved by the state board of education. Students who rank in the lowest third of their class will be allowed to take an intelligence examination Sept. 25, and may be admitted if they attain a rank sufficiently high to offset their low high school records.

No students will be admitted with conditions, which is the first time in the history of the college that such a rule has been in force at Storrs.

The classification "special student" will be dropped, and all students must in the future be enrolled for full-time work in one of the divisions of the college. In the past, the college has admitted, as "special students" persons of maturity and earnestness of purpose who were not high school graduates, provided they were at least twenty-one years of age. Such students were allowed wide latitude in their selection of courses, without conforming to the divisional requirements of the college. Now, however, such persons must not only take full-time work in one of the college divisions, but they must also obtain a satisfactory mark in an intelligence examination as a demonstrative of their ability to undertake collegiate work.

Only students who pursue the regular work in one of the divisions of the college will be accepted. These include agriculture, agricultural science mechanical engineering and home economics.

All students are now required to pay their registration fee at the time of application instead of at the opening of college. This is to enable the college authorities to know how many students desire entrance, and to better apply the conditions of the legislative act limiting the enrolment.

WILL COMPETE IN NATIONAL RIFLE SHOOT

STORRS, Aug. 17.—John R. Kuhl, of Storrs, who turned in the highest score made by any member of the Reserve Officers' Training corps at Camp Devens, Mass., this summer, left today for Camp Perry, Ohio, where he will compete as a member of the First Corps Area team in the National Rifle match, which will be held from Aug. 23 to Sept. 5.

Kuhl is a senior at the Connecticut Agricultural college and was one of a group of [illegible] attended the R. O. T. C. encampment at Devens this summer. In the rifle matches held there, Kuhl made the best record of the hundreds competing, with a score of 331 out of a possible 350. This enabled him to qualify as the only expert rifleman among the R. O. T. C. students at Devens. This record was made with both slow and rapid fire from standing, sitting, kneeling and prone positions.

Ten men, six from Camp Devens and four from Fort Ethan Allen make up the team that will go to Camp Perry to represent the New England states. Here they will compete with similar teams from the entire United States. The men will be allowed to enter in such matches as they desire as individuals. The first two weeks of the camp will be spent in preliminary practice.

The national rifle matches at Camp Perry are expected to attract teams from the Army, Navy, Marine corps and the best rifle and shooting clubs in the country. Kuhl's entry in the competition marks the first time that the Connecticut Agricultural college has been represented at so important a match.

Stubborn sore on baby's ear Quickly responds to Resinol

N. S. Pittsburgh, Pa., May 10:—"I feel as though I must tell you of the good Resinol Ointment did for my baby. She had a very sore ear for about a year and I tried everything I heard of, but nothing seemed to help it. Then I heard of Resinol and tried it. It surely did the work, for in a couple of days you could scarcely tell that the ear had ever been sore. I'd never be without Resinol Ointment again." (Signed) Mrs. C. Bartosch, 1164 E. Ohio St.

FLY-TOX

Every Bottle GUARANTEED

FLY-TOX was developed at Mellon Institute of Industrial Research by the Rex Fellowship. In a simple, easy and thoroughly effective way, FLY-TOX kills flies, moths, mosquitoes, fleas, ants, roaches and other insects. It's so convenient to saturate the air with clouds of FLY-TOX. Flies, by merely winging through the mist, become affected with the strange action of FLY-TOX, and die. This mist lingers just long enough to do its work. It then evaporates and leaves only a pleasant, clean odor. Wall paper or draperies are not stained. FLY-TOX is harmless to humans. Those stray, elusive flies that invade the most carefully screened homes, are quickly and fully eliminated with FLY-TOX.

POETRY

THE SOLILOQUY OF THE KEEPER.

It's kind o' lonesome roun' here with the boys all gone away,
For they all went home on Sunday, an' I'm here alone today.
They said that they'd go back to work an' leave me here to play.

But I don't call it playin', this 'ere job 'bein' nurse
To all them grown up fishin' brats who act a hull lot worse
Than any orphan 'sylum in this blinking universe.

An', "For Gawd's sake Bill I'm starvin' —ain't supper ready yet?"
An' a million more fool questions jes' to keep me in a fret.

Then all night they sit and argue like a pack o' fool old maids
'Bout some new fangled fancy fly, or who held King o' Spades,
Else lis'en for an hour to th' whip-o'-will's serenades.

An' yet—much as I cuss 'em, and call 'em perviah names,
I do get lonesome for 'em, and this place ain't the same.
I reckon that I am, at that, a play boy in a game.

An' this old stream's my playground and every trout a friend.
An' every tip-up calls to me as I slouch 'round each bend,
An' whispered tales its waters tell jes' never seem to end.

So I guess I'll stay a play boy—an' I'll teach a lot o' men
That it don't hurt their salvation jes' to be a boy again,
An' that me, and this old river, are the stick'nest kind o' friends.

An' when the playin's over I'll pass out mighty poor,
But when I hit them promised streams I'm just dead certain sure
I'll teach them fishin' saints some stunts in killin' flies, an' lures.

AFTERWARDS.

The things she used to say have ways
Of coming back to me.
I hear them when I think them gone
From memory.

These quiet rooms resound with them,
This silence seems to sing,
As they return like homing birds
Upon the wing.

I listen to another's voice,
Her words strike in like chimes;
My thought goes fleeting back to her
And other times.

Though they were sweet—these things she said—
And bright and blithe and gay,
They have turned bitter since the day
She went away.

Jack Baker, of Cooper, Tex., discovered a sandpiper standing near the tideline at Galveston with its bill stuck in the sand. The bird did not move when he approached, for it had rashly placed its bill into the open jaw of a clam, and the clam had shut up like a trap. Baker had to kill the clam to relax its grip and release the bird.

The old Spanish custom of having a funeral announcement carried through the streets on a silver salver still exists in Tallahassee, Florida, and nowhere else in the United States. A carefully engrossed announcement of the place and date of the funeral and burial is attached to a broad silver tray by bands of black ribbon. A dignified negro then bears it through the business district with a mien in keeping with the solemnity of his duty. He presents it ceremoniously to all who care to read. Later he carries the tray to the homes of friends of the dead person.

BROKERS' REINSTATED AFTER $35,000,000 FAILURE

NEW YORK, Aug. 17—(A. P.)—The firm of Dean, Onativa and company, which was suspended from the New York Stock Exchange a month ago, after a $35,000,000 failure, was reinstated by a vote of the board of governors today. The firm had made a satisfactory settlement with creditors and obtained new capital to carry on their business. It was one of the shortest stock exchange receiverships on record.

SCHOOL OF NURSING

The school of nursing connected with the William W. Backus Hospital in Norwich, Conn., is now registering students for the September classes. This school is registered in Connecticut and the course of instruction is two years and four months given in a general hospital of 90 beds. Students must be graduates of grammar school and have one year of high school work. A new nurses' residence opened this year affords each student all of the comforts and conveniences of home.

WESTERLY

Sheriff Fred T. Mitchell of Westerly is among the notables of Washington county in attendance today (Tuesday) at the annual clambake and outing of the Rhode Island republican club held this year at Crescent Park, on the Providence river and for which over 1000 reservations have been made. George W. Webb of Providence is chairman of the outing committee which made arrangements for the shore dinner to be served at 1.30 p. m. Senator William M. Butler, chairman of the republican national committee, is one of the national speakers. A number of Westerly republicans always attend this annual state event which starts the campaign ball rolling.

Judge William A. Wilcox of Pawcatuck held a session of the town court of Stonington in the town court room, Borough hall, Stonington, when action was taken on an assault case, committed in Pawcatuck Saturday, a bond ordered forfeited, case of operating an automobile without a license and a case of automobile speeding dealt with, and gave personal taxpaying delinquents given the choice of paying up or stand committed to New London county jail until they were paid. Altogether the court's exchequer was increased by the sum of $164.79 for fines and costs totaled in the nine cases considered.

As State Troper Watson, of Groton barracks, was scheduled to appear the same morning in a session of Groton town court his cases were given first consideration. Frederick Cerchia of New York charged with speeding and who gave a bond of $20 for his court appearance having failed to appear Aug. 10th, also on the 17th, the sum was ordered forfeited to the state of Connecticut.

Aldo J. Satin, 18, charged with auto speeding on the Mystic highway Aug. 15th through his guardian ad litem, Dr. James H. Weeks, pleaded guilty and was fined $10 and costs, amounting to a total of $22.83, which he paid.

Sidney Carrington, 18, also served a summons by State Trooper Watson, for operating an automobile without a license Aug. 11th, had his mother, Mrs. Charlotte Carrington of Stonington, formerly of Boston, named as guardian. It developed that the young man thought that a receipt from the state examiner for license application was the equivalent of the same, but the license shown in court bore the date of Aug. 12. With a word of caution from Town Solicitor George H. McKenna upon courteous behaviour, the young man was fined $10 and costs of $11.43, a total of $21.43, which was paid.

MYSTIC

Funeral services for Mrs. Susan M. Watrous, widow of Albert G. Watrous were held at her home Sunday afternoon, conducted by Rev. Frederick G. Chutter, who spoke words of comfort to the bereaved family and relatives. Mrs. Regenberg sang Thy Will Be Done and Abide With Me. Nephews were bearers. Burial was in the family plot in Elm Grove Cemetery. There were beautiful floral pieces.

Frank O'Brien, 22, on the 15th of August was found guilty of an assault upon Samuel Perlice, at the fiesta of that day, off Stillman avenue, Pawcatuck. The trial brought out that defendant stalled his motorcycle at the entrance to the grounds and as he in following an exchange of words with the automobilist who was going in the opposite direction, made "a pass at him" and the windshield of the complaining witness' automobile was broken. Because the defendant had voluntarily come from the other side of the river on his own accord and by reason of exemplary previous behaviour, a small fine was recommended. He was penalized $3 and costs of $11.91 a total of $14.91 which he paid.

In the suits for unpaid personal taxes to tax collector D. Everett Hoxie, the following amounts were the judgments rendered with the option of working out the same in New London county jail, and payments were made as follows: Dominic Cololina, tax $9.27 with costs totalling $19.20, Antone Silvia, $4.35, $13.53; John Lowe $6.74, $15.93; Anthony Martel, $4.64, $13.83 and Joseph Madera $9.27, $14.45.

Police Patrolmen Burdick and Kenyon of Pawcatuck, and Patrolman Ostman of Stonington borough were the police officers of the town of Stonington in court, beside the state officer.

The new touring car, of Robert G. Mosley of Bristol, Conn., was struck Sunday afternoon in a rear-end collision by the automobile driven by Cecil T. Crook of Westerly on Atlantic avenue, Pleasant View. The rear spring of the touring car was broken. Although a spare tire on the rear of the Mosley car lessened the jar among the other four occupants, Mrs. Mosley suffered injuries to her back. Accompanying Crook was Eddie Holt, also of Westerly, who was badly cut about the face and forehead by the broken glass of the windshield, requiring the attentinn of a physician to stop the flow of blood.

Special Officer Frank Knight brought Crook to the Westerly station where an investigation was made by Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown. The Mosley family was sent to their homes in a jitney, Mr. Mosley later driving the touring car back, and Crook was released from custody.

James Dowd, 63, who was severely burned by steam several weeks ago at the Canal street plant of the South County Public Service Company, died Sunday morning at his home, 21 Spruce street. Death was directly due to the accident, which occurred while Mr. Dowd was attempting to shut off escaping steam from a broken pipe. He was a well known resident of this town, had been employed for a number of years by the South County Public Service Company, and its predecessor, the Westerly Light and Power Company.

WESTERLY'S FINE HOSPITAL FORMALLY OPENED MONDAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Aug. 17—The formal opening of the doors of the new Westerly Hospital Monday marked the culmination of a successful community effort. A goal of $250,000 was set when the drive for a new hospital was started two years ago, but in a week's time residents of Westerly and neighboring villages subscribed more than $750,000. The sum remaining after the payment of the construction costs will be used as an endowment fund. The institution will serve towns for many miles around.

The hospital, of colonial design and constructed of red brick with granite trimmings, is on an elevation commanding a wide view of town, country and ocean. It has 35 beds in addition to sun parlor and complete equipment.

The Sarah Alexander Champion Home for Nurses, the gift of Charles P. Champion of Avondale as a memorial to his mother, was opened simultaneously Monday. It is finished in stucco and will accommodate 35 nurses.

Charles Perry, President of the Washington Trust Company of Westerly, is President of the hospital corporation. The superintendent of the hospital is Miss Ethel M. Doherty, formerly superintendent of the Holyoke, Mass., hospital. In addition to prominent Rhode Island physicians and surgeons, the consulting staff includes Dr. William C. Posey of Philadelphia, Dr. J. Whitridge Williams and Dr. William T. Howard, both of Baltimore, and Dr. Daniel F. Jones of Boston.

2 SICK WOMEN REGAIN HEALTH

Through the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Read their Letters

Valdosta, Georgia.—"I was troubled with a very severe female weakness accompanied by some very unpleasant symptoms and with pains in my back, sides and legs. Since taking a treatment of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I am better in every way, and the unpleasant symptoms have disappeared. Your medicine is wonderful for nervous, run-down women."—Mrs. L. O. DASHER, R.F.D. 4, Box 14, Valdosta, Georgia.

Relief from First Bottle

Battle Creek, Mich.—"I had great pains and swelling in my sides, pains so bad at times that I could not do my housework or stand on my feet for weeks and I was in a very nervous condition. In a Cleveland paper I read a letter about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have had great relief from the first bottle and I shall continue its use because I believe and know it helps me. I want to help other women and I am willing to answer letters."—Mrs. C. E. PALMER, 247 Champion St., Battle Creek, Mich.

FIGHTING RECKLESSNESS

Whether inspired by the good work that is being done in other states or the conditions which matter it in their own, the states which are conducting campaigns against the drunken and unfit drivers of motor vehicles are engaged in a most commendable effort.

Connecticut, like others, has been brought to realize the seriousness of the situation created by the reckless driver and in addition to other means of relief there is now being seriously considered the publication of the names of the drivers who are arrested under the influence of liquor besides the other penalties imposed.

New York is waking up to the fact that the public is at the mercy of the reckless driver. It is finding that incompetents are getting licenses fraudulently and the licenses of 1549 have been revoked for various reasons, 900 having, however, been found on the highway under the influence of liquor.

In Pennsylvania there is a similar effort being made to remove the dangerous driver, and there were nearly 1000 licenses cancelled and nearly 500 more cannot obtain licenses if they apply for them. Thus a much needed improvement is underway.

In all these states the same wholesome work that has been pushed by the motor vehicle registrar of Massachusetts is being endorsed. The vigorous demand for greater safety and the proper punishment of the reckless driver has encountered too much opposition. The registrar has been obliged to work almost single handed, with the opposition of authorities and courts, in his fight for greater safety in behalf of the public.

It makes little difference in what way recklessness is indulged in, the less there can be of any form of it the better. There is nothing about it that can lay any claim whatever to toleration. It is unfortunate that so much of it exists and that so many are being killed and maimed because of it, but that only furnishes the basis for insisting upon its elimination at the earliest possible moment. A common evil in all of the states may well be fought in a uniform manner that will produce the best and quickest results.

MUSHROOMS AND TOADSTOOLS

Wherever attention has been called to the fact that warm rainy weather has been conducive to the growth of mushrooms some golden advice has invariably been added concerning the wisdom of carefully distinguishing between such and toadstools. The rain and warmth which help one, of course give encouragement to the other and there is nothing like getting expert advice when it comes to distinguishing between them. It is far better to be safe than to be the subject of an obituary notice.

Too often it is the case that the toadstools, which are poisonous, are eaten in mistake for mushrooms because of the resemblance which they bear to the edible fungi and in many instances those who partake of the violent poison lose their lives.

When it comes to mushrooms it is a case for caution. Unless there is good assurance from those who really know it is safer to forego the satisfaction of a dish of mushrooms than to take the chance of indulging in what is likely to be fatal.

We see no excuse for those who shoot others because they didn't know the gun was loaded, for those who cause drowning by rocking the boat or those who fail to stop, look and listen when warned of the railroad crossing ahead, but they are in the same class who eat anything that looks like a mushroom without making sure of it. Mushroom picking should be left to the experts, those who have made a study of them, know their characteristics and the marks and forms which distinguish them from toadstools. It is all a gamble when undertaken by those who do not know, and the penalty of an error is too great for those to take who want to live. It means no great self denial to insure safety.

MORE RUBBER

It is some time since the suggestion was made that conditions are favorable in the Philippines for the production of rubber. Since then much water has gone over the dam and this country has been brought to realize the effect of the British control upon the rubber market of the world.

Since the ruling by Great Britain and the restriction of the rubber output much serious consideration has been given to the need of establishing our independence regarding rubber. The advance in the price of rubber from something like 15 cents a pound to $1.20 or better has brought rubber production to the front. We have felt the squeeze of a foreign law, and inasmuch as the demand for rubber is growing every day there is reason for finding a way that will remove us from the dictates of British who, through their control of the bulk of rubber production, can not only say how much we can have but what price must be paid.

All rubber fields have been stimulated to increased activity by the situation which has developed but the department of commerce comes forth with the statement that there are areas in the Philippines suitable for the production of rubber and that worthwhile production might be obtained from such a source yearly. It is not much better than furnishing support to the claims which were long ago made in regard to the Philippines, although being based upon investigation by government experts it must be regarded as valuable proof of the opportunity for such an undertaking.

We cannot expect to get satisfactory treatment from a foreign monopoly. Our demands for rubber are increasing every year. This means that more rubber must be produced and rubber trees do not grow over night. There has been a stimulation of the effort to end the waste which has been taking place in regard to old rubber and that is now being reclaimed but till our chances for growing a larger proportion of our own rubber are improved we must submit to a greater or less degree to an outside monopoly, which in this case happens to be British.

The Philippines have undergone development in various directions, but there should be an eagerness to increase it and bring into productivity the large areas which are now going to waste.

THE WISCONSIN TEST

What effect the death of Senator LaFollette is going to have upon the political organization in the state of Wisconsin will be revealed to some degree by the primary which takes place there next month for the purpose of selecting candidates for the senatorship which his death vacated.

With the former senator's son standing as a candidate to succeed his father it is to be realized that he represents that faction in Wisconsin politics which his father so long headed and he gives promise of following his father's tactics. This is indicated when as chairman of the republican state central committee young LaFollette intends to run as a republican and not as an independent progressive, although there is no reason to believe that he will be any more in sympathy with republican policies and administration policies than his father was.

LaFollette's control of Wisconsin has been proverbial, however. And yet it is not complete if we are to judge by the convention of regular republicans which selected R. P. Wilcox of Eau Claire, Wis., as the republican candidate and urged LaFollette to take himself out of the party which he has not and does not intend to support.

This would give a chance for a clear demonstration of strength if it were a fact that these two men were the only candidates for the republican nomination. Whether others who have insisted upon running will do so remains one of the interesting developments to come. Upon it will depend the strength of both LaFollette and Wilcox, and yet it must seem a bit strange even to his followers in that state that LaFollette should insist on getting republican support when it is dollars to doughnuts that he has no intention of following the republican standard.

NIAGARA FALLS

When Secretary Hoover comes forward with the statement that Niagara Falls is committing suicide, that in a generation it will wear away in the center so that the present attractiveness will be lost and it will become nothing more than a gorge through which rapids will flow he is directing attention to something which has been known for a long time.

It has been no secret that the face of the falls was gradually wearing away. Being of limestone, which yields more readily than some others to the constant wearing of the water, it is inevitable that changes should take place. They have in fact been taking place and can be expected to continue.

Apparently Secretary Hoover's purpose is to bring this situation to attention at this time so that if it is deemed wise to undertake any method of preservation through preventing the wearing away of the present river bed it can be done before the erosion has reached the point where the attractiveness of the falls has been spoiled.

Probably engineers can give some idear as to what can be expected if nothing is done, whether the wearing away will be general across the entire face of the falls or in the center and whether it would be feasible to undertake any plan for checking this so-called suicide or self destruction of the falls. Secretary Hoover holds the opinion that preservation is entirely possible. He is convinced that it should be done. His opinion is not to be disregarded and it may serve to bring a more serious consideration of the advisability of doing something than would otherwise have developed. A thorough discussion will do no harm even if nothing is undertaken as the result.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The prediction of an increase in employment will not be declared by those who are out of work.

The movie actress who paid the government $57,000 in fines must regard it as rather expensive advertising.

Summer hotels burn quite as freely whether empty or filled with guests. Axe likewise makes no great difference.

The man on the corner says: There have been summers when August developed much more adverse criticism than it has this year.

The halt in the Belgian war debt negotiations is another reminder that the beginning of discussions is not the same thing as a settlement.

Nonogenarians differ in their advice as to the best recipe for longevity but they all realize that it is folly to linger as long in the streets as they used to.

The crickets and the katydids are directing attention to the fact that all good things must come to an end and giving warning that it is but a few weeks to frost.

Now will those who have been so terribly upset by the conviction of Chapman start a fund to keep his pal, also charged with murder, out of the clutch of the law?

THE SEWING CIRCLE

"Will you look at that?" exclaimed the young matron with the auburn wave, dramatically.

The fluffy-haired blond had just entered, clad in a pale-tan cloth gown and wearing a corsage bouquet.

"Orchids again," continued the young matron, waving her thimble; "Why, woman, one of your suitors must be in the chewing-gum business or the gasoline trade. I haven't been within smelling distance of an orchid for so long myself that I've forgotten the odor."

"Here, smell these," suggested the fluffy-haired blond, with a wicked grin. "Doesn't George run to orchids any more?"

"Don't be a hypocrite, Celeste," said the young matron, sternly, "you know perfectly well that no married man over 40 runs to anything except work and his food.

She sniffed at the flowers and sighed. "I took a book out of the library the other day," she said, "because the librarian recommended it, and it proved to be one of those pity-the-spinster stories that were so popular in Little Lord Fauntleroy's time" she chuckled audibly. "I read a couple of chapters and turned it over to George, and he read and swallowed the whole thing, from cover to cover."

"Really?" said the sewing circle, incredulously.

"Really," affirmed the young matron with the auburn wave, "he even asked me the next day if I was sure I paid Miss Smith, my dressmaker, as much as I should. You know Miss Smith?"

"Oh, yes, I do," piped up the newest member, brightly. "She has the darlingest little place in Florida right next to my sister's."

"I'll bet she has," said the young matron, grimly. "Who sends these orchids, anyway?"

"You don't know him," the fluffy-haired blond assured her, "and he wouldn't interest you. He isn't even rich, as you suggest. At least, I've never heard of his being investigated, though he lives in Washington. And besides," she added, glumly, "I'm off of long-distance beaus at present. They annoy me."

"Sinfully spoiled," declared the young matron, shaking her head. "Who has sent you the wrong kind of roses now?"

"It wasn't roses at all," grumbled the fluffy-haired blond. "It was a big box that came this morning, and it looked so awfully interesting that I went down to the basement at once and hunted up some tools and began to open it. I was so pleased I could have purred, because it felt like about ten pounds of candy—and besides it told on one corner who it came from and he was one of my very first suitors, and you know what a weakness one has for the first few."

The sewing circle nodded.

"The box was terribly hard to open," continued the narrator. "I skinned two fingers and hammered my thumb, and my back was almost broken pawing the thing around to find the heads of the nails. I cannot understand why men put so many nails into a thing, anyway. And when I did finally pry the cover up at one and what do you suppose met my charmed vision?"

"Well, what?" demanded the sewing circle, breathlessly.

"The soles of two old pairs of shoes," said the fluffy-haired blond, with a scowl. "It was assorted old clothes for my aunt's rummage sale."

The sewing circle shouted with laughter, but the fluffy-haired blond refused to be soothed.

"Well, girls," said the young matron with the auburn wave, as the merriment subsided, "let us now hurry in to our things and scramble for trains to take us home. My cook is out tonight and I promised George steak and onions—worse luck.

"This poor old maid here," she added, indicating the fluffy-haired blond, "can get home in fifteen minutes in a taxi and will have plenty of time to dress for her dinner-dance at the Blackstone, Au 'voir, dear."— Exchange.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Edwin F. Gay, who predicts a rise in living costs in the United States because of the payment of reparations and war debts, is a celebrated Harvard professor and long dean of the school of business administration that center of learning. He is a University of Michigan graduate, whose education was completed at the University of Berlin. He joine dthe Harvard teaching staff in 1902 as an instructor, and a year later became an assistant professor of economics. This place he held until the school of business administration was started in 1908 and he was put at its head. The history of the new school, its rapid rise to a place of influence in the educational world, and the demand for its graduates—all, in a way, are tributary to the fame and reputation of Professor Gay. During the war period Professor Gay served on the Federal Commercial Economy, War Trade and the War Industries boards.

From Small Beginnings

James S. Coward, the Shoemaker

A 14-year-old boy was working as a shoe clerk. He was active and energetic and apparently tireless. When anything was to be done there he was, ready to do it. He had begun to work as an office boy when he was only nine years old. Though he saw little ahead of him except hard work, he did not complain, but did his tasks to the very best of his ability.

In five years James S. Coward had mastered the work of the shoe trade. He knew what it is that makes good shoes and what it is that pleases those who buy. He resolved to establish a business that would carry out his ideas and ideals. At 19 he opened his own store for the making and sale of shoes.

To him that little store was his life. He lived over it and worked in it. He looked after every detail of the work, and on many nights stayed up until nearly morning laying out material and preparing work. Every day at 6 he opened the store, ready for business. When he wished to advertise he himself took up his bundle of placards and a pail of paste and went out to put up the sheets.

He studied his work and made it an art. Some one said that if a man makes anything good, even though it be only mousetraps, the world will make a pathway to his door. The result of thoroughly good work in the case of young James S. Coward was an increasing list of customers.

Today the great business is an example of what can be accomplished by a young man who has no other capital except honesty, ambition, energy and perseverance.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

OUR STATE PARK SYSTEMS

"State parks! I did not know there were any," said a geographer who could tell you, off hand, the latitude of Hyderabad or the mandates of Polynesia.

Millions more know their city parks from everyday use, and they have been or hope to go to their national parks, but the phrase "state parks" is news.

Yet, 25 or more states are "at home" this summer to several million motorists, "tin can tourists," campers, sightseers, and lovers of the out-of-doors in general according to a bulletin from the Washington D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"These state parks vary in size from the three and a third million acres of the Adirondack park in New York state a park with primeval forests and numerous lakes and rivers to the one-acre sand bar in the Connecticut river which is Dart Island state park of Connecticut," continues the bulletin.

"State pride in characteristic natural features and historic sites frequently determines the selection of the state park sites as in the cases of the Royal Palm state park of Florida, with its luxuriant everglades; the Redwood state park of California, in which are some of that state's big trees; the Old Salem state park of Illinois, which takes in the former home of Abraham Lincoln. Practically all the state parks of Pennsylvania appear to be associated with military memories.

"Scenic wonders are as various as the panorama from the river bluffs of the Nelson-Dewey state park of Wisconsin, the curiously modelled gorges of the Mashamoquet Brook state park of Connecticut, the canyons and gulches of the Starved Rock state park of Illinois, the vast expanses of sand dunes of the proposed lake front park in Indiana, and the curious geology and mystery water body of Devil's Lake state park in Wisconsin.

"Comparatively few state parks were known outside the borders of their own states a few years ago but the automobile tourists and the back-to-nature vacationist are blazing their way to these parks in rapidly increasing numbers from ever greater distances. The second National Conference on state parks, to be held in the Palisades Interstate park, May 22 to 23, inclusive, is an indication of this growing interest in state parks in general.

"It is wholly probable that thousands whose married life has begun to the honeymoon music of thunderous Niagara do not know that the American portion of the falls lies within a state park, and this particular state park has an interest even beyond that of protecting a majestic natural wonder from exploitation. Its acquisition set the legal precedent for appropriating public money for saving scenic objects for public use. The 112 acres of land surrounding the falls and the 300 more acres under water marked the first place in the United States where condemnation proceedings were employed for the sole object of preserving natural scenery.

"The City of Hartford, Conn, has been congratulated by many a passenger as he entered its city on a train through its beautiful Bushnell park; in contrast to the rail approach of so many American cities.

"For five years Horace Bushnell preached to tax payers the need for buying this tract in the heart of this state capital until, for the first time in the world's history, it is said, people voted to buy a public park to be paid for with their own money.

"Neither Niagara, where one goes for a single view, nor Bushnell park, which in effect is a city park, is typical of the state parks of today.

"An Iowans may pick out a site in Keosauqua, build a summer cottage there, and go back year after year, without paying rent. In many parks camping sites are available for tents, fireplaces are provided, wood is distributed by rangers, and what might be termed a 'park de luxe' is the beautiful Starved Rock state park in Illinois which has electrical light, sewage, artesian water and fire protective apparatus.

"A wilder and more primitive life is to be found in other parks, such as the Itasca state park in Minnesota, where 22,010 acres comprise a forest and a lake, with fish of many species, and beaver and elk have been introduced.

"The six score natural springs and wells of Saratoga Springs, New York, are comprised in a state reservation and the famous rockrimmed glen and shimmerly cascades of Watkins Glen, in the Empire state, also constitute a state park.

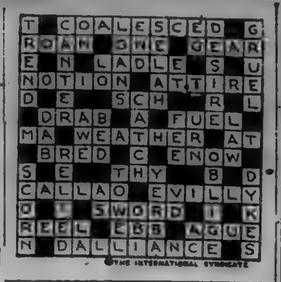
"Valley Forge park and Washington Crossing park, in Pennsylvania, gave a hint of the military associations of the Keystone state's parks. In addition there are, in Pennsylvania, reservations under the state forest commission which serve a like purpose and afford campers and hikers many square miles of primitive country.

"Though the state park systems in some states are clear cut and well defined, in others it is difficult to determine from their designations when a park is an historic site, a place for motoring, camping, or a picnic ground. All are equally to be commended, but Connecticut's idea of a state park, such as Selden Neck, part of a beautiful island on the lower Connecticut where families may take a picnic luncheon, is very different from that of Wisconsin where you may rent an island in an up-state lake and remain there all summer.

"Kentucky bids fair to follow in the steps of Illinois in selecting historic sites for parks. Two prospective parks of the blue grass state are the place near Bardstown where Stephen Foster wrote 'My Old Kentucky Home' and the place of Lincoln's birth near Hodgenville. A third is the Mammoth cave.

"Besides the recreation, the historic memories, and the natural beauties afforded by state parks there are a number which offer to scientist and cosmic processes which took place ages before man arrived."

A statistician has figured that the lumber used yearly in the United States would build and finish a double row of fiveroom houses, which, 103 feet apart, would reach from New York to Seattle, south to San Francisco, east to New Orleans and back to New York.



BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Why Mrs. Whitefoot Didn't Move.

To be too quick, may be, you know,
As bad as being just too slow.
—Mrs. Whitefoot.

Little Mrs. Whitefoot the Wood Mouse was very much upset by the news that Spooky the Screech Owl actually was living in the same tree that contained her own home and the home of little Mrs. Timmy the Flying Squirrel. It was the latter who had told Mrs. Whitefoot about Spooky. Mrs. Whitefoot had declared that she would move at once. Little Mrs. Timmy had gone on up to her own home high up in the tree wondering if perhaps it wouldn't be wise for her to move also. But somehow she couldn't bear to think of moving again right away, so decided she would wait a bit.

Little Mrs. Whitefoot saw to it that her babies were fed and then she started out to look for a new home. Hardly had she left that tree when Redtail the Hawk spied her and all but caught her. It was just in the very nick of time that she saw him. "Oh!" panted little Mrs. Whitefoot, as she dodged into a little hole under the roots of a tree. "It is a lucky thing I didn't have one of those babies with me. It would have been the end of both of us. I didn't suppose that fellow was anywhere around. I shall have to wait now to make quite sure the way is clear."

He saw her just as she saw him.

So little Mrs. Whitefoot waited and waited. She would poke her pretty little head out and then draw it back quickly, fearful that she had been seen. Finally she managed to get courage enough to come wholly out. She saw nothing of Redtail and started on to look for a new home. But she had gone only a short distance when the rustle of a leaf caused her to turn her head quickly. There was Reddy Fox. He saw her just as she saw him. Now Reddy can move very quickly. Few people can move more quickly than Reddy Fox. He was just about two good jumps from Mrs. Whitefoot, and he made those two jumps so quickly that it seemed as if he had covered the distance in one jump.

Now there is such a thing as being a little too quick sometimes. Reddy was so quick that in almost the time it would take you to draw a breath he landed right exactly on the spot where Mrs. Whitefoot had been. But she wasn't there. She had been quite as quick as Reddy. Instead of running away from him, she had darted straight towards him, for there was a little hole in the ground that she knew of there. Reddy had thought that if she ran at all she would run away from him, and that if he missed her on that second jump he would get her on the third. So he made that second jump before he realized that little Mrs. Whitefoot was not running away from him. The result was that he jumped right over her. The very instant his feet touched the ground he whirled about. He was just in time to see Mrs. Whitefoot's long, slim tail, disappear in that hole. Then you should have seen Reddy dig. My, how he made the dirt fly!

But he didn't get little Mrs. Whitefoot. There was a little tunnel along which she ran. It led to an opening under a pile of brush. Peeping out from under this pile of brush she watched, until finally, Reddy gave up and went away. Then little Mrs. Whitefoot returned straight home. She had decided that this wouldn't be a good day to move.

NORWICH DOINGS 75 YEARS AGO

The monthly report of the earnings of the Norwich Worcester railroad 75 years ago showed that it was steadily earning more and more through increased patronage. Very little of interest happened in Norwich although much interest was manifested in the slavery question and the overland emigrant trains to California and Oregon.

Tuesday, Aug. 12, 1850—The earnings of the Norwich and Worcester Railroad for July were $23,92? against $19,685 the last year.

A few nights ago a number of slaves belonging to Messrs. Toombs and Stephens, members of Congress from Georgia, were abducted from Washington by a certain Gen. Chaplin, editor of Chaplin's Portfolio, an abolition paper at Albany. They were overtaken in Maryland by police officers and after a skirmish in which several shots were fired on both sides, the runaways were captured and Gen. Chaplin also. He is now in jail and stands a chance of a long term in the penitentiary.

Yankee Sullivan, the notorious prize fighter, whom Tom Hyer bruised so badly a few months ago, has met with an untimely end at Sacremento City, Sullivan it is stated struck a man with his fist and was shot dead with a pistol by the man assailed.

The funds which have been collected for the National Washington monument amounting to about $100,000 are nearly expended. The monument is now 53 feet high which is one tenth of its proposed elevation. The entire cost is estimated at about $1,122,000.

Thursday, Aug 15, 1850—A little boy aged about seven years by the name of Kenny was seriously injured Saturday by the falling upon him of a large piece of iron of nearly a half ton in weight. His ribs were crushed in and torn from the backbone and his shoulder blades broken in several places.

At the last session of the Rhode Island legislature a charter was granted to the Woonsocket Union Railroad company. It is the intention of this company to unite with railroads in Massachusetts anad Connecticut so as to form a continuous route from Boston to New York by way of Woonsocket.

The second attempt to launch the great dry dock at Pierce's island on Monday afternoon was successful. The launching took place at 2:15. As the immense structure slid into the water a salute was fired which was responded to by the vast assembly of spectators present with hearty cheers.

A barn in Southington belonging to Mr. Woodruff, containing hay and grain and other valuable property was destroyed by fire Tuesday evening. It is supposed to have been set on fire by a young colored girl.

The governor has announced the appoint of John W. Stedman of Norwich (editor of the Aurora) a bank commissioner in place of James T. Ames of Sterling resigned; and William A. Judson of Huntington, in place of James T. Pratt of Rocky Hill, resigned.

A line of mail stages has been established from Independence, Mo., to Santa Fe to run monthly. The stages are well built and are water tight so that they can be used as boats in ferrying streams. Each stage is guarded by eight men with revolving pistols and rifles and the eight men can fire 136 shots without reloading.

Saturday, Aug. 17, 1850—The Stonington celebration, to commemorate the battle of Stonington during the last war with Great Britain, was highly interesting and a decided success. There were addresses by various people including Rev. Dr. Patton of New York who was orator of the day, Erastus Brooks of the N. Y. Evening Express, Mr. Copp of Stonington, Dr. Palmer and John F. Trumbull of Stonington. There were fireworks in the evening.

Nearly all of the wagon trains for California had passed Fort Laramie previous to July 20. This side of that place were 200 or 300 stragglers and about 1,000 Mormons bound for Salt Lake. About the fourth of July the emigrants in the vicinity of the fort suffered much and many died of cholera.

At the commencement of Yale college held this week the oldest graduate of the college, Dr. Darling of New Haven, who received his bachelor's degree in 1777, was there, while every class from that time to 1830, almost three-quarters of a century, answered the roll call.

Horace Whitaker of Norwich was elected a director of the New York and Boston Telegraph Association at a meeting held in Boston this week.

TO ESTABLISH STATE DEPARTMENT OF AVIATION

HARTFORD, Aug. 17.—(AB)—Strict supervision over aeronautics in Connecticut was formally undertaken today when the state board of control approved the immediate establishment of a state department of aviation with headquarters in the state armory. While technically a division of the state motor vehicle department, its office will be conducted and its records kept independently.

Inspection every thirty days of every airplane used in Connecticut will be ordered without delay, and rigid requirements for pilots will be laid down.

Major Talbot O. Freeman, of Hartford, commander of the 118th observation squadron, Connecticut National Guard, is chief aviation inspector by appointment of Motor Vehicle Commissioner Robbins B. Stoeckel, and Clarence M. Knox, of this city, deputy chief inspector. The board of control today approved salaries of $1,800 a year for each of them.

OBITUARY

Miss Julia C. Doyle

Following an illness of some duration the death of Miss Julia C. Doyle occurred at 10:40 o'clock Monday morning at the home of her niece, Miss Josephine Canty of 133 Washington street. Miss Doyle was the last of her immediate family and had lived for many years at No. 26 Church street. She was born in Norwich, a daughter of the late James and Mary Sullivan Doyle and was a sister of Mrs. James H. Canty, who died August 14, 1921.

Miss Doyle was a devout member of St. Patrick's church. Of a kindly and pleasing disposition she easily gained friends and her loss will be keenly felt by a wide circle of friends.

She is survived by three nieces, Miss Fennessey Canty of Waterbury, and the Misses Mary and Josephine Canty of Norwich.

Mrs. Roger Tighe

Following a lengthy illness the life of Margaret Teresa O'Hara, wife of Roger Tighe, came to a close Monday morning at 8:15 o'clock at her home, No. 16 Pratt street. She was born in Norwich and had always made her home here, being the daughter of the late Elizabeth and Michael O'Mara. She was a member of St. Mary's Memorial church and was interested in church activities as long as health permitted. News of her death will be received with sorrow by a host of friends and members of the family will have their sincere sympathy in their hour of bereavement.

Mrs. Tighe is survived by her husband, three sons, Charles M., Roger H., and Joseph F. Tighe; four daughters, Mrs. George E. Chamberlain and Miss Elizabeth E. Tighe of Philadelphia, Pa., and the Misses Margaret F. and Anastasia A. Tighe of Norwich; three grandsons, George, Donald and Richard Chamberlain; one brother, Michael J. O'Mara of New Haven and three sisters, Mrs. Mary Whalen of Norwich, Miss Anastasia O'Mara of New Haven and Miss Elizabeth E. O'Mara of Norwich.

Ida Pedowitz.

The body of Ida Pedowitz, 78, whose death occurred Saturday night at her late home No. 293 West Thames street, was taken in charge by Shea & Burke and was conveyed to Brooklyn, N. Y., Monday, where burial took place in the Washington cemetery. The deceased had lived in Norwich only a few months, having come here to make her home with relatives.

Mrs. Charles H. Bliss.

The death of Martha Augusta Staples Bliss, 82, widow of Charles H. Bliss of Berlin, Mass., occurred Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Fred G. Bliss of Franklin, after an illness of several months with heart trouble and complications. Mrs. Bliss, although her home is in Berlin, Mass., had been staying at the home of her daughter during her illness. She had lain down shortly after noon, and was later found dead by her daughter.

Mrs. Bliss was born in Falmouth, March 30, 1843, the daughter of William Ingram and Sarah Knight Staples, the former a Civil war veteran, and resided there with her parents until she was seven years old, when she removed to Clinton, Mass. She was a graduate of the Clinton public school and attended the Clinton high school. Sept. 28, 1860, she was married to Charles H. Bliss by Rev. William A. Houghton at the parsonage at Berlin, Mass.

Surviving Mrs. Bliss are five daughters, Mrs. Frank Gammon of Falmouth, Me., Mrs. Arthur Sawyer of Berlin, Mass., Mrs. Fred G. Bliss of Franklin, Mrs. Clifton R. Chamberlain of Laurel Hill avenue, Mrs. Clifton Walcott of Barre, Mass.; a sister, Mrs. Alonzo K. Rice of Fitchburg, Mass., five grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. She also leaves three nephews and nieces.

Mrs. Bliss was an energetic and active member of the Grange, Ladies' Aid society, Woman's Relief corps, Tuesday club, W. C. T. U., of which she was a retired president, and the Congregational church, all of Berlin.

Mrs. Bliss was well known in Norwich as she was a frequent visitor here and made a large circle of friends, who will learn of her death with sorrow. She was a loving mother and wife, and took great interest in the church and societies of Berlin, where she was one of the most esteemed residents. The body will be taken to Berlin, Mass., on Thursday, for interment.

BRILLIANT FIREWORKS DISPLAY FEATURES ITALIAN FEAST DAY

A brilliant display of fireworks, set pieces, sky rockets and aerial bombs about 10:20 o'clock Monday night brought to a close the celebration of the Feast of the Assumption by the Italian residents of the city. This celebration is an annual event in Norwich and was carried out on an even more elaborate scale than in past years. The display of fireworks was the best yet given by the local Italian people and was seen by thousands of people in the streets, office buildings and house tops. Some of the beautiful sky rockets were visible in several nearby towns and the bomb explosions were heard for miles around Norwich.

It was an all-day programme, starting at 6:30 o'clock in the morning when 17 aerial bombs woke up the people of the city. At 8:30 o'clock the Italian band paraded from Steiner's hall to Franklin street, up Franklin street and thence to St. Patrick's church.

At St. Patrick's Church at 9 o'clock, there was a solemn high mass, in which Rev. John J. Reilly was celebrant, Rev. Myles P. Galvin, deacon and Msgr. M. H. May sub-deacon. Father Reilly delivered the sermon in Italian, speaking to the large congregation on the significance of the festival which was being noted.

At the close of the mass the Italian band paraded from the church to Main street, via Broadway and through the principal streets of the city. At noon 12 more aerial bombs were exploded and at 7 in the evening there was another street parade by the Italian band, the parade ending at the little park on Franklin street where the band gave a splendid concert lasting well over two hours. The park, Franklin street and Boswell avenue were crowded throughout the concert. Many automobile parties were on hand long before the concert started in order to be sure of parking spaces as near the band stand as possible. The area was most attractively decorated for the event and was brightly lighted with strings of electric bulbs.

The fireworks display started about 10:15 o'clock on Laurel's Hill and came to an end about 11 o'clock with the rapid crash and bang of a series of bombs along with brilliant rockets that lighted up the heavens. The committee which had the day's arrangements in charge is comprised: Rocco Barbetti, collector; Ralph La Voie, cashier; Guizzepe Cristina, Lorenzo Rinella, James D'Atri, Domenico Cheriglia, Carmine Cedrone, E. Rondini, Sam Chimino, Enrico di Pucchio, Casimio Tremontozzi, Sam Varrington, Amedio Donvito, Frederic Salvatore, Antonio Piazza, Michele Santacrose, Michele Sodolla, Matteo Tedesco, Tony Cornetti Jr., Amideo Onofrio, Guiseppe Rasalbuto, Achile Giammarco.

POLICE COMMITTEE RECOMMENDS CHANGES IN TRAFFIC RULES

Among the reports made at the special meeting of the court of common council, held Monday evening in the council chamber at the court house was that of the police commissioners, in which they recommended several changes and additions to the present ordinances affecting traffic.

Included in the changes proposed was that of stopping parking at Morley's corner, at Franklin Square; the allowing of public utility vehicles within the present restricted space, while engaged in necessary public utility work; the changing of the no parking rule in front of the Sellas building on Franklin square to allow a five minute limit for parking; to allow vehicles to park on the easterly side of Shetucket street in front of the banks, for banking customers only; the extension of the five hour limit one more hour, making a six hour limit when not in conflict with other sections, and the moving ahead to 6:40 p. m. S. T. of the time limit when zone rules for 40 minute parking is lifted, this also being effective if not in conflict with other sections.

The meeting was opened at 8:30 o'clock by Mayor Mile B. Waters and there was but one petition to act upon, that of A. V. Covello for the removal of a tree in front of 428 Main street, this being referred to the public works committee and tree warden with power.

The police committee reported through Alderman Patrick F. Sweeney, that the Gas & Electrical department had been interviewed and that the installing of the white way on Franklin street had been favorably voted upon. Work on this new project, however, can not be started for three or four months.

Vote to Settle Claim

The following resolutions were then adopted: That the treasurer of the city pay to Henry Silverstein, the sum of $15 in full settlement of his claim against the city for damage to a fender on his machine, caused on Stanton avenue in May; that the treasurer pay to Jessie Donovan, through her attorney, the sum of $75 in full settlement of her claim against the city for injuries sustained in a fall on Talman street on March 27th.

Approve Reservoir Appropriation

A resolution was adopted appropriating the sum of $1,080,000 for the construction of a reservoir on the Deep River site, in accordance with the resolution adopted by the board of water commissioners. The council also adopted the resolution authorizing the borrowing of $50,000 to meet expenses in obtaining the new water supply, this sum to be repaid out of the avails of the sale of the bond issue, authorized by the last session of the general assembly, sanctioned by a special city meeting.

To Take Up Options

It was also voted that so much of the sum of $50,000 authorized by the meeting of the council to be borrowed, as may be necessary to be paid out by the treasurer of the city in exercising the options obtained by John J. Corkery, on behalf of the city on land on the Deep River watershed in the town of Colchester from Nathan Buchalter of Salem, Alvin G. Shorten of Salem, Anthony and Joseph Herasimowitz of Lebanon, Nathan Jaffe of Colchester, Joseph and Josephine Stadolsky of Colchester, Sam Legomsky of Colchester and Teresa Biggier Cybrowsky of Colchester, said options having been obtained by Mr. Corkery on behalf of the board of water commissioners of the city, and by him to be assigned to the city of Norwich.

Traffic Changes In Detail

The report of the police committee, as made through Alderman Patrick F. Sweeney, embracing the proposed changes to the present ordinance of the city regarding traffic, and made after conference with the judge and prosecutor of the city court, and John J. O'Rourke of the Norwich chamber of commerce contained the following proposed changes:

Section 1. Section 8 of an ordinance of the city of Norwich adopted Dec. 1st, 1924 is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 8. The operator or owner of a vehicle shall not allow his vehicle to stand or stop within the intersection of any streets, or in front of any driveway or within fifteen feet of any street corner or within ten feet of any fire hydrant or on any portion of a street or highway designated by lines by the police department of the city for the crossing of pedestrians or drive his vehicle on any portion of a street or highway designated by the police department as a safety zone for pedestrians, provided however, the provisions of this section and of section 9 and the provisions of the other sections of this ordinance prohibiting parking or limiting the time of parking on the streets and highways of the city shall not apply to the stopping or parking of vehicles actually engaged in necessary public utility work which requires their stopping or parking in such prohibited places or in other places beyond the period fixed for the parking of other vehicles.

Section 2. Section 32 of an ordinance of the city of Norwich adopted December 1st, 1924 is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 32. No person shall park any vehicle on the northerly side of Main street from Broadway to a point in front of the entrance to the premises No. 202 Main street or on the northerly side of Main street, from a point in front of the entrance to the premises No. 218 Main street to Franklin street for a longer period than forty minutes; and no person shall park any vehicle on the northerly side of Main street between a point in front of the entrance to the premises No. 202 Main street to a point in front of the entrance to the premises No. 218 Main street for any period of time.

Section 3. Section 24 of an ordinance of the city of Norwich adopted December 1st, 1924 is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 24. No person shall park any vehicle at any time on the southerly side of Main street from Ferry street to Rose place for a longer period than five minutes, and no person shall park any vehicle on the southerly side of Main street from a point in range with the easterly line of the Shannon building to Shetucket street for any period of time.

Section 4. Section 29 of an ordinance of the city of Norwich adopted December 1st, 1924 is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 29. No person shall park any vehicle on the east side of Shetucket street from Main street to Laurel Hill bridge, provided however any person may park a vehicle directly in front of any bank on said side of said street for a period not longer than five minutes, while engaged in transacting business in said bank.

Section 5. Section 43 of an ordinance of the city of Norwich adopted December 1st, 1924 is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 43. On streets or portions thereof not expressly regulated in this ordinance as to parking, no person shall park any vehicle for a longer period than six hours but nothing contained in this ordinance or any section thereof shall be construed to permit any parking or stopping or standing of any vehicle where it is expressly prohibited by Sections 8 and 9 hereof.

Section 6. Section 44 of an ordinance of the city of Norwich passed and adopted December 1st, 1924, as amended by an ordinance of the city of Norwich adopted April 6th, 1925, is hereby further amended to read as follows:

Section 44. Wherever parking is permitted by any section of this ordinance for a period not longer than forty minutes, said limitation of forty minutes shall not apply between the hours of 6:40 o'clock at night and 8 o'clock the next morning, but between said hours of 6:40 p. m. and 8 a. m. the limitation of six hours provided in section 43 hereof shall apply to such portions of the streets of the city where parking is prohibited by this ordinance "for a longer period than forty minutes," but nothing in this section shall be construed to permit parking at any hour of the day at any place where parking is prohibited by any section of this ordinance or to permit parking at any hour of the day for a longer period than five minutes at any place where parking is prohibited by any section of this ordinance for a longer period than five minutes.

FUNERALS

Mrs. Meredith Lee.

With relatives and friends present from Norwich, New London, Irvington-on-Hudson and many other cities, funeral services for Harriet Talcott May, beloved wife of Meredith Lee of Norwich, were held Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the Second Congregational church, New London. Rev. Edward M. Chapman, retired minister of New London, officiated at the service. There was a profusion of beautiful floral pieces, tributes from many friends.

Burial took place in Yantic cemetery, Norwich, where the committal service was conducted by Rev. J. Beveridge Lee, D. D., pastor of the Second Congregational church, New London, and father-in-law of Mrs. Lee. The bearers were Percival Woodruff, New London; Edmund W. Perkins, Norwich; Lucius Briggs, Norwich; Russell A. Clapp, Norwich; and Mr. MacElory of New York.

Mrs. George G. Bailey

Funeral services for Mrs. George G. Bailey were held Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock from her late home at No. 217 Central avenue. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends, and the floral tributes were beautiful, testimonials to the esteem in which Mrs. Bailey was held by her many friends.

The service was conducted by Rev. Edward C. Dunbar, pastor of the First Baptist church, who also read the committal service at the grave in Yantic cemetery. Arrangements were in charge of Church & Allen.

Miss Ella Shields

Funeral services for Miss Ella Shields, 11 year old daughter of Horace W. and Edith Shields of Mystic, formerly of Norwich, were held late Monday afternoon from the home of her parents, No. 6 Pequot avenue, Mystic. There were many relatives and friends in attendance and the floral tributes were most beautiful.

The service was conducted by Rev. Byron G. Hatfield of Mystic. The remains are to be sent to New York and from thence to Paterson, N. J., where interment will take place.

Guiseppa Paparella.

The funeral of Guiseppe Paparella was held Monday morning at 9:15 o'clock from his late home No. 15 Pond street, solemn requiem mass being celebrated at 10 o'clock at St. Patrick's church. Rev. Myles P. Galvin officiated, assisted by Rev. John J. Kelly as deacon and Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May, sub-deacon. Miss Bresnahan presided at the organ during the mass and at the offertory Lead Kindly Light was sung by Roderick Sullivan. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends at the service and many beautiful floral tributes were received.

Burial was in the family plot in St. Joseph's cemetery the following friends acting as bearers, D. Quarto, D. Attanuio, F. Cipriani, R. Malerba, R. Barilo and S. Depinto. Arrangements were by Shea & Burke.

Edward Baggett

With many relatives and friends attending funeral services for Edward Baggett were held Monday morning at 8:30 o'clock from the home of his daughter, Mrs. Catherine Delaney of 29 1-2 Sixth street. Requiem mass was celebrated at 9 o'clock in St. Mary's Memorial church by Rev. William A. Keefe. Miss Elizabeth Malone was at the organ and at the offertory Miss Sadie Driscoll sang Pie Jesu, as a waiting hymn, Beautiful Land on High, and for the recessional, Lead Kindly Light.

Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery where the committal service was read by Rev. William A. Keefe. The bearers were William Delaney, Edward Delaney, Bernard Enright, Robert Enright, Raymond Sullivan and William Ryan. Arrangements were by Hourigan Bros.

WEDDING

Landry-Gauvin.

Alfred G. Landry and Miss Florence Gauvin, both of Norwich, were united in marriage, Monday morning at 8 o'clock, in St. Mary's Memorial church, by Rev. Frederick M. Cohalan, the ceremony being conducted in the presence of many relatives and friends. The couple were attended by J. Alban Landry, brother of the groom, as best man, and Miss Nelida Melanson, as maid of honor.

The bride was charmingly gowned in white georgette crepe, trimmed with chantily lace and her shower bouquet was of bridal roses and asters. The maid of honor wore a yellow satin faced gown, black picture hat and carried a shower bouquet of colored asters and gladioli.

Following the service a reception was held and wedding breakfast served at the home of Mrs. Albert Belliveau, 15 Third street, aunt of the bride, with whom the bride has resided for the past six months.

The gift of the bride to the maid of honor was a dinner ring and the gift of the groom to the best man, a pair of gold cuff links. The bride received many beautiful and useful gifts, including substantial sums of money.

Later in the day Mr. and Mrs. Landry left on an extensive auto tour through Canada, to include stops at Montreal and Quebec, with return by way of New Brunswick and Maine. The bride wore a traveling gown and wrap of pansy charmeen with hat of pansy panne velvet.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. August Gauvin of New Brunswick and has resided in Norwich for the past six months. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Maximin Landry of this city and is employed at Fishers Island as carpenter for a local concern.

Upon their return from their honeymoon the couple will reside at Fishers Island where they will be at home to their many friends after October 1st.

SECOND VICTIM OF AUTO ACCIDENT NEAR WATERBURY

WATERBURY, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Death tonight claimed a second victim of the automobile accident on the Thomaston-Watertown road late Saturday night. Alcide Paradise, 20, of 598 South Main street, fiance of Miss Stella Beaudoin, 17, almost instantly killed in the crash, died at St. Mary's hospital tonight from a fractured skull and other injuries.

Five others, also hurt when the machine hit a sign and bounded over a fence, were reported improving tonight. George Lamue, of 43 East Clay street, and Leo Lamue, of 40 East Clay street, cousins, have been discharged from the hospital. Armand Belanger, of 40 East Clay street, driver and owner of the car, is resting comfortably although suffering from a fractured right clavicle. Mrs. Alvia Bertrand, of 1197 South Main street, was said to be improved although her condition is still serious. She has a serious back injury and a lacerated arm. Her husband, Louis, is recovering from minor cuts and bruises.

FRANCE DETERMINED TO REVERT TO GOLD STANDARD

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug. 17.—(AP)—France is determined to revert to the gold standard, Robert Masson, of Paris, prominent French banker and virtual head of the Credit Lyonnais, said tonight in his fifth lecture at the Institute of Politics on "The Peace Problems of France." Whether she was to revert to her pre-war standard or stabilize the franc at a new but lower value was yet to be decided.

"In either case we must begin by stabilizing the currency, and the preliminary measures are the final balancing of the budget, which the present government is determined to see through; an increase in taxation to attain that object, which is being voted; a careful financial policy, avoiding an increase in the public debt and making provisions for its reductions; a settlement of the international debt question, and a continuation of habits of thrift among the public. All this is either done, being done, or likely to be done in the near future. Practically, the exchange will then be stabilized or will fluctuate only between narrow limits."

STINNES SEEKS MONEY FOR PAYMENT OF EMPLOYES

BERLIN, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Edmund Stinnes is still seeking money with which to pay the employes of his Aga Motor works, and it is admitted that unless this is soon forthcoming the works will be compelled to close down.

Representatives of the workmen still are deliberating on the question whether to accept the offer of shares in the concern made them last week by Herr Stinnes. Apparently they would prefer solid cash.

It is reported that a representative of a big American motor car factory has made tentative overtures to purchase the Aga works with the idea of mass production of cheap cars. Meanwhile Stinnes is continuing his efforts to obtain aid from the Prussian government.

As the official Prussian State bank during the past year has been unfortunate in its various attempts to salvage private enterprises in distress, there is a strong current of feeling in opposition to any suggestion of financial aid for Stinnes, notwithstanding the fact that public opinion appears to be with him in his struggles to emancipate himself from the alleged boycott of the bankers.

LIKELY TO FACE CHARGE OF FIRST DEGREE MURDER

MANCHESTER, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Preparations were made today by Prosecuting Attorney C. R. Hathaway to bring a charge of first degree murder against Frank Sokoiski, of Congress street, who, it is alleged, assaulted a woman supposed to be his wife. It had been supposed at first to try him on a charge of manslaughter.

The woman, in a dying statement, it became known today, said that her real name was Annie Rucski and that she had been living with Sokoiski for the past fourteen years. She said that both had gone to the city hall in Perth Amboy, N. J., and secured a marriage license and that she supposed they had been married. She said Sokoiski had been known in New Jersey as Frank Marble and that he had five sons and one daughter in that state. Mrs. Rucski claimed that her husband, Joe Rucski, had deserted her and that she believed he was now living in Holyoke, Mass.

The funeral of Mrs. Rucski will be held Wednesday and the Polish people of the Homestead section of Manchester have arranged to bear the expenses.

MANSFIELD CENTER

A member of the town school committee states that many who are eligible to attend high school the coming year, have failed to file their applications with the school board. Since the town pays neither transportation nor tuition unless the application is approved by the school committee such action must be taken at once by those interested. Blanks can be obtained by writing or telephoning the secretary of the board, Prof. W. F. Kirkpatrick, of Storrs.

The morning worship at the First Congregational church next Sunday will be omitted. The Sunday school and Christian Endeavor society will meet as usual.

Revs. Mr. and Mrs. T. Hawthorne Jones, their daughter, Mrs. Stanley Gover and son, John, left Monday for Torrington where they will be the guests of friends until today (Wednesday), when they go to New York. Mrs. Gover and little son will sail Saturday for their home in London. Mr. and Mrs. Jones will return next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert T. Clark left Monday evening for Montreal on their way to the Pacific coast by the Canadian Pacific route. They will visit Winnipeg, Seattle, Wash., Banff and Lake Louise, and cities of California, before returning in October, via Salt Lake City and Colorado.

The Young People's club went to Groton Long Point Saturday for their annual outing, returning Sunday. They were guests of Miss Ruth Oden.

Raymond Barrows, Samuel Morse and Morris Sword left Sunday for a week's motor trip in Canada, going fro mhere to Quebec.

THIRTEEN EASTERN PROFESSIONALS QUALIFY FOR NATIONAL TOURNEY

NEW YORK, Aug. 17—(A. P.)—Eastern professionals will be represented by a strong aggregation in the annual professional golfers association championship to be played at Olympic Fields, Chicago, next month.

Thirteen qualified in the Metropolitan district tests at the Fox Hills par 70 course on Staten Island today, and Tom Boyd, the home instructor, led the list with 141 his rounds being 71 and 70. Willie Klein, professional from Garden City, Long Island, was close behind by virtue of an extraordinary 66 in the morning.

Kleins first round failed to show one hole over par and in four cases his artful clubs molded birdies.

High up in the list came Henry Ciuci and Mike Brady, veteran from Winged Foot, who was Metropolitan open champion a year ago. Gene Sarazen, who captured the Metropolitan at Grassy Sprain this year, attained the select thirteen, along with Johnny Farrell and Jack Forrester with 149—just enough to squeeze in, Leo Diegel, twice Canadian titleholder and Tommy Harmon were inside with 147 while Tommy Armour, Danny Williams, Tom Kerrigan and John Golden took one more stroke.

But there were notables among those who failed, in Cyrus Walker, 1924 open king, whose shots for the pins found traps on numerous occasions, and Joe Turnesa, the youthful Penn state champion. Turnesa took 151 while Walker could do no better than 154, thirteen shots behind the leader. Turnesa turned in a singular card in the morning, showing fours on every incoming hole for a 36.

Walter Hagen, champion of the professionals in 1924 was not required to qualify and will defend his title at Olympia Fields.

BLANKENSHIP WINS HIS SEVENTH STRAIGHT VICTORY

CHICAGO, Aug. 17—Ted Blankenship registered his seventh consecutive victory today when Chicago defeated Detroit 3 to 2 in the final game of the series. The visitors made only six hits off Blankenship, but a base on balls and an error by Davis gave them a two run lead. The Sox came from behind and Blankenship drove in the tying run in the seventh inning when his long fly enabled Kamm to score. Davis scored the winning run in the eighth innig when he registered on Falk's sacrifice fly, giving Chicago two games out of the three game series here in which Detroit played its last game of the season in Chicago. ATHETICS BEAT PIRATES IN NINTH INNING RALLY

PITTSBURGH, Penn., Aug. 17—(A. P.)—A ninth inning rally which netted them four runs enabled the Philadelphia Americans to defeat the Pittsburgh Nationals in an exhibition game here today, 9 to 5. Each team is leading its respective league in the pennant dash and local fans regarded the tussle as a sample world's series.

The Athletics started with their regular lineup, with the exception of Hale and Galloway, while the only Pirate regulars were Cuyler, McInnis, Traynor and Wright. Before the end many substitutes were in action.

Culloton was on the mound for the Pirates throughout. He had two bad innings, the first, when three runs counted, and the ninth, when the Americans hammered in four more. In this round French got a triple with the bases filled.

Heimach pitched for the Athletics for five innings and Lefty Groves finished. Connie Mack of the Athletics and Barney Dryfuss of the Pirates watched the game together from the grandstand.

NO TWILIGHT GAMES TO BE PLAYED THIS WEEK

Although the Fairgrounds had been secured for the use of the Twilight league this week it has been decided to postpone all games for this week. A carnival booked for this week is playing at Dowell field. The managers of the various teams were opposed to playing at the Fairgrounds and it was decided to postpone the games for this week.

Already there are five postponed games to be played off and this week will add four more to the count. The league closes on Sept. 13 but will have to run over to Sept. 25th if all the games are to be played out. Should any more games be postponed it would take the schedule past the period of Daylight time and then it would be impossible to play the games anyway, in September when the days are getting shorter it will be necessary to start the games almost an hour earlier than they are started at present, and even now it is difficult to get in a full seven inning game. Calling games because of darkness has created no little trouble and it is bound to cause more before the season is over.

DAVIES PITCHES PROFS TO WIN OVER HILLIES

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 17—New Haven, with Chick Davies on the mound, defeated Pittsfield 7 to 1 here today. Davies struck out thirteen batsmen, a record for the Eastern league this season, and Thomas' single and Purcell's double in the ninth produced the only run off him. Score:

GIANTS BEAT PHILLIES AND GAIN A HALF GAME

NEW YORK, Aug. 17—New York turned back the Phillies today, 3 to 2, gaining half a game on the league leading Pirates. Meusel took two bases in the eighth on a wild peg by Huber, advanced to third while Terry was being thrown out at first and scored with the winning run on Lindstrom's single. Kent Greenfield held the visitors to six scattered hits. The victory placed New York within three games of Pittsburgh. The score:

WARRIORS WIN EASY GAME FROM YANTIC

The undefeated Warriors of the Junior Twilight league won another victory from the Yantic team, 11 to 6, at Yantic Sunday afternoon. Reed started on the mound for Yantic but was wild and was replaced in the fifth by Jerry Lamphere who was touched for fifteen hits, seven coming in the ninth inning when five runs were scored. Marchand pitched good ball for the Warriors until the sixth when Healy relieved him. Healy did not allow a single hit for the remainder of the game. FOUR INVADERS ARE ELIMINATED AT NEWPORT

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 17—One seeded star was eliminated and four foreign threats were tossed into the discard in the opening day's play in the ninth annual invitation tennis tournament at the Newport Casino today. Willard Crocker, Canadian champion, was the seeded star who was defeated, Jose Alonso, Spanish Davis cup star, accomplished this feat, 5-7, 6-4, 6-2.

Two of the four members of the Oxford-Cambridge tennis teams were likewise eliminated and Claude Butlin, singles champion of Mexico, and a member of the Davis cup team, fell victim to the steady play of S. Howard Voshel of Kew Gardens, N. Y. In all other instances play was according to formula.

A touch of former championship play was inserted in the tournament when William J. Clothier of Philadelphia, national champion in 1906, won his opening match, defeating a Newport rival with the loss of but one game. William M. Johnston of San Francisco, Cal., defending champion, won his first match, defeating Louis B. Bailey, Jr., of East Orange, N. J. in straight sets.

SNOVER'S WILDNESS AIDS WORCESTER TO BEAT ALBANY

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 17—Worcester defeated Albany 8 to 1 today. Snover was wild and ineffective in the fifth inning when the visitors scored six times. Eddie Taylor, Albany shortstop, was hit in the head by a pitched ball and suffered a fracture of the skull in the third inning. He was removed to a local hospital, where it was said his condition is serious. Johnny Werts, Worcester pitcher also retired from the game after Taylor had been injured. Score:

Two base hit, Stengel, Munn, Solomon.

VINCENTINI LOSES VERDICT TO JOE DUNDEE

NEW YORK, Aug. 17—(A. P.)—Luis Vincentini, of Chile, returning to the ring here to renew his conquest of the lightweight title after nine months in his native land, tonight lost a judges' decision to Joe Dundee of Baltimore. Md., in 12 hard rounds of fighting.

Vincentini was an easy mark for the Baltimore man who floored him twice in the 11th round.

Dundee, slow afoot, but packing a terrific punch in his right hand, met the Chilean's rushes coolly and as Vincentini's wild rights flew harmlessly over his head, he countered heavily to body and face. Only in five rounds of the match did the South American show flashes of the form which last winter earned him consideration as a title contender.

Dundee weighed 137, three more pounds than Vincentini.

ANDERSON'S MOTHER IN AUSTRALIA IS DEAD

BOSTON, Aug. 17—(A. P.)—Grief cast a cloud over the Australian Davis cup team when James O. Anderson while at practice this afternoon received a cablegram announcing the sudden death of his aged mother in Sydney. The shock of the news forced the Australian player to retire to his hotel where his wife is recuperating from a severe attack of asthma.

Despite his grief, Anderson is expected to appear for play when the Australian team faces the Japanese contenders, Zenzo Shimizu and Takeichi Harada in the American zone finals at Longwood Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

WORLD'S CHAMPION SWIMMER AT JEWETT CITY WEDNESDAY

Definite arrangements have been made for Ethelda Bleitrey and her troupe of four diving beauties to perform at th Ashland Natatorium in Jewett City Wednesday evening of this week.

Hal Chase has arranged with Miss Bleitrey to swim a 60 yard race and in order to make in interesting for the champion, Ray Greene, former star of Brown university swimming team of Plainfield will swim the 30 yards and Helen Bakownosky a Jewett City girl, will swim the last half of the distance. Miss Bakownosky is without doubt one of the fastest swimmers in eastern Connecticut, and stands ready to meet anyone in a contest up to 100 yards.

This challenge holds good for this meet and if any prospective champ should dispute this claim, arrangements may be made for a race by calling Hal Chase at Jewett City.

Miss Miller, the only female diver to perform the fire dive will do her stuff on Wednesday night after the regular programme. She is a talented diver and a noted comedienne and is a whole show in herself. She was for three years one of the stars of the New York Hippodrome diving act.

BERLENBACH READY TO MEET DELANEY ON SEPT. 11

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—(A. P.)—Paul Berlenbach will be prepared to defend his world's light heavyweight crown against Jack Delaney, of Bridgeport, Conn., on September 11, at the Yankee Stadium. Berlenbach's manager, Dan Hickey, announced today that the injury which caused a postponement of the bout from the original date of August 28 will not keep Berlenbach idle until the arrival of the indoor season as first reported. However, there is a question whether Delaney will be ready to mix with the champion on September 11. Delaney was obliged to cancel a bout in Detroit tonight and head back to New York suffering from a throat affliction.

GORMON GETS JUDGES DECISION OVER SHARKEY

BOSTON, Aug. 17—(A. P.)—Bud Gorman of Kenosha, Wis., tonight won the decision over Jack Sharkey of Boston, New England heavyweight champion. Gorman assumed the offensive throughout the 10 rounds and was never hit dangerously. He weighed 123 pounds and Sharkey 184.

Gorman used a sharp left jab with an occasional right to the face, led in nine of the scheduled 10 rounds. Sharkey was slow and fought in short but desperate spurts. The eighth was his only round.

FAVORITES HAVE LITTLE TROUBLE IN FIRST ROUND FOR NATIONAL TITLE

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 17—(A. P.)—The battle for the national women's tennis championship got under way today with every indication that Helen Wills would have the most strenuous tussle of her career in defense of the laurels she had held for the past two seasons.

The dark-haired California girl got off to a victorious start in defense of her crown, conquering Mrs. Helen Polak Falk, of New York, 6-2, 6-3, in her first match, but the other ten "seeded" players in the tournament also started triumphantly, among them several who loom as particularly dangerous rivals for rthe title.

Miss Elizabeth Ryan, for instance, who is looked upon as Miss Wills' foremost opponent, performed brilliantly to overwhelm Miss Caroma Winn of Mountain Lakes, N. J., in two love sets in about twenty minutes.

Miss Ryan, a Californian who has just come back to her native land after an extended sojourn in England, is playing in her first national championship but she already is established by many experts as a favorite to celebrate this debut by lifting her first national title.

Other American stars, such as Mrs. Molla Mallory, Mrs. Marion Jessup, Miss Mary K. Browne, and Miss Eleanor Goss, came through their opening tests without much difficulty, but two of the five members of the victorious British Wightman cup team were hard pressed to win.

Mrs. Lambert Chambers, veteran captain of the British team, was forced to three sets to eliminate Miss Molly Thayer of Philadelphia, 4-6, 6-2, 6-3, while Miss E. H. Harvey, another invader, lost the first set to Mrs. B. F. Stenz, of New York before coming through by scores of 5-7, 6-1, 6-1.

Miss Kathleen McKane, ranking British start and another close rival of Miss Wills, advanced without trouble to the second round, along with her countrywomen, Miss Joan Fry and Miss Evelyn Colyer.

While the advance of favorites held the majority share of attention, two upsets gave the gallery something of a thrill. The most interesting of these was the decisive victory of Miss Helen Jacobs, of Berkeley, Calif., over Mrs. Harry Hickle, of Toronto, former Canadian champion, 6-0, 6-3.

Miss Jacobs, blond 16 year-old holder of the National Girl's title, played her grey-haired, more exnerienced opponent to a standstill. The California girl displayed court-covering ability versatility and confidence of a type which stamps her as the most promising of the younger players in the tournament. Her accurate driving and fine all-around play were more than a match for Mrs. Hickle's generalship.

Miss Martha Bayard of Short Hills, N. J., No. 6, in the national ranking, was the victim of the other major upset, falling before the steady stroking of Miss Edith Sigourney of Boston, who ranks No. 14, by scores of 8-6, 6-3.

PLAYGROUND ACTIVITIES.

Tigers Beat Rosedales.

Monday evening at the N. F. A. Campus the Taftville Tigers bested the Greeneville Rosedales in a five inning contest. Each inning was replete with good baseball aplenty, except in the fifth, when Greeneville's juggling contest nearly sewed up the game for the Tigers.

The Tigers superior handling of hickory coupled with Finn's sterling pitching enabled Taftville to snare her Greeneville quarry. Out of twenty-five times at the rubber the victors touched up Tennant for one short of a dozen clean bingles while Greeneville could eke out but three from Finn's delivery.

HARTFORD TIES UP WITH WATERBURY CLUB

WATERBURY, Aug. 17—Hartford went into a tie with Waterbury for first place in the Eastern league today by winning the odd game of the series by the score of 7 to 4. Poor fielding by the local club resulted in their downfall. A one-hand stop by Durocher of Uteritz's liner with the bases filled, killing a rally in the third, was a feature of the game.

Tom Tracy of the New Haven council is in charge of the game and also the boxing bouts.

TAYLOR'S SKULL FRACTURED WHEN HIT BY BALL

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 17—(A. P.)—Eddie Taylor, shortstop of the Albany club of the Eastern league, sustained a fractured skull in the third inning of today's game with the Worcester club, when he was hit by a pitched ball thrown by Johnny Werts, Worcester pitcher. Physicians tonight said the full extent of his injury will not be known for several days.

CAREY OUT OF GAME WITH INJURED FOOT

PITTSBURGH, Penn., Aug. 17—(A. P.)—When the pennant seeking Pirates left for Brooklyn tonight on their final eastern invasion Captain Max Carey, veteran outfielder, was not with the party. Carey is under a doctor's care because of an injured foot and expects to be off the ball field until the Pirates tackle the Giants on Friday.

Assawaga Beats Wauregan

The Assawaga B. B. team beat the Wauregan Grays in a hard fought ten inning game Sunday at Dayville. The Assawaga boys had the lead until the sixth inning when Wauregan tied the score. This did not discourage the boys as they came back and brought in two runs in their half of the sixth. Wauregan getting two in the seventh and Assawaga one. Wauregan got one in the eighth tying the score again. In the ninth doughnuts were hung up for both sides. The first of the tenth with two men on Wauregan could not bring them in as Gassock flyed out. Lavalie then struck out Moranville and Lambert. In the last of the tenth D. Weaver was up for the Assawaga boys and got a pass to first. Lavalie up hit the ball for two bases, Weaver going to third. Baker batting for O'Neil hit to short and on Nolan's fumble, Weaver brought in the winning run.

The bright lights of the game were Matthews bare hand catch of Lavalie's two base hit and the Wauregan boys knocking six flies right into Gugwas hand. He's going to use a rocking chair after this.

For the visitors Nolan got a two bagger. Plankey pitched good ball until relieved by Maranville in the eighth Reddy worked hard all the time playon the weak spots of the local boys and playing a great game getting two nice hits. The score:

Moosup Swamps Mechanicsville

The American Woolen team of Moosup were guests of the Mechanicsville A. A. on Sunday and took the last team into camp for the second time this season by a score of 11 to 1. Mechanicsville solitary tally being scored in the ninth inning. The Moosup boys had their bathing clothes on and all pitchers looked alike to them, Mgr. King using three hurlers, but without avail. Johnson, who started for Mechanicsville, was relieved by McCoy in the fourth who was succeeded by Lewis in the ninth. As the box score shows the woolen boys collected sixteen hits, five of which were doubles, the chief offenders in this respect being, Allard. Bressette and Lauring who garnered three safeties each. Mgr. Kay's boys again sustained their reputation as fast heady players by executing three double plays, in each case shutting off possible rallies by the Mechanicsville boys. The addition of Allard and Kendrick's to the Moosup lineup gave added strength to the team, and made it the best they have put into the field this season.

CAPTAIN AND CREW OF BOOZE SLOOP HELD UNDER BONDS AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 17—The crew of the fishing sloop Lear C., seized off Block Island early Sunday evening and brought into this port by the revenue cutter Beale, were presented before United States Commissioner Russell H. Corcoran at the customs house here this noon. The hearing of the crew of five men was continued until the 22nd inst. In the case of the commander of the craft, Captain Louis Vincent, bail was fixed at $1,500, while the other members of the crew, George Larson, 110 Main street, Fairhaven, Mass.; Garfield Otis, 119 Kempston avenue New Bedford, Mass.; Manuel Silva, 17 Baker avenue, Fairhaven, Mass.; John Williams, who resides on the sloop, and John Brown, 20 Pleasant street, New Bedford, Mass., were held in bonds of $500 each. The master of the Lear C., is Milton P. Healy, of Central Village, Westport, Mass. The Lear C., had a cargo of 500 cases of Scotch and rye whiskey aboard when seized and the cargo is still aboard the sloop, which is moored at the state pier, awaiting the disposition of the case next Saturday.

Mrs. Arthur Fishers, of Russellville, Ala., today communicated with the New London police, requesting that she be given assistance in locating her daughter, Mrs. Alfred Camadelli, whose parents reside in New London. The couple were located at 621 Bank street, where they are making their home and Mrs. Camadelli assured the authorities that she would correspond with Mrs. Fishers without delay.

James McName, 64, a woolen weaver, whose work has been in Woonsocket, became despondent in this city when he could not get employment and was without relatives or friends. Saturday night he slept in the police station. Sunday he was contemplating the future at the union railway station and went to the municipal pier where he threw himself into the river. Whether he repented after he did that is not known, but his struggles in the water kept him afloat till he was rescued, by a couple of boys named Miller and Ranenburg. They put out in a boat and saved the man from drowning, towing him ashore. He declared this morning when he was arraigned in the police court that there was no other course for him to take. He said he was not a drinking person and that his rash act could not be attributed to intoxicants. He was simply despondent. He was taken in charge by the probation officer and an effort will be made to improve his situation.

Miss Marjorie Geer, of 17 Mountain avenue; Clarence Ahearn, 41 Prest street; Lawrence Lewis, United States coast Guard destroyer Fanning; Joseph Perry, Nelseco hotel, Groton; Mrs. Truman Keyes and infant son, Uncasville; Miss Blanche Collins, Hotel Griswold, Eastern Point; John [illegible], United States Coast Guard destroyer Fanning; Miss Jennie Galanti, Waterbury; Thomas Hamilton, 7 Fourth street; Mike Katsis, 341 Bank street; Mrs. Michael Snazarko, Lakes Pond, Easterfield; John Kelley, 20 West Pleasant street; Miss Peggy Martin, Jersey City, N. J.; Edward Hinman, Camp Trumbull, Niantic; Mrs. Clarence Thomas, and infant son, Oakdale; Homer H. Champlin, 69 High street, Westerly; Henry Wells, 245 Crystal avenue; Mrs. Clara Wooster, 64 Main street, and Harris Beebe, 14 Lee avenue, Groton, at Lawrence hospital, were discharged today.

Emma L. Hobart, of New York, has sold a house and lot on Ocean avenue, near Neptune avenue, to Max Fern. The price paid was $15,000.

Vincenzo and Nazarena Carboni, New York, have sold a house and lot on Smith street to Manca Salvatore and Michael Bonnano.

Mischievous youths residing in the vicinity of Blackhall and Prest streets, where the school house conducted and owned by the Hebrew Ladies' Aid and Educational society is located, have been complained against to the police, the structure having been entered recently and windows smashed.

Edgar G. Morgan, residing in East Berlin, who was stricken by a heart attack on State street last evening and removed to Lawrence hospital, was able to leave the institution this morning and go to his home.

Elisha Stanfield raised his hand when he was put under oath in the police court this morning, and said he was guilty of maintaining a vile resort at 207 North Bank street. Viola Brewer, wife of Lonnie Brewer pleaded guilty of being a frequenter at the house, as did Carl Brown. The parties are all colored and they have a reputation among the police which the officers call "tough." Elisha was out Saturday evening running for the house. He met three sailors in a restaurant and notified them that they could have a "jazz" party and listen to music as well as slake their thirst if they followed him and brought up at the house over which he presides. The sailors accepted the offer of Elisha and went to 207, where they found Viola dressed for the hot weather that prevailed. The party had a lively time for they made so much noise that the attention of Patrolman Martin was directed to the house as he patrolled his beat. He looked under the window shade and beheld motion pictures and saw so much that he called the attention of Lieutenant Gaffney to the place and made suggestions to him that led to a raid being made. The whole gang was taken to the police station where they made some explanation that did not explain and they were all held for the session of the police court. The sailors all denied that they were frequenters of the place. They said they did not have anything to drink, though a pint of gin which had been partially consumed seemed to contradict them. They declared that they just happened in on the invitation of Stanfield. One of the sailors had $60 in cash and this he deposited as bonds for the appearance of his chums in court today. Judge Prince deemed the evidence of the officers to be sufficient to convict the woman and she was fined $10. Lonnie, her husband, hustled out to get the money to settle. "He'll do anything for me," the wife said when he had gone, and she seemed to be speaking the truth. Stanfield was fined $10 which amount he obtained at the savings bank and handed it into the court with the costs of his prosecution. Brown was given the same dose that was administered to Viola. The sailors were told to go back to their station and to keep away from the colored folks and jazz parties.

Mandel Zimmer could not resist the chance to make a dollar when he saw that there was a demand for bath houses at Ocean Beach Sunday. He approached a party that sought to bathe when they came to the beach in a Massachusetts car. 'A dollar for the bunch" were the words Zimmer was heard to use. This sort of thing has become so frequent at the beach that an ordinance to prohibit it was especially passed by the city council, a week or more ago. It was intended to meet just such cases as that of Zimmer. Zimmer, who is said to be a double for Leon Trotsky, denied what witnesses said about his proposal to the strangers, declaring that he was just talking business to friends whom he had met. He was fined so that his bill was more than $13. He settled, though he did not like to do that. Zimmer has arranged private baths at his residence at the beach and it was these he was renting in opposition to the city bathhouses that have been provided with all facilities that bathers require. It is the intention of the city council to put a stop to soliciting of business on the board walk.

There was a bunch of fellows at and about the railroad station and the wharves Sunday. They were more or less intoxicated and were arrested. Then they all set up the claim that they were going to or coming from Fishers Island where there has been much work going on of late in the layout and preparation of a clubhouse and ground. The court deemed it wise to let them get out of town and suspended judgment in their cases.

Antonio Calla, with a load he couldn't carry without spilling, went to a house in East New London and there he dropped his money on the veranda. When he missed it he aroused the household and demanded that the money be returned to him. Policeman Martin was called and he picked up the roll just where Tony had dropped it. Calla was arrested and in the police court this morning was fined so that all he had went to the court. Calla broke out a window in the house and for that, too, he was obliged to pay.

John La Sala was found to be operating an automobile without either an operating license or registration in his possession. He said he had come to town from Chapel hill to get a doctor and then had driven to the beach. That was a queer journey for La Sala to make, so he was fined.

Israel Wexler of New Britain, a summer resident at Ocean Beach, was in the city court on a charge of speeding and he was fined $10 and costs. Wexler was discovered driving his machine through Waterford at a high rate of speed Sunday.

Jacob Cohen, of Hartford, was held on a charge of operating a car without registration and for trespass, Cohen driving his machine upon private property. He failed to appear in court this evening as ordered and the case was continued until Wednesday. A warrant will be issued for Cohen's arrest in the meantime, to assure his appearance in court on the latter date.

George Antoniac, East Lyme, was charged with reckless driving, but in this case a trial did not result, the case being continued to Friday next. Antoniac's car, was the machine in which Antoniac's brother, Lewis and Charles Lawsky of this city were riding and when passing through Norwich collided with two or three vehicles on Shetucket street, then proceeding through the city at a high rate of speed and headed toward New London. At Montville the car was intercepted by Prohibition Enforcement Agent Harry Avery of Windham, but he lost his prisoners when Antoniac and Lawsky relieved the officer of his black-jack and beat him with the weapon. Antoniac and Lawsky, who were arrested in the woods of Montville two hours afterwards, are awaiting trial before the September term of the superior court, on a charge of assault and battery.

George Vancho, 12, residing at 430 Central avenue, Bridgeport, is being detained at the police station here tonight as a result of the youngster having been delivered to the police this evening by Capt. Heidger, 24th C. A., which arrived at Fort Wright from Bridgeport Sunday. The boy boarded the steamer at Bridgeport that took the soldiers to the island fort for drill. He was allowed to stay Sunday night in camp, but this evening he was turned over to the local authorities. A communication to the parents of the boy telling them of the youth's predicament brought the information that a brother would come here Tuesday and take charge of the youngster.

Frank Graham, the young man, who has been living in a pig pen beside the tracks of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad at Waterford, and who was arrested Sunday evening by Constable George Peabody at the request of the railroad police as a suspicious character, was presented this evening before Judge Frederick Dimmock, in Waterford town court, on a charge of vagrancy. The case was continued a week and Graham was remanded to jail that he might be cleansed by the liberal application of soap and water, and he needs that treatment badly! Graham today admitted to Sergeant Edward McGrath of the railroad police that the former was guilty of placing a tie on the rails near the Waterford railroad station and that this was done for the purpose of wrecking a train because the foreman of a section gang had discharged Graham. The tie was struck by a light switch engine, so no damage was occasioned.

In the Groton town court this morning proprietors of four stores were before Judge Cornelius Costello on a charge of violation of the law in having a gaming device in their respective places of business. Each was fined $3 and costs the latter amounting to $3.45. There are eight other store keepers listed to be arraigned on a like charge.

George Winters, a marine, stationed at the submarine base, was arraigned on a charge of operating an automobile that was equipped with defective brakes. His case was continued two weeks.

Charles Lackey of Prest street, New London, was fined $15 and costs on a charge of violation of the automobile laws, in failing to give right of way. The prosecution of Lackey resulted following the car he was driving and which is owned by George Magowan, also of Prest street, colliding when the two cars met at the corner of School and Monument streets Saturday afternoon. It was admitted in court that Lackey, who had a licensed operator with him, was driving the car to familiarize himself with the operation prior to taking out a driver's license.

POTTERS' FIELD BURIAL FOR CALIFORNIA YOUTH

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 17—The body of William Berry, 17, of Los Angeles, Cal., the youth fatally injured early Sunday morning while attempting to steal a ride on the Quaker express of the New Haven railroad as the train was pulling out of Westerly station, sustaining a fractured skull, lacerated brain and internal injuries, died at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital Sunday forenoon. He was buried this afternoon in the Potters Field, Jodan.

COUNCIL'S ACTION HINTS AT CENTRAL FIRE STATION

(Special to the Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 17.—The city council this evening voted to award a contract for building a new flooring in the house of the Konomoc Hose company on Union street, that it may accommodate the aerial fire ladder and provide greater safety for the apparatus maintained in the building. The cost is to be considerable, that the city manager declared he believed the work well worth the cost. It will house in addition to the Konomoc apparatus the aerial truck, the motor car of the chief engineer, and be adaptable to alteration into a central fire station if the city decides to have such. The inference was to be drawn from the statement of the city manager that such a plan was in contemplation and that in the not far distance there would be consolidation of the fire companies of the Konomoc and Nameaug companies, and the Allen Truck company and the Niagara hose company. The contract for the work will be awarded to Pieretti Brothers the lowest bidders, at $2,300.

A contract for painting cornices and ventilators and the repairing and painting of leaders at the Hillside Home, the poor farm of the city, was awarded to Gates & Beckwith as the lowest bidder, at a price of $361. The price was far under that of other bidders, and indeed about one-quarter that of one bidder.

It was voted to lay a sewer with all manholes and appurtenances required on Marshall place, at a cost of $1,055, all the expense to be borne by abutting property owners.

Permission was asked for the placing of signs on buildings of that city both electric and wood. The city manager was given authority to grant or deny the requests.

SCOTT CO. INTERFERES WITH HOME RADIO USERS

(Special to the Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 17.—Radio users in the home are out with the hardest sort of a protest against interference by the Scott company. The matter has been taken up with the department of commerce at Washington and relief is promised by the department of the government. The city council received a protest this evening and a letter from the department of commerce representatives was read. The council appointed a committee, Councilors Woodruff and Scott, to co-operate with the department of commerce in the matter. It is represented that owners of private radio sets are deprived of the use of them practically by the interference by the Scott company, and this is what it is sought to correct.

FERRY BOAT LESSEES ALLEGE BLOCKED CROSSINGS

NEW LONDON, Aug. 17.—The management of the ferry boat between New London and Groton made a strong protest against the blocking of the railroad tracks at the union railway station, at the meeting of the city council this evening. The claim of the management was that the ferry was sustaining a heavy loss because of the interference with travel across the tracks by the trains that stand at the crossing a longer time than is allowed by law. The fact that patrons of the ferry are compelled to use the overhead pass and that to do this it is necessary to ascend and descend long flights of stairs was called to the attention of the council and an investigation by the council was asked for.

It was represented that on specified dates, trains that are named stood on the crossing some 16, 17, 18, 21 and 24 minutes at a time. It was declared that the New Haven road blocked the crossing and monopolized traffic there to a degree that the ferry was being operated at a loss to the lessees. The council will take up the matter for the protest was referred for an investigation and report. Some consideration for the public was asked in the protest.

Capt. Charles A. Pinney sent a letter to the council this evening thanking the members for a gift of flowers sent him at Lawrence hospital where he is to undergo a surgical operation.

A number from this vicinity visited the Westerly Hospital last Monday and Tuesday and are enthusiastic in praise of its efficient equipment.

BELIEVE ANDERSON HAS ESCAPED TO FLORIDA

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 17—While Muncie police and Delaware County authorities pushed their search for George Anderson, former pal of Gerald Chapman and accused slayer of Ben Hance and his wife on a road near Muncie Friday night, word came to private detectives here that Anderson probably had evaded his pursuers and escaped to Florida.

Today's search of the countryside gave the authorities no new clew but developed the theory that Hance and his wife were slain while en route to Indianapolis to reveal further information relative to the operations of a bandit gang long sought in Central Indiana.

The first suggestion of the Muncie police that Hance was killed because he gave information which led to Chapman's arrest and conviction in Connecticut last winter, was discounted today by Harry Webster, superintendent of the Protective division of the Indiana Bankers association, who has handled a private investigation of the Muncie shooting. He advanced the theory that Hance and his wife were en route to Indianapolis to disclose the latest plans of the Anderson gang to private detectives when Anderson intercepted them with his gun.

Hance has repeatedly during the summer told of the movements of the Anderson band.

Three times during the last few months, Webster and his operatives have laid traps for the gangsters but each time something occurred to defeat the plans.

Once the detectives were waiting near a bank, the gang was preparing to rob. That night a heavy windstorm forced the bandits to alter their plans and the following day they were informed that officers knew their intentions.

The police have private advices that Anderson is en route to Florida, Everglades rendezvous.

Officers also are seeking a pal of Anderson, known as the "Big Turk" who was seen here shortly before the dual murder last Friday. The "Big Turk" is well known to private detectives working on the case. He has long been a friend of both Anderson and Chapman and is believed to have lived at the Hance home last year with the two other bandits.

ASSEMBLING EVIDENCE IN THE MALLET MURDER

CAMDEN, N. J., Aug. 17—Police declared today that the net of circumstantial evidence is being drawn more closely about Joseph Rotondo, 34, held in connection with the brutal killing of Mrs. Catherine Audia and her four-year-old son, John, Saturday. While no formal charge has yet been lodged against the man, who is being held as a material witness, police and county authorities reiterated their conviction that he is guilty.

Belief that the mother and son were killed with a heavy bricklayer's mallet which was found near their bodies was altered today by the discovery of a blood-stained axe in the kitchen of the Audia home. They were found lying near the wine barrels in their cellar, with their heads battered into shapelessness. Although the bodies were not discovered until 11.30 o'clock Saturday morning, authorities declared the murder took place between 8 and 9 o'clock.

Rotonda, police said, left his home with an empty bottle at 8 o'clock, presumably to have it filled with wine by Mrs. Audia, who engaged in a considerable bootlegging business. Between this time and 9.30, they said, Rotondo was unable to account satisfactorily for his movements.

Sir Robert B. Borden, former prime minister of Canada, arrived at Williamstown, Mass., to take part in the proceedings of the Institute of Politics.

SIMPLE FUNERAL SERVICES HELD FOR MRS. J. P. MORGAN

LOCUST VALLEY, N. Y., Aug. 17.—(AP)—Simple funeral services were held today for Mrs. J. P. Morgan, wife of the financier, at Episcopal church of St. John's, at Lattington, not far from her home at Matinecock Point, where she died last Friday of sleeping sickness.

Following the services, which were attended by members of the family and a few friends, the body was cremated at French Pond crematory nearby. The ashes will be buried in the Morgan family plot among the rolling hills of Locust Valley cemetery.

In keeping with her life, the funeral services for Mrs. Morgan were very simple and private. The Morgan estate and the church were closely guarded to keep away curiosity seekers.

The Rev. Charles W. Hinton, pastor of the church, officiated at the services after a trip last night from Saranac Lake for this purpose. Kyle Dunkel, organist of the Cathedral of the Incarnation at Garden City, had charge of the music which included several old hymns that were favorites of Mrs. Morgan's. Flowers which the financier's wife had cultivated with her own hands in the Morgan estate covered the altar and chancel.

Immediately after the services the funeral cortege went to the crematory. The date of the burial of Mrs. Morgan's ashes has not been definitely decided.

COMMISSION ON UNIFORM COURT CHARTERS APPOINTED

HARTFORD, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Judge Milton C. Isbell, of Ansonia, Representative George R. Sturgis, of Woodbury, and Fred A. Scott, of Plymouth, were appointed members of the commission on uniform municipal charters today by Governor Trumbull. The commission was authorized by the 1925 general assembly to study municipal court charters with a view toward standardization. A report is to be made to the next assembly. Lawyer Scott was engrossing clerk during the past session.

The governor has issued a requisition on the governor of New York for the extradition of Charles W. Ryan, who is wanted in this city on a charge of non-support. Policeman Charles F. Daly has been appointed to receive and convey Ryan to this state.

Approval has been given to the requisition of Adjutant General George M. Cole, on the comptroller for $3,000 for general military expenses and $1,000 for expenses in connection with the compilation of Connecticut World war records. An appropriation for this latter purpose was granted by the 1925 general assembly.

MARQUISE ACCUSED OF ATTEMPTING EXTORTION

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—(AP)—The Marquise de Janelli, formerly Miss Adelaide Rees, of New York, and widow of a former Italian ambassador to Japan; was accused of attempting extortion in a warrant sworn out today by Harold Brennan, a $25 a week grocery clerk who sued her for $1,000,000 a few days ago.

At her hotel it was said that she had left the city and is believed to have gone to New York or to Havana.

Brennan said that after a party on the night of Aug. 8, when he and the marquise had dined together, she accused him of stealing jewels valued at $1,000. He at first denied the charge, he said, but after she had threatened him with arrest, he signed a contract agreeing to pay for the loss at the rate of ten dollars a week.

Then he filed suit for a million dollars for slander and today obtained the warrant charging extortion.

SENATOR BINGHAM SPEAKER AT AN AVIATION LUNCHEON

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Senator Hiram Bingham was the speaker today at an aviation luncheon held by the New Haven unit of the National Aeronautic association. Senator Bingham predicted the passage of a law by congress that would provide rules for the air, for licensing of pilots, and examination of engines.

Senator Bingham reported on what he had seen of airplanes in the west. Chicago is yet without a municipal airport, he said, and it is necessary to take an hour's ride from that city to reach the nearest field. After describing various types of planes he had seen, he commended Edsel Ford's interest in flying and described the work being done along these lines in Detroit.

President Leonard S. Horner, of the New Haven unit, also was a speaker.

MUNICIPAL PRESIDENT SLAIN BY MORO PIRATES

MANILA, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Municipal President Patero and his wife, of the town of Corona, on the island of Palawan, were murdered today by a dozen Moro pirates who robbed the house of money and jewels. The pirates fled in a sailing vessel, pursued by Philippine constabulary.

SHIPS REAPPEARING ON NEW YORK'S RUM ROW

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Rum Row's first visitants since the break up of the liquor fleet several weeks ago were reported today by the Coast Guard cutter Yamacraw, whose officers say they sighted three boats about 30 miles off New York.

The Yamacraw, which put in today at the Clifton base on Staten Island for repairs, will return to Rum Row to watch the operations of the boats.

Officers of the Yamacraw said the name of one of the boats was the Bois Des Cuttes and another the Arwyco. The former is of French registry and the latter of English registry. The name of the third boat could not be discerned.

The Bois de Cuttes had apparently been through rough seas, and was described by an officer of the Yamacraw as "the dirtiest boat I have ever seen."

DROWNED WHILE TEACHING 11-YEAR-OLD NIECE TO SWIM

MILFORD, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Drowning first sentence read "drowned here today while teaching his 11 year old niece, Catherine McDermott, of New York, how to swim. The child was clinging to a strap on Ferry's bathing suit when he gave a gasp and both went down" etc. Later information.

Mr. Ferry was a retired laundryman of Union City where for a number of years he conducted the Peerless Laundry company He is survived by his wife, and one brother, J. L. Ferry, connected with the Metropolitan company at Bridgeport and a resident of Stratford

It is believed Mr. Ferry was seized with cramps or suffered a heart attack.

When Ignacio Zuloaga, the Spanish painter, visited America recently 74,000 people viewed his art exhibit in New York in two weeks.

HELD ON CHARGE OF TRANSPORTING LIQUOR

GREENWICH, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Louis Fishman, 21 years old, of 31 Davidson street, Stamford, and William Freilly, 17 years old, of 46 Taylor street, Providence, R. I., were arrested here today charged with transporting liquor without a license. They were held under $2,500 bail. Their automobile, which was being driven by Fishman was carrying 74 gallons of alcohol in tin cans.

Fishman was in court here on August 11, 1925, charged with breach of the peace and resisting an officer. He was fined $10 and costs and sentenced to ten days in jail. The jail sentence was suspended.

NEW HAVEN ROAD EARNINGS CONTINUE ENCOURAGING

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—(AP)—July earning of the New York, New Haven and Hartford given indication of being as good, if not better, than those of June when surplus after charges amounted to $552,619. Boston advices say surplus for July of around $600,000 would not be surprising. This would bring surplus for the 7 months this year to about $3,200,000 or more than $2 a share, in contrast to surplus of $521,843 in the first 7 months of 1924 or more than the total of $3,398,650 for the full year 1924. Current earning are at the rate of $5 a share, based on normal seasonal variation.

MARKET WAS FIRM

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Stock prices developed another unexpected burst of strength today which carried both the rail and industrial averages to the highest level in years. Except for the announcement that President Coolidge expects an early agreement to be reached on the terms of rfunding Belgium's debt to the United States and that final action on the tax reduction bill was likely before Christmas, there was little in the day's news to account for the renewal of the upward movement, which has been based on improving trade conditions and prospots for a continuance of easy money rates.

Speculative interest again switched back to the rail shares, about a dozen of which broke through their previous high records for the year. With freight traffic moving in record breaking proportions and current earnings being maintained in most cases at a high rate, due to increased operating efficiency, prospects of increased dividend distributions loomed high on the speculative horizon.

New highs in the railroad group included Wabash common and preferred A, "Katy" common and preferred, Western Pacific common and preferred, New Haven, Great Northern preferred, Ann Arbor, Norfolk and Western and Kansas City Southern. In addition net gains of 2 points or more were recorded by New York Central, Rock Island, Atlantic Coast Line, Colorado and Southern, Lackawanna, Louisville and Nashville, St. Louis Southwestern and Seaboard Air Line preferred.

Widespread fluctuations again took place in the high-priced industrial specialties. S. S. Kresge jumped 45 points to a record top at 540 on one sale. Mack Trucks was the active feature, soaring nearly 13 points to a record high at 230, closing just below the top. White Motors crossed 99 to a new peak but stocks of most of the passenger cars were heavy on selling inspired by the belief that the recent cuts in prices would materially reduce earnings in the last half of the year.

Railroad equipment stocks, particularly those of companies manufacturing automatic train control devices and electrical apparatus, were strong. General Electric Signal jumped 8 points on a few sales. A sudden burst of strength in Allis Chalmers carried that stock up over 6 points to a new high at 88 1-2. Weston Electrical instrument moved up 1 1-2 points to a record high at 20 1-2. Westinghouse Electric climbed nearly 4 points to a new top at 79.

Other strong spots in the industrial group included American Smelting, Chicago Pneumatic Tool, Fleischmann, Postum Cereal, International Nickel, International Business Machine and International Harvester, all at new high records for the year, and Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies, American Radiator, General Baking and Railway Steel Spring, all of which showed net gains of 3 points or more.

Call money held steady at 4 per cent all day. The time money and commercial paper markets were quiet with no change in rates.

Foreign exchanges were irregular with most of the continental currencies displaying a heavy tone. Demand sterling ruled slightly higher around $4.85 5-8 but French francs sagged several points to around 4.64 1-2 cents. Belgian francs broke about 7 points to 4.43 cents with early selling apparently inspired by unconfirmed reports of a deadlock in the debt negotiations.

FARM PRODUCE PRICES ARE LOWER THIS YEAR

Indications of lower average prices on farm produce this year in Connecticut than during the last two years is shown in a comparison of prices made by the state department of agriculture. While only the earlier market garden truck prices are available for this year, these are listed as considerably lower for the first six months than in the corresponding period of the previous two years, experts of the department say.

The quality of garden truck is much better than last year, Leonard H. Healey, deputy commissioner of agriculture, said recently. It was also pointed out that weather conditions during the growing season, despite considerable rainfall, have been better for crop growing than in either of the two previous years.

At the request of Comptroller Frederick M. Salmon, the following list of average wholesale prices of native grown products has been compiled by the department for comparison purposes at state institutions. The prices given for shelled corn, hay and oats are retail.

Extreme dullness characterized last week's bond market. New offerings totaled only $20,809,000, the lowest of any week this year, as compared with nearly $75,000,000 the week before, and $145,000,000 in the corresponding week last year.

Sherrill Called "The Czar Of Washington"

Lieut.-Col. Clarence O. Sherrill, Superintendent of Public Buildings and Parks, Washington, D. C., who has been described as a "Czar" by Rep. T. L. Blanton, of Texas, who says that the former's friends in the army and navy are immune from prosecution for violating traffic auto rules in Capital parks. Lieutenant-Colonel Sherrill called Blanton a "meddlesome busybody" on hearing that the latter advocated the consolidation of the several separate police forces in Washington.

EIGHTEENTH REGIMENT TO HOLD ANNUAL REUNION HERE WEDNESDAY

The fifty-seventh annual reunion of the 18th Connecticut Regiment will be held at the Buckingham Memorial on Wednesday of this week. Sixty years ago last June this regiment was mustered out of service at Harpers Ferry, West Virginia. The history of the regiment is an interesting one. On the third call for troops by President Lincoln, Governor William A. Buckingham of Connecticut issued a call for six regiments of three year men, and in this class was the Eighteenth Regiment of infantry. On the eighteenth of July 1863 the governor issued an order of the regiment to go into camp on the New London county fair grounds, Norwich. "Camp Aiken" was established and named in honor of General William A. Aiken, distinguished townsman who is still living and very active at the present time.

Nineteen days after the call more than one thousand men had been enlisted and were in camp ready for military drill and discipline. In several instances flags and swords were presented to the various companies, the Greeneville company Captain Henry C. Davis receiving a flag, and Lieutenant John E. Woodward of Company F, who later became captain of the same company was presented with a sword, sash and belt in behalf of the hook and ladder company of Norwich.

The command of Camp Aiken was assumed by Brig. Gen. Daniel Tyler until the arrival of Col. William G. Ely who had been promoted to the colonelcy of the Eighteenth, and who had been previously Lieutenant, Col. of the Sixth Conn. stationed at Fort Royal, S. C. In the original roster of the regiment Monroe Nichols or Thompson was lieutenant colonel, Ephraim Keech of Killingly, major Edward L. Porter of New London, adjutant, Dwight W. Hakes of Norwich, quartermaster, Charles M. Carleton of Norwich, surgeon, Josiah V. Harrington of Sterling, first assistant surgeon, Henry W. Hough of Putnam, second assistant surgeon, Varnum A. Cooper of New London, second assistant surgeon, Joseph P. Rockwell of Norwich, sergeant major, William carruthers of Norwich, quarter master, sergeant, Henry Hovey of Norwich, commissary sergeant, and J. D. Ripley of Norwich, hospital steward.

Henry C. Davis of Norwich was captain of Co. A, Captain Thomas K. Bates of Killingly Co. B, Captain Isaac H. Bromley of Norwich, Co. C., Captain Joseph Mathewson of Thompson Co. D, Captain Isaac W. Hakes of Norwich, Co. E, Captain Henry Peale of Norwich, Co. F, Captain George W. Warner of Woodstock Co. G, Captain Charles D. Bowen of Windham Co. H, Captain Samuel R. Knapp of Norwich Co I, and Captain Ezra J. Mathewson Co. K.

Of the whole number Windham county furnished 472, New London county 436, Tolland county 58. The town furnishing the largest number for one company was Killingly seventy nine men for Co K. The oldest man enlisting was fifty one years of age and the two youngest were only sixteen years old. The regiment saw severe service in the Shenandoah Valley under Generals Siegel, Hunter and Sheridan and participated in battles at Winchester, New Market, Piedmont, Lynchburg, Snickers Ford, Barryville and took part in many minor engagements. Colonel William G. Ely was wounded and was later made a brigadier general.

The regiment at the close of the war returned to Hartford and of the field and staff all were absent except three, and of the officers of the line only half of the original number were present at the final muster out. Lieutenant Colonel Henry Peale was in command of the regiment on its return to Connecticut. Capt. John E. Woodward of Co F. is the only line officer now living and was taken prisoner at Winchester, and his account of prison life is a very thrilling one. James S. Bigelow of Co I was another prisoner and was six months at Belle Island and Andersonville and was marched barefooted from Winchester to Staunton, Va. Mr. Bigelow now resides at Thompson and expects to attend the reunion. George Parkinson of Norwich was another prisoner and tells many interesting stories relative to prison life.

The numbers of the regiment are growing small, but Secretary Arthur L. Peale states that there have been received many favorable replies and the fifty seventh promises to be one of the best of the later year reunions. During the past year the association has lost its president, James McKee, a man who was greatly beloved by all.

WATERFORD BOY MAKES FIRST DAIRY ENTRY

Le George Wood, of Camp View Farm, Waterford, goes the honor of being the first 4-H club member to enter a dairy animal for the 4-H club exhibit at the Connecticut State fair, to be held at Charter Oak park, Hartford, Sept. 7-12.

"Camp View Colantha Rag Apple Maiden," a pure-bred registered 23-months-old Holstein heifer is one animal that George will exhibit. She is the daughter of a Holstein heifer bought by George in 1923 a year ago, and which in her first year of production gave over 10,000 pounds of milk.

When George joined the New London County 4-H Dairy club five years ago, no records were kept on the home herd, and all the cattle on the farm were grades. Though George's work in keeping records, and demonstrating the value of this practice, dairy milk records are now a go on every cow, and the grades have all been replaced by registered Holsteins. These animals have all passed the state tuberculin test. This is but another example of how 4-H club work helps to establish better agricultural practices on the farms of Connecticut.

George will participate in the 4-H club dairy judging contest, competing for the prize trip to the national dairy show to be held later in the year at Indianapolis.

NORWICH PEOPLE HOME FROM FERRY BEACH

A large party of Norwich people have returned from Ferry Beach, Maine, one of the locations where summer institutes are conducted by the Universalist church. The local church was represented by the Misses Hattie Fowler, Mrs. Theodora Barber, William Huber, and Laurice Foster as delegates to the institute. Others in the party were the Misses Villa and Norwine Bussey, Elsie and Henrietta Dembroski, Virginia Disque, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bussey, Milton Green, William Mitchell, Bertrice Green and Marian Jervis.

Much interest is taken in the summer institutes held in Maine and other parts of the country, due to the excellence of the work presented. Instruction is given by the leading authorities of the denominations, in classes devoted to the various phases of organization, teaching and curricula of Sunday School, Young Peoples Union and missions.

WEAVERS QUIT AT GREENEVILLE MILL

Thirty weavers employed in the weaving room of the New England Mills company at Greeneville, went on a strike, Monday, after their demands for an increase of $2.50 a week per man, had been refused by the company.

According to officials of the plant the weaving department has been closed down and the men are no longer in the employ of the mill. Other departments of the mill, which manufactures woolen goods, are still running regular time.

NORWICH TOWN

Mr. and Mrs. Irving N. Cruthers of Canterbury turnpike, Misses Hazel and Gladys Cruthers, motored Saturday to Willimantic Camp Ground, where the family will remain for a week.

Miss Etta Walker of Town street, entertained Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Rawson of Hartford, who were automobile guests of friends stopping en route at Norwich Town.

Mrs. Harriet E. Brainerd and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Juil Gremley of Mystic were callers Sunday afternoon on Mrs. Brainerd's brother and sister in law, Dr. and Mrs. Charles H. Lamb of Town street.

When returning home, the Mystic party motored by way of New London, where they expected to meet Mr. Gremley's younger brother Herbert, who is second yeoman on the United States Destroyer MacDougal, now lying in New York harbor.

Yeoman Gremley is to spend five days at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gremley of Mystic.

Two motor parties left Norwich Town Sunday morning to spend the day at Hammonasett Beach, Madison. These included Mr. and Mrs. William House and Mrs. Elizabeth R. Kinney and son William; also Mr. and Mrs. John Olsen and son Donald, and Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin L. Kennedy, all of Town street.

Norwich Town friends are in receipt of postals from the Welte party, which includes Mrs. Joseph Boylan, now on a three months tour of Europe having sailed from New York, July 7th.

Mrs. Jeanette Waldo returned Wednesday evening to her home in Norwich Town, following several days' stay with friends in Hartford.

"Kindness," was the theme of an impressive sermon by Rev. Gurdon E. Bailey at the Sunday morning worship at the First Congregational church.

In the evening, the Young People's Christian Endeavor society, had for its leader, Miss Helen Smith of Ing-Hok, China. Miss Smith, eldest daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Edward Huntington Smith, received her education in this country, having graduated from Mt. Holyoke College, South Hadley, Mass.

At the meeting Sunday evening, Miss Smith spoke in an interesting vein on "My Answer to the World's Challenge."

For the Congregational mid-week service for conference and prayer, on Thursday evening, the theme assigned is Cornelius Acts 10.24-33.

Because of Willimantic Camp Meetings being in session, there was no service of any kind at the First Methodist Episcopal church, Sunday.

LOCAL FIREMEN WILL ATTEND STATE CONVENTION

Deputy Chief Henry R. Taft, Captain Archibald Corcoran and Firemen Robert Woodmansee and Albert Harris will leave this (Tuesday) morning for New Haven to attend the annual state convention of the Connecticut State Firemen's association.

Charles J. Heinneman, of Meriden, is president of the state association this year and will open the meeting, Mayor FitzGerald, of New Haven, extending welcome to the delegates. The credential committee will be in session at Wentworth Hall in the morning for the registration of the delegates.

The convention will be called to order at 2 o'clock when there will be election of officers, reports of officers and committees and other routine business.

The legislative committee of the state association will report to the convention of the success in having the right of way bill passed in the last general assembly, which gives the right of fire apparatus over other vehicles on the highways of the state. The bill was the result of the resolution offered to the convention last year at West Haven where the state association met.

MANY COMPLAINTS REVEAL NEGLECT OF CHILDREN

While the great majority of anony-Connecticut Humane society, with Connecticut Humain society, with head office in Hartford, are found to be the result of spite or some other ulterior motive, nevertheless a number of these complaints reveal conditions involving both physical and moral neglect of children, as well as failure to provide property for animals, according to a statement by H. Clay Preston, general manager of the society. General Manager Preston points out that it would be a great aid to the society, if all complaints are signed. He asserts that the name of a complainant will never be made known except with his, or her, consent, and that a fixing a signature to a complaint, does not in any way involve one with the person suspected or accused, nor does it obligate one to appear in court proceedings in the more important cases.

FORMER NORWICH MAN HERE FROM BROOKLYN

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Conant and daughter, Miss Marjory Conant, of Brooklyn, N. Y., have been guests for several days at the home of Mr. Conant's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. William R. Mc Cord, of Grove street.

Mr. Conant a former Norwich young man, is at present at the head of Branch Office No. 5, of the Prudential Life Insurance company in Brooklyn, being his superintendent, the highest of office he can attain. The Conant family motored to Norwich and are to pass a vacation of three weeks among relatives and friends in Connecticut, having arrived Tuesday last.

On Thursday, Mr. and Mrs. Conant and daughter, Marjory, and Mr. and Mrs. Mc Cord and daughter, Elizabeth, motored to Mystic and were supper guests at the home of Mr. Mc Cords cousin, Mrs. Harriet E. Brainerd, and family.

MAJOR EVANS MOTORS HERE FOR VISIT

NORWICH GIRL DROWNED WHILE SWIMMING IN WILLIMANTIC RIVER

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Aug. 17.—Arlene Krajewski, 20, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Krajewski, of Howard street, Norwich, was drowned in the Willimantic river at a point about 200 feet above Wilson street on the north side of the stream, while bathing, about 4:45 o'clock this afternoon. She was accompanied at the time by Miss Alice Saukitis, of Bristol. Both young ladies are members of St. Joseph's Hospital Training school and both were good swimmers. Miss Krajewski was apparently seized with cramps when she called out to her companion that she was going down.

Miss Saukitis swam to her assistance but lost her hold of the drowning girl and she then devoted her efforts to securing help. Her cries were heard by George H. Danahey, of Blackstone, Mass., who was stationed in the caboose of a freight train on the Providence-Willimantic line of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, some 250 feet away. Danahey unfortunately could not swim and ran further down the river to a place where several young men were bathing.

George Sumner, of 235 Mansfield avenue, this city, ran to the rescue and after a brief struggle succeeded in bringing the drowning girl to shore. William Timmins and Joseph Doherty, local young men, also rushed to the spot and while they attempted to revive the drowning girl others notified the police department and physicians. Chief of Police Allan MacArthur and Officers Arthur Hurley and Grant Bombria made a quick response with the fire department ambulance. Drs. Jenkins, Turcotte and O'Neill soon arrived at the scene, but nothing could be done to save the Norwich young woman and she was pronounced dead within less than half an hour after the mishap. She had struggled in the water a little over ten minutes.

Medical Examiner Dr. Louis I. Mason was summoned and after viewing the body gave permission for its removal by Killourey Bros. undertaking firm. Miss Krajewski had been connected with the hospital here since Jan 28, 1924, and was to have completed her studies as a nurse in 16 months. The young ladies were detailed to night duty and sought to escape the intense afternoon heat by bathing. They chose a secluded spot about opposite the "eel wire," a well known old swimming hole.

It is estimated that the river is from 20 to 25 feet deep where the drowning occurred. Although in this city but a short time Miss Krajewski had won a wide circle of friends who were deeply affected at the news of her death. At the hospital her superiors and sister nurses had learned to love her for her genial disposition and her competency and general grief prevailed at the institution when the sad tidings were made known there.

News of the tragic death of Miss Krajewski was received in this city early this evening with profound sorrow by a wide circle of friends and their sympathy is extended to the family in their time of sorrow. Miss Krajewski was a graduate of the Broadway Grammar school and was a member of St. Joseph's church and the Children of Mary Sodality. Besides her parents she is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Mary Czmie-ewski and Miss Beatrice Krajewski and a brother, William Krajewski, all of this city.

CONNECTICUT BUS ROUTES GRADUALLY CONSOLIDATING

The combining of service on all passenger bus lines in the state which forecasts the merging of these routes into a few great transportation enterprises is indicated in the report made on operations of jitneys during the past year by Louis Isakson, superintendent in charge of jitneys for the public utilities commission. This consolidation is foreseen inasmuch as but one more company is in operation than a year ago, while approximately 300 additional miles have been added to existing lines. The new additions were made in most instances to allow connections with other routes of the consolidation of from one to three formerly independent lines.

Schedules and service of the companies through the state are being systematized, and a gradual linking up of all disconnected routes is being accomplished. At present, service is maintained from Massachusetts to points on Connecticut shore and across the state between Rhode Island and New York, through a series of lines operating under separate certificates from the public utilities commission.

This service is independent of, and in a large measure, due to the commission of inter-state busses operating without the jurisdiction of the public utilities commission, President Patrick Healey of the Connecticut Motor Stage association, said last night.

This community of interest, Mr. Isakson pointed out yesterday, which has become more marked during the past year, has led to the consolidation of a considerable number of the bus line operators. The general trend, he said, is toward the same process of evolution which marked the trolley and steam line mergers of past years leading finally to consolidation under a few strong corporations.

The "war" with inter-state operators, Mr. Healey said, has forced Connecticut operators to give a similar "through service" by co-operation between short route companies and the establishment of time schedules to provide continuity of service. An example of this he said is the connection now possible at Willimantic and Danielson on the Hartford to Providence route, the service being maintained by three separate companies.

The 300 mile increase in bus lines during the past year is in addition to the increases made in the lines of trolley companies. The report on operation of busses by trolley companies has not been completed. However, the total mileage is estimated at approximately 320 miles, about one-half of which is in the Connecticut company system and the rest in the lines of five other trolley concerns.

A recapitalization of independent operations made to date, shows the total mileage of bus lines to be 300.55 miles or 212.5 more than the survey of a year ago indicated. Last year's survey, however, included between fifty and 100 miles of line operated in other states by companies with Connecticut franchises. The combined independent lines and trolley company bus service is approximately 1,310 miles, or about 484 miles more than the total length of the railroads in the state.

Two hundred and sixty-two busses of more than thirty types go to make up the accommodations offered on the independent lines. There are twenty-one more busses in service than a year ago, while the seating capacity has been increased from 4,030 to 4,762. The average for each car is seventeen passengers.

Adding to the general situation is the fact that the New Haven road has entered the bus transportation field. To date that company has been granted only one certificate, for a line of about six miles running out of Ridgefield to Branchville, but announcement has been made to the effect that other bus lines are being considered for its service.

TANNER AVE. COUPLE OBSERVE SILVER WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. I. Cramer, Tanner avenue, Norwich, were pleasantly surprised Sunday afternoon when several friends and relatives called on them to assist in celebrating their 25th wedding anniversary. Dinner was served and an entertainment followed. Among those present were Paul Cramer of Rockville, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Cramer of Worcester, Mr. and Mrs. L. Nimen of New Haven, Mr. and Mrs. C. Lintz of Ell county, Penna., and Mr. and Mrs. Morris Susman and family of Willimantic.

CASE AGAINST DRIVER CONTINUED UNTIL THURSDAY

In the city court Monday morning the case against Alex Lapato, charged with evading responsibility, came up for a trial, but City Attorney Lee Roy Robbins asked that the case be continued to Thursday, Aug. 20, and his request was granted by the court. Bonds of $300 were furnished by a brother of the accused.

Lapato's arrest followed an accident near 78 High street Sunday evening, when it is alleged that he struck and knocked down the seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ste e Sabonavic, injuring him slightly, and failing to stop. The act was witnessed by an eleven-year-old boy who ran after the car and obtained the number, which was given to the police.

Samuel Goldman of Norwich, Leon St. John of Sanford, Me., Charles Goyette of R. F. D. No. 4 and Charles E. Hazard of R. F. D. No. 3 paid $5 each for violating parking ordinances. Deputy Judge H. H. Pettis was on the bench.

DANGEROUS VARICOSE VEINS CAN BE REDUCED

Never mind what people say. If you have varicose or swollen veins and want to reduce them to normal, go to any live druggist and ask for an original two-ounce bottle of Emerald Oil (full strength). If he hasn't it, he can get it.

Apply it to the enlarged veins as directed and improvement will be noticed in a few days. Continue its use until veins return to normal size. It is guaranteed to reduce swollen veins or money back by Lee & Osgood and all good druggists.

Most of the rescue work was carried on by naval launches from ships anchored in the vicinity of the training station. Passing yachts offered their services and a fleet of relief ships was soon at work transporting the injured from the stricken vessel.

Officers beached the boat soon after the disaster and the rescue workers were forced to use row boats to get the injured from the grounded craft to other boats to land them.

Carried Capacity Crowd.

The Mackinac left Pawtucket early this morning bound for Newport with a capacity crowd aboard. Passengers said the departure of the boat from Pawtucket was held up more than one hour while final repairs to the patch on the boiler were made. After a day at Newport the vessel departed from Newport at 5:40 o'clock.

Description of Explosion.

When at a point opposite the training station, the boiler exploded. Those who saw the accident from a distance said that a big burst of black smoke shot from the steamer and then steam enveloped it to such a degree that the vessel could not be seen. No report was heard. Those on the vessel said the first warning they had was the steam which came in such volume that they were powerless to escape.

With the vessel in distress and many of the passengers screaming with pain panic occurred. The vessel was headed for the shore and their temporarily beached.

Heroic work by the navy then followed. The battleship Wyoming, the scout cruisers Denver and Raleigh the tender Dobbin, and scores of torpedo boat destroyers responded to a radio message sent out from the flagship and sent fire and rescue parties in life boats to the scene with one of the destroyers hastening alongside to render whatever assistance was required.

Those in the rescue parties worked feverishly to get the passengers off, the more seriously injured being attended to first and as soon as a boat was filled it was rushed to the naval hospital landing. In the meantime calls had been sent to the hospitals and a summons went out from Captain C. E. Riggs, the commanding naval officer, ordering all physicians of the navy to report for duty. A hurry call was sent to the destroyers for their available clergymen. Priests and ministers were also summoned.

While large crowds gathered, the wounded began to be brought ashore many of them presenting pitiful sights. One girl whose life is despaired of cried out continually, asking why she should die. Others were moaning, some screaming. The physicians stated that they thought several would be blinded to riflo.

Inside the naval hospital two entire wards were thrown open to the injured and the scene there resembled a shambles. Patients were moaning on the floors while awaiting attention that was given them with feverish haste. Priests and ministers were giving the last rites to those not expected to live, these being detached in separate rooms from the main wards.

Confusion in Identity.

Miguel Vasgues is the name given of the fireman whose dead body was taken from the steamer when it was towed to Kinsley's wharf, shortly after nine o'clock this evening. At the Naval hospital one of the men so seriously injured and not expected to recover is Mike Vaquaso of 62 Cherry street, New York city. The similarity of names leads to the belief that there is some confusion as to the identity of the dead man. Captain McVey said at 10 o'clock that the accident happened very quickly and that only fine work on the part of the crew prevented the passengers from leaping into the water in their fright. He said he had confidence in his engineer, John Grant, who was with the company five years. Captain McVey said he hardly knew what had happened. After a report the pilot house became enveloped in steam and he could not see. He praised the heroic work of the navy in getting the injured from the ship to the hospitals.

As soon as he could see, Captain McVey said that he headed his vessel for the shore and beached it to prevent sinking. Later the navy tugs pulled it off and towed it to Kinley's wharf, where an examination showed that the decks, both lower and upper, were warped about a foot from the force of the concussion.

U. S. Sen. Jesse H. Metcalf was proceeding down the harbor on his yacht Felicia and was within a short distance of the accident when it occurred. He gave all possible assistance and then proceede dto Newport when he saw that the work of the navy rescue parties was well under way. Upon arrival at Newport he arrange dwith Jeremiah K. Sullivan, a local contractor to call for a special train.

Supt. A. H. Monahan of the Old Colony Division of the New Haven railroad happened to be in Newport with his assistant, L. W. Nolan, and immediately started at Sen. Metcalf's request to get a special train together of nine cars. The uninjured passengers and the slightly injured were brought to it in taxicabs from the docks, naval hospital and elsewhere.

Picked Up Two Men.

U. S. Senator Jesse Metcalf of Rhode Island was passing the Naval Training Station in his yacht just as the explosion happened. He put about and picked up two men who were floundering in the water. Then he turned his yacht over to the naval authorities in charge of the rescue work. The first of the survivors were landed at the government landing where Torpedoman Frazier of the U. S. S. Touchey took temporary charge of the relief work. Hundreds offered the use of their motor cars in transporting the injured to the hospitals.

The more seriously injured were taken to the Naval Training hospital near the scene of the accident. Others were taken to the Newport General hospital while the Newport Red Cross erected a temporary relief station in Washington Square.

EARLY REPORTS OF DISASTER AT NEWPORT

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 18.—(A. P.)—Four persons are dead, one a fireman and the other an unidentified boy, some 74 are injured, 14 of them seriously, as the result of the explosion of the boiler on the steamer Mackinac before six o'clock this evening while at a point opposite the naval training station here. The injured are under treatment at the naval hospital and Newport hospital, not to mention the scores with more or less superficial wounds who insisted upon going to their homes as soon as given first aid and treatment.

All the injuries were caused by scalding steam escaping from the boilers. Alexander G. Murray, a member of the Pawtucket police department one of those injured, made the statement at the Naval hospital to the Associated Press that the hour of departure of the steamer from Pawtucket this morning was delayed over a half hour by repairs to the boiler. As a result of the delay, he said, some of the passengers refused to come down and that about 770 did. The record from a member of the crew stated that 677 passengers were on board.

Passengers on the first and second deck in the immediate vicinity of the boiler room were the more seriously injured. Those on the top deck for the most part survived without injuries as far as can be determined at this time.

Captain George McVey of Pawtucket was in charge of the boat which had a complement of six officers and a crew of 70 men. The remainder of the officers included George Thomas, pilot; Carl Johnson, first mate; John Grant, chief engineer; George Mullen, assistant chief, engineer, and John Hague, purser, all of Providence.

The final relief ship bearing the remaining injured docked at the government pier at 9:30 o'clock bearing the body of a dead fireman, a member of the crew. His name could not be determined but officers of the boat said as far as they know he is the only fatality.

The first report gave the name of Mike Baquaso of 62 Cherry street New York city, as a fireman who was badly injured and not expected to live but it could not be determined whether he is the dead man.

CONFESSED MURDER OF FLORENCE KANE

Thomas McAvoy of New York City Surrenders to Police in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 18.—(AP)—A man giving his name as Thomas McAvoy of New York city, and who said he was the slayer of Florence Kane in Brooklyn, surrendered to the local police late today. He was held for identification by the New York authorities.

McAvoy, who has only one arm and no hands, told the local authorities that he had beaten Miss Kane out of revenge, but had not intended to kill her. He said that he had at one time been arrested by Miss Kane's brother, a police detective, and that he had sworn revenge. Being unable to carry out his threat against the detective he said he had waylaid his sister. He declared that he had knocked her down, kicked her several times and then fled. He was surprised, he said, to learn the next day that she was dead.

STATE HAS SURPLUS OF $1,699,009 FOR FISCAL YEAR

HARTFORD, Aug. 18—A surplus of $1,699,007.58 in revenue receipts above expenditures by the state during the fiscal year ended June 30 is shown in a comparative statement on finances submitted to the governor today by Treasurer Ernest E. Rogers. The surplus is the largest for any year since the deficits of 1919, 1920 and 1921 were overcome. The total expenditures for last year are listed as $27,140,367.29 while revenues amounted to $28,839,374.87.

The net surplus for the fiscal year however, was $729,261.12, representing the difference between the state's funded debt amounting to $16,230,100 and the total of the sinking fund and the civil list funds on hand which was $17,020,361.13. The amount of the sinking fund at the end of the period was $12,156,448.14 a gain of $486,921.97 over the previous year, and cash on hand amounted to $4,863,921.99. The funded debt has remained at the same total isince it was increased in 1921 from $14,291,100.

The fiscal period ended June 30 was the only year in the past ten in which a net surplus was shown, except in 1918 when the state was able to show a net surplus of $593,572, according to the statement.

State expenditures have almost quadrupled since 1916, or during the ten years which the comparative statement covers.

EVEN THE UNDERTAKERS COMPLAIN OF WATER

WESTPORT, Aug. 18. — (AP)—Westport residents have made many complaints about their water supply, since the Bridgeport Hydraulic company dispensed with the well which formerly supplied the need of the town, and connected the system here to its reservoirs, but the most unusual complaint yet to be registered today, when it was contended the present water is not fit even for the dead. The C. B. Dolge company, manufacturers of embalming fluid, stated it had been forced to destroy thousands of pounds of its product, as embalmers would not buy it. The company claims the new water supply gives the product a brownish color, while it has been white during all the years of manufacture when water was obtained from the known well.

President Samuel P. Senior, of the Hydraulic company, has promised town authorities that the company will do everything necessary to remedy the condition. Trouble exists in the pipes somewhere, he indicated, but there is no uncertainty yet as to what the difficulty is.

MACMILLAN EXPEDITION EXPERIENCING DIFFICULTIES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Confronted with exceptionally cold weather, snow and fog, the MacMillan expedition tonight faced the possibility of abandoning for this year its primary object of attempting to discover land in the unknown area between Alaska and the North Pole.

As the period of continual daylight is at an end this week and the time when the expedition can effectively operate so far north with winter rapidly approaching is limited to scarcely more than two weeks and it is still far from the spot selected for its airplane flying base indications are that efforts toward completing its major mission will be terminated.

In the face of a steadily mounting file of radio reports from the expedition telling of increasing apprehension over the weather and the short time available for effective reconnaissance, under great difficulties, the entire situation was canvassed at a navy department conference today.

The result was the dispatch of a message to Lieutenant Commander Byrd, commanding the navy section of the expedition, directing him to cache, with Commissioner Donald B. MacMillan, chief of the expedition, on the advisability of concentrating the remainder of the time available for operations on supplementary or important scientific work awaiting attention in Greenland, Labrador and Baffin Island. A reply is expected within 48 hours when a definite decision will be reached.

CALL FOR CONFERENCE OF NEW ENGLAND GOVERNORS

BOSTON, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Governor Fuller's call to the other New England governors states to attend a conference here next Friday "to take definite action on the fuel situation with the object of relieving New England from dependency on anthracite as a fuel," brought answers from four states today, it was announced at the state house.

Governor Brewster, of Maine telegraphed that he would attend in person and Governor Pothier, of Rhode Island wired he would send a representative if he was unable to come himself. The secretary of Governor Trumbull of Connecticut telegraphed that the governor was on vacation, but that Connecticut would send a representative and the secretary to Governor Winant of New Hampshire notified Governor Fuller that his invitation would be considered by Governor Winant who reached New York today from Europe. Governor Billings of Vermont had not replied when the executive offices closed tonight.

DERAILMENT OF FREIGHT CAR NEAR WILLIMANTIC

WILLIMANTIC, Aug. 18—Traffic over the Willimantic end of the Providence division of the New Haven railroad, was blocked for seven hours today by a wreck a half mile south of the South Windham station when a box car in the center of a mixed train left the rails, was dragged along 200 feet and then overturned. None of the passengers in the two coaches was injured, but the roadbed was badly damaged. A wrecking crew from East Hartford was called. The train was in charge of Conductor A. N. Allen of Providence.

WHITE HOUSE NEWSPAPER CORRESPONDENTS INJURED

PLYMOUTH, Vt., Aug. 18—Three white house newspaper correspondents who accompanied President Coolidge here, were injured, none seriously, in an automobile accident today between Plymouth and Woodstock.

They were Guy D. McKinney of the Chicago Tribune, who sustained a scalp wound which required three stitches, Carter Field, of the New York Herald-Tribune, who suffered a sprained leg and injuries about the chest, and George Durno, of the International News Service, who was cut about the head.

The automobile, in which the three were returning to Plymouth from Woodstock, where the president was a luncheon guest of Gov. Billings, was wrecked. There were no other occupants.

The accident occurred at a curve. The car in which the newspapermen were riding turned out to pass another machine, struck loose gravel and careened off the road, striking a tree.

TWO PERSONS OVERCOME BY THE HEAT IN BRIDGEPORT

BRIDGEPORT, Aug. 18—Two persons were overcome by the heat here today. Frank Blazes, 45, of Derby, an employe of the Housatonic Ice Company, was the first victim. While carrying a huge cake of ice he was overcome and taken to St. Vincent's hospital in the city ambulance. His condition was reported not serious tonight.

Patrick Mastrioni, 25, fainted on the platform of the station after getting off a train from New York. He was taken to St. Vincent's hospital in a taxicab, where his condition at first was thought to be serious. It was said later the man will recover.

VISITS BY THE PRINCE OF WALES IN BUENOS AIRES

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 18—The Prince of Wales this morning visited one of the great meat factories, La Blanca Frigorifico. The Prince left his official residence accompanied by President de Alvear and proceeded by automobile to the naval school, passing through dense crowds, and embarked on the admiralty yacht Adhara.

The Adhara steamed through long lines of shipping from practically every port in the world on its way to the packing plant and a perfect pandemonium of sound broke out, every vessel, from the great liners to the smallest steamboats, vieing with its neighbor in an effort to produce the greatest noise.

Petain to Determine French Offensive

Marshal Will Direct Great Drive Against Rebel Riffian Tribesmen in Morocco.

PARIS, Aug. 18—Marshal Petain will leave Paris tonight for Morocco to determine when and how the great French offensive against the rebel Riffian tribesmen will begin. Preparations for the drive are nearly completed.

Marshal Petain will meet General Primo Rivera, head of the Spanish military directorate, at Algeciras on Thursday to arrange for cooperation between the French and Spanish forces in the coming offensive.

Premier Painleve announced today that "every means will be utilized to make the offensive as rapid and as effective as possible with the smallest loss of life."

SOFT COAL MINES IN MIDDLE WEST REOPENING

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 18—Western bituminous coal fields today advised headquarters of the United Mine Workers at the Hotel Bellevue Stratford here that a number of soft coal fields were reopening in Illinois and Indiana in answer to fuel demands on the part of erstwhile hard coal consumers in the northwest and other outlying market sections which anthracite suspension September 1 would be first to be hit.

The revival, according to the Miners' information, was developing considerable proportions, and its expansion was expected eventually to move eastward, although this had not happened yet.

After taking stock of the competitive threat of the new soft coal tonnage, various experts in the anthracite trade here took the view that it might likely help more than hurt.

They said they granted that this tonnage would probably displace from the market just that much hard coal and hard coal miners and operators would find it correspondingly expensive. But they pointed out that the mines involved, as well as the mines in the path of further development of the boom, were in fields governed by the contested Jacksonville agreement.

Their activity, then, it was said, would tend to stabilize these troubled areas through prosperity. Solvency, they prescribed, would be the best antidote for the desperation there growing out of the present tests of the Jacksonville agreement, a desperation which, they said, had already come crying into anthracite territory for comfort and relief.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, spent the day in conference with his internation board on the strategy the union will adopt in event of a walkout in the hard coal fields the end of the day.

CREW EXTINGUISHED FIRE ON SHIPPING BOARD SHIP

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 18—With a burning vessel under their feet and fireboats racing toward them from Baltimore, the officers and crew of the shipping board freighter West Harcuvar today extinguished the blaze by their own efforts and continued their trip to Norfolk.

The fire was discovered in number four hold shortly after midnight as the ship was steaming past Hooper's Island, Chesapeake Bay. It was confined to the hold, where it had smouldered for some time, according to advices received here. Its origin has not been yet determined.

Captain McLain, master of the West Harcuvar, sent out wireless calls for assistance, and saying that he was returning to Baltimore. The fireboat Torrent sailed at 3:30 this morning in response to the appeal, expecting to meet the burning vessel 35 or 40 miles down the bay. In about four hours another message came from the West Harcuvar. It read:

"Fire out. Proceeding to Norfolk."

Radio message recalled the Torrent. Officials of the Consolidated Navigation Company, local agents of the boat, said the hold in which the fire started had been packed in Boston nearly a week ago. The ship carried a general cargo from Hamburg and Bremen. She is operated by Rogers and Webb of Boston.

NEW YORK POLICE DOUBT TRUTH OF CONFESSION

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Local police professed today to be without information as to the identity of Thomas McAvoy, said to have surrendered in Philadelphia as the murderer of Florence Kane, Brooklyn secretary. The authorities in that city were asked to wire complete details and a description of their prisoner.

Miss Kane was brutally beaten to death in a vacant lot near her home early on May 29. She had attended a theatre party and, just a few minutes before her mutilated body was found, had telephoned her mother she would return in half an hour.

Her brother, Detective James Kane of the Metropolitan force, identified the body when he was assigned in the normal course of duty to the case.

Because of the fact that McAvoy said the murder occurred at 6 o'clock in the evening, whereas in fact it happened between 12:15 and 12:45 in the morning, local police gave little credence to the man's story.

COUNSEL SURRENDERS MEN CHARGED WITH MURDER

BRIDGEPORT, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Joseph Bellavito, 36, and Joseph (alias Louis L.) Zarrella, 40, for whom police have been searching on a charge of murder, were surrendered by their attorney, Harry Goldstein, today. The men are charged with having killed Alex Ladutko, 39, of Stratford, on the night of May 24, in a stabbing affair on Hallett street, this city.

Both men were bound over without bail to the September terms of the superior court in city court today. The surrendering of the two men by their attorney ends a search of more than two months, following the stabbing of Ladutko. They disappeared shortly after the affair and their hiding place during their absence was not revealed by police today.

The stabbing affair, according to testimony before Coroner John J. Phelan following Ladutko's death, was the outcome of a drunken brawl in front of Zarella's home. The killed man and his cousin, Nicholas Ladutko were pitted against Bellavito and Zarella in the fight.

Without Interest the $171,000,000 Loaned During the War is to Be Paid During a Period of 62 Years—Belgium is to Pay the Balance of the Debt, Approximately $246,000,000 Over a Like Period, With Some Remission of Interest Charge—An Interest Rate of 3 ½ Per Cent After the First Ten Years Was Agreed Upon For This Part of the Debt—Agreement Has the Approval of President Coolidge—Subject to Ratification by Congress and the Belgian Government.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—(AP)—An agreement for funding the Belgian war debt to the United States, with remission of all interest on loans preceding the armistice and part of the interest on the balance, was reached today between the American and Belgian debt commission.

The program, approved by President Coolidge at Plymouth, Vt., yesterday, was described as recognizing a "weighty moral obligation" growing out of assurances given by President Wilson during the Versailles peace conference, and also the right of Belgium to particular and special treatment by the United States.

Subject to ratification by congress and the Belgian government, the agreement provides that $171,780,000 loaned to Belgium during the actual fighting with Germany shall be paid free of all accrued or future interest. The Belgians had insisted that the loans represented as this amount should be considered a debt by Germany to the United States because such a proposal "was accepted by President Wilson at the peace conference." Such transfer of responsibility from Belgium to Germany was refused by the American commission, but it declared that "while no legal obligation rests upon the United States in the matter, there does continue a weighty moral obligation as a result of assurances given which entirely differentiates this sum from all other debts due the United States from foreign countries."

In consequence, the agreement laid down a schedule of payment for the pre-armistice loans which provides that Belgium shall pay, $1,000,000 in 1926 and the same amount in 1927, with increases in each of the next four years until in 1932 the annual payment becomes $2,900,000. It will continue at this figure until 1957, when a final payment of $2,580,000 will be due.

"Post armistice debt" was fixed at $246,000,000 including accrued interest. While interest on this was fixed at the rate of 3 1-2 per cent., the Americans agreed to forego a part of the interest for the first ten years and arbitrary amounts were established, bringing a reduction of nearly $50,000,000. The settlement is considered to be effective from June 15 last and for the first year, Belgium will pay the United States $1,740,000 as interest on the post-armistice debt, and $1,100,000 on the principal, or a total of $2,840,000.

The second year, the total payment will be $3,100,000 of which $2,000,000 will be interest and $1,100,000 principal. The charge for interest will increase sharply in each succeeding rate, until in the eleventh year, Belgium will pay $8,172,500 interest and $1,600,000 principal, a total of $9,000,000 per annum until the full term of 62 years has run out, and the debt has been extinguished.

On the post-armistice debt, Belgium will actually pay during the 62 years $310,000,000 as an interest charge, in addition to the $246,000,000 of principal.

Statement by Debt Commission.

The debt commission, with the approval of the Belgium representatives, issued the following statement explaining the plan and the reasons for its adoption.

"The basis of settlement of the Belgian debt to the United States has been reached between the United States World war foreign debt commission with the approval of the president, and the Belgian debt commission, subject to the ratification of the United States congress and Belgian political authorities.

"Repayment of the post-armistice debt, amounting to date to about $246,000,000 has been arranged on the general lines accorded to other countries. Installments on principal are spread over a period of 62 years and the rate of interest is to be 3 1-2 per cent, beginning at the end of ten years as in the other cases. In this case, however, interest payments during the first ten years have been graduated in fixed amounts. Repayment on the principal and interest for the first year will be about $3,000,000 increasing each year until the eleventh year, when the total amount repayable on principal and interest is about $9,800,000.

"The Belgian commission has been insistent that the United States should accept the basis for settlement of the pre-armistice debt of $171,000,000 which was accepted by President Wilson at the peace conference. The arrangement contemplated at that time was that the German government should be substituted for Belgium as the debtor for the pre-armistice debts. This proposal was accepted by the Belgian government as a fundamental part of other arrangements made by her under the Treaty of Versailles and was also accepted by the other creditors whose advances amounted to over $800,000,000.

"At that time it was considered by all the Belgium creditors that the pre-armistice advances to Belgium occupied entirely a different position from other financial obligations between any of the countries in the war. Although the plan was accepted by the American representatives at Paris and acted upon by all the other parties to it, the United States is not of course become legally bound as the Versailles treaty with Germany was not ratified.

"Nevertheless, the United States debt commission considers that while no legal obligations rest upon the United States in the matter, there does continue a weighty moral obligation as a result of assurances given which entirely differentiates this sum from all other debts due to the United States from foreign countries.

"Provision was made under the Dawes plan that five per cent. of the annual German reparations payments are set aside, after satisfying certain proprieties (of which the payment of cost of the army of occupation of the United States is included as one of such priorities) for service to all nations on the Belgian pre-armistice debt. All the otheh foreign countries except the United States have accepted their proportion of the sum thus payable as a consummation of the plan accepted by President Wilson, and Belgium has been relieved as a debtor to those other nations."

"The United States debt commission has not been able to accept the Belgian proposal that either Germany directly, or the proportion of the five per cent. payable to Belgium under the Dawes plans and applicable to the American debt, should be substituted by Belgium for repayment of the pre-armistice debt and a specific act by congress forbids such action. But the United States debt commission has felt that under all the circumstances the United States should not ask for more than the repayment of the principal of the pre-armistice debt. This has been arranged upon the basis of installments payable over 62 years without interest, the obligation remaining directly upon Belgium. The amount of such annual installments is to be $2,900,000 but with a portion deferred during the first six years for subsequent repayment. Thus after the preliminary periods the total payments of Belgium to the United States will be about $12,700,000 per annum.

"The adjustments of early payments on the debts have been to meet the present difficulties in Belgium in obtaining foreign exchange because of the unfavorable balance of her commodity trade and the deficiencies of her income from foreign investments, tourist travel and other forms of 'invisible' exchange."

The Belgian debt has hitherto been regarded as totaling about $480,000,000, including accrued interest at a rate of 4 1-4 per cent. The settlement, however, fixes the amount due the United States from Belgium at $417,780,000, as of June 15, 1925.

This resulted, Mr. Winston explained, from the striking off of all interest that might have accumulated on the $171,780,000 of pre-armistice debt.

Senator Smoot expressed the opinion that congress unquestionably would accept the settlement, while Representative Burton of Ohio, another member, thought the house would be captively satisfied, though some members of the senate might offer objections.

COOLIDGE INFORMED OF THE DEBT SETTLEMENT

PLYMOUTH, Vt., Aug. 18.—(AP)—President Coolidge was informed of the Belgian debt settlement here late today by the Associated Press and made the terse comment that he had hoped for it and expected it. The executive was plainly satisfied. A statement made by him here yesterday following a conference with Secretary Mellon and Senator Smoot of Utah, members of the debt commission, forecast today's settlement. The debt commissioners went over with him the proposed terms of settlement.

MISS EDERLE FAILED TO SWIM ENGLISH CHANNEL

BOULOGNE, France, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Gertrude Ederle, the 18-year-old American girl, failed to swim the English channel today. She matched the strength and endurance of her muscles against the treacherous waters in a superb battle, but was defeated.

The end came suddenly six and a half miles from Dover after eight hours and 46 minutes of one of the greatest exhibitions the old channel has ever seen. She had swallowed great quantities of salt water repeatedly during two miles of a choppy sea which was encountered about mid-channel, and she was unable to withstand the effect this had on her.

Her strokes, which had amazed the experts by their vigor, began to lack force and regularity, and the hope of a record-breaking channel crossing gave way to pessimism on the tug. She went stubbornly on, but wincing with pain, the Olympic champion had to stop every few hundred yards, roll over on her back and massage her body.

Then came the collapse. The limp and crying girl was hauled aboard the tug, a strange contrast to the powerful swimmer who had left Cape Gris-Nez almost nine hours before. She was disconsolate, saying: "I just could not do it that salt water was too much for me."

She recovered quickly as she did not suffer from the cold, as is generally the case, for the temperature of the water was 62 or 63 Fahrenheit throughout, which is warm for the channel.

CANADIANS PAID RESPECTS TO LATE SIR ADAM BECK

LONDON, Ontario, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Thousands of Canadians paid final respects to the late Sir Adam Beck today at St. Paul's cathedral where the body of the prominent industrial and political figure who died Saturday night lay in state for nearly four hours, previous to burial at Hamilton.

The coffin was banked with hundreds of floral tokens from all parts of the dominion. A private service was held at Sir Adam's residence, "Headley."

WILLIMANTIC

Between 1:30 or 2 o'clock Tuesday morning, burglars entered the Polish Corporation bakery, 66 Jackson street and the office of the wholesale cigar and confectionery store conducted by Howard A. Gillette, in the Strand Theatre building on Broad street, one block away from the location of the first break. The same parties are believed responsible for the two burglaries which netted considerable loot and over two hundred dollars in currency. The Gillette store had been locked up by Frank Marchat, one of the employes, about midnight, Monday. When he arrived Tuesday morning the safe door was partly open and a box had been taken from an inner compartment. A wallet from which $207 had been taken lay on the floor. The money taken from the safe was in a box with several checks, but so far as is known the checks are intact. The cash and checks totalled $711 when balanced up Monday night by Acting Manager Ernest LaFleur. $18 was taken from the cash register making a total of $225 removed. Howard A. Gillette, proprietor of the store was on a vacation at Groton Long Point and he came here immediately upon being notified. Chief of Police Allan McArthur lost little time in getting an investigation under way. Entrance to the Gillette store was apparently made by someone who had in some manner familiarized himself with the interior. Of two wooden blinds on the rear windows, one is fastened with an iron bar and the other with a wooden one and the latter was pried open with a jimmy. A climb of six feet into the window brought the intruder into the rear storeroom and from there a door bolted with a wooden staple and pin was forced allowing access to the safe and cash register. The safe combination did not appear to have been forced, and the person responsible either knew the combination or was an expert at opening safes. No merchandise was removed from the store.

At the Polish Corporation bakery entrance was effected by removing a screen on the south side of the building, lowering the window from the top and crawling through over a bread-making trough. From the top of the desk was taken a large flashlight, two dozen lead pencils, a quantity of writing pads and a chisel. The time of the break was estimated at about 1:30 o'cloc, kon the information of a resident of the locality who claimed to have been awakened by the loud barking of a dog in the vicinity of the Strand Theatre about that hour.

The combination passenger and freight train No. 4,303 from Providence due in Willimantic at 9:50 o'clock tied up traffic over the line for several hours Tuesday morning when the trucks on a box car, three cars back from the engine, loosened from its fastenings and left the rail, tearing up the roadbed and over five hundred ties just south of the South Windham station of the New Haven Railroad. The partly derailed car bumped along the road bed for some distance before Engineer Joseph Place became aware of the mishap and brought his engine to a stop. The engine and cars directly following were run along to the local yard but two passenger coaches attached to the rear of the train were held up until after one o'clock when the wrecker and crew from East Hartford arrived and cleared up the tracks. Passengers in the coaches were but slightly shaken up. The cause of the derailment of the truck was not given out.

The funeral for Thomas Pageau was held from the Hurteau-Bosse Corp. undertaking parlors on Main street, Tuesday morning. Requiem high mass at St. Mary's church was sung at 9 o'clock. A delegation of members of St. Jean Baptiste Society and Conseil Florimond l'Union St. Jean Baptiste d'Amerique acted as an honorary escort from the parlors to the edifice and to the cemetery. The bearers were Napoleon Brindamour, Emile Roy, Arthur Murrotte and Alexis Caisse. Rev. Hormisdas C. Belec was celebrant at the mass. Mrs. Joseph F. Gaudreau was at the organ. There was special choral singing. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery. Rev. Father Belec read the committal service.

Mrs. Annie Shanley, 83, widow of John Shanley, and one of the best known residents of this city died at her home, 40 West Park street Monday night after a brief illness. She is survived by two daughters, Misses Mary and Catherine Shanley of Willimantic and one son, Dr. John D. Shanley of New York city.

Miss Elizabeth Barga, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Barga, of Warrenville died at Undercliffe Sanitarium in Meriden Monday night. She leaves besides her parents a sister, May and three brothers, Andrew, Albert and Louis Barga, all of Warrenville.

John Bonkoski of Andover Center was in the Andover town court Sunday afternoon to answer to a charge of aggravated assault upon his wife, Mary Bonkoski. The man asked for a continuance of his case until Saturday next, and this was granted him after he had furnished a bond of 1,000. Boskoski owns a farm in Andover where his wife and children do the chores, but he works in Hartford. Last Sunday he complained that his dinner did not please him and he attacked his wife wielding a kitchen knife in a dangerous manner. Deputy Sheriff Allison L. Frink was summoned and he presented the man in court.

Steve Kornovietz of Ashford was charged with reckless driving, when in the Mansfield town court, Tuesday morning. He pleaded not guilty. His Ford car collided with a machine operated by Fred Whitehouse, opposite the Clark Crane home in Atwoodville, Monday afternoon. Whitehouse's machine was badly damaged. Kornovietz refused to settle and he was placed under arrest by State Policeman Joseph Kaminski. Three witnesses against the accused testified that he was driving recklessly. Justice of the Peace H. Andrews found Kornovietz guilty and imposed a fine of $25 and costs, amounting to $43.32. Grand Juror Frank W. Millard prosecuted.

Allen Jewett of Clark's Corner celebrated his eighty-sixth birthday at his home, Sunday. Relatives and friends called on him during the day to tender congratulations and many good wishes were received through the mail. Residents of Norwich, Brooklyn, Danielson, Jewett City and Willimantic were among the callers. Various presents were given Mr. Jewett. He was pleased when local friends presented him a tray containing eighty-six dimes, representing the milestones of his life.

The drainage system along North street is being improve dto avaid another baby flood such as was experienced at the corner of North and Main streets after the last severe rainstorm. Concrete gutters are being connected with those built along Meadow street and laid down to Main street, along North. The opening of the storm sewer at the corner is being enlarged and otherwise made more efficient to carry off large quantities of water. Similar improvements have also been made along Valley, Temple and Center streets.

The Willimantic Lumber and Coal company has brought suit against Mrs. Jessie Myles of Chapman street to recover an alleged unpaid bill of $400 for supplies. Damages of $600 are claimed. Constable Joseph Peck placed an attachment Tuesday on property owned by the defendant. The case is returnable in the Windham county superior court.

Joseph Slowick, 82, year old farmer sustained cuts and lacerations on both legs and a general shock, Tuesday forenoon, when a pair of horses drawing a mowing machine on his farm in Eastford bolted and ran away while he was operating the machine. He was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, Willimantic for treatment.

Paul Foti et al, has been made defendant in a civil action brought by the Willimantic Lumber and Coal company for the recovery of an alleged unpaid lumber bill of $2,000. Damages of $2,200 are claimed. Property owned by the defendants in this city has been attached by Constable Joseph Peck and the case is returnable before the Windham county superior court in September.

Noting her sixty-first birthday friends of Mrs William Taylor, of Meadow street surprised her Monday evening when they arrived at her home in a group carrying with them luncheons of sandwiches, ice cream and cake.

G. Raymond Young, of this city, a member of the Hudson-Essex Motor Sales Company of Norwich is resting comfortably at St. Joseph's Hospital after undergoing an operation for appendicitis, Tuesday morning.

FINE EATS FOR ROTARIANS AT HOME OF A. J. MARTINEAU

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Aug. 18—Willimantic Rotary club met and made merry and partook heartily of a clambake dinner on the grounds of the Aime J. Martineau home, Pleasant street, at 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Sergeant at Arms Martineau proved himself a most adept host and was given a rising vote of thanks. Abe Robarge, the chef was also in line for thanks for the splendid spread, which he had prepared, of steam clams, boiled fish, lobster, hot dogs, corn on the cob, tomatoes, cucumbers, sweet potatoes, watermelon, preceded by delicious clam chowder. The tables were set in a grove of tall trees and the cool breeze, which accompanied the setting of the sun after a day of intense heat, sharpened the appetites of those present. The meal concluded, President John Ahern ordered the members and guests to sit in a row along the stonewall. Roll call and the minutes were read by Secretary Girard E. Loisell. A three-piece orchestra, Harry Young, banjo, Lewye Gerry, cornet and Edward Gerry, saxophone, played popular melodies during the meeting, also accompaniments for group songs. Song Leader Doc Jones led in a variety of old favorites and harmony prevailed. Tim Weatherhead entertained with several legislative songs which elicited rounds of applause. The guests were Edwin J. Donnelly, Edwin Kinney and Charles H. Caswell of this city, Stanley Dodge of Storrs and Carl Erickson of Camp Yankee, Eastford. The meeting adjourned at 7 p. m. with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

CORONER BILL'S INQUEST IN DEATH OF NASCIN BOY

(Special to the Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC Aug. 18.—The inquest on the death of Michael, five and one half year old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Nascin of North Windham road, who was fatally injured Monday afternoon by a car operated by Mrs. Eleanor K. Lewis, of North Ashford, was conducted in this city Tuesday by Coroner Arthur G. Bill of Danielson.

The inquest was held in the office of Chief of Police Allan McArthur. Witnesses heard were State Policeman Russell I. Harmon who investigated the accident, Alfred Stocker of 10 Lafayette street, Mrs. Lewis and her companion in the car, Miss Ruth E. Morse, of North Ashford, and Francis Margaret and Pauline Nascin, brother and sisters, respectively of the dead child. Coroner Bill will make known his findings within a few days. Mrs. Lewis is being held on a technical charge of reckless driving and is under bonds of $2,000, furnished by Harold Maine of this city.

Chief Justice Marshall had black eyes.

CAMP MEETING EXERCISES HELD UNDER SUNNY SKIES

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC CAMPGROUND, Aug. 18, 1925—The rainy season apparently being over and sunshine the rule, there was a very large attendance at the second morning watch held in the tabernacle at 8 o'clock on Tuesday. The leader was Rev. J. P. Wonder, pastor of Millville and East Blackstone, Mass.

The usual periods of institute studies occupied the forenoon. Dr. Liff and Mrs. Stevens talked on Foreign and Home Missions respectively. Miss Marenda Prentis, of New London, taught Junior Sunday school methods.

Dr. Harold W. Ruoff of Jamaica Plain, Mass., continued his series of addresses on "Mountain Peak Experiences of the Young Man of Galilee." This Bible Study hour at 11:15 is open to all, and a good-sized audience was in the tabernacle. Jesus lived out all His teachings before He began teaching them. The Mountain peak experience of Jesus' baptism and call to public service. Christ was not baptized because He was sinful or to make himself identified by public declaration with the Kingdom of God which was being preached by John. The Mountain peak of Christ's temptation showed Him the Messiahship He was to carry out. In thinking it out He forgot to eat. In His first temptation He considered character above physical needs; in the second, He realized He was not to do grandstand stunts as a fireworks Messiah. He was tempted in the third temptation to compromise His idealism of truth, sacrifice and God.

Dr. C. E. Spaulding of New London, held the first of three Forest Retreats for ministers at one o'clock yesterday, beneath the large pine tree just outside the upper camp meeting gate. His theme was The Prayer Meeting, the leader is the key-man and must be a man of prayer, a delighted child of God. Religion is contagious. It is "caught" from happy children of God, rather than by argument. The purpose of the prayer meeting is prayer.

At the same hour the children's meeting was conducted by Miss LaFarge at Epworth Chapel; and the social meeting was held at this time also in the Stafford Springs house, on Wesley Circle, led by Rev. John M. Von Deck of Oneco.

The 2 p. m. service was held in the auditorium. Choirmaster Sallis made brief remarks upon worshipful music. The scripture was read by Rev. A. E. Whiton, pastor at Vernon and Quarryville. Prayer was offered by Rev. L. P. MacLennan, of Old Mystic. Rev. George Smith Brown of Gales Ferry preached on the topic, "Christian Life a Big Adventure." He illustrated it by the story of Jesus and the rich, young ruler.

Prof. Walter R. Foley of Chicago gave his first lecture on Epworth League Methods and is to continue these lectures for the next few days.

The Epworth League Institute Members are divided into four groups named after early American Methodist preachers: Francis Asbury, Philip Embury, Freeborn Garrettson and Jesse Lee. Some 125 are already registered as pupils.

The annual meeting of the Cottage Holders was held in the New London House at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. As the president, Rev. F. Chamberlain, had gone to his parish at Hope, R. I., to attend a funeral, the chair was occupied by the vice-president, Mrs. James Purdie, of Willimantic. She called on Rev. W. D. Woodward, of Staffordville, to offer prayer. The secretary, Miss Helen Dyson, being absent, the chair appointed Mrs. Ellen Brownell secretary pro tem; she read the secretary's report for 1924. The president appointed Miss Alice Strong, of Boston, and Mrs. Bertha Gridley, of Willimantic, a nominating committee. They brought in the following names for officers: President, Rev. Frank Chamberlain, of Hope; vice-president, Mrs. James Purdie, of Willimantic; secretary, Miss Helen Dyson, of East Orange, N. J.

The following delegates were elected to attend the annual meeting of the Camp Meeting association Saturday next; Mrs. June E. Read, Worcester; Mrs. Stephen Dunstan, Mrs. James Purdie, Mrs. Jacob Betts, Mrs. Ida Burlingham, Miss Addie Webber, Mrs. J. T. Neal, all of Willimantic; Miss Alice Strong, of Boston; Miss Emma Colver, Mrs. Julia Hutt, Miss Henrietta Leyon, William Hibbard, all of Manchester; Mrs. E. H. Brownell, of East Hartford; J. H. McCarthy, of Springfield; Rev. F. Grant, of Warren, Mass., and Mrs. H. E. Dyson, of East Orange, N. J. Three reserve delegates were chosen: Mrs. J. Rollinson, of Stafford, and Mrs. C. Morrell and Miss Inez Brown, of Willimantic.

It was voted that the cottagers' annual meeting date be printed in the annual camp meeting program. Other requests were discussed and the meeting adjourned.

The fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the Camp Ground auxiliary of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church was held at the Haven, the president, Mrs. Albert Boardman, of Norwich, occupying the chair. Miss Ella Stanley, of Highland Park, read the Scriptures and offered prayer. The reports of the secretary and treasurer were read and approved.

The treasurer, Miss Emma Colver, of Manchester, stated that since its inception in 1875 some $3,000 has been raised by the auxiliary for foreign missions, and that the children with their mite-boxes had raised $709. It was stated that the late Capt. Henry M. Randall had supported a Bible woman in India for twenty years.

A feature of the meeting was a review of the fifty years of the auxiliary's work by the secretary, Mrs. W. J. Stephens, of Vernon. Its first president was the wife of the late Rev. Joseph H. Janies. The late Mrs. E. E. Colver, of Manchester, was secretary for 45 years, and is succeeded by Miss Emma Colver, her daughter. The first Sunday missionary meeting on the grounds was held in the summer of 1891. Bishops Thoburn, Taylor and Hartzell and other noted speakers have made addresses.

The officers re-elected for the ensuing year are: President, Mrs. Albert Boardman, of Norwich; vice-president, Miss Helen Dyson, East Orange, N. J.; secretary, Mrs. W. J. Stephens, Vernon; treasurer, Miss Emma Colver, of Manchester.

The Camp Ground auxiliary of the W. H. M. S met in annual session at The Haven on Church Circle, with the president, Miss Alice Strong, of Boston, in the chair. It was voted that the money collected by mite-boxes and otherwise should be sent, as for several seasons past, to the Silver Lake settlement at Providence, R. I., a work carried on among the Italians by Mrs. C. J. Davis. Mrs. Cora Downs Stevens was invited to address the members at 4 p. m. each day. All the officers were re-elected save Mrs. W. H. Bath, of East Providence, who is no longer on the District. The officers are Mrs. Alice Strong, president; Mrs. M. E. Genter, of Norwich, vice-president; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. S. F. Maine, of Phenix, R. I.; Mrs. B. B. Gardner, of New London; collection secretary, and Mrs. C. Morrell, of Willimantic, mite box collector.

Rev. J. W. Carter, of Jawett City, preached Monday evening after the usual praise service led by Choirmaster Sallie. He had a large chorus choir gathered about the organ in the straw in the front of the auditorium platform. The afternoon and evening meetings are to be held in the out-of-doors under the wide-spreading roof of the auditorium.

Rev. F. W. Gray, of Rockville, read Scripture, and Rev. J. M. Von Deck, of Oneco, prayed. Announcements by Rev. M. E. Genter and offering followed. The choir rendered a special hymn. The preacher, Rev. J. W. Carter, of Jewett City, had as his theme, "Getting Better Acquainted With God." He told a thrilling story of 24 men who were imprisoned in a submarine 200 feet under the sea. As an aforetime chaplain at the New London submarine base, Mr. Carter learned that many of those men were on their knees trying to get better acquainted with God.

After this service, the young people adjourned to the tabernacle where an informal social was held. Among the speakers were Dr. Lipp and Dr. Ruoff, Mrs. Stevens, Miss Prentis, Revs Gray, Stimson and Sallis. A rehearsal by the choir was then held. Preparations are being made for a cantata, to be given later in the week.

The annual camp fire, it was announced, would take place Tuesday night.

At 4 o'clock, Rev. Roger C. Stinson, of Danielson, conducted various forms of recreation at the playground.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Huntington motored from East Thompson yesterday and the latter remains for the rest of the meeting.

Mr. Huntington returned home but expects to come to the grounds again Friday.

WESTERLY

The parents of George Moosey, 18 1-2 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chickery Moosey, are interested to know his whereabouts and if he is still in the U. S. army. August 7th Mr. Moosey received a letter from the federal authorities, saying that he was now out of the service, and the same day was received a letter from the boy which gave his location as Fort Slocum, N. Y.

Young Moosey, one of fourteen children, has been employed as a mason's helper by his father, a well known stone mason of Westerly, and several times has strayed away from his home. On his last trip he went as far as Pennsylvania, where his parents sent for him to reutrn. Over two months and a half ago a letter was received from him stating that he had enlisted and was stationed at Fort Slocum and having tired of the life of a soldier wanted his father to secure his discharge. One of the reasons given was that he was under age and if the same was made known to the proper federal authorities he would be released. His father took the matter up with the Westerly branch of the American Red Cross and thought that his son's return home would be a matter of but a short time. Although this is not the first time that the young man has been away from his Westerly home, Mrs. Moosey views with growing alarm the non-appearance of her boy.

The new cement highway laid by the Rhode Island State Board of Public Roads on High street, from the junction of Pleasant street to the top of Vincent Carr hill, was opened to automobile traffic Monday for the first time. The into-town traffic was allowed on that date to use the out-of-town, or the left hand side of the road way. While the High street section has been torn up, detour has been by way of Pearl street and later by way of Canal street and the Varietyville road, to the old white school house corners. By Thursday, it is anticipated, that the relocated section of the new state highway across country from the top of Vincent Carr hill to the Meeting House bridge will be opened so that a continuous stretch of cement highway will be available to automobilists through the town of Westerly from and to the business center. The Meeting House bridge, a new cement structure erected by the state across the Pawcatuck river, which is the boundary betwen the towns of Westerly and Hopkinton, will require some further time for its approaches on either side to become permanently settled, for a considerable filling had to be made to the high elevation of the new bridge. Later, when the level becomes fixed a permanent surface can be laid.

Workmen Monday finished the job of placing stucco on the short section of store front on the south side of the New Park hotel on High street, extending from the ground up three stories to the jet under the French roof. The entire front of the New Park Hotel, which has been lathed, and partly covered with cement will have the slag thrown upon it for the final surface as on the south side. New plate glass windows and a copper front now form the first story front of the hotel, with the new treatment to cover the second and third stories to the jet.

Railroad carpenters having rebuilt the fence on the railroad embankment top, between the New Haven road property and Railroad avenue, are now engaged in replacing broken pickets on the high picket fence extending along the property line on Railroad avenue, from the West street bridge toward the Westerly station of the New Haven road. Many of the wide wooden pickets have become broken or split and these are now replaced with new ones. When the work is completed the painters' gang will go over the fence, before winter weather begins. With increasing automobile traffic, the necessity for a substantial fence is manifest, on many occasions automobiles have crossed the sidewalk to bring up against the fence, thus preventing a crash down the fifteen foot gravel bank to the railroad tracks.

Mrs. Elizabeth L. Bisset, a bookkeeper for the past ten years in the office of the Westerly branch of the Lorraine Manufacturing company, Pawcatuck, completes her duties there Saturday next. She will take a month's vacation, following which she will enter the employ of the Gavitt Manufacturing company, at their office in West Brookfield, Mass.

Thursday, at Bayberry road, Watch Hill, Antoinette Hall-Whytock, entertains in honor of Miss De Kyzer and her husband, Duncan Cumming, from the Music Colony center at Shelter Harbor, near Haversham, who will have a part in a musical program to be presented.

The seventh band concert in Wilcox park in the summer series by the Westerly Band, Charles O. Gavitt, director, will be omitted this week Thursday evening and not given until Thursday evening of the week following. Six open air concerts have been given so far this season; the seventh scheduled for last Thursday night had to be postponed on account of the stormy weather. Postponement of the concert is reported as caused by the absence of a number of the band members, who are on vacation.

For the Elks' Outdoor Charity Bazaar, given under the auspices of Westerly lodge, No. 67, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks of Westerly, at the grounds at the corner of Elm and Beach streets, elaborately decorated and illuminated grounds await visitors. A vaudeville show, a merry-go-round for the children, dancing, automobile show and a midway are listed among the various attractions.

Misses Bernice E. and Mary A. Whipple, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Whipple, of Westerly, are scheduled to leave Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, today (Wednesday) by steamship Pan America of the Munson Steamship line, on their return to New York, and their home in Westerly. Leaving Westerly the first of July, the Misses Whipple have traveled through the Panama canal to Peru, Bolivia and Chili, across the Andes to Montevedio and to Brazil.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Cully and son, Samuel, Jr., left Westerly Wednesday for a vacation to be passed at Haverhill, Mass.

Mrs. Clara V. B. Clarke and son Milo R. Clarke, of Westerly, were visitors in Newport, Tuesday.

Frank J. Martin returned to his home in Germantown, Penn., Tuesday after a wee kor ten days' visit with his brother, Albert G. Martin, in Pawcatuck. The week end was passed by them on a visit to Newport, and some of the time at A. G. Martin's summer cottage at Charlestown Becah.

Charles O. Gavitt began a two weeks' vacation Tuesday from his duties with the Westerly Furniture Co.

Rev. E. P. Mathewson of Ashaway left Westerly Tuesday morning for a visit in Providence.

Charles D. Anderson of New York is having two weeks' vacation and is visiting his father, Charles F. Anderson on the old Hopkinton road in Westerly.

Mrs. Henry A. Stahle and daughter Miss Julia, of Pawcatuck, having left New York city returned by motor boat. The power craft was the "Xilla." Capt. Dr. Henry L. Long, of New York. It arrived at Watch Hill harbor Monday night.

(Mrs. Stahle returned on the power boat).

George Moore of Port Chester, N. Y., has been the guest of relatives on the West Side.

Miss Betty B. Alger of Westerly returned Monday evening from Groton Long Point, where she has been the guest of relatives and friends.

Dr. Jesse W. Stillman of Wilmington, Del. is visiting his parents, Mr and Mrs. A. R. Stillman, of the West Side.

MYSTIC

Mrs. Uranale Baker Mattison was 94 years old Monday. She had many callers and received cards and gifts from numerous friends. She is possessed of keen intellect and with the exception of impaired sight is well for her years and interested in the happenings of the day. She has one son, Edgar Matteson, who lives in Providence and a daughter with whom she lives. She receives the love and devotion of children and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Holmes and son, of Miami, are at the home of Mrs. Holmes' parents, Mr. and Mrs. John MacDonald.

TAX REDUCTION

From the statements made following the conference with President Coolidge it is shown that the matter of tax reduction has not been sidetracked. It is just as fixed a purpose of the administration as ever and it is certain that the conditions are such as to justify it.

The promise of a reduction in the federal taxes, a revision of the present law that will make the cut possible by the middle of next March, indicates not only the sentiment that prevails among congressmen, in interpreting the desires of the people, but means that the new rates will be the basis upon which collections will be made next year.

Through the policies that have been followed under the present administration the financial condition of the country is such as to warrant a reduction in the income. Naturally it is to be expected that this will take the form of a cut in the tax rate. There are several ways in which this can be done. There are various rates which may be reduced. Nothing definite has been decided upon but according to the recommendations which were laid before the president there are indications that there will be a further reduction in the normal income tax as well as a substantial slicing of the surtax rates. This will have the effect of relieving the burden on all taxpayers, the small as well as the large.

A decidedly different sentiment is to be found today relative to tax reduction from what has prevailed in the past. There has been a chance to learn public sentiment and to study the effects of action taken as well as certain recommendations which were not adopted.

Without any question the country desires a reduction of taxation. It is equally certain that such a change will be made. How much opposition will be met will be hard to predict but it can be expected that there will be a scramble to get the benefit of proposing this, that and the other reduction for the political benefit that will result whether or not such changes are justified by the situation. What is wanted is as large a cut as can be made on a scientific basis and that is what should be forthcoming with the least delay.

THE THREATENED STRIKE

It is less than two weeks to the first of September which marks the expiration of the present understanding between the anthracite miners and operators. That means that unless there is some agreement reached in the meantime there will be a strike on that day, the digging of coal will stop and the consumer will have additional cause for worry.

It is entirely possible that some understanding will be reached before this month closes but it is to be noted that there appears to be no apparent fear on the part of the government that the strike will result in any hardship to the users of coal. The belief prevails that there is much coal mined with which to meet a threatened shortage from curtailed production but in addition it will be possible to provide substitutes in such quantity as to overcome any hardship. This indicates that one of the strongest levers connected with a coal strike has been greatly weakened. There is not the advantage held either by the miners or the operators that was formerly the case.

Those who have their cellars filled are doing no worrying. Those who have abandoned coal and are using oil are giving it no thought beyond congratulating themselves on the wisdom of their action. Those who have been using substitutes since the last strike are more confirmed than ever in their course and recognize that they are no longer subject to the Pennsylvania monopoly.

There are of course plenty of anthracite consumers who are much concerned by the present state of uncertainty but with the last strike decreasing their number by twelve per cent it is evident that the pressure which has been exerted in the past upon the consumer has brought reaction. There has long been a cry for a substitute for hard coal. In the opinion of many there is no longer any need of considering themselves under the control of the miners and operators of the Keystone State. That is why the threat of a strike creates less concern now than it has in the past.

FIGHTING DOPE AND CRIME

Chicago has reason to be gratified over the disclosures which have been made concerning the operations of the dope peddlers in that city and must feel that a most important step has been taken toward the elimination of such conditions and the reduction of the deplorable volume of crime which has prevailed in that community.

It makes little difference what kind of laws are enacted if they are not properly enforced. If enforcement is entrusted to crooks the outlook is indeed a serious one, and Chicago the recent revelations has reason to feel that the guiding hand of the narcotic law enforcers has been directly responsible for much of the crime that has occurred there. Certainly when those who are expected to direct the efforts of suppressing illicit traffic in drugs become engaged in the distribution of such goods and connive with crooks to accept loot in payment for the dope it is a blow at law and crime regulation which places a city at the mercy of such individuals.

Crime and dope go hand in hand. Criminals are invariably dopesters. While they are not the only users of opium in its various forms there are too often brought to lives of crime, or kept in it, through the use of narcotics.

Chicago has been getting a most unenviable reputation for the large amount of crime developing there and while it will not be justified in resting the recent raids and the trapping of the narcotic chief as the solution of all its troubles it may well feel one serious source has been eliminated and that much of the illegal dope traffic and the crime that has been encouraged by it will cease.

Something more than the mere publishing of his name and dropping him from office should be in store for the head of the federal narcotic force in the northern part of Illinois. As the master hand he is in line to receive the full penalty of the law and it will be a gross mistake if such is not the result of the revelations made.

THE FILM TAX

In the first test of the state law, enacted by the last session of the general assembly, placing a state tax upon the films shown in Connecticut the contention of the state that it was a constitutional law, that the state had the right to exercise such authority and to collect such a tax is upheld. Connecticut has imposed a tax which has been fought on the ground that it placed a restraint upon interstate commerce and that it was action in excess of its authority, even after a determined effort was made to get the governor to withhold his signature.

The case has been heard by three federal judges and they are unanimous in their opinion that the law is not unconstitutional. Therefore no injunction to stop enforcement of the law was granted. That may, as indicated, be only the first stage of the effort to avoid such a tax but the fact that it is the opinion of three federal judges serves to strengthen the belief that the carrying of the case to the highest court in the land will bring no different results.

Here is a case where Connecticut has decided it is time that a tax should be placed upon the motion picture industry doing business in this state quite the same as taxes are imposed upon other corporations. There is no desire upon the part of the state to violate the constitution and in adopting the law there was no thought of doing so. A federal court says that this has not been done. One more step and it will be definitely settled.

Collection of the tax has been held in abeyance with records being kept of films shown. If collections are undertaken now they will of course be subject to refund in case the decision of the highest court is adverse.

A WRONG SENTIMENT

While the Institute of Politics at Williamstown has been doing business for the past two summers it has received added attention because the protest that has been voiced by Rear Admiral Huse concerning the type of sentiment that is manifested toward both the foreign and domestic policies of this government.

Probably it is no more than expected that those who come here from other countries have something to say in regard to such matters. They might be expected to voice their opinions concerning our foreign policy, viewing it as they do from their own standpoint. It is not impossible to get interesting information from such sources, and it is bound to be weighed in accordance with its source. All this is fully understood by the rear admiral.

But what he takes exception to most seriously is the attitude displayed in so many instances by the American people in response to such expressions. He deplores the seemingly eager manner displayed by the many in applauding these criticisms. Instead of standing as Decatur urged with country at all times, be she right or be she wrong, Rear Admiral Huse protests on good grounds against the disposition to join in with the critics of our government and giving comfort to those who would have our policies based chiefly upon the meeting of the interests of other countries first and ourselves second.

The chances are that this sentiment as expressed at Williamstown too often, in the opinion of the rear admiral, would have for the most part passed unnoticed to most people but it did not to the naval official and naturally he could not permit it to go without protest. It is well and the protest should have its good effects.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The man on the corner says: As long as no one is perfect everyone has reason to hope.

The New York mayoralty contest is developing enough heat to mean the prolongation of summer in the big city.

The claim is made that the American farmer will get four billion for his crops this year. Whom will he blame for it?

There is no good reason to believe that Wisconsin is going to abandon its LaFollettism even though it is desired and there is an opportunity.

In spite of the speed shown in some of the divorce courts there are those who will envy the president of Turkey in being able to sign his own decree.

Probably Chicago will insist that it can prevent all the trouble about the water wearing down Niagara Falls by turning more of it into its sanitary canal.

That musical instrument of the Eskimos which resembles a tennis racquet may produce music that sounds like a cross between a uke and a saxophone.

Reports of better business conditions and outlook here, there and yon, are in accord with what is desired and the fulfillment of which will be even more welcome.

DELICATE PERCEPTIONS

"Oh, whaddoyuh think of it!" cried the nice young man in great wrath, banging things down on the dresser. "This tie doesn't match my socks and handkerchief at all! The shade is entirely off—and I was going over to see Marina tonight—"

"Do they send out a butler with a color chart before they let you inside the door?" demanded the visiting uncle, who had been craving the chance to say a few things to his nephew. "Will Marina scream and faint and cry that her teeth are set on edge because of the discrepancy between your footgear and that about your neck?"

"My boy, if the girl has true affection for you and your collar is clean no more worry is necessary, but if soul communion is quite impossible when your mouchoir is banded with lavender and your socks are of a heliotrope cast you had better take warning in time! Have you paused to figure out just what a wife like that would mean?

"Claudine Prime was a girl I knew when I was your age. Other maidens might gayly prance off to the tennis courts clad in green and pink, yeas and blue all at once and have the dickens of a good time, but not Claudine. When she issued from her abode she invariably was a symphonic poem. If it was a brown day with her she wore browns from the top of her head to her soles and if she chose a black frock she donned a snappy scarlet hat and her handbag would be patent leather with touches of the same scarlet.

"Not a hair was even out of place, not a fleck of dust on her footgear, and as for a hole or a ripped seam in her apparel, well, the ambulance would have been on its hasty way had she found such a tragedy after sallying forth. So Claudine rather kept us up to snuff. Such a polishing and a shining as went on before we ventured into her presence you never can imagine. Her whole evening had been known to be ruined if a cavalier ordered a pink ice cream after a green dinner. She said it made her ill, being so sensitive to harmony in every way.

"Claudine was noted as a celebrity and we were a little in awe of her. We never dared say she bored and annoyed us because of the chorus of praise emanating from the older population. All of them said what a wonderful woman Claudine was going to be and what a home she would make! It would be a perfect home, a color poem, a dietic sonnet, it would have an atmosphere of refinement above all others, due to this trait of hers, this passion for perfection in every way.

"She grew more and more particular as time went on and folks began to say there just didn't seem to be anybody good enough for Claudine to fancy, nobody who measured up to her exquisite sense of aesthetic values and her mother had a terrible time keeping help. They all said Claudine was such a fusser and impossible to please and they'd rather work where the daughters of the family didn't have hysterics if the parsley were left off the breakfast omelet.

"One by one the youths whose mothers artfully held Claudine before their eyes slipped from under and married elsewhere and at last Claudine, who didn't want to be totally left in the lurch, married a man who puts his feet on the tables when he smokes and reads, thinks red is the handsomest color on earth if only there is enough of it and dotes on corn beef and cabbage and boiled onions. He even slaps her on the back and calls her "old girl."

"No, Claudine didn't die of it—she weighs 20 and looks lots happier than in the old days. Nobody fusses her up as a model any more, either. They say instead she is a frightful housekeeper. So you can't tell about these girls like your Marina and it doesn't do to cater to them too much."

"Oh, I guess this tie'll do, after all," said the nice young man, who had listened very intently to his uncle's. "Maybe the shock will do the little girl good!"—Chicago News.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Weather

Mr. Editor: Reading the Danielson special on "Weather Forecaster Pulling the Wrong Lever" would it not be well to ask to be just fair nothing more. In regard to June weather I said, "There will be several times in June very near frost." Those are my exact words. There were not only several times in June very near frost, but those who have any desire whatever to be fair will easily remember that not only were frosts reported several times in June in many western states, but both frost and snow occurred more than once as far south as Missouri, Arizona and Kansas. At least my Norwich Bulletin said so.

July 3, Joseph C. King among others had beans frosted at Oneco. The weather was spoken of time and again up to the dog day period as dry, wells low, etc., and up to late in July there was not one drop of rain outside of thunder showers, even in Danielson. Both May and most of June were very dry.

In regard to dry weather my exact words were, "the drying up period will start in August." August is not yet over and even the writer of your Danielson special will wish he had saved the giant rainfall of August before cold weather comes. Don't worry Mr. Special Writer, the wetting-up period will not drown even wet Danielson, but the world is a big, old chap and indications along scientific lines do not mean any one small section, even if there is a mistake made in scientific calculation once or twice in half a century.

Oneco, Aug. 17, 1925. THE CLOUD DIGGER

Government Business.

Mr. Editor: Almost everyone in the employ of Uncle Sam seems obsessed with the ambition to go the lowest into his long coat-tail pockets.

The good men who have been attracted to the service of the adorable one very naturally think that because they love him so and stick him so that the least they might have is the insignificant privilege of fleecing him.

Do those people want their remuneration to be based on the business principles that govern the rest of the work people in these United States? Not on your life!

Our statesmen are not capable of making fair deals for the American people owing to the fact that they are lacking in knowledge of competition business principles. They can't do any better! They don't know how! Remedy: Send keen witted business men of good education to congress. See Webster's unabridged dictionary under the word business!.

Willimantic, Aug. 17, 1925. WILLIAM DEE

Mr. Boardman's View of the Bible

Mr. Editor: Mr. Troland's so called questions on evolution, which however seem to be more in the nature of statements, and his last statement in particular, would make a man smile.

How anyone who pretends to be a student and a thinker can study astronomy, geology, anthropology, and embryology and then state that we have (in the Bible I presume") a clearer word of testimony upon which we may lean," is to make one laugh.

If you are ignorant or credulous or both, and want positive statements with indifference to truth, why stick to the Bible. This book was written, largely thousands of years ago for ignorant credulous people and still satisfies such people. It belongs in large measure to the class of Hans Anderson's Fairy Tales, Jack the Giant Killer, and the Arabian Nights. Its statements in regard to the origin and nature of the world, the universe and mankind are known now by intelligent people to be wrong. It is full of so called miracles, which cannot possibly be true: Jonah swallowed by the whale; Elijah went to heaven in a chariot of fire; fire would not burn men; lions would not eat Daniel; Joshua made the sun to stand still; water changed into wine; devils sent into swine; immaculate conception; resurrection of the dead; and other impossible, ridiculous things.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

The Universal Christian Conference on Life and Work, which assembles today in the city of Stockholm, will be opened with an address by the Swedish King, Gustav V. Gustav is directly descended from that Marshal Bernadotte, who, commencing his career by carrying a musket for the great Napoleon, ended by receiving the kingdom of Dugald Dalgetty's great northern hero. The king was born in 1858 and at the age of 23 was married to Princess Victoria, only daughter of the Grand Duke of Baden and a first cousin of the ex-Emperor William II. was in 1907 that Gustav come to the throne, following the death of his father, King Oscar, who was known as one of the most accomplished members of European royalty. Though lacking in the qualities that tended to make his father so popular, King Gustav has endeared himself to his subjects by the sincere interest he has manifested in all matters that pertain to their welfare.

From Small Beginnings

David Livingstone, the Great African Explorer

When David Livingstone, 10 years of age, was taken from school and put to work in a cotton mill, it seemed as if every opportunity in life had been taken from him. Instead of complaining, he made opportunities—obtained books, studied them, and worked his way into college. With a will set on work and service he studied not only Latin and Greek but also medicine. Deeply religious, he made himself a medical missionary.

Livingston's heart was set on China but he was ordered to Africa. That order, he thought, was the ruin of all his hopes. Nevertheless, he sailed for Africa, resolved to do his best.

In that unknown continent David Livingston found his life work. He traveled where no other white man had gone; he made important discoveries; he taught and prayed and cured the sick, and there, at the age of 60, he died.

In 23 years he made his name immortal. He explored fertile river basins, discovered great lakes, and found the Victoria Falls. Believing his work was to open Africa, he treaded the forests with the courage of an explorer and the heart of a priest. To him hardships, dangers, fierce animals, cannibal tribes, were as nothing. In 33 years he explored one-third of Africa, exposed the slave trade and opened the door for the entrance of civilization.

Everyone in the Dark Continent loved him almost as a god, for he treated all with sympathetic kindness. Even the brutal slavers whom he opposed admired him. When he died, his black followers carried his body hundreds of miles through the forest to the coast. From there it was taken to England and buried in Westminster Abbey. The cotton boy had made himself one of the world's greatest men.

Stories That Recall Others

Good Dinner and Bed.

A woman was arrested in one of the cities and presented in court for trial. After questioning her regarding her trouble the judge decided to send her to the farm for women.

The judge thought he had not heard her correctly, so he asked:

"What's that, Mary?"

"Thankee, Jedge, for sending me there. Now I will have a good Christmas dinner and a good bed."

WHY DON'T YOU USE SAN-GRI-NA TO REDUCE SAYS WOMAN WHO TOOK OFF 50 POUNDS of UGLY FAT

Do you want to improve yourself? To be attractive, young looking? Do you want health and happiness? Then GET RID OF YOUR EXCESS FAT. IT'S KEEPING YOU DOWN IN EVERY WAY. Have you tried everything to reduce, without success, and are you so discouraged that you are willing to remain fat and unattractive, or do you want to know of something harmless, easy, inexpensive and sure in results?

Whatever your case may be, 10 pounds too much or 80 pounds, YOU CAN GET RID OF IT JUST AS I DID. Let me tell you how I took off 80 pounds of ugly fat with practically no expense and no trouble whatever, after I had been burdened for years. First, I tried diets, which weakened me so that I had to stay in bed to recuperate. Then I exercised, without any results. Then one day I heard about SAN-GRI-NA. As a last resort, I tried it. With one box I lost 8 pounds, and in a little over seven weeks I lost Forty-Five pounds more—never regained a pound since, and enjoy the best of health.

I HAVE PROVEN IN MY OWN CASE AND IN HUNDREDS OF OTHERS, THAT SAN-GRI-NA WORKED WHERE EVERYTHING ELSE HAD FAILED. I have given this same advice to society women, moving picture stars, actresses, working girls and business men who have succeeded beyond hopes. All you need to do is to go to-day to any good drug or department store, get a package of SAN-GRI-NA, and take two small tablets before each meal. Go at your work as usual, eat as you care to—do not change anything in your mode of living. Simply take SAN-GRI-NA, and watch your figure lose that clumsy appearance and become more and more slender each day. At the same time your health will improve. If you have high blood pressure, it will very likely entirely vanish. You will feel younger, full of pep and ambition. SAN-GRI-NA IS GUARANTEED ABSOLUTELY HARMLESS, does not contain habit-forming drugs. Do not accept any substitutes. "SAN-GRI-NA IS THE ONLY THING I EVER FOUND TO REDUCE, AND I TRIED THEM ALL!" On sale at any good Drug or Dept. Store.

If your druggist does not carry SAN-GRI-NA in stock he can get it from his wholesaler or you can send a money order or check for $1.50 direct to the Scientific Research Laboratories, 1841 B'way, N. Y. C., and one full sized box SAN-GRI-NA will be mailed you direct.

Do You Want a Figure Like This? It is Miss Peg Evans of N. Y. City. All She Did Was to Use SAN-GRI-NA

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

A Young Woodpecker Has a Bad Fright

Fear may overpower fear,
I hope you have my meaning clear.
—Old Mother Nature.

It being daylight, little Mrs. Whitefoot the Wood Mouse in the lower apartment in the Green Forest, and little Mrs. Timmy the Flying Squirrel in the upper apartment, tried to sleep. You know they prefer to sleep during the daylight and come out at dusk. But both of them kept thinking about Spooky the

It was the face of Spooky the Screech Owl

Screech Owl in another apartment in that very tree. So when they did sleep they had bad dreams.

Meanwhile the family of Drummer the Woodpecker was very wide awake. In fact, it was that day that the four young Woodpeckers came out of their apartment in that same tree. It was a great day for the Woodpecker family. The great world seemed a very wonderful place to these young Woodpeckers as they clung to the tree and tried to see everything all at once. Their mother did her best to get them to try their wings. But it takes a lot of courage to try to fly for the first time. So for a long time these young Woodpeckers were satisfied to cling closely to the tree. They moved about a little and got used to using their feet.

Now, it happened that one of them was a little livelier than the others, and this one kept climbing, an inch or two at a time, and at the same time he worked around to the other side of the tree. As he looked up he saw a hole just above him. He decided that he would like to see what was in that hole. He was full of curiosity. He wondered if it could be another Woodpecker hole. So, little by little, he hitched his way up until he was to the very edge of that hole. It was a big hole. It was a very much bigger hole than the hole which was the entrance to the young Woodpecker's own home. For a couple of minutes he clung at the edge of the entrance, trying to get up courage enough to put his head inside. Just as he was about to do this a dreadful thing happened. At least, it was dreadful to the young Woodpecker. A round face with a snapping hooked bill and round fierce yellow eyes, filled that doorway. It was the face of Spooky the Screech Owl, who had heard the sound of the claws of the young Woodpecker and who had come to his doorway to see what was going on.

That young Woodpecker gave a frightened scream, and at the same time he jumped. He forgot that he had been afraid to try to fly. He just didn't think anything about it at all and flew. He flew straight over to the next tree and, landing on the trunk, he dodged around to the other side, and there he clung, peeping around the tree fearfully to see what that dreadful creature was.

Of course, at the shriek of that young Woodpecker, Mrs. Drummer had hurried to see what the trouble was. The instant she saw Spooky she began making a great fuss. She wasn't afraid of him in daylight. Other feathered folks heard her and in a few minutes there was a great racket. Meanwhile the other young Woodpeckers had been frightened into trying their wings. Spooky glared angrily at the feathered folk screaming at him. Deafening of their noise, he went down out of sight. Almost at once the noise stopped and once more there was peace in the apartment tree. Meanwhile Mrs. Drummer was leading her family over towards the Old Orchard.

More Autos Than 'Phones

It is a somewhat curious fact that the number of telephones in a given community is a very good index of the number of motor vehicles. As a general rule where the number of telephones in use is greatest, so is the registration of automobiles. There are approximately 1,000,000 more automobiles in use today than there are telephones. In 1922 the telephone and the automobile were about neck and neck, but now the automobile has won out in the race.

TAX REDUCTION

From the statements made following the conference with President Coolidge it is shown that the matter of tax reduction has not been sidetracked. It is just as fixed a purpose of the administration as ever and it is certain that the conditions are such as to justify it.

The promise of a reduction in the federal taxes, a revision of the present law that will make the cut possible by the middle of next March, indicates not only the sentiment that prevails among congressmen, in interpreting the desires of the people, but means that the new rates will be the basis upon which collections will be made next year.

Through the policies that have been followed under the present administration the financial condition of the country is such as to warrant a reduction in the income. Naturally it is to be expected that this will take the form of a cut in the tax rate. There are several ways in which this can be done. There are various rates which may be reduced. Nothing definite has been decided upon but according to the recommendations which were laid before the president there are indications that there will be a further reduction in the normal income tax as well as a substantial slicing of the surtax rates. This will have the effect of relieving the burden on all taxpayers, the small as well as the large.

A decidedly different sentiment is to be found today relative to tax reduction from what has prevailed in the past. There has been a chance to learn public sentiment and to study the effects of action taken as well as certain recommendations which were not adopted.

Without any question the country desires a reduction of taxation. It is equally certain that such a change will be made. How much opposition will be met will be hard to predict but it can be expected that there will be a scramble to get the benefit of proposing this, that and the other reduction for the political benefit that will result whether or not such changes are justified by the situation. What is wanted is as large a cut as can be made on a scientific basis and that is what should be forthcoming with the least delay.

THE THREATENED STRIKE

It is less than two weeks to the first of September which marks the expiration of the present understanding between the anthracite miners and operators. That means that unless there is some agreement reached in the meantime there will be a strike on that day, the digging of coal will stop and the consumer will have additional cause for worry.

It is entirely possible that some understanding will be reached before this month closes but it is to be noted that there appears to be no apparent feeling on the part of the government that the strike will result in any hardship to the users of coal. The belief prevails that there is much coal mined with which to meet a threatened shortage from curtailed production but in addition it will be possible to provide substitutes in such quantity as to overcome any hardship. This indicates that one of the strongest levers connected with a coal strike has been greatly weakened. There is not the advantage held either by the miners or the operators that was formerly the case.

Those who have their cellars filled are doing no worrying. Those who have abandoned coal and are using oil are giving it no thought beyond congratulating themselves on the wisdom of their action. Those who have been using substitutes since the last strike are more confirmed than ever in their course and recognize that they are no longer subject to the Pennsylvania monopoly.

There are of course plenty of anthracite consumers who are much concerned by the present state of uncertainty but with the last strike decreasing their number by twelve per cent it is evident that the pressure which has been exerted in the past upon the consumer has brought reaction. There has long been a cry for a substitute for hard coal. In the opinion of many there is no longer any need of considering themselves under the control of the miners and operators of the Keystone State. That is why the threat of a strike creates less concern now than it has in the past.

FIGHTING DOPE AND CRIME

Chicago has reason to be gratified over the disclosures which have been made concerning the operations of the dope peddlers in that city and must feel that a most important step has been taken toward the elimination of such conditions and the reduction of the deplorable volume of crime which has prevailed in that community.

It makes little difference what kind of laws are enacted if they are not properly enforced. If enforcement is entrusted to crooks the outlook is indeed a serious one, and Chicago the recent revelations has reason to feel that the guiding hand of the narcotic law enforcers has been directly responsible for much of the crime that has occurred there. Certainly when those who are expected to direct the efforts of suppressing illicit traffic in drugs become engaged in the distribution of such goods and connive with crooks to accept loot in payment for the dope it is a blow at law and crime regulation which places a city at the mercy of such individuals.

Crime and dope go hand in hand. Criminals are invariably dopesters. While they are not the only users of opium in its various forms there are too often brought to lives of crime, or kept in it, through the use of narcotics.

Chicago has been getting a most unenviable reputation for the large amount of crime developing there and while it will not be justified in resting the recent raids and the trapping of the narcotic chief as the solution of all its troubles it may well be one serious source has been eliminated and that much of the illegal dope traffic and the crime that has been encouraged by it will cease.

Something more than the mere publishing of his name and dropping him from office should be in store for the head of the federal narcotic force in the northern part of Illinois. As the master hand he is in line to receive the full penalty of the law and it will be a gross mistake if such is not the result of the revelations made.

THE FILM TAX

In the first test of the state law, enacted by the last session of the general assembly, placing a state tax upon the films shown in Connecticut the contention of the state that it was a constitutional law, that the state had the right to exercise such authority and to collect such a tax is upheld. Connecticut has imposed a tax which has been fought on the ground that it placed a restraint upon interstate commerce and that it was action in excess of its authority, even after a determined effort was made to get the governor to withhold his signature.

The case has been heard by three federal judges and they are unanimous in their opinion that the law is not unconstitutional. Therefore no injunction to stop enforcement of the law was granted. That may, as indicated, be only the first stage of the effort to avoid such a tax but the fact that it is the opinion of three federal judges serves to strengthen the belief that the carrying of the case to the highest court in the land will bring no different results.

Here is a case where Connecticut has decided it is time that a tax should be placed upon the motion picture industry doing business in this state, while the same taxes are imposed upon other corporations. There is no desire upon the part of the state to violate the constitution and in adopting the law there was thought of doing so. A federal court says that this has not been done. One more step and it will be definitely settled.

Collection of the tax has been held in abeyance with records being kept of films shown. If collections are undertaken now they will of course be subject to refund in case the decision of the highest court is adverse.

A WRONG SENTIMENT

While the Institute of Politics at Williamstown has been doing business for the past two summers it has received added attention [illegible] the protest that has been voiced by Rear Admiral Hugh Rodman concerning the type of sentiment that is manifested toward both the foreign and domestic policies of this government.

Probably it is no more than expected that those who come here from other countries have something to say in regard to such matters. They might be expected to voice their opinions concerning our foreign policy, viewing it as they do from their own standpoint. It is not impossible to get interesting information from such sources, and it is bound to be weighed in accordance with its source. All this is fully understood by the rear admiral.

But what he takes exception to most seriously is the attitude displayed in so many instances by the American people in response to such expressions. He deplores the seemingly eager manner displayed by the many in applauding these criticisms. Instead of standing as Decatur urged with country at all times, be she right or be she wrong, Rear Admiral Huse protests on good grounds against the disposition to join in with the critics of our government and giving comfort to those who would have our policies based chiefly upon the meeting of the interests of other countries first and ourselves second.

The chances are that this sentiment as expressed at Williamstown too often, in the opinion of the rear admiral, would have for the most part passed unnoticed to most people but it did not to the naval official and naturally he could not permit it to go without protest. It is well and the protest should have its good effects.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The man on the corner says: As long as no one is perfect everyone has reason to hope.

The New York mayoralty contest is developing enough heat to mean the prolongation of summer in the big city.

The claim is made that the American farmer will get four billion for his crops this year. Whom will he blame for it?

There is no good reason to believe that Wisconsin is going to abandon its LaFollettism even though it is desired and there is an opportunity.

In spite of the speed shown in some of the divorce courts there are those who will envy the president of Turkey in being able to sign his own decree.

Probably Chicago will insist that it can prevent all the trouble about the water wearing down Niagara Falls by turning more of it into its sanitary canal.

That musical instrument of the Eskimos which resembles a tennis racquet may produce music that sounds like a cross between a uke and a saxophone.

Reports of better business conditions and outlook here, there and yon, are in accord with what is desired and the fulfillment of which will be even more welcome.

DELICATE PERCEPTIONS

"Oh, whaddoyuh think of it!" cried the nice young man in great wrath, banging things down on the dresser. "This tie doesn't match my socks and handkerchief at all! The shade is entirely off—and I was going over to see Marina tonight—"

"Do they send out a butler with a color chart before they let you inside the door?" demanded the visiting uncle, who had been craving the chance to say a few things to his nephew. "Will Marina scream and faint and cry that her teeth are set on edge because of the discrepancy between your footgear and that about your neck?

"My boy, if the girl has true affection for you and your collar is clean no more worry is necessary, but if soul communion is quite impossible when your moucheir is banded with lavender and your socks are of a heliotrope cast you had better take warning in time! Have you paused to figure out just what a wife like that would mean?

"Claudine Prime was a girl I knew when I was your age. Other maidens might gayly prance off to the tennis courts clad in green and pink, yellow and blue all at once and have the dickens of a good time, but not Claudine. When she issued from her abode she invariably was a symphonic poem. If it was a brown day with her she wore browns from the top of her head to her soles and if she chose a black frock she donned a snappy scarlet hat and her handbag would be patent leather with touches of the same scarlet.

"Not a hair was even out of place, not a fleck of dust on her footgear, and as for a hole or a ripped seam in her apparel, well, the ambulance would have been on its hasty way had she found such a tragedy after sallying forth. So Claudine rather kept us up to snuff. Such a polishing and a shining as went on before we ventured into her presence you never can imagine. Her whole evening had been known to be ruined if a cavalier ordered a pink ice cream after a green dinner. She said it made her ill, being so sensitive to harmony in every way.

"Claudine was noted as a celebrity and we were a little in awe of her. We never dared say she bored and annoyed us because of the chorus of praise emanating from the older population. All of them said what a wonderful woman Claudine was going to be and what a home she would make! It would be a perfect home, a color poem, a dietetic sonnet, it would have an atmosphere of refinement above all others, due to this trait of hers, this passion for perfection in every way.

"She grew more and more particular as time went on and folks began to say there just didn't seem to be anybody good enough for Claudine to fancy, nobody who measured up to her exquisite sense of aesthetic values and her mother had a terrible time keeping help. They all said Claudine was such a fusser and impossible to please and they'd rather work where the daughters of the family didn't have hysterics if the parsley were left off the breakfast omelet.

"One by one the youths whose mothers artfully held Claudine before their eyes slipped from under and married elsewhere and at last Claudine, who didn't want to be totally left in the lurch, married a man who puts his feet on the tables when he smokes and reads, thinks red is the handsomest color on earth if only there is enough of it and dotes on corn beef and cabbage and boiled onions. He even slaps her on the back and calls her 'old girl.'

"No, Claudine didn't die of it—she weighs 20 and looks lots happier than in the old days. Nobody notices her up as a model any more, either. They say instead she is a frightful housekeeper. So you can't tell about these girls like your Marina and it doesn't do to cater to them too much."

"Oh, I guess this tie'll do, after all," said the nice young man, who had listened very intently to his uncle. "Maybe the shock will do the little girl good!"—Chicago News.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Weather

Mr. Editor: Reading the Danielson special on "Weather Forecaster Pulling the Wrong Lever" would it not be well to ask to be just fair nothing more. In regard to June weather I said, "There will be several times in June very near frost." Those are my exact words. There were not only several times in June very near frost, but those who have any desire whatever to be fair will easily remember that not only were frosts reported several times in June in many western states, but both frost and snow occurred more than once as far south as Missouri, Arizona and Kansas. At least my Norwich Bulletin said so.

July 2, Joseph C. King among others had beans frosted at Oneco. The weather was spoken of time and again up to the dog day period as dry, wells low, etc., and up to late in July there was not one drop of rain outside of thunder showers, even in Danielson. Both May and most of June were very dry.

In regard to dry weather my exact words were, "the drying up period will start in August." August is not yet over and even the writer of your Danielson special will wish he had saved the giant rainfall of August before cold weather comes. Don't worry Mr. Special Writer, the welting-up period will not drown even wet Danielson, but the world is a big, old chap and indications along scientific lines do not mean any one small section, even if there is a mistake made in scientific calculation once or twice in half a century.

THE CLOUD DIGGER

Government Business

Mr. Editor: Almost everyone in the employ of Uncle Sam seems obsessed with the ambition to go the lowest into his long coat-tail pockets.

The good men who have been attracted to the service of the adorable one very naturally think that because they love him so and stick him so that the least they might have is the insignificant privilege of fleecing him.

Do those people want their remuneration to be based on the business principles that govern the rest of the work people in these United States? Not on your life!

Our statesmen are not capable of making fair deals for the American people owing to the fact that they are lacking in knowledge of competition business principles. They can't do any better! They don't know how! Remedy: Send keen witted business men of good education to congress. See Webster's unabridged dictionary under the word business!.

Mr. Boardman's View of the Bible

Mr. Editor: Mr. Troland's so called questions on evolution, which however seem to be more in the nature of statements, and his last statement in particular, would make a man smile.

How anyone who pretends to be a student and a thinker can study astronomy, geology, anthropology, and embryology and then state that we have (in the Bible I presume) a clearer word of testimony upon which we may lean," is to make one laugh.

If you are ignorant or credulous or both, and want positive statements with indifference to truth, why stick to the Bible. This book was written, largely thousands of years ago for ignorant credulous people and still satisfies such people. It belongs in large measure to the class of Hans Anderson's Fairy Tales, Jack the Giant Killer, and the Arabian Nights. Its statements in regard to the origin and nature of the world, the universe and mankind are known now by intelligent people to be wrong. It is full of so called miracles, which cannot possibly be true: Jonah swallowed by the whale; Elijah went to heaven in a chariot of fire; fire would not burn men; lions would not eat Daniel; Joshua made the sun to stand still; water changed into wine; devils sent into swine; immaculate conception; resurrection of the dead; and other impossible, ridiculous things.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

The Universal Christian Conference on Life and Work, which assembles today in the city of Stockholm, will be opened with an address by the Swedish King, Gustav V. Gustav is directly descended from that Marshal Bernadotte, who, commencing his career by carrying a musket for the great Napoleon, ended by receiving the kingdom of Dugald Dalgetty's great northern hero. The King was born in 1858 and at the age of 23 was married to Princess Victoria, only daughter of the Grand Duke of Baden and a first cousin of the ex-Emperor William II, was in 1907 that Gustav come to the throne, following the death of his father, King Oscar, who was known as one of the most accomplished members of European royalty. Though lacking in the qualities that tended to make his father so popular, King Gustav has endeared himself to his subjects by the sincere interest he has manifested in all matters that pertain to their welfare.

From Small Beginnings

David Livingstone, the Great African Explorer

When David Livingstone, 10 years of age, was taken from school and put to work in a cotton mill, it seemed as if every opportunity in life had been taken from him. Instead of complaining, he made opportunities—obtained books, studied them, and worked his way into college. With a will set on work and service he studied not only Latin and Greek but also medicine. Deeply religious, he made himself a medical missionary.

Livingston's heart was set on China but he was ordered to Africa. That order, he thought, was the ruin of all his hopes. Nevertheless, he sailed for Africa, resolved to do his best.

In that unknown continent David Livingston found his life work. He traveled where no other white man had gone; he made important discoveries; he taught and prayed and cured the sick, and there, at the age of 60, he died.

In 33 years he made his name immortal. He explored fertile river basins, discovered great lakes, and found the Victoria Falls. Believing his work was to open Africa, he treaded the forests with the courage of an explorer and the heart of a priest. To him hardships, dangers, fierce animals, cannibal tribes, were as nothing. In 33 years he explored one-third of Africa, exposed the slave trade and opened the door for the entrance of civilization.

Everyone in the Dark Continent loved him almost as a god, for he treated all with sympathetic kindness. Even the brutal slavers whom he opposed admired him. When he died, his black followers carried his body hundreds of miles through the forest to the coast. From there it was taken to England and buried in Westminster Abbey. The cotton boy had made himself one of the world's greatest men.

Stories That Recall Others

"Had Her Dimmers On."

Robert and Mary, age five and three, have never liked an afternoon nap. So one afternoon when mother said to Robert: "Look at your sister, how good she is going to sleep." Robert replied: "Aw, she's not really sleeping; she's just got her eyes dimmed."

Good Dinner and Bed.

A woman was arrested in one of the cities and presented in court for trial. After questioning her regarding her trouble the judge decided to send her to the farm for women.

The judge thought he had not heard her correctly, so he asked:

"What's that, Mary?"

"Thankee, jedge, for sending me there. Now I will have a good Christmas dinner and a good bed."

WHY DONT YOU USE SAN-GRI-NA TO REDUCE SAYS WOMAN WHO TOOK OFF 50 POUNDS of UGLY FAT

Do you want to improve yourself? To be attractive, young looking? Do you want health and happiness? Then GET RID OF YOUR EXCESS FAT. IT'S KEEPING YOU DOWN IN EVERY WAY. Have you tried everything to reduce, without success, and are you so discouraged that you are willing to remain fat and unattractive, or do you want to know of something harmless, easy, inexpensive and sure in results?

Whatever your case may be, 10 pounds too much or 80 pounds, YOU CAN GET RID OF IT JUST AS I DID. Let me tell you how I took off 50 pounds of ugly fat with practically no expense and no trouble whatever, after I had been burdened for years. First, I tried diets, which weakened me so that I had to stay in bed to recuperate. Then I exercised, without any results. Then one day I heard about SAN-GRI-NA. As a last resort, I tried it. With one box I lost 6 pounds, and in a little over seven weeks I lost Forty-Five pounds more—never regained a pound since, and enjoy the best of health.

I HAVE PROVEN IN MY OWN CASE AND IN HUNDREDS OF OTHERS, THAT SAN-GRI-NA WORKED WHERE EVERYTHING ELSE HAD FAILED. I have given this same advice to society women, moving picture stars, actresses, working girls and business men who have succeeded beyond hopes. All you need to do is to go to-day to any good drug or department store, get a package of SAN-GRI-NA, and take two small tablets before each meal. Go at your work as usual, eat as you care to—do not change anything in your mode of living. Simply take SAN-GRI-NA, and watch your figure lose that clumsy appearance and become more and more slender each day. At the same time your health will improve. If you have high blood pressure it will very likely entirely vanish. You will feel younger, full of pep and ambition. SAN-GRI-NA IS GUARANTEED ABSOLUTELY HARMLESS, does not contain habit-forming drugs. Do not accept any substitutes. "SAN-GRI-NA IS THE ONLY THING I EVER FOUND TO REDUCE, AND I TRIED THEM ALL!" On sale at any good Drug or Dept. Store.

Do You Want a Figure Like This? It is Miss Peg Evans of N. Y. City. All She Did Was to Use SAN-GRI-NA

If your druggist does not carry SAN-GRI-NA in stock he can get it from his wholesaler or you can send a money order or check for $1.50 direct to the Scientific Research Laboratories, 1841 B'way, N. Y. C., and one full sized box SAN-GRI-NA will be mailed you direct.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

A Young Woodpecker Has a Bad Fright

Fear may overpower fear,
I hope you have my meaning clear.
—Old Mother Nature.

It being daylight, little Mrs. Whitefoot the Wood Mouse in the lower apartment in the Green Forest, and little Mrs. Timmy the Filying Squirrel in the upper apartment, tried to sleep. You know they prefer to sleep during the daylight and come out at dusk. But both of them kept thinking about Spooky the

It was the face of Spooky the Screech Owl

Screech Owl in another apartment in that very tree. So when they did sleep they had bad dreams.

Meanwhile the family of Drummer the Woodpecker was very wide awake. In fact, it was that day that the four young Woodpeckers came out of their apartment in that same tree. It was a great day for the Woodpecker family. The great world seemed a very wonderful place to these young Woodpeckers as they clung to the tree and tried to see everything all at once. Their mother did her best to get them to try their wings. But it takes a lot of courage to try to fly for the first time. So for a long time these young Woodpeckers were satisfied to cling closely to the tree. They moved about a little and got used to using their feet.

Now, it happened that one of them was a little livelier than the others, and this one kept climbing, an inch or two at a time, and at the same time he worked around to the other side of the tree. As he looked up he saw a hole just above him. He decided that he would like to see what was in that hole. He was full of curiosity. He wondered if it could be another Woodpecker hole. So, little by little, he hitched his way up until he was to the very edge of that hole. It was a big hole. It was a very much bigger hole than the hole which was the entrance to the young Woodpecker's own home. For a couple of minutes he clung at the edge of the entrance, trying to get up courage enough to put his head inside. Just as he was about to do this a dreadful thing happened. At least, it was dreadful to the young Woodpecker. A round face with a snapping hooked bill and round fierce yellow eyes, filled that doorway. It was the face of Spooky the Screech Owl, who had heard the sound of the claws of the young Woodpecker and who had come to his doorway to see what was going on.

That young Woodpecker gave a frightened scream, and at the same time he jumped. He forgot that he had been afraid to try to fly. He just didn't think anything about it at all and flew. He flew straight over to the next tree and, landing on the trunk, he dodged around to the other side, and there he clung, peeping around the tree fearfully to see what that dreadful creature was.

Of course, at the shriek of that young Woodpecker, Mrs. Drummer had hurried to see what the trouble was. The instant she saw Spooky she began making a great fuss. She [illegible] of him in daylight. Other [illegible] folks heard her and in [illegible] utes there was a great [illegible] while the other young Woodpeckers had been frightened into [illegible] wings. Spooky glared [illegible] feathered folk screaming at [illegible] tiring of their noise, he went down out of sight. Almost at once the noise stopped and, once more, there was peace in the apartment tree. Meanwhile Mrs. Drummer was leading her family over towards the old Orchard.

More Autos Than 'Phones

It is a somewhat curious fact that the number of telephones in a given community is a very good index of the number of motor vehicles. As a general rule where the number of telephones in use is greatest, so is the registration of automobiles. There are approximately 1,000,000 more automobiles in use today than there are telephones. In 1923 the telephone and the automobile were about neck and neck, but now the automobile has won out in the race.

C. E. SUMMER SCHOOL CLOSES AT STORRS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

STORRS, Aug. 18—The first annual summer school of the Connecticut Christian Endeavor Union, which has been in session at the Connecticut Agricultural College from Aug. 10, was brought to a close yesterday, when the various delegates and leaders departed for their homes.

Herbert W. Hicks of Hartford, registrar of the school this summer spoke as follows regarding the work accomplished this year: "I feel that the buildings and equipment of the Connecticut Agricultural college are fine-ly adapted to use for a summer school, and the Christian Endeavor summer school was a fine success. In point of numbers it was not up to the hopes of the promoters, but in intense application of the work it far exceed expectations. The course on the Bible, under the direction of the Rev. C. Donald Plomer, pastor of the Congregational church of Wilton, Me., did much to bring to the delegates a much better understanding of Christ, and the other courses brought home the missionary needs in our own country. Further, it gave much valuable assistance in running Christian Endeavor societies. The fellowship of the young people together for the week has developed friendships that will last through life, and the unity of feeling engendered by the gathering should mean much in the churches represented in the coming days. It has been a most satisfactory first year of such an institution, and all are looking forward to coming together another year and boosting for more to come."

GILPATRIC TRUSTEE HAS PRESENTED HIS ACCOUNT

The account in bankruptcy of G. Harold Gilpatric of Putnam was presented Monday by Trustee Arthur E. Howard, Jr., to Referee in Bankruptcy Edward M. Yeomans and was accepted. First disbursements to preferred creditors, totaling $11,177 and leaving a balance of $15,602.18 with the trustee.

Gilpatric is at the Atlanta penitentiary, permanently blind from an attempt to commit suicide following discovery of his defalcations from the First National Bank of Putnam while its cashier and state treasurer. No dividends will be declared to creditors just now because of certain undetermined claims, which include the bank's claim of $250,000 and the question of liability on Gilpatric's surety bonds. The condition of the estate although the common claims allowed total $342,616.42. Some of the estate's property has not yet been sold.

WEAVERS REJECT WAGE INCREASE HIGHER THAN ORIGINAL DEMAND

After presenting a demand for an increase of half a mill a pick, amounting to 1.8 cents a yard, the weavers at the New England Mills Co., about 30 in number, have declined an increase of 2 cents a yard, offered them by officials of the company. The company's offer was greater than the original demand of the weavers. As a result of the weavers refusal to accept the wage increase offered them the mill, located in Greeneville, was shut down Tuesday for an indefinite period.

The weavers claim they are out on strike, but an entirely different situation is claimed by officials of the company. According to Oscar L. Peterson and Harry L. Peterson of the company, the trouble at the plant started Monday morning about 7:45 o'clock when the boss weaver appeared in the mill office and said he had been presented a written demand by the weavers. This demand, which he passed on to Mr. Peterson, stated that the weavers had held a meeting Saturday night and had decided to ask for an increase in wages. According to the wording of the written demand the impression was given that the weavers wanted an increase of 5 mills a pick which would have been over a 100 per cent increase. It was afterwards learned that what the weavers really wanted was an increase of a half a mill a pick, bringing the wage rate up to 5 mills from 4 1-2 mills. Mr. Peterson was given 24 hours in which to consider the weavers' demands.

Mr. Peterson after receiving the demand asked the weaver on Number One loom to step into the office, and he was questioned as to how he felt about the demand. At least six were questioned individually and after satisfactorily answering the questions as to whether they were dissatisfied about their wages, etc., they were told they could go back to work.

About 9 o'clock the weavers started to shut down their looms, being evidently upset by the proceedure taken by the company officials in questioning the weavers individually, rather than in a body. Mr. Peterson went into the weave room and asked, "What are you doing, shutting off your looms?" Yes, was the answer. "All right," said Mr. Peterson. "I'll shut off the power and you are through."

The company officials then hired 25 new weavers to take the place of the discharged employees and they were supposed to go to work Tuesday morning. The new weavers showed up and got as far as the belt shop on North Main street where they were met by the dissatisfied weavers who told them that there was a strike on at the mill, that the company was planning a cut in wages and the upshot was that none of the new weavers went to work.

Tuesday it developed that the weavers were not looking for a five mill increase, as was supposed, this being inferred from the confusing wording of the demand as presented, but wanted a half mill a pick increase. Officials of the company, met the weavers outside the mill for a conference. The half mill a pick increase amounts to one and eight tenth cents a yard. The company officials informed the weavers they would grant them two cents a yard, this being higher than the weavers' demand

Several said they were satisfied with this offer and all appeared to be going well until the ring leader suggested a vote on the matter. A vote was taken and as a result the company's offer was turned down. The company then decided to shut down the mill indefinitely.

The trouble over the wages has arisen over the fact that the yarn now in use is not as good yarn to work on as the weavers have had in the past. This was only a temporary difficulty however, as the company intended to restock with the same yarn as has been used in the past.

One of the weavers, who did not wish to have his name published, acknowledged Tuesday night that the weavers had turned down the company's offer of two cents a yard, whereas all that was asked was but 1 8-10 cents a yard (half a mill a pick). But he added that the reason the weavers refused the offer was that the increase was intended only to last as long as the present yarn is used and that as soon as the new yarn was put on the machines the present wage rate would be put in force again. He stated that the increase asked by the weavers amounts to an average of $2.50 a week more for the weavers.

NORWICH TELEPHONE COUNCIL AMONG PRIZE WINNERS

The councils at headquarters of our Employes' Association flashed first under the wire in the Keep Well contest which ended July 31, says the current issue of The Telephone Bulletin.

And to these councils will be given the money award offered as a prize to the district which made the best health showing during the six month period of the contest.

What, however, will be good news to the folks in the field, and to those in the New London district in particular, is the announcement that the cash awards have been extended to include the district finishing second in the contest, so under the new arrangements the councils of the New London district will share in the cash rewards.

The other districts finished in the following order: New Haven, Hartford, Bridgeport, each striving to overcome the sickness handicap and make a strong and good showing.

Under the terms of the contest announced at the beginning six months ago, a cash award of 50 cents per employe in the winning district will be made. That means a total of $345 will be distributed by the company to the headquarters councils. This is divided as follows: Plant headquarters $85, general headquarters $85, revenue accounting $75, plant engineering $40, engineering $35, house service $25.

The announcement of additional prize money for the winner of second place states that the award will be 25 cents per employe and on that basis the total award to the New London district will be $105, divided among the councils as follows: New London $40, Norwich $20, Willimantic $20, Putnam $19, Saybrook $10.

Throughout the half year of the Keep Well contest interest in the outcome continued unabated. There is excellent reason to believe that individually and collectively the employes in every district did their utmost to avoid sickness, thus to keep up a good record for themselves and the district in which they are employed. But in every contest of whatever description there must be a winner and a loser. In this instance, the districts which did not finish among the prize winners at least have the consolation of knowing that the best that could be done was done by them in the way of reducing the sickness rate within the company.

The New London district led the contest at the end of the first month. Headquarters then took the lead and maintained it, while New London was a close competitor for the stellar honors.

Month after month the announcement of the records of the different districts were eagerly scanned when placed on the bulletin boards and greater effort was made by the leaders to hold their places and by their followers to pick up on the leaders, if they could.

However, headquarters could not be overtaken in the race. On the contrary its lead was gradually enlarged and at the end of the fifth month it was practically a certainty that headquarters would be the winner, barring an epidemic of disease which might strike New Haven. Fortunately, of course, that did not occur.

It has been an interesting contest, doubtless will be rich in good results of better health all around our territory. That was its object and if it has taught us the importance of safeguarding our health, all the time and effort put into the contest has been well worth while.

ON MOTOR TRIP TO NORWICH FROM CANADA

John A. Fraser of Smith's Falls, Canada, arrived Monday in Norwich, and will be a guest for two weeks at the home of his brother and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George Fraser, of Lafayette street. Mr. Fraser's niece, Miss Eunice Weegar of Morrisburg, Canada, arrived at the Fraser home on Tuesday, where she will also be a guest for the next two weeks.

Guests at Chapman's Point

Letter Carrier and Mrs. John Hazleton, of East Norwich, recently had as their geust for a number of days at their cottage at Chapman's Point, Mrs. Martha Hunt of Lafayette street. The Hazleton cottage is situated at the water's edge, just opposite the beautiful Plant estate, at Eastern Point. Here Mr. and Mrs. Hazleton usually spend the week ends, often times entertaining friends from Norwich and other places.

New Crosswalks Painted

Men under the employ of Street Commissioner John C. Donovan have been engaged in painting in new white lines for crosswalks in the center of the city. The newly painted lines are easily distinguishable and there should be no chance for violation of parking ordinances for some time to come.

WILL SAIL FOR ENGLAND EARLY NEXT MONTH

It is expected that Rev. Robert B. Day, for the past few years the popular rector of Grace Episcopal church, Yantic, will sail from New York, the early part of September for England, where he formerly resided.

Rev. Mr. Day's pastorate expires September 1st, having tendered his resignation several weeks ago. Since coming to Norwich, Rev. Mr. Day has endeared himself to the people even far beyond his own parish, especially among the clergy.

His cheery words have been most welcome in the hospitals of Norwich, and in many homes where his presence has been an inspiration.

His great delight has been to brighten the days of elderly people, and shut-ins, due to illness, but no greater joy has been his, than to be in the company of children, to encourage them onward through advice and influences, leading them up to Christ, to make them what they ought to be in the way of good citizens.

His departure from Norwich is regretted by a host of friends; as well as the circle in Yantic, among whom during the latter part of his pastorate he has resided, and where he was a familiar figure among the townspeople daily.

ON MOTOR TOUR OF NEW ENGLAND

William Price of Newark, N. J., accompanied by a friend, while motoring through the middle Atlantic and New England states, stopping along the way at points of interest, while en route to Buzzard's Bay, was a caller Saturday at the home of his aunt, Mrs. Martha Hunt of Lafayette St.

In returning to Newark, Mr. Price and friend plan to go by way of Springfield, making stops at all interesting places.

Mrs. Hunt also had as her guest over the week end, her nephew, William Holcomb of Bridgeport, formerly of Norwich.

Mr. Holcomb came to Norwich by automobile to meet his wife and their little son Billie, who have been spending a week on Long Island at the home of Mrs. Holcomb's brother-in-law and sister, by whom she was accompanied to Norwich, the latter returning Sunday afternoon with the Holcomb family to Bridgeport, to remain for a visit.

While in Norwich Mr. Holcomb was a caller at the home of Mr. and Mrs. N. Eugene Woods of Lafayette street. Mrs. Woods, being his sister.

ENJOYING VACATION TRIP TO BURLINGTON, VT.

Professor and Mrs. Hugh Kinder, who left early in July for their vacation at Burlington, Vt., and other places, are having a most enjoyable time during their vacation. They are to return home in the early part of September and upon their arrival are to be given a hearty welcome by their many friends and many pupils of Professor Kinder.

Professor Kinder's ability as a musician is recognized and he has appeared as soloist and pianist in many cities, winning his audience with his admirable manner of presentation. He was offered a position as a singer in a prominent Opera company, but refused saying, "that he did not care to leave his home town, where he had lived for many years."

He is a member and musician of the Elks club and also of the Y. M. C. A. where he often sings and plays for the people of the city. Professor and Mrs. Kinder are expected at their home, No. 25 Park street, in about two weeks.

WILL SELECT ARCHITECT FOR NEW DORMITORY

(Special to the Bulletin.)

STORRS, Aug. 18.—Trustees of the Connecticut Agricultural college will meet tomorrow to select an architect for the new $168,000 men's dormitory at the state college, the money for which was appropriated at the last session of the legislature. Plans for the new dormitory were submitted two weeks ago, during which time they have been considered by the board of trustees. It is expected that a decision will be reached tomorrow, after which the architect selected will be recommended to the state board of control

Plans were submitted by the following architects, nine in number: Bilderbeck and Langdon, New London; Delbert K. Perry, New Britain, who planned the new community house at Storrs; William J. Smith and Company, Derby; Harrison E. Baldwin, New Haven; O. C. Zerole, Bridgeport; Loomis J. Thompson, New Britain; Max J. Unklebach, New Britain; and Wesley S. Bessell, New York City.

In retaking the frigate Philadelphia, from Tripolitans, one American was wounded.

ABOUT 600 SHARES ARE TAKEN IN B. AND L. SERIES

About 600 shares have been taken out in the 21st share series of the Norwich Building and Loan Association. The series closed Tuesday night. There are now approximately 950 accounts on the association's books. The association which is under the direct supervision of the state bank examiners, limits the number of shares taken out by any one person in any one series at 25.

The association encourages the individual to build and own his own home and as a result of its activities several score of houses have been erected in Norwich. Upon application, shareholders are advanced money with which to build their homes. The association, which has a number of loan applications on hand, will loan up to 75 per cent. of the value of the house being built. However, $6,000 is the maximum amount loaned to any share holder for the building of a house.

WEDDING.

York—Main.

A pretty mid-summer wedding took place Saturday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Appleton Main of Poquetanuck when their daughter, Miss Gertrude Idelle Main was married to Allen W. York of Hartford. The Rev. H. M. Thompson, D. D., of Stonington performed the ceremony, the double ring service being used. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was gowned in white crepe satin trimmed with lace and wore a bridal veil of white tulle caught with pearls. She carried roses and lilies of the valley.

The maid of honor was Miss Marion Lathrop of Norwich. She wore pink georgette over satin and carried pink roses. Frank Wheeler of Stonington was best man. Mrs. H. L. Richards of Norwich sang O Promise Me, by De Koven, and I Love You Truly, by Jacobs-Bond, at the reception. She was accompanied by Mrs. Henry B. Eates of Preston, who also played the wedding march and softly rendered To a Wild Rose, by McCowell, during the service.

The rooms were tastefully decorated with pink gladoli and hydrangeas, with a bridal arch of green and white.

A buffet lunch of chicken salad, olives, rolls, cake, ice cream and fruit punch was served.

The bride's traveling gown was blonde crepe faille with hat to match. The happy couple left by automobile for a trip through New England and parts of Canada.

There were about 75 guests present from Vermont, Hartford, Stonington, Mystic, North Stonington, Norwich, Preston, Johnson and Griswold.

Among the many beautiful gifts were two checks of $100, one from the bride's parents and one from the groom's parents.

The bride is a graduate of Wheeler High school, Norwich Free Academy and the State Normal school at Willimantic. She has successfully taught for several years. For the past two years she has been a teacher at the Northwest school, Hartford.

Mr. York is also a graduate of Wheeler High school and N. F. A., and graduated from Yale. He is at present with the Aetna Life Insurance Co., of Hartford.

The bride and groom will reside in Hartford.

GOV. TRUMBULL TO TRAVEL IN A SPECIAL AIRPLANE

HARTFORD, Aug. 18—A powerful, streamlined airplane for Governor Trumbull's use to keep appointments in and out of the state at a minimum loss of traveling time is in process of assembling at the shop of the Connecticut National Guard air service at Brainard field. It is expected to be ready for the governor to make his initial appearance in it at the time of the state fair at Charter Oak park.

By the use of the airplane instead of the official state limousine provided for his office, whenever possible, the executive plans to save much time which he is now required to take away from his desk to travel to different sections of the state for engagements. When he wants to go to the military camp at Niantic, for instance, he will need to allow only a half hour for the trip from Hartford a saving of at least an hour from the time required to go by automobile. This includes the time required to go by automobile from the capitol to Brainard field. He proposes also to cut down the time now spent by him in going from his Plainville office to the capitol, by having his plane call at his home for him when he is ready to leave for his official duties at Hartford.

He will be perhaps the first governor in the United States to put the airplane to practical use in connection with his official duties. The plan will make it necessary for him to have a landing field located near his residence in Plainville and he said yesterday before leaving for a vacation in Maine that he would look around for a suitable location upon his return. Senator Bingham has provided himself with a landing field at his summer camp at Salem, from which he was carried to the Bristol air meet and return on Saturday, the trip in either direction being made in twenty minutes.

STATE FILM TAX TO BE IMPOSED IMMEDIATELY

HARTFORD, Aug. 18—Decision that the movie tax be imposed immediately, according to the state film tax law which was declared constitutional in federal court Monday, was reached today following a conference at which Tax Commissioner William H. Blodgett, Attorney-General Frank E. Healy, Special Tax Agent John J. Splain, and Arthur L. Shipman, were present at Mr. Shipman' office. A conference will be held tomorrow regarding plans for the procedure. The decision today was over the expressed wish of Benedict M. Holden and former United States Attorney General George W. Wickersham, who have entered an appeal to the supreme court and asked that the state withhold action until the constitutionality of the law is decided by that court which meets some time in October.

Mr. Holden had said that he thought the state would defer actual taxation until after the final disposition in the case had been made because the state might be liable to suits by the exhibitors. The letter which gives the legal ruling of Mr. Shipman to Mr. Blodgett, following the conference with Attorney General Healy refutes this possibility and advises immediate enactment of the tax measure. The letter reads:

"We are in receipt of a letter from Mr. Holden, counsel for the plaintiffs in re Fox Film Company vs. John H. Trumbull et al in which Mr. Holden quotes a telegram received by him from Mr. Wickersham to the effect that an appeal is being taken from the decision of the United States district court rendered on August 17, denying the plaintiff's motion for a temporary injunction to restrain the state officers from enforcing the so-called motion picture law passed at the last general assembly.

"The telegram states further that the appeal to the supreme court will be pressed for immediate decision and requests an agreement on the part of state officials not to enforce the law pending the decision on the proposed appeal to the supreme court. Mr. Wickersham further proposes that the plaintiffs shall keep records of amounts payable if the tax is finally upheld.

"At a conference today, it was agreed that to continue the present arrangement by which the taxpayers would continue to keep records and withhold the payment of taxes until later would be contrary to sound public policy inasmuch as a court of competent jurisdiction has held the law to be valid.

"It seems to us, therefore, that the proper course for you as tax commissioner, is to proceed to enforce the law.

"We call to your attention that under Chapter 303 of the laws of 1921 should the law in question on appeal to the supreme court of errors be declared unconstitutional, taxpayers are not without remedy."

AMERICAN SYMPATHY IN ZIONIST MOVEMENT

VIENNA, Aug. 18—Appreciation for the sympathy of American public opinion toward the Zionist movement and the rebuilding of Palestine as a Jewish homeland and particular credit to the American Jewish community for its generous support in recent years, was expressed by Dr. Chaim Weizmann, president of the World Zionist organization in his address before the fourteenth Zionist congress which opened tonight in the Concert hall, delegates from all parts of the globe, numbering 270, and several thousand visitors attended.

Dealing with the anti-semitic rifts which preceded the opening of the congress, the chairman of the Zionist executive declared: "It is regrettable, just as it is remarkable, that there are people who find it possible to insult and libel a movement like Zionism, a movement of an ancient people."

FINAL WITNESS IN CASE OF DOROTHY ELLINGSON

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18—Dr. J. M. Scanland, superintendent of the state hospital at Napa, California, was called today as the final witness in the case of Dorothy Ellingson, the 17 year old girl on trial for the murder of her mother, Mrs. Anna Ellingson, last January, after the elderly woman had denied the girl permission to attend a "petting" party. Court officials expected that the case would go to the jury tomorrow.

Dr. Edward Donnelly, a member of Dr. Scanland's staff, preceded Dr. Scanland on the stand. He testified that Dorothy admitted the shooting of Mrs. Ellingson but said that she merely intended to frighten her mother and that the discharge of the fatal pistol was wholly accidental.

Dr. Donnelly refused to admit that the girl was insane or a degenerate.

FIRE IN SHOP AT THE NEW HAVEN COUNTY JAIL

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 18—Squads of patrolmen and motorcycle police rushed to county jail here tonight when a private fire alarm sounded there summoned four fire companies and two hook and ladder companies to that institution. The fire was in the shop connected with the jail and was quickly extinguished with chemical with little damage.

Officials at the jail were inclined to the belief that the kiln room, where the fire was located, became overheated and that spontaneous combustion was the cause of the blaze. The kiln room is heated by steam pipes No trouble among the prisoners was observed, it was said.

RADIO MESSAGE FROM COOLIDGE TO MACMILLAN

PLYMOUTH, Vt., Aug. 18.—(AP)—A radio message from President Coolidge has been despatched to Donald B. MacMillan wishing the explorer, now in Arctic waters, "Good luck."

The message, sent through Secretary Sanders at Swampscott in response to a wireless greeting to the president from MacMillan, said:

"Kindest regards from cruise of Bowdoin and Peary now at anchor in harbor of Etah, North Greenland, twelve degrees from the pole."

President Coolidge's reply was: "Thanks for message. Best wishes and good luck."

ARE YOU ONE OF THE 98%?

Recently the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., of Lynn, Mass., sent out over one hundred thousand questionnaires to women who had used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, asking if they had been helped by its use. From the replies received 98 per cent. of women, from all walks of life, answered in the affirmative, telling how they had been relieved from the various ailments for which they had taken it. Isn't this a wonderful recommendation for the efficiency of this old-fashioned root and herb medicine.

TWO WORLD'S RECORDS BROKEN BY TRUAX IN 2:12 TROT AT CLEVELAND

CLEVELAND, Aug. 18.—(AP)—The breaking of two world's records by Truax, his third similar performance in four days and the victory by Crawford, Tommy Murphy's Belwin-Barbilla horse, of the North Randall $3,000 stake in straight heats featured today's grand circuit card at North Randall which was cut in half because of rain.

Truax made history in the 2:13 class trot. After making a break in the first heat and finishing last in a field of nine, he took the lead in the second and was never headed, to win in 1:40 flat, a new trotting record for seven eighths of a mile. The previous mark was 1:42 2-5 set by Crawford at Lexington last October.

In the next heat Dick MacMahon let Walter Cox take his Hollyrood Jessie, the favorite, into the lead until into the stretch where Truax pursued him and trotted the mile and an eighth in 2:10 2-5, clipping three fifths of a second off the mark set by Truax Friday.

It was Truax's first victory since he annexed the rainy day stakes for 2 year old trotters here two years ago. Crawford had not trouble winning the same for 2:13 trotters.

A deluge caused a postponement of the remainder of the card.

The summaries:

2:12 trot purse $1,200, 3-4, 7-8, 1 1-8 mile heats: Truax, B R H by GFuy Axworthy-Hollyrood, Timble (McMahon) 1 1 1.

Hollyrood Jessie, (Cox) 1 2 2.

Mike Dillon, (Caton) 6 2 3.

Tennis Guy Watss, Queen Volo, Pa[illegible]d, Frisco Star and Queen Bingen also started.

Time 1:30 3-5; 1:46 2-5. (new world's record): 2:12 2-5 (new world's record).

2:13 trot, the North Randall, value $3,000 mile heats: Crawford, BH by Belwin-Barella (Murphy) 1 1 1.

Thompson Dillon (Cox) 2 2 3.

Peter Fellows (Garrison) 3 4 2.

Great Lullwater also started.

Time 2:04 1-5; 2:05; 2:04 4-5.

BRAVES CELEBATE WITH DOUBLE WIN OVER CARDS

BOSTON, Aug. 18—The Boston Braves celebrated the 10th anniversary of the opening of Braves field by a double victory over the St. Louis Cardinals today by scores of 6 to 2 and 5 to 2. The visitors were unable to gather more than two hits in both games, Roger Hornsby going hitless. Several catches by Outfielder Mann and sensational support by Bancroft helped the Braves pitchers at crucial stages. Thevenow, a former Syracuse player of the International league, played at short for the Cardinals. The score:

BILL LIBERTY'S FINAL REPLY TO MGR. TROLAND

Sporting Editor—

I noticed in Monday's Bulletin that Mgr. Troland had another of his kiddish letters in.

In regards to my blaming the umpires when we are defeated it is untrue. Troland.

When we are beaten fairly we take it with a smile, but when we are robbed, we tell the world, as it at Taftville or elsewhere.

Probably the umpiring in the first game here wasn't first class, don't forget, Troland, you had one of your own umpires on bases g'essing them too.

You claim you gave me my own way through the series, Troland, you're not giving me or anybody else anything.

You say George DeForest's Danielson team defeated us 7 to 2. You don't know what you're talking about.

We have been defeated but three times this season, twice by your club and once by the Sub Base. The team that Danielson beat was Leo Jarvis' team practically the same players that defeated your club under the name of the Jewett City All Stars. If you want to know anything about that game ask Leo.

I'd find out what I was talking about before I started anything, if I were you, Troland?

So you wouldn't book Socony? What's the matter can't you get together enough money to book 'em?

No, you wouldn't book a good club, you get a lot of pickups and ham ball clubs pay them a few dollars then brag about your team's record.

I noticed you didn't mention in your letter, the fast clubs you have defeated. What's the matter, are you ashamed of the clubs you had wins over?

I'm getting disgusted answering your silly letters if you write any more I will not answer. This is final

Yours in sports,
WILLIAM L. LIBERTY
Mgr. Ashland A. A.

HOME RUNS GIVE SPRINGFIELD A VICTORY

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Aug. 18—Successive home runs by Oberc and Standaert in the second inning here today gave Springfield a lead that Pittsfield never overcame and the home team won by 6 to 4. Oberc's smash came with two on base and was his sixth home run of the season. Standaert's was his seventh. Miles Brown, pitching his first game for Springfield, since coming from the Providence Internationals, showed to good effect. Mills was hit hard but Foulk pitched shutout ball for 6 1-3 innings. Score:

Pittsfield	[illegible]	0	0	0	0	0	2	0	2	0	—4
Springfield	[illegible]	1	5	0	0	0	0	0	0	x	—6

Two base hit, Long. Three base hit, Thomas. Home runs, Oberc, Standaert.

We would also like to play the Bearcats Saturday afternoon on the J. B. Martin grounds. Please answer through this paper or call 2330 any night between 5:45 and 6

SPIRITED TENNIS FEATURES SECOND ROUND OF WOMEN'S NATIONAL PLAY

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 18.—(AP)—Sixteen contenders, five British stars and eleven Americans, remained in the battle for the national women's tennis crown today as a result of completion of second round play in the championship tournament at the West Side Club.

Five Californians, led by the present national champion, Miss Helen Wills, and six eastern stars composed the American ranks in this international battle, which saw all the outstanding title rivals come through decisively in the second day of competition.

Miss Wills and Miss Elizabeth Ryan, the Californian who has come back from a long stay in England to become the champion's foremost threat, both figures in two victories today with the 19-year old title holder giving the more impressive exhibition of the two.

Miss Wills flashed the best net attack she has shown since becoming champion when she quickly put our Mrs. Anna Fuller Hubbard, of Boston, 6-1, 6-0. Coming up from her accustomed place at the base line, the champion volleyed skillfully and effectively, taking only twenty six minutes to chalk up her victory.

An hour later Miss Wills, paired with her California partner, Miss Mary K. Browne, in her first doubles match and captured a brilliant battle from an old rival, Mrs. Nolla B. Mallory of New York, who teamed with Miss Marion Williams of Los Angeles. The scores of this match were 8-6, 6-3.

Miss Ryan had little trouble eliminating Mrs. M. B. Huff in the singles, 6-2, 6-7, after which she paired with Mrs. May Sutton Bundy to dispose of Mrs. Deforest Candee and Mrs. S. F. Weaver of New York in the doubles, 6-4, 6-2.

The defeat of California's two young stars, Miss Helen Jacobs and Miss Charlotte Hosmer, came as surprises.

Miss Jacobs fell a victim to the superior generalship and placing of Miss Penelope Anderson of Richmond, Va., who won by scores of 6-4, 4-6, 6-3.

It required another extra set battle before Miss Hosmer accepted defeat at the hands of the veteran, Mrs. Mary Sutton Bundy, who gained her second victory of the day by scores of 2-6, 6-4, 6-3.

Miss Jacob and Miss Hosmer faded out of the tournament altogether when they met defeat together in the doubles, yielding to the British team of Miss Kathleen McKane and Miss Evelyn Colyer, 6-4, 6-2.

The first setback among England's stars came in the doubles when Miss Joan Fry, 19 year old Wimbledon runner-up, was beaten with Mrs. H. S. Green of New York as her partner by the veteran metropolitan team, Mrs. F. V. Rocser and Mrs. B. F. Sterz, 8-6, 6-3.

Mrs. Chambers and Miss E. H. Harvey, another English combination, came through successfully by eliminating Miss Eleanora Sears and Mrs. Frank H. Godfrey of Boston, 6-2, 6-3, while one of the favored American teams, Miss Eleanor Goss of New York and Mrs. Marion Z. Jessup of Wilmington, Del., triumphed over Mrs. Chapman and Mrs. Raymond of New York 6-2, 6-2.

ATHLETICS LOSE CLOSE GAME TO BROWNS

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Washington gained a full game on the league-leading Philadelphians today when the Athletics dropped the first game of the series to the St. Louis Browns by the score of 7 to 6. Although his mates presented Joe Bush with a five-run lead in the opening inning he was unable to hold the Athletics and was succeeded by Danforth in the fourth frame. Van Gilder later replaced Danforth. Connie Mack's pitching array included Quinn, Baumgartner, Groves and Harriss. The game was delayed 15 minutes by rain. Score:

MCGRAW ADMITS THAT BASEBALL IS LESS LIVELY

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—(AP)—John McGraw, vice president and manager of the New York Giants, said today that the ball which has been used in the major leagues during the past few weeks is much slower than the kind with which the season was started.

McGraw said that the club owners, without making any announcement, reached an agreement among themselves that the ball in use was too lively for the good of the sport and that the several changes in its construction were ordered. He called attention to the large number of small score games during the last month to show that the ball is not as it used to be.

TAFTVILLE A. A. TO CLASH WITH EAST ENDS TONIGHT

The twice postponed game between the East Ends and the Taftville A. A. will be played this evening at the Providence street grounds. Mills will pitch for the East Siders and Gauthier will toe the rubber for the Taftville team. The teams will lineup the same as in other games.

MULLINS REFUSES TO SIGN FOR WILLS

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—(AP)—For a time today there was a fight on for the heavyweight championship of the world.

But Tex Rickard, promoter, and Jack Kearns, manager of the champion, Jack Dempsey, although they agreed with each other in a legal document and posted $25,000 each signifying good will, failed to attract the third of the necessary triumvirate, the copious Paddy Mullins, director of the destinies of Harry Wills.

Rickard and Kearns, in writing, agreed to stage a bout wherein Dempsey would defend his title on or before July 4, 1926.

Rickard placed in the hands of the New York state athletic commission a check for $25,000 as a guarantee of a promo

NO. STONINGTON MAN SEEKS WIFE AND MISSING $900 IN NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 18.—George E. Burdick, of North Stonington, today is anxiously seeking the whereabouts of his wife, Minnie Maine Burdick, who mysteriously disappeared from her home during the absence of her husband, late yesterday afternoon. Burdick is satisfied that no harm has befallen his wife, but he is especially anxious to locate the woman and at the earliest possible date, for Mrs. Burdick a short time prior to leaving her home, went to a savings bank in Westerly and withdrew the entire savings of her husband, $900, also took a gold watch belonging to her father-in-law, who resides with the Burdick family. Burdick came to New London at 6 o'clock this morning and visited the police station where he requested that a lookout be maintained for the woman. Mrs. Burdick is described as being about 58, five feet, five inches in height, has gray hair and has two warts on her face. The woman is also noticeably round-shouldered.

Fists and the teeth entered into a row that occurred between bootblacks at the union railway station, when Rocky Patsy Pico and Louis Lara quarreled about money, something that has been the cause of quarrels from the beginning of time. Louis is a magnate, so considered, as he hires and fires for the owner of the stand that is leased from the New Haven railroad. He hired Patsy, but Patsy wouldn't be fired till he got what wages he declared was due him. Louis complained and the railroad police arrested Patsy. The latter claimed he was not fairly treated. He said he spoiled a cloth that was used in putting luster on the shoes he shined, and for that he and his brother were discharged. Then, he said, Louis endeavored to avoid the payment to them of the wages coming to them, which was at the rate of $8 a week. Patsy, the older of the brothers, and Louis had some hot words of the fascisti sort and these led to blows. Patsy declared that Louis was the aggressor, for he described that "Louis made a punch" at him, but he "dodged and gave Louis one that sent him under a small truck that was passing." He said he would not have hit Louis had not the latter hurled his teeth in his arm and called him a vile name. Neither of the belligerents was damaged much, so in the police court they were given some good advice and judgment was suspended.

Frank Mooney, a laborer from Fishers Island, where they all come from to the police court, was sent to jail for ten days, this morning, because he does not appreciate leniency when it is shown to him by Judge Prince. A week ago Mooney was in the court where he was convicted of intoxication and was fined $5. To give him a chance to make a new start the judgment was suspended and Frank escaped the payment of about $15. Yesterday he was drunk again, so today he got the dose that he should have received last week.

Ernest Coe, a taxi driver whose car ran down John Brennan, of Mercer street a fortnight ago, when Brennan stepped into the street from the sidewalk without looking to discover what vehicle was coming, was to have had a hearing in the court this morning, but Brennan's condition is such yet at the hospital that he could not appear, so the case was put over till the first of September.

Joseph Pontrice, claiming Fall River as his home and misfortune of poverty his portion in this world, was arraigned as a trespasser on railroad property. He is a minor and said he came here to ship in the navy, for he was out of work, with a father who earned only $12 a week in a cotton mill and who could not keep a son in idleness. In those circumstances the court did not deem him an offender from choice, so he was turned over to the probation officer that the latter may arrange for the youth's transportation to his home.

Alvin Antonson, of Camp Trumbull, Niantic, Robert Forbes, Fishers Island, Jeremiah Murphy, 205 Orange street, Fall River, Mass.; Francis Duffy, Camp Trumbull, Niantic; Mrs. Ernest Young, 21 Summer street, Westerly; Miss Elizabeth Egan, 16 Woodbridge street; George Torforin, Camp Trumbull, Niantic; Leonard Sielzky, 97 Bentley avenue; Joseph Siliano, 61 Cross street, Westerly, and Mrs. J. Daxton Crary and infant son, Mystic, patients at Lawrence Memorial Associated hospital, were dismissed today.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. James have returned to their home on Bellevue place, having spent a fortnight in Maine and Massachusetts.

George Vancho, 12, of Bridgeport, who boarded a steamer at Bridgeport and accompanied the 242nd Co., C. A. to camp at Fort Wright, Fishers, Island, and who was turned over to the New London police last night, was not compelled to occupy a cell at the police station for the night. Desk Sergeant Frank Howard upon going off duty at midnight escorted the youth to the residence of the sergeant where the lad was given a comfortable bed to occupy and enabled him to obtain a needed rest. This morning the runaway's brother, Nicholas Vancho, also of Bridgeport, came to this city and took charge of the youngster.

Councilor Lucius E. Whiton today acquired three parcels of realty, the aggregate price of which is $27,000. All of the properties are located within a short distance of the councilor's residence on William street. Councilor Whiton acquired the former Dr. Manwaring house, corner of Williams and Manwaring streets, for a number of years used as a registry for nurses and paid $12,000 for the house and a large tract of land. Mr. Whiton also purchased from Paul W. and Harriet E. Conant the dwelling, 16 Borodell place for $8500 and acquired of James M. Graves for $6500 the dwelling at 17 Borodell place.

One of the city's automobile trucks operated by A. C. Gorton, 133 Montauk avenue, backed against an automobile operated by Mrs. Coddington B. Pendleton 13 Norwood avenue this afternoon, corner of Ledyard and Vauxhall streets. The pleasure car was damaged slightly.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today caused the operators' licenses of William H. Long, 10 Robinson street, and Philip E. Garrison, submarine base, to be returned to the owners. The licenses were suspended two weeks ago, for violations of the automobile laws.

A crowd of youths, who are occupying a cottage on Peninsula avenue are preparing themselves for presentation in the police court, provided they do not change their conduct and at an early date. Late this afternoon, Mrs. Tennant, summer resident in that vicinity lodged complaint with the authorities, together with five other residents of Peninsula avenue and that vicinity. The complainants sought Patrolman James McKenna, on patrol duty at the shore resort, and recited the habits of the youths and particularly the conduct at the place complained of the past few nights.

An automobile, owned and driven by William J. Tracey, 15 Grand street and an auto truck, owned by the J. N. Lapoint company and driven by John V. Williams, of 209 Bank street, were in collision late this afternoon on Water street. Tracey's car was slightly damaged. The accident occurred when Tracey was operating his machine from the government pier. As the car emerged from the approach to the pier, it crashed against the truck operated by Williams.

The automobile owned and operated by Joseph Perrone, 43 Summer street and a motorcycle with sidecar attachment, owned and driven by Aubrey Goodpastor, sailor, stationed aboard U. S. S. Cummings, at this port, were in collision this evening at the corner of Union and Church streets. The motorcycle suffered the greater damage. Both drivers lodged complaint with the police of a charge of reckless driving, but later decided to withdraw the charges and adjust the damages between themselves.

Mrs. Alex Rizzute, of New York, formerly of New London, is spending a few weeks in this city, the guest of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lathrop of Montauk avenue.

The city dumping grounds on Jefferson avenue, required the attention of the firemen again this evening, for a quantity of refuse became ablaze, presumably through ignition by boys. The odor was so nauseating and the smoke so offensive, that a still alarm was sent to fire headquarters. The Niagara Engine company was dispatched to the dump and extinguished the blaze with a liberal quantity of chemicals.

Carl Plympton, employed by a bottling concern on Hamilton street, complained to the police late this afternoon and after he had concluded his day's labors, that a thief had entered the garage of his employers and had stolen his bicycle.

Miss Marie Daboll, Waterford, and Miss Muriel Schorr, of New York, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were dismissed today.

REVENUE CUTTER REDWING ASSIGNED TO NEW YORK

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 18.—Revenue cutter Redwing, flagship of the local fleet of federal craft, stationed at this port to pursue rum-runners, is to be sent, within a few days, to New York where she will pursue the duties of maintaining a watch for vessels transporting liquor. The order for the transfer of the Redwing was received here today from Rear Admiral F. C. Billard, commandant of the United States Coast Guard, stationed at Washington. The Redwing will be replaced here by the cutter Majave.

SANFORD MEECH PROPERTY AT EASTERN POINT SOLD

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 18.—Charles Prettyman, Ormond, Fla., a summer resident at Eastern Point, where he owns a large estate, has acquired the Sanford Meech property at Eastern Point. The Meech property has been in control of members of the Meech family 60 years and recently it was decided to dispose of the property, which comprises several acres. When Mr. Prettyman was acquainted with the fact that the property was upon the market he arranged for the transfer.

GETTING PETITION SIGNED FOR SPECIAL CITY MEETING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 18.—Taxpayers back of the circulation of a petition whereby a special meeting of the electors of the city will be called, to decide whether the present form of city-manager form of government shall continue or whether a return to to the special municipal form of government shall prevail after Oct. 1, 1926, stated this evening that the necessary number of signatures making it mandatory for the calling of the special election has already been obtained, but that because many names of signers will be thrown out because of the signers not having a bona fide residence entitling them to vote and, because others failed to comply with the law in not signing the petitions properly, several hundred additional names will be secured to insure the petition being legal in every respect and with the entire number of legal signatures to compel a special election being called. No matter what action from a special meeting results, the members of the city council will hold over in office until Oct., 1926.

With all of the nominating petitions for the office of member of council having been filed at the office of the city clerk, but three have signified their intentions of accepting the nominations, these being James A. May, William C. Fox and Mrs. Emily C. Spiers. The other two nominees, Mayor Waldo E. Clarke and Charles F. Whiton, whose terms of office will expire Oct. 1st, will accept, it is stated by their friends.

FIREMEN GET TWO CALLS ONE A FALSE ALARM

(Special to the Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Aug. 18.—Westerly fire department responded to two fire alarms, Tuesday, in one of which the loss was slight and the second proved a false alarm. Short circuits in electric light wires undoubtedly caused a smoldering in the house of Michael DePerry on Marriott avenue, off Pleasant street, Tuesday afternoon, about 2 o'clock. An alarm was turned in from Box 64, corner of High and Pleasant streets and the three pieces of apparatus responded, the fire being extinguished in a short time. Some damage was done to the house by smoke.

Shortly after 9 o'clock Tuesday evening an alarm from Box 24, corner of High street and Grove avenue was sounded on the fire bell. Two pieces of apparatus were run out, only to find the call a needless one. The alarm was turned in by telephone central, who reported that a party calling in gave a number not to be found in the telephone book with a name which sounded like Sutcliffe. The operator rang the alarm and investigated later. The recall was sounded, but not before a large number of automobiles and people had visited the locality of the supposed blaze.

OBITUARY
Edwin W. Abbe

NEW BRITAIN, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Edwin W. Abbe, prominent in retail circles in this city for more than 40 years, died today at his home, 19 Curtis street, at the age of 68. He helped to organize the Abbe Hardware Company in 1883 and retired from the firm ten years ago. Mr. Abbe was born in Enfield and was a descendant of Revolutionary warriors. He is survived by his wife and a brother, Albert N. Abbe, vice-president of the American Hardware Corporation. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

THE PRESIDENT AND MRS. COOLIDGE TAKE AUTO RIDES

PLYMOUTH, VT., Aug. 18—Two long automobile rides through the hills afforded President and Mrs. Coolidge recreation today—the fourth day of their vacation stay here with the president's father.

In the morning they motored twelve miles to Ludlow and visited for an hour with Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Pierson, son-in-law and daughter of Attorney General Sargent. In the president's automobile returning to Plymouth was a basket heaping with fresh vegetables which he and Mrs. Coolidge had helped gather in the Pierson garden, and which were used for supper this evening at the Coolidge home.

At noon Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge drove to Woodstock, sixteen miles distant, where they were luncheon guests of Governor and Mrs. Billings. Others at the luncheon were Mr. and Mrs. Curtis T. Fields of Greenwich, Conn., son-in-law and daughter. Nancy, a daughter, and Franklin Swift Billings, Jr., a son of the governor and Mrs. Billings.

With the weather ideal the president is enjoying his stay here, and thus far has given no indication as to when he will return to Swampscott, although he may decide to make the trip either tomorrow or Thursday.

SUES FOR BEING JILTED BY WOMAN ONCE HIS WIFE

BRIDGEPORT, Aug. 18—Jilted by the woman who was once his wife, and from whom he had exultantly won a promise of re-marriage when he romantically wooed her after she had divorced him for intemperance, but who finally cajoled him out of $10,000, he says, and then married another man, Charles Grimwood, formerly a well known real estate dealer of Bridgeport, and now a resident of White Plains, filed suit in superior court this afternoon against Jennie Woolnough Mitchell, Black Rock avenue.

Grimwood and Mrs. Mitchell, then Miss Woolnough, were married in Toronto, Canada, on January 20, 1912. They removed to Detroit, where they lived for a time, and then took up their home in Bridgeport.

Judge Frank D. Barnes, on October 21, 1921, awarded Mrs. Grimwood a decree of divorce. Grimwood did not contest the action. His wife wept as she told how he once struck her, and she said he used liquor to excess and verbally abused her.

Some time after the divorce was granted, say papers prepared for Mr. Grimwood by Attorney A. S. Gedulding, Bridgeport, Grimwood and his former wife "became very friendly." There ensued a second courtship. Grimwood admits he asked the woman with whom he had lived for eight years, but whom the superior court had declared "single and unmarried," to again become his bride.

Mrs. Grimwood on the witness stand, petitioning Judge Haines for a divorce, had stated Grimwood was "extremely stingy." Grimwood, in the present action, states his ex-wife pledged herself to re-marry him, but first stipulated that he give her his property. He did so, he declares, conveying to her "cash, furniture and other valuables" worth $10,000.

The $10,000 transfer made, Grimwood pressed his wish to be re-married. His former wife declined, and likewise declined to give up the $10,000 in valuables. Grimwood now says her statements concerning re-marriage were false, and, she having no intention to re-marry him, gave her marriage promises with fraudulent intent. Grimwood says he was informed on May 1, 1925, that the former Mrs. Grimwood had married one Mitchell.

P. W. CHASE FAILED TO APPEAR FOR HEARING

Ivoryton, Conn., August 18.—(AP)—Prentice W. Chase, of New Haven, charged with having passed a check on Ernest L. Pramm, of Deep River, when there were no funds to meet it, did not appear for a hearing before Justice F. Howard Stickney, yesterday afternoon. Instead of calling the bond of $1,000 furnished by Edwin S. Hunt, of Essex, it was decided by the police to ask for Chase's arrest if he can be found in the state.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Herbert Yost in The Enchanted April

Herbert Yost, celebrated Broadway actor, will be seen in an important role at New London when The Enchanted April, a dramatization of Elizabeth's famous novel by Kane Campbell opens for a two day engagement at the Lyceum theater, commencing Friday evening, August 21 prior to its New York premiere at the Morosco theater, August 24th. Rosalie Stewart, the producer of the sensational comedy of two seasons, The Snow-Off, is sponsor for The Enchanted April.

Mr. Yost scored his first theatrical success in Overnight about ten years ago. In Sutro's, The Clever Ones, he added much lustre to his histrionic name, while the role of Saltina in The Young Visitors firmly established him as an actor of note. Then he played opposite Ina Claire in Polly With a Past, followed by, Why Men Leave Home and The New Poor, all of which added to his reputation. Previous to The New Poor he essayed the role of Mr. Pim Passes By, and once again blazed across the horizon as one of the outstanding actors of the last decade. In between these successes Mr. Yost was also seen in The Marriage of Columbine. The Comedians and plays of lesser importance. As Mellersa Wilkins in The Enchanted April, Mr. Yost is certain to add new laurels to the fame that is already his.

Rosalie Stewart, in order to make this the outstanding success of her career as a producer, has engaged a brilliant cast for The Enchanted April. Such names as Helen Gahagan, Elizabeth Risdon, Alison Shipworth and Merle Maddern are names to conjure with in the theater, yet all have been assembled for The Enchanted April. In addition there is Hugh Huntley, Herbert Yost, Gilbert Douglas, John Ravold, Adelina Roattino and Doris Carteret.

The Enchanted April, based on the highly successful novel of the same name by Elizabeth, a titled Englishwoman, is probably one of the most hilarious comedies written in some time. Kane Campbell, who dramatized the book for stage purposes, has caught the charm and romance of the printed page and has transferred this to the stage.

The Wachusett reservoir of the Metropolitan Water System, Worcester, Mass., is lower than ever in its history at this season. The present mark is 18 feet below high water level.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

New York, the poverty stricken, and New York the fabulously wealthy and chic are the two sides portrayed in the screen version of Howard Rockey's remarkable novel, "This Woman," coming to the Palace Theatre, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

In the opening scenes we are introduced to Carol Drayton, a student of music, who finds herself in New York, broke and discouraged. Rose, a girl of the streets, saves her from suicide. Carol learns the dingy side of the city, the cheap restaurants where the disreputables "hang out;" by a turn of events, she is falsely accused and sentenced to a prison.

Out from prison, she happily is befriended by a musical impressario who is impressed with the quality of her voice. He decides to train her for opera—and Carol suddenly finds herself in the vortex of the fashionable ambitious world of music.

The sharp contrast of the two slices of life is well depicted in this Warner Bros. Classic of the Screen, from all accounts.

Heading the cast is Irene Rich, with Ricardo Cortez and Louise Fazenda. The cast is brought up with Frank Elliott, Creighton Hale, Marc McDermott, Helen Dunbar, Clara Bow and Otto Hoffman.

Film fans will be delighted to hear that the direction is by no less a master hand than Phil Rosen, renowned for his work on "Abraham Lincoln" and "Being Respectable." Mr. Rosen is among the topnotchers in his field.

Hope Loring and Louis Leighton did the scenario.

Broadway Theatre.

The B. F. Keith Vaudeville program which opens at the Broadway theatre tomorrow is being kept secret, so you'd better watch tomorrow's paper for the greatest mid-summer program ever given at a local theatre.

James Cruze, whose directorial achievements have won him a place in the Motion Picture Hall of Fame—figuratively speaking, since, as yet, there is no such institution in the movies—has recently completed another Paramount production, which pre-release advices are hailing as "a comedy classic."

"Marry Me!" is the title of his latest producing effort and local film enthusiasts may look forward to seeing it soon because the Broadway theatre will offer it as its principal photoplay attraction beginning tomorrow.

In the matter of cast, even the most critical picture-goer will concede that Cruze has done his level best, since the players include such prime favorites as Florence Vidor, Edward Everett Horton, Helen Jerome Eddy and John Roche.

Breed Theatre.

"The Deadwood Coach" is proclaimed by many critics in leading cities as the greatest starring vehicle Tom Mix has had up to date. This will be seen at the Breed theatre beginning Thursday. Doris May is Tom's leading lady in this one. Lynn Reynolds directed.

Tom Mix always hits so high a spot that his followers over the climax of Western dash and daring has been attained and that this cowboy king can go no further. In "The Deadwood Coach," his latest screen picture, Tom has shown finer fighting, better shooting, more dashing heroics and better love-making than in any previous effort. He seems to have hit truly highest spot this time.

LEGAL NOTICES.

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at North Stonington, in and for the District of North Stonington, on the 17th day of August, A. D. 1925.
Present—CHARLES C. GRAY, Judge.
Estate of William J. Richmond, late of North Stonington, in said District, deceased.
Frances A. Richmond, of North Stonington, having made written application praying that administration be granted of said estate represented intestate as by said application on file; it is Ordered, That said application be heard and determined at a Court of Probate to be held at the Probate Office in North Stonington in said District, on the 25th day of August, A. D. 1925, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon and that public notice of the pendency of said application and the time and place of the hearing thereon, be given by publishing this order two times in some newspaper having a circulation in said District, and that a copy of this order and notice be given to Mrs. Rachel Richmond by depositing in the post office at North Stonington in said District, postage prepaid and letter registered, a true and attested copy of said order and application, addressed to said Rachel Richmond at Westerly, R. I., before the 26th day of August, 1925, and due return make.
CHARLES C. GRAY,
aug19d Judge.

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Norwich, within and for the District of Norwich, on the 18th day of August, A. D. 1925.
Present—NELSON J. AYLING, Judge
Estate of Richardetta Wilson, late of Norwich, in said District, deceased.
Herbert W. Gallup, of Norwich, Conn. appeared in Court and filed a petition praying, for the reasons therein set forth that administration be granted upon the estate of said deceased, alleged to be intestate.
Whereupon, It is Ordered, That said petition be heard and determined at the Probate Court Room in the City of Norwich, in said District, on the 21st day of August, A. D. 1925, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and that notice of the pendency of said petition, and of said hearing thereon, be given by the publication of this order one time in some newspaper having a circulation in said District at least three days prior to the date of said hearing and that return be made to this Court.
NELSON J. AYLING, Judge
The above and foregoing is a true copy of record.
Attest: HELEN M. DRESCHER, aug18d Clerk.

SAMUELETTA WILSON VS. HARRY Wilson. Order of Notice.
State of Connecticut, County of New London, August 14th, 1925.
Upon the complaint of the said Samueletta Wilson claiming for the causes therein set forth a divorce and a change of the Plaintiff's name, returnable on the first Tuesday of September, 1925, before the Superior Court in and for said County,
It appearing to and being found by the subscribing authority that the said defendant Harry Wilson is absent from this State—gone to parts unknown.
It is therefore ordered, that notice of the pendency of said complaint be given said defendant by publishing this order in the Norwich Bulletin, a newspaper printed in Norwich, Connecticut, two days successively, commencing on or before the 20th day of August, 1925.
JOHN H. WALKER,
Assistant Clerk of the Superior Court for New London County.

PARTLY CLOUDY TODAY AND TOMORROW

Norwich Bulletin

1798 1925

NORWICH, CONN., WEDNESDAY AUG. 19, 1925

FULL ASSOCIATED PRESS DESPATCHES

The Bulletin.

Norwich Wednesday, August 19, 1925

THE WEATHER

Conditions

Pressure is relatively low from Ontario southwestward to southern Arizona and from there northward to southern British Columbia and it is high over practically all other regions. There is no defined disturbance chartered on tonight's weather map.

The indications are for scattered thundershowers Wednesday in the lower lake region and the upper Ohio valley and Wednesday and probably Thursday in the Ohio valley, Tennessee and the mid-Atlantic and north Atlantic states.

The temperature will not change materially east of the Mississippi river during the next two days.

Winds

North of Sandy Hook: Moderate southeast and south and generally fair weather Wednesday.

Sandy Hook to Hatteras: Moderate southerly and generally fair weather Wednesday.

Forecast

For eastern New York and southern New England: Partly cloudy Wednesday and Thursday, probably scattered thunder-showers, not much change in temperature.

Observations

The Bulletin's observations show the following changes in temperature and barometric changes Tuesday:

	Ther.	Bar.
7 a. m.	64	30.20

TWELVE VETERANS OF 26TH REG. ANSWER ROLL CALL AT REUNION

Twelve members of the 26th Regiment, Connecticut Volunteers answered in person to the roll call of the regiment, at the 62nd annual reunion held at Buckingham Memorial, here, Tuesday. The opening business of the day was the registration of members, followed by a business session, which was opened by President Horace Clift of Mystic.

Rev. Allan Shaw Bush of Gales Ferry opened the meeting with prayer after which the following inspiring address was delivered by President Clift:

Comrades, Ladies and Gentlemen:—

We are met again at the annual reunion. During the past year several who were with us at the last meeting have passed away. We miss the presence of all of them. It need not be slighting any of them to make special mention of Comrade Charles Tirrell, the last one one of those who died, and the youngest. He had endeared himself to all of us who knew him, so that it can be said his presence cheered us and we loved him.

In the natural course of events, ere long our turn will come to pass the bourn whence no traveller returns. In faith, it is our privilege to hope and expect to meet with them again, and also with other loved ones on the shining shore.

In these surroundings reference is made to our army life, recalling events to stir up our minds by way of remembrances, lest we forget.

We remember Camp Russell with its tents and barracks, which was our home for a period; where we marched across the street in the County Fairgrounds and took our first lessons in battalion drill and dress parade. And the Sunday before we left that camp by special invitation our regiment marched down to the Congregational church in this city and listened to a discourse by Rev. Dr. Gulliver with Gov. Buckingham sitting in the pulpit. A few days later amid the assembled multitude and our relatives to bid us a farewell, we were started by steamship for New York.

Our next camp ground was in East New York on the Centreville race-track a few miles from the city. This was called Camp Buckingham, named for our Connecticut governor. We remained there a few weeks in drill until the order came for our regiment to start for the front. Keeping step to the music of the band, and singing as we marched along "We are coming father Abraham, three hundred thousand more," we marched on board the steamer bound for New Orleans. After a stormy time, during which we rounded the dangerous Cape Hatteras, we reached that city, and soon after were conducted to Carrollton, and located in Camp Parapet. There we remained and were supplied with new weapons, the old muzzle loading rifle being exchanged for the Springfield breech loader, and then learned to use it. Here we had our first experience in picket duty, and the long marches in the hot sun, under command of Gen. Banks, up Red River, to Fort Hudson, etc. Here we first heard the whistle of the enemy's bullets, and the shrieking shells, and the deadly missiles from the sharpshooters. In the united efforts of the navy under the command of Admiral Farragut, with the land forces under command of Gen. Banks at Port Hudson, the Mississippi River was taken from rebel control, and the traffic and commerce.

After a few weeks of pursuit of the rebel army, the siege of Vicksburg was ended, our regiment sailed down the river with the victorious army to Vicksburg and Memphis, the railway was taken to Cairo for Chicago and New York, and thence by steamer to Norwich. On arriving here, it seemed as though the entire population were out to greet and welcome us. The mayor delivered an address of congratulation and welcome and a sumptuous collation was provided on the public park.

That was sixty-two years ago. Changes have come, yet those events are not entirely forgotten.

While I was a school boy one of the declamations which was sometimes spoken was an extract from the address of Daniel Webster on the occasion of visit of the Marquis de Lafayette. In his address Mr. Webster used the words, Welcome friend of our fathers to our shore; welcome, thrice welcome Lafayette." On this occasion we are pleased to have present with us the mayor of Norwich. In a spirit of grateful remembrance for the hospitality of this grand old city we say to him,—We say to you Mayor Waters Welcome, thrice welcome to our midst.

Mayor Waters responded to President Clift welcoming the comrades to the city and extended an invitation to the 26th regiment to continue its annual reunions in the Rose of New England.

The corresponding secretary's report and financial statement and minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved, the records being submitted, as they have been since 1914, by Benjamin Dime, last celebrated his 90th birthday.

Report of Secretary

The following report of Corresponding Secretary B. B. Champlin, was read to the comrades present:

Aug. 19, 1925.

Comrades:

We have met again to observe our 62nd annual reunion. The first one was held in 1864. After that they met informally every year until 1884 when a permanent organization was effected under the name of The Association of the Twenty-sixth Regiment, Connecticut Volunteers. The first president was Lt. Col. Joseph Selden. Since then we have met every year. There are now only 30 of the old regiment living and the number grows less. Last year only 13 comrades answered to the roll call and three that have met with us will be here no more. Old age and distance keeps many away. As we were among the first to establish reunions, let us be among the last to give them up.

The following deaths have been reported to me the last year:

H. H. La Perrie, Co. B., died Sept. 22, 1924, age 85 years.

J. B. Richmond, Co. B., died date unknown, age 92 years.

B. B. CHAMPLIN,
Corresponding Secretary.

Financial Report.

At the close of the reunion of 1924 there was in the monument fund $350.48. There is a bill of $10 for flowers to be paid today, leaving a balance of $320.48.

After the following bills were paid: 63 dinner tickets, $47.25; supplies, $10.50; janitor's fees, $1.50; total, $59.25; there was a balance in the regimental fund of $1,120.23.

B. B. CHAMPLIN,
Acting Treasurer.

Letters Received.

Secretary Champlin has received in response to the notification of the annual reunion the following letters:

Dear Comrades:

Your invitation to attend the reunion of the Twenty-sixth received. Shall be unable to attend. Have been under the doctor's care for the last two months.

Best wishes to the few left.

JOHN C. SMITH,
Uncasville, Conn., Aug. 4, 1925.

San Jose, Calif., Aug. 2, 1925.

Dear Comrade:

Your very welcome letter came to hand yesterday. I am much pleased to know that you are still in this body and able to fill your office. I think you must be somewhere in the nineties. I am nearly 84 but still keep moving around the place. My greatest trouble is that I cannot bear any heat on my head. You will probably remember that when our regiment was in the grove at Port Anderson out east of the "rebs" that our lookout said that the "rebs" were concentrating opposite the open space north of us as though they expected to make a drive through that open space and get away so were ordered out at night to dig rifle pits across that space. There was a heavy shower came up after we had finished. The next day was terribly hot. I was on guard about 11 o'clock and the sun knocked me down. David Winchester was next to me. He called the corporal to bring another and take me to the hospital. That was full so they took me to our tent and bandaged my head with cold towels. We left for home shortly after. When I reched the Connecticut atmosphere my head got attractive and stayed so until I passed the meridian of life, then all my ailments came back, also my head weakness. I asked the comrades to give me some affidavits that I received a sun stroke while there. They did but some democratic pension commissioner destroyed them. Now I wonder if it is too late to get a few more. If so I might be able to get an increase. Our Mr. C. is a friend of pensioners and would help me all he could. If you think it is practicable I wish that you would try to get a notary public to come to the reunion to take the affidavits and I will reimburse you for the trouble and the expense. Enclosed you will find a statement of what they should year to. I do not think of anything more I could say for their entertainment there.

Ever your sincere friend.

ROBERT H. DOUGLASS.
Chattanooga, Tenn.,
August 4, 1925.

B. B. Champlin,
New Haven, Conn.

Dear Friend and Comrade.

Your kind invitation to attend the reunion of our grand old Regiment—the 26th Connecticut Volunteers—is received and it is with sorrow I have to state I must number be one of the greatest pleasures of my life to just meet on you one and all. I have changed quite a little in the past year and cannot even ride in an automobile for more than three or four blocks, for remember me to all the old boys and may you have a glorious good time.

Best regards to all.

Fraternally yours,

G. A. LATHAM.
202 Poplan street,
Chattanooga, Tenn.

Officers Elected.

The chair then named Comrades Willey, Newbury and Peabody a committee to retire and present names of comrades for officers for another year. Returning to the post roster the following officers were present and unanimously elected:

President, Horace Clift.

Recording Secretary and Treasurer, to be appointed by the president and corresponding secretary.

Corresponding Secretary, Beriah B. Champlin.

Vice-presidents, Alva Morgan, H. C. Wright, J. Morrey.

Mr. Champlin endeavored to refuse the nomination of corresponding secretary, stating that he had served since 1914, but the remonstrance did not prevail and he was unanimously re-elected.

The collection taken each year, amounted this year to $34.67 and upon announcement one of the comrades remarked that the older they got the more money they seemed to have, for the collection in recent years had far exceeded any collections taken several years ago when there were many more members in the organization.

Upon motion of the corresponding secretary the two following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That $100 be transferred from the Monument fund to the Regimental fund.

Resolved, That a vote of thanks be extended to Sedgwick Post No. 7, G. A. R. for the use of their rooms during the reunion.

Banquet Served.

Adjournment was taken at 12 o'clock to the dining room where the women of the Woman's Relief corps, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Florence Dean, served the following menu:

Chicken Soup
Roast Lamb Potatoes
Green Peas Corn on Cob
Tomatoes
Apple Pie Cheese
Watermelon
Tea Coffee Cigars

Word From Oldest Member.

Word was received from the oldest living member of the regiment, Oliver Nalson, who on Jan. 9, 1926, will celebrate his 100th birthday. Comrade Nalson reported that he suffered a fall, fracturing his hip, and therefore is unable to get around except in a wheel chair. He is, however, otherwise in the best of health and enjoys reading and keeping up to the times. He extended greeting to all of the other members of the regiment present.

Comrades and Guests Present.

Included among the comrades present were the following: Horace Clift, Co. K.; Orrin M. Price, 13th, C. V.; Charles H. Niles, Co. K.; Henry C. Wright, Co. C.; N. H. Newbury, Co. K.; Joseph T. Mitchell, Co. D., 13th C. V.; Joseph Peabody, Waterford; John Irish, Co. C. and L, cavalry; Jacob C. Benjamin, Co. I.

The guests included: Sarah A. Clift, Mystic; Mrs. Edna Rehn Dan Veteran, New London; Mr. and Mrs. Odeles Thomkins, Mount Vernon, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Reynolds, West Mystic; Mrs. Gurdon Allyn, West Mystic; Marietta Wright, Norwich; Harriet E. Douglas, Norwich; Kate J. Willey, Norwich; Allen Shaw Bush, Gales Ferry.

CROWD SEES HUMAN FLY CLIMB COURTHOUSE

A crowd of several hundred people were thrilled Tuesday night when James Smith of Springfield, Mass., one of the smallest and youngest steeplejacks touring the country, scaled the town hall building. His time for the climb was fast, occupying little over 25 minutes, part of which were taken out in stops to "kid" the crowd and announce programs for the shows at the Dupont field.

The start was made from the ground near the police headquarters and by use of open windows, he climbed to the third floor. Here Smith struck a tough proposition for he is stout and the ledge there projected out beyond his reach. A short piece of rope was swung out over the ledge and grasping this, Smith dangled in the air until he reached the ledge and pulled himself over. Arriving at the roof he announced that he was going higher and his stopping point was the bell tower. The feat was well worth watching and showed marvelous skill and daring and Smith's efforts to please met with a ring of applause after he had successfully made his climb.

Smith is to give another demonstration in this city on Friday night when he will climb the Wauregan House building while blindfolded. After his climb he is to ride a bicycle around the edge of the roof of the hotel and do a chair balancing stunt on the eaves.

Turney; first vice-president, Mrs. Ida Holcomb; second vice-president, Mrs. Josephine Simons; third vice president, Mrs. Harriet A. Nash; secretary, Rev. Albert P. Blinn; treasurer, Mrs. Clara A. Collamore; directors, Mrs. Helen R. Turney, Mrs. Ida A. Holcomb, Elvin A. Finlayson, Monroe S. Burt, Mrs. Jeannette C. Ross, Mrs. Mary E. Laurent, Joseph Lachapelle and Mrs. Mary E. Desmond.

CITY TRUCK SLIGHTLY DAMAGED BY FIRE

One of the street department trucks was slightly damaged by fire about 11:30 o'clock Tuesday morning while in the vicinity of Roath street. The truck was being used at the stone crusher, evidently because of faulty mechanism and Squad A and Engine No. 2 responded and soon had the fire extinguished. The same truck caught fire one week ago on the East Side and was slightly damaged.

THEFT CASE AGAINST MONAHAN IS CONTINUED

The case of Edward Monahan, 41, charged with receiving stolen property, came before the city court Tuesday morning. Monahan entered a plea of not guilty and the case was continued until this (Wednesday) morning when it will be tried.

City Attorney Lee Ray Robbins specifically charges that Monahan received a gold watch to the value of $30, knowing the same to be stolen. The watch belongs to Herbert Chapman of Norwich.

It is alleged that Monahan in company with John Murphy, who has been bound over to the higher court on a charge of securing money under false pretenses, took the watch from Herbert Chapman, an employe of the street department. Later the watch was sold by Monahan, to Thomas Keeley, for $2.50. The price asked for the watch aroused Keeley's suspicion and he went to the police station and reported his purchase.

A warrant was immediately sworn out for Monahan's arrest and after a search of a week he was located by Officers John Donovan and Frank Gwiczdowski, and arrested.

Monahan started to testify that he found the watch under the stairs in the Majestic building but Judge Libby informed him that his story would be heard later.

Morris Goldberg, R. F. D. No. 2 paid $10 and costs for operating a motor vehicle without a license, private, $20.50 to the court. He was also charged with carrying weapons but this was pulled upon testimony to show that he was loading and unloading. Goldberg stated that he had held a license since 1917 and thought that he had secured his 1925 license. In explaining to the court, Goldberg said, "Why should I skip a year and go without a license for the next year. I would have to take a new examination and pay $5 instead of $2 for the license."

Grant T. Wickwire of Berlin and Michael Sudar of Oakdale paid $5 fine for violating a city ordinance, and George L. Moffatt of Manhasset, N. Y., failed to show up in court to answer a similar charge.

FRUIT GROWERS TO TOUR COUNTY FRIDAY

County Agent Walter T. Clapp announced the programme for the New London County fruit tour which is to be held Friday of this week. The programme is as follows:

10 D. S. T., gather at Kenyon's orchards. This is the orchard of J. W. Browning consisting of about 20 acres. Set to standard varieties and now coming into its prime.

Mr. Browning has a very modern and convenient air cooled storage which should interest. This was erected at a comparatively low cost. 11:15 a. m., leave Kiltemaug, 12 n. m., arrive Simon Brewster's Griswold and eat lunch. Bring own basket lunch.

12:30 p. m., inspect Mr. Brewster's orchard. This has been a demonstration orchard for three years and a very successful one. It also shows what can be done with an orchard on a general dairy farm when good care is used.

1:30 p. m., leave Brewsters, 1:45 p. m., arrive Lebanon orchard of E. J. Graham. This is a young orchard about 12 years old containing a large quantity of Macintosh well cared for 3:30 p. m., home.

OVER 1,000 ATTEND ANNUAL STATE OUTING

Fully 1,000 employees of the Economy Grocery company gathered from all over the state at the annual family day held at Lake Quassapaug, Sunday. The Waterbury employees led by the 20 piece American Legion band left for the lake at 10:30 a. m. and groups from other towns and cities arrived shortly after 11:00 o'clock. Sports, a baseball game and a basket lunch featured the picnic.

The athletic events were run off under the direction of Walter E. Ahearn and District Manager William J. Reilly. Miss Jennie Korsun of Waterbury won the nail driving contest for the women. Fifteen women entered this contest and Miss Korsun was the first to drive the required five nails in the toughest oak plank to be found in any lumber yard or forest.

ONE SUIT WITHDRAWN DIVORCE ACTIONS FILED

The clerk of the superior court in this city has been notified of the withdrawal of the replevin action brought by Katherine Hotchkiss Morse of New London against A. Metcalf Morse, Jr., and the National Bank of Commerce of New London.

Mrs. Morse sued for damages of $1,000, claiming possession of certain goods and chattels which he alleged had been wrongfully detained by the defendant and Judge Christopher M. Avery of the superior court at the time issued a temporary injunction restraining the defendant or the bank from allowing the goods, which were mostly household articles of silver, from being moved from their location in the bank.

Four divorce actions have been filed with the court clerk.

Joseph Stankawicz of Griswold is made defendant in an action brought by his wife, Annie Daluer Stankawicz, also of Griswold, in which she alleges intolerable cruelty, habitual intemperance and adultery. The couple were married on June 21, 1920.

August Gomes of Norwich is being sued for divorce by Louise Depino Gomes, also of Norwich, on the grounds of intolerable cruelty which she alleges since May 1, 1922 and also habitual intemperance. The couple were married on May 4, 1914 and the plaintiff also asks for the custody of one children, both minors.

Rose Evangelista Kivel of Colchester seeks a divorce from Charles Murray Kivel, formerly of New York, whereabouts unknown. The couple were married on March 3, 1917, and the desertion is alleged since Dec. 1915.

Samuletta Migkins Wilson of Norwich seeks a divorce and change of name from Harry Wilson, formerly of Norwich, now of parts unknown. The couple were married in Aug. 1908, and desertion is alleged since Dec. 1915.

MYSTIC MASONIC LODGE REACHES CENTURY MARK

Preparations have been under way for some time by Charity and Relief lodge, No. 72, F. and A. M. of Mystic for the observance of the 100th anniversary of the instituting of freemasonry in the jurisdiction of that lodge. The celebration will be held on Aug. 23 and 25 with appropriate exercises, at which notable figures in Connecticut Masonry will take part.

Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock a special communication will be held in the Masonic temple and this will be followed by services at St. Mark's Episcopal church.

Tuesday afternoon at 4.30 o'clock an informal social gathering of members and guests will take place with a supper at 6 o'clock in the banquet hall. A special communication will be called at 7:30 o'clock, at which time the members will assemble to march to the Methodist Episcopal church where services and exercises will be conducted.

The members of Charity chapter, No. 61, O. E. S., have been invited to join with the lodge in the exercises at the Methodist church.

DEFECTIVE BOILER CAUSE OF THE MACKINAC DISASTER

Death Toll Has Reached 37—Four Persons Are Missing and 10 of the More Than 100 Injured Are in Precarious Condition—Attendants at the Naval Hospital, Newport, Are Making Ceaseless Efforts to Alleviate Suffering Caused By Burns—Tragedies Disclosed as Details Are Developed—The Disaster Has Virtually Crippled the Pawtucket Police Force—17 Members Were Aboard the Steamer For a Day's Outing.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 19—Thirty-seven persons had lost their fight for life tonight, 24 hours after they had been enveloped in a flood of steam let loose by an explosion of the boiler of the excursion steamer Mackinac as she steamed through Narragansett Bay.

State investigators said the boiler was defective. Four other persons were missing and 10 or more of them injured were not expected to survive the extreme pain caused by their burns.

The death list grew by the hour. Every attendant at the naval hospital where most of the victims were taken was on duty and worked ceaselessly. As many of the patients as could be removed were taken to the Newport hospital where 25 volunteer nurses, many of whom saw service overseas, ministered to their needs in wards that were filled with flowers brought from the gardens of Newport's society leader.

The disaster, the worst in Rhode Island waters since the Larchmont went down with between 125 and 175 on board in 1907, was the direct result of a defective boiler, Assistant Attorney General Oscar A. Heitzen told a Associated Press tonight.

The Rhode Island attorney general's department will continue its investigation to determine whether there is criminal culpability and who, if any persons, are responsible for the conditions which caused it.

Federal Steamship Inspectors and Newport police also started independent investigations today. United States Senator Jesse H. Metcalf asked Secretary of Commerce Hoover to make an immediate inquiry.

Boiler Was an Old One

When the state investigators inspected the Mackinac's exploded boiler they found it was an old one deteriorated by wear and thinned down to certain places," said Mr. Heitzen. "It ruptured at the time of the explosion was a rupture of the plate the cross drum extending from the right hand side of the fire box to the front of the boiler alongside of the circumferential seam.

"The longitudinal seam was very little of the opening was six or seven inches wide, extending upward to the top of the drum. It appeared that from time to time the boiler had been subjected to extensive repairs by the insertion of new bolts and patches.

"These repairs may be evidence that the boiler was in a weakened condition. It has been intimated to the attorney general's department that the explosion should have determined this question by the use of hydrostatic pressure test.

"The crack appeared next to the longitudinal seam just a sign of discoloration for a distance of two and a half feet. There was no suggestion of an old break. The crack appeared beyond the seam made at the time of the explosion. Such a crack has a splitting action instead of a tearing one. It is the opinion of the state officials that significant in that in the case of a regular explosion, a wide opening would have taken place at once in the case the opening followed the weak spot.

"At the edge of the sheet of metal it can be seen how thin it had become."

Captain George McVay, the commander of the vessel who also was a survivor of the ill-fated Larchmont, and Clarence Kelly, general manager of the Narragansett Valley Transportation company, owners of the ship, were among those who accompanied the investigators over the craft.

There were reports tonight that during the height of the confusion on the steamer last night thieves had broken into the purser's office and several survivors had reported minor operations by vandals. No arrests were made, however, and no one was found who admitted loss by theft.

Only One Man Instantly Killed

Only one of the victims was instantly killed by the blast of steam. He was Louis LeVolle of Central Falls R. I., a fireman on the Mackinac. The rest succumbed from burns or from breathing the scalding steam.

Newport mariners tonight said the death list was extremely low in view of the fact that more than 700 excursionists were on board the steamer. Had it occurred farther away from land and had the men of the naval training station, near the scene of the disaster, been less efficient the loss of life probably would have been many times greater.

Mayor Mortimer A. Sullivan, who had taken an active part in the relief work, expressed his gratitude for the gallant work of mercy to both Secretary of the Navy Curtis D. Wilbur and Admiral McKean, commander of the U. S. S. Wyoming. His message of thanks to the latter follows:

"The citizens of Newport is profoundly grateful to you and to the officers and men of your ships for their heroic achievements in Newport harbor in rescuing from death hundreds of men, women and children."

Pawtucket Police Force Crippled

The disaster has virtually crippled the Pawtucket police force. Seventeen policemen were aboard enjoying a force's outing as guests of the company. Of this number, Patrolmen Henry Dickinson and Elmer Whitaker are dead and David Burns is missing. His fellow officers are positive that he sank when he jumped overboard, as he was unable to swim.

Seven other policemen are in hospitals suffering from severe burns. All, however, are expected to recover. The policemen, Sergeant Harold F. Howland said, were on the upper deck and thus escaped the full blow of the scalding blast.

When the Mackinac was docked at the wharf by a navy tug, two guards were placed on board to keep everyone off the vessel pending the federal investigation.

Efforts to confirm the report that the Mackinac's departure from Pawtucket was delayed yesterday while repairs were made on her boiler failed today. Ship repairing plants here said that no repairs were made here. One firm, however, stated that some of its employes had been sent to the steamer to repair the anchor cable. They were not called upon to work on the boilers.

Outstanding Tragedies

Outstanding tragedies incident to the explosion included the fate of the McCarthy family of Pawtucket and the deaths of two young college students who were working as members of the Mackinac's crew during vacation. Mrs. J. J. McCarthy, the mother and two of her children died and the father, son of the chief of police of Central Falls and a 15 months old daughter are seriously burned.

The college students are Ernest Hopkinson of Pawtucket, who attended the Rhode Island state college and John M. Hunter of Providence, a Brown sophomore. Young Hopkinson started work as an oiler on the vessel on the day of the disaster.

Boiler Inspector Richard F. Bailey said today that the Mackinac's boilers were last inspected in New York. Maritime firms in Newport said there was nothing unusual in that, especially since the vessel was in service between Pawtucket and New York in the past and probably often was repaired there.

The Mackinac built in 1909, is 162 feet in length, 28.2 feet of beam and draws 13 feet of water. The hull is of steel with a superstructure of wood. The crew of 21, carried when the vessel was in freight service, had been augmented for the excursion trips.

Neither General Manager Kelly of the Blackstone Valley Transportation company or any of its officials would discuss the explosion or confirm reports that the Mackinac's boiler was repaired before she started on her trip of death.

Late tonight the parents of Alfred Breault of Pawtucket, believed to have been aboard the Mackinac during the explosion, arrived here to search for him. The youth has not been seen since the disaster. His parents feared he jumped overboard and was drowned.

FLAGS AT PAWTUCKET, R. I. ORDERED AT HALF STAFF

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Mayor Charles A. Colt, following a meeting of the board of aldermen tonight, ordered all flags on public buildings of the city raised to half staff for the Mackinac steamer explosion victims.

PAWTUCKET POLICEMAN PLEADED TO BE KILLED

NEWPORT, Aug. 19—"Please kill me. I'm suffering so," a brawny Pawtucket policeman, one of the Mackinac victims, pleaded to nurses at the naval hospital today. An hour later death released him from all pain.

The officer, one of the three killed in the disaster, was so scalded that skin on his hands hung in strips. His features were burned so black that he was barely recognizable.

SOCIETY FOLKS TRIED TO COMFORT THE SUFFERERS

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 19—Many of the socially prominent of this fashionable resort visited the hospitals here today to comfort the scalded victims of the Mackinac disaster. Others of the summer colony flooded the institutions with flowers, a vase of which was placed beside the cot of each sufferer.

BELIEVE COLLAPSE DUE TO CARELESSNESS OF WORKMEN

NEW YORK, Aug. 19—Carelessness of workmen was tonight believed to have been the cause of the collapse today of a 150-ton two-story steel structure, part of Municipal Pier No. 2, near Battery Place, in which one man was injured seriously and fifteen others were hurt.

"Anchor bolts were removed yesterday while the building was being plumbed," J. C. Million, steel foreman, said. "Somebody forgot to put those bolts back."

Without anything to hold the frame fast to plates in the concrete foundations, the structure swayed in a light wind, finally being pushed off its center of gravity.

The pier is being constructed by the city for use by the Pennsylvania railway as a terminal.

9-YEAR-OLD WATERBURY GIRL FATALLY BURNED

WATERBURY, Aug. 19—(A. P.)—Burned entirely about the body in the kitchen of her home here late this afternoon, 9-year-old Miria MacCiniarelli, died at St. Mary's hospital shortly after 8 o'clock tonight. It is believed she was burned while playing about a lighted jet in the gas range.

While her mother went into the street to call her brothers, and her sister, antonette, 11, washed dishes in the kitchen sink, Miria ran from the kitchen onto the porch and screamed in pain. Mrs. MacChiarelli was burned about the hands in an attempt to tear the burning clothes from the child. The sister said she didn't know the girl had been in the house until the kitchen door snut behind the burned child.

Sea gulls often break open clam shells by carrying them in their talons to considerable heights and then dropping them on a hard surface.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

May Again Tackle Channel Swim.

Boulogne, France, Aug. 19.—(AP)—In circles close to Miss Gertrude Ederle it was said tonight that the New York girl swimmer probably would make another attempt soon to swim the English Channel but that a definite decision will not be reached until tomorrow.

FRENCH DEBT COMMISSIONERS ARE TO SAIL SEPTEMBER 15

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—(AP)—A terse announcement from Secretary Mellon that French commissioners empowered to negotiate a plan for funding their nation's war debt to the United States would sail September 15, followed today on the heels of the Belgian settlement made yesterday.

Otherwise, there was no official statement on the funding situation.

Members of the American debt commission expressed convictions that the Belgian settlement had been in a way associated with the French approach, but there was considerable variance of opinion as to its effect upon French and Italian sentiment.

Large sums of interest, accrued and to accrue, were thrown off the Belgian account, in that aggrement, and loans made during the actual fighting were made subject to no interest charges because of understandings that nation's representatives had with the late President Wilson.

The reaction in Congress to the Belgian settlement, which must have the approval of both senate and house before it can become effective, remains to be developed. Most of the leaders are away from Washington, but those on the ground appear convinced that the terms given Belgium, when sent to the capitol with the weight of the administration's approval behind them, will counter no prolonged opposition.

Both congressional and diplomatic circles were manifestly surprised, however, at some features of the settlement as it had been declared repeatedly at the treasury and in other high official quarters that the United States could recognize no special status for Belgium by virtue of unratified commitments made by President Wilson during the peace conference.

NO DECISION ON REQUEST OF NEW HAVEN COMMUTERS

NEW YORK, Aug. 19—No decision was reached today by the public service commission on the request of commuters using the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad for a rehearing on the decision granting the road a 40 per cent increase in commutation rates. It was announced that the commission's findings will be made known later.

Charles A. Van Auken, corporation counsel of New Rochelle, as spokesman for the commuters, told before the commission charges that the New Haven road had placed a valuation of $23,000,000, on public streets which it has never owned. He also contended that the amount paid by the railroad under the Harlem tolls agreement for the use fo the New York Central's tracks from Woodlawn to Grand Central was unreasonable.

Benjamin I. Spock, counsel for the railroad, argued against the granting of a rehearing, contending that the increased rates and the valuations made by the road were fair and equitable. The increase, he said, only brought the rates in New York to the level where they had been for some time in Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island.

CONVENTION OF ANCIENT ORDER OF HIBERNIANS

BRIDGEPORT, Aug. 19—Flaying the K. K. K. and terming "scurrilous" their attempts to thrust "idiocy and bigotry" into the nation's life Mayor David E. Fitzgerald of New Haven addressed the delegates to the annual convention of the Ancient Order of Hibernians at the convention dinner held at Pleasure beach tonight.

Mayor Fitzgerald declared that when grouns which now are afraid to be known publicly and use the darkness of night to hide the distribution of scurrilous propaganda can come forth with proof of any falseness in the present or past spotless and fine records of Irish Catholics in America only then should notice be taken of their assertions of unnativism on the part of Gaelic people. American nationals themselves show the attacks to be laying and unwarranted, he said.

The introduction of the New Haven chief executive was the signal for a reception little short of an ovation by the thousand guests.

Among the other speakers at the banquet were Rev. James Keating, of New Haven; John S. McCarthy, of New Haven; Daniel J. O'Connor, of Bridgeport; John Donnelly, of Bristol, and Mrs. Jennie C. Carroll of New Haven.

Election will take place tomorrow. John S. Connally the present head of the state organization will not be renominated as he holds a national office. Mrs. Jennie C. Carrol will undoubtedly be chosen to serve another term as president of the order.

TO REPRESENT CONNECTICUT AT BOSTON COAL CONFERENCE

HARTFORD, Aug. 19—(A. P.)—Edward W. Goss, of Waterbury, was appointed today to represent Governor Trumbull at the conference of the New England governors tomorrow at Boston on the coal situation. He will leave tomorrow to meet in preliminary conferences with officials to arrange for definite action at the formal conference.

Mr. Goss was a member of the New England conference which met with the interstate commerce commission last year to study the coal situation, and is particularly well equipped with pertinent information on all angles of the question as it concerns New England.

FIREMEN TO MEET IN NEW LONDON NEXT YEAR

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 19.—(AP)—A movement designed to secure an increased appropriation from the next legislature for firemen injured in service was launched at the closing session of the 42nd annual convention of the Connecticut State Firemen's Association here today. In the past the legislature has appropriated $14,000 for compensating injured firemen. The firemen expressed the belief that this sum is inadequate to meet the requirements, hence the legislature to be asked to double the appropriation.

The convention selected New London for next year's convention.

A committee was instructed to look into the insurance rates in this state a duty much heretofore had rested upon the secretary.

Andrews Expelled From Mongolia

American Exploration Expedition Ordered to Leave Mongolian Territory Today.

URGA, Mongolia, Aug. 19.—(AP)—The Mongolian government has ordered the third Asiatic expedition of the American Museum of Natural History, under the leadership of Roy Chapman Andrews, to cease its exploration and scientific work and to leave Mongolian territory, alleging that Mr. Andrews has violated the terms of his agreement with Mongolian scientific organizations.

The Mongolian government further alleges that besides carrying out his scientific work in the domains of paleontology, geology and zoology, Mr. Andrews' expedition also was engaged in topographical observation work and has employed a number of suspicious—in a military sense—persons.

Mr. Andrews also is accused of carrying on political propaganda and stirring up the Mongolians against "the Red Bolsheviks."

EXPULSION OF ANDREWS WAS NOT UNEXPECTED

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Expulsion of the Andrews expedition from Mongolia was not unexpected, officials of the American Museum of Natural History said today since Roy Chapman Andrews, the leader, recently reported "unusually difficult conditions" in his relations with the territorial authorities.

Although Mr. Andrews' cablegram gave few details of the controversy, he made it clear that the expedition recently had encountered more than usual resistance.

Museum officials were hopeful today, despite the expressive order, that the situation might be clarified before the expedition actually quits the territory.

DISCOVERIES MADE BY ANDREWS IN MONGOLIA

PEKING, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Stone implements and weapons of a race of men who lived thousands of years ago among sand dunes on the shore of a lake long since swallowed up by the Gobi desert, and who discovered the eggs of the dinosaur countless ages before these were discovered by Roy Chapman Andrews two years ago have been found far in the interior of Mongolia by the third Asiatic expedition of the American Museum of Natural History, Mr. Andrews, leader of the expedition, disclosed in Peking today.

That these primitive men knew of the eggs left by the dinosaur, the giant reptile that roamed the Asiatic uplands some ten million years ago, is proved by the fact that they neatly bored the shells and made ornaments of them, Mr. Andrews said. They used for the same purpose the shells of gigantic ostrich, long since extinct.

In this discovery Mr. Andrews believes his expedition has uncovered traces of the earliest type of man in his development from ape yet discovered. He has named them the "Dune Dwellers of Shabarack Usu," using the name of the site of the find.

Mr. Andrews who has been in Peking for several days, was about to return to the expedition, which he left at about 300 miles northwest of Kalgan, the original jump-off point for the expedition in northwestern Chihli province, China. (This locates the present encampment of the expedition in a southeastern outer Mongolia). Since entering Mongolia last spring they have traversed more than 4,000 miles, penetrating as far as the Altai mountains, in far western Mongolia.

CHINA ASKS U. S. AGENTS FOR CUSTOMS CONFERENCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—(AP)—China's invitation to the United States to participate in the special customs conference provided for by the nine-power treaty was presented formally to the state department today by Minister Sze. It sets October 26 as the date of the conference, which is to be held in China.

Presentation of the invitation in Washington, Tokyo and other interested capitals has brought to a head preliminary discussion between these governments as to their course if China raised, as it now has done, the question of restoration of Chinese tariff autonomy for discussion at the conference. The Chinese call for the conference stated flatly that the Chinese purposed to bring up the subject.

The Washington government has taken the position in exchanges with the Japanese government that the conference should be authorized to discuss the matter, if presented. The Japanese government, however, was represented in unofficial advices today from Tokyo as being unwilling to have the conference undertake discussion of the tariff autonomy question, which was not specified in the treaty to go on its agenda.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

The MacMillan polar flight was abandoned.

The treasury was informed of the early coming of a French debt mission.

Formal invitation to the Chinese customs conference was received by the state department.

OBITUARIES

Miss Helen Culve

CHICAGO, Aug. 19—(A. P.)—Miss Helen Culve, by whose philanthropy Hull House was established died today at her home in Lake Forest, aged 93 years. Hull House, the West Side social center, and its head, Miss Jane Addams, have been internationally known for many years.

Miss Culver was a pioneer executive and an early worker for woman suffrage.

She was born in Little Valley, N. Y., in 1832.

Victor F. Lawson

CHICAGO, Aug. 19—(By the Associated Press)—Victor F. Lawson, editor and publisher of the Chicago Daily News, died at his home here tonight, after an illness of two days.

Mr. Lawson had suffered heart attacks in recent years from overwork, and an attack of myocarditis with acute dilation, which came yesterday, proved fatal at 10 o'clock tonight. His nearest relative, his niece, Mrs. Clarke N. Tavernee, of Chicago, summoned when it was plain his illness had become grave, was at his bedside.

Belgium Satisfied With Debt Pact

Press Has Changed From Cries of "Shylock" to "Our American Friends."

BRUSSELS, Aug. 19.—(AP)—The Belgian government is satisfied with the debt funding settlement as arranged at Washington, and the press has begun to change its recent loud outcries of "Shylock," to "our American friends."

The finance minister, M. Janssen, in commenting on the settlement, said: "Above all we are glad that we are finished with the great unknown in our finances. Now we know exactly where we stand and the sword of Damocles no longer hangs over our head. We can lay out a financial program we can execute."

M. Vandervelde, the foreign minister, expressed the opinion that the United States had granted "supportable" terms on the big debt.

"Let us hope," he said, "that both nations will recognize that good will has been shown, and that the negotiations which cast a momentary shadow over our relations, will result in better collaboration."

The newspaper Le Soir remarks: "Those who attributed the soul of Shylock to our American friends were bad prophets."

VIRGINIA BUSINESS MEN TO TOUR NEW ENGLAND

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 19—(A. P.)—Preliminary plans were completed here today for conducting through Connecticut a party of 35 leading business men representing the state of Virginia from October 11 to 13. The Virginia delegation will be entertained in this state under the joint auspices of the Connecticut chamber of commerce and the Manufacturers' Association of Connecticut. The Virginians will tour the other New England states after leaving Connecticut.

The Virginian tour follows a visit made to that state last fall by a group of leading business men from all parts of New England. The purpose of the trip last fall and the one next October is to bring about closer industrial and commercial relations between New England and Virginia. The New England party was entertained last fall by the Virginia state chamber of commerce. Following this trip, the New England-Virginia inter-sectional committee was formed.

At today's meeting the route was mapped out for the Virginia group as it passes through Connecticut. The group will reach New York Sunday afternoon, October 11. The Virginians will be escorted to Bridgeport where they will be entertained that evening. Monday they will be shown the outstanding industrial, commercial and historical points in Bridgeport, Danbury, Waterbury and New Haven. Tuesday they will visit Wallingford, Meriden, New Britain, Hartford, Middletown, Manchester and New London. From there, the visitors will be escorted to Rhode Island where they will be met by the Rhode Island section of the New England-Virginia inter-sectional committee.

The matter of appointing leading Connecticut business men to accompany the Virginians through this state will be placed before the boards of directors of the Connecticut chamber of commerce and the Manufacturers' association within a few days.

It is probable that George B. Chandler, executive vice president of the Connecticut chamber of commerce and author of the new "Industrial History of Connecticut," will outline to the Virginians the industrial and historical high spots of the territory through which they will pass.

At today's meeting, Stanley H. Ballard, of Bridgeport, who is the chairman of Connecticut of the interstate commerce, was authorized to proceed at once with the appointment of five special committees to take charge of state organization, reception and entertainment.

HEARING ON SEIZURE OF A LIQUOR LADEN VESSEL

NORWALK, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Hearings were given by Judge E. S. Thomas, of the United States district court this afternoon in actions for recovery of craft seized by coast guard forces by owners of the "Baltimore," a liquor laden vessel seized June 30, and of the "G-8" taken April 8. In the latter instance there was a claim that constitutional rights of the owners had been invaded in view of the recent decision of Judge Thomas in the "Underwood" case. The court admitted the "G-8" to bail in $2,000, and he received decision in the "Baltimore" case in which the contention was that seizure was illegally made because of the distance off the coast of the vessel.

In the actions papers had been filed with the court clerk, Charles Eliot Pickett at New Haven and an immediate hearing was fixed. Counsel filed briefs and supported those with brief oral arguments.

CORNERSTONE LAYING OF DANBURY MASONIC TEMPLE

DANBURY, Aug. 19—The laying of the cornerstone of the new Masonic temple here took place this afternoon with George F. Austin, one of the oldest past masters of Union Lodge No. 14, F. and A. M. officiating. The ceremonies were informal and were attended by about 100 members of the Masonic order.

The Masonic fraternity a year ago purchased a house in Main street, selecting one of the finest homesteads in the city. This house is being remodeled and the cornerstone laid today is that of an addition to this house. It will be of brick construction two stories high. The addition will cost $50,000 and will be used as lodge rooms.

The last building owned by the Masons here was erected in 1814 and was used a considerable time. Recently, however, the order has been leasing halls for its use.

CITY OF HARTFORD PUSHING ITS GASOLINE PRICE PROBE

Mayor's Committee Was in Session With Several Representatives of the Various Oil Companies—Battle of Questions and Answers Followed Submission of a Set of Queries by the Aldermanic Probe Committee—Uniformity of Price Was a Matter of Discussion.

Hartford, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Wheels of the city's investigation into gasoline prices in Hartford, which is reputedly discriminated against by oil companies operating here and in other parts of New England, were set in motion today when the mayor's committee headed by Alderman Hollis S. Candee met with representatives from the Texas company, the Singer Oil Company, the Standard Oil Company, the Dixie Filling Stations, the Atlantic Company, and Aldermen David L. Nair and Samuel Saliotsky, of New Britain, members of the gasoline price probe committee from that city. At the outset, immediately after a set of questions prepared by the aldermanic probe body was submitted, the meeting devolved into a battle of questions and answers with Samuel Ludlow, Jr., hurling and F. F. Hale, of the Dixie Filling Stations, receiving and sometimes doing a little hurling on his own account. Mr. Ludlow insisted that the gasoline business "must be different from any other commercial enterprise" in that there "seemed to be no competition, all companies selling at the same price with religious regularity." Mr. Hale countered with the remark that "competition was exactly what maintained the uniform, or nearly so, price," adding that "Springfield had long been a sore spot in the industry," and "the trouble there with 'unwholesome competition' had influenced the drop in price in Hartford.

It was brought out that only one company, the Standard Oil company, ships by water to Hartford, no companies truck their fuel here and the railroad rate because of extra mileage and switching charges, is a third of a cent more to Hartford than to Springfield from the refineries, according to Mr. Hale. He declared that Hartford would have to pay approximately fifty cents a gallon if trucks were to be used and that use of barges, even should the companies other than the Standard oil acquire properties on the river, was out of the question because of the expense in upkeep.

A discussion of the modern filling station with respect to its effect on gasoline prices was instituted by Mr. Ludlow, who said he realized that the public demanded service in this day but "thought they were not aware they are paying for it through the price of gasoline they purchase." Mr. Hale agreed that the modern station "had to be well kept and fine appearing to get trade," but would not admit that the expensive stations had bearing on present gasoline prices, saying that the appearance of the station is the form of advertising resorted to by fuel dealers.

Asked by Chairman Candee in his reading of one of the many questions on the paper submitted to all the fuel men, how the oil men felt about the state tax of two cents, Mr. Hale answered that he was in favor of it and his statement was given a general backing by the oil men present. Mr. Hale declared that he voted for the tax, although he is a resident of Massachusetts, in the interests of good roads and with the belief that "no hardship would result to fuel purchasers by the two cent increase in price of gasoline."

"If the retail price was based on costs today it would be about thirty cents a gallon," Mr. Hale declared in answer to a question of what determined the prices. "The tank wagon price is based on retail conditions. I don't want to take away your glory but the reduction of two cents made a few days ago was because of a reason companies are prone to experience a large part of the annual five per cent. loss due to evaporation. Agitation doesn't change the price," he told the committee.

The question of transportation in its effect on the price was shown to be negligible in the discussion. Many of the questions included on the investigating committee's papers were such that the oil men decided warranted study and the committee will meet with the gasoline purveyors next Wednesday at which time a survey of the finding will be held.

The city probe committee is composed of Aldermen Candee, Alvan W. Hyde and James C. E. Ellion, Samuel Ludlow, Jr., and Fred W. Hurley, secretary of the Connecticut chamber of commerce.

Those present from the fuel concerns were: F. F. Hale, president of the Dixie Filling Stations, Inc.; J. M. Hagan, general manager, Dixie Filling Stations; Joseph Singer, of the Singer Oil Company; L. W. Brown, representing James H. Freeman, manager of the Hartford Branch of the Standard Oil Company and T. W. Rogers, of the Texas Company.

NOTICE OF ENFORCEMENT OF NEW FILM TAX LAW

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Official notification from the authorities of the state of Connecticut that it does not intend to hold up enforcement of the new motion picture tax law, pending a decision by the United States supreme court, will be received by the distributors, exhibitors and machine operators affected by the law, within 24 hours, according to a statement made by Special Tax Agent John J. Splain here tonight.

Instructions regarding the payment of the tax, as drawn up at a meeting in Tax Commissioner William H. Blodgett's office in Hartford today, are now in the mails, Mr. Splain said.

Mr. Splain's statement said:

"The state is acting on the adjudication of the action brought against us to declare the law unconstitutional. We have refused the invitation of the motion picture interests to carry on the non-enforcement of the law and are now proceeding to enforce the law of the sovereign state of Connecticut.

"If they (those affected by the law) undertake to set up their views against what is the constitution law of the state of Connecticut, endorsed by the United States court in this district, that is up to them. It interferes in no way with our duties in carrying out the provisions of the law, as imposed upon us, as administrators of the law."

ARGUMENTS TODAY IN THE COREY MURDER CASE

BOSTON, Aug. 19—(A. P.)—Arguments in the trial of Frank Corey of Worcester, alias Frank Crecorian and Costello, charged with the murder of Mrs. Mae Price, wardrobe mistress of the Brown Derby Theatrical company are expected to start when court convenes tomorrow morning. Mrs. Price was murdered in her room in the Hollis hotel on the night of May 30 by beating and asphyxiation.

Both the prosecution and the defense rested their cases today.

Testifying today Dr. Timothy Leary, medical examiner, described the condition of the dead woman's hands, which he said, indicated she had scratched her assailant's face in a desperate battle for life.

Earlier in the trial government witnesses testified that Corey had two scratches on his face when seen a few days after the murder.

In testifying as to the cause of death, Dr. Leary said "the injuries to the neck were procured by extreme force."

FINANCIAL IRREGULARITIES IN LOWELL TEXTILE FIRM

BOSTON, Aug. 19—The resignation of Arthur R. Sharp as treasurer of the Hamilton Manufacturing company of Lowell, one of the oldest textile concerns in New England and the discovery of shortage of $500,000 quick capital of the concern was announced tonight by President Felix Rackemann. He declared that an audit had shown inaccurate bookkeeping and padding of an inventory list. Frederic Dumane, Jr., has been made treasurer.

MARY L. (CINDERELLA) SPAS TO BECOME SCREEN ACTRESS

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Mary Louise Spas, whose career as the adopted daughter of a New York millionaire of front pages two weeks, today embarked upon a venture into the land of footlights and the silver screen.

Mary signed a contract with a theatrical and moving picture agent who plans to film the kaleidoscopic history of her adoption.

MRS. IDA BLANKENBURG WAS FOUND GUILTY OF CONTEMPT

BOSTON, Aug. 19—(A. P.)—Mrs. Ida Blankenburg of Tulsa, Okla. found guilty of contempt in the Lotta Crabtree will case and sentenced by Judge William M. Prest to six months in jail, was released in $1,000 bail when her counsel obtained a writ of habeas corpus this afternoon.

The writ for Mrs. Blankenburg's release was granted by Supreme Court Justice Pierce after Judge Prest had denied a stay of sentence.

Counsel for Mrs. Blankenburg indicated the case would be taken to the supreme court on a writ of error questioning the right of Judge Prest to sentence her for contempt arising from perjury.

In his decision finding Mrs. Blankenburg guilty of "wilful and corrupt perjury in attempting to deceive the court and obstruct justice" Judge Prest said: "She the respondent wilfully asserted before the court that she was the daughter of said Lotta M. Crabtree, and entitled as such to contest the allowance of said instrument aforesaid, which assertion was false and fraudulent claim of kinship, and said respondent knowingly testified falsely and untruthfully, and caused false testimony of another to be given, with the wilful and corrupt purpose of seeking to establish in said proceedings her said false and fraudulent claims of kinship, and did further attempt to deceive the court."

When Judge Prest finished reaching his decision, which covered eight typewritten pages, Mrs. Blankenburg said: "Your Honor, Judge Prest, I am not guilty."

DISCOVERIES OF VALUE TO RADIO COMMUNICATION

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19—(A. P.)—Investigations by the Naval Research Laboratory here and the Carnegie Institution, Secretary Wilbur announced today, have produced results of far-reaching implications for radio communication by confirming the theory of an ionized region in the higher levels of the earth's atmosphere.

The experiments are continuing, but Mr. Wilbur asserted that the researchers already had produced "the nearest approach to the key to unsolved problems of radio that has yet been made."

He indicated that the results would go a long way toward eliminating "fading" and other difficulties of wireless communication.

The chief benefit from the discoveries at present is understood to apply chiefly to commercial radio telegraphy. The principles involved, however, were said to have been mastered "to the point where it can be definitely stated that a high frequency transmitting station can be built at a cost of $60,000 that will give better service and longer range than the present high power stations costing $2,000,000 each, while the cost of operation will be correspondingly reduced."

ANNUAL CRUISE OF THE NEW YORK YACHT CLUB

Fenton, Dr. M. D. Riordan, R. G. Remington, Aime J. Martineau, George M. Gurley, Raymond A. Parker, Fred O. Vinton, H. C. Lathrop, Charles B. Pomeroy.

A. Lynn Weatherhead, the new president of the Chamber of Commerce, presided over the directors' meeting.

Miss E. May Smith, of 193 Summit street, this city, and William Day, of Boston and Willimantic, were united in marriage Saturday at St. Grace Episcopal church, Boston, by Rev. N. N. Beal. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur B. Carbushell, of Boston, as best man and matron of honor respectively. The bride couple returned to this city and Wednesday evening a surprise party was tendered them at the home of W. H. Hawkins in Coventry. The groom was presented a purse of $1,000 in gold and Mrs. Day was given a beautiful electric lamp by her associate employes. The bride has been connected with the American Thread company for twenty-six years, having been official thread tester for twelve years. She has tendered her resignation. Mr. Day came here from Boston at the opening of the strike here. He also has tendered his resignation and after two weeks' honeymoon he and his wife will make their home in Boston.

The funeral of Michael Nassacin was held from his home on the North Windham road, Wednesday morning, with services at St. Joseph's church at 8 o'clock. Rev. Charles M. Kelly officiated and conducted a committal service at the grave in St. Joseph's cemetery. Killourey Brothers had charge of the arrangements.

Miss Catherine Keegan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Keegan, of 217 Jackson street, entertained twelve little friends at a party held on the lawn Tuesday, celebrating her seventh birthday. Decorations of pink and white were arranged about the tables. Games were played and refreshments were served. The little guests were: Loren Farrell, Mary Rita Sullivan, Marion Kramer, Patricia Hanks, Gertrude Danahey, Margaret Colgan, Helen Dubreuil, Elsie and Catherine Keegan, Paul Burke Desorcier, Thomas O'Rourke and John Farrell.

Morris Spector, junior partner of the Willimantic Auto Parts Company was his own attorney in police court, Wednesday morning, when he was charged with having defective brakes on his car. He engaged in a heated debate with Judge Frank H. Foss and Prosecuting Attorney Harry S. Gaucher. Spector is a second hand automobile dealer said that when it came to the subject of brakes he was an expert. His Dodge car collided with the silent policeman, at the head of Railroad street, on the main thoroughfare, about 8 o'clock Tuesday night. Officer Pierre Marrotte saw the mishap and immediately jumped into Spector's car and tested his brakes. According to the officer the footbrake sank down to the floor boards when he pressed it and the emergency when applied pulled the boards apart. The officer stated that Spector's machine stopped several feet after the collision, after he had stalled the engine. Spector pleaded not guilty. He testified that his car did no damage to the dummy cop and that his brakes were in good condition. Spector went to the local temporary state police barracks and requested one of the officers to test his brakes, but this was refused. He later asked Officer Marrotte to make another test, without success. Still later, Constable Joseph Peck tested the brakes and found them all right. Spector denied that the brakes had been adjusted since the mishap. Judge Foss brought the arguments to a close when he found Spector guilty and imposed a fine of $3 and costs which was paid.

The fire hydrant located about ten feet from the corner of Main and Church streets was broken about 11:30 o'clock Tuesday night, by a Buick tourin gcar owned and operated by Arthur Johnson, of 94 Oak street, following a slight collision of the machine and a Buick coupe operated by Gerard E. Loisell of 171 Main street. Loisell was traveling in a westerly direction on Main street and had the right of way. Johnson was coming easterly and swung around the silent policeman at the corner of Main St., to turn into Church street. The right front fender of the Johnson machine and the front bumper on the coupe came into contact, causing a dent in the fender of the touring car but doing no damage to Loisell's car. Johnson had brought his machine to a stop but Johnson either failed to have proper brakes or in some manner the driver lost control and his car shot up Church street, mounted the left curbing onto the sidewalk and after knocking over the fire hydrant and a movable "One-Way Street" sign crossed back to the right of Church street, halting with the front wheels against the right curbing, some thirty feet from the corner. The collision with the hydrant and street sign dismantled the left front headlight on the touring car but failed to damage the machine mechanically. Both drivers reported the affair at police headquarters and notice was given that the matter would be settled out of court. The hydrant was replaced Wednesday by men in the employ of the city water department.

Mrs. Mary Abby Palmer, 72, wife of Walter Palmer died Tuesday night, at her home on Silver street, North Coventry after a brief illness. She was born in Griswold, February 21, 1853, the daughter of Archie and Elizabeth A. Tillinghast Green. She leaves besides her husband, five sons, William E. and Ray of Andover and Walter H., Thomas and Archie of Manchester and five daughters, Mrs. Emma Hill of Coventry, Mrs. Fannie Cady and Mrs. M. B. Cowles of New Haven, Mrs Ben Albertin of Jewett City and Mrs. Jennie Brown of Andover.

From the family home, 42 Walnut street, the funeral of Mrs. Charles L. Brand was held Wednesday morning. Requiem high mass at St. Joseph's church at 9 o'clock was sung by Rev. Charles M. Kelly. There was a large attendance at the church and there were beautiful floral tributes. Miss L. Monica McKeon sang "Abide With Me as the body was borne into the church. O Salutaris at the offertory and Some Sweet Day as a waiting hymn. Mrs. E. R. Portelance was at the organ. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery, where the committal service was read by Rev Father Kelley. The bearers were Michael Sullivan, Edward Fay, John McKenna, and Thomas English. Arrangements were in charge of Killourey Brothers.

The body of Mrs. Helen McAvoy who died at the Masonic Home in Wallingford was brought to this city Tuesday afternoon for burial in the family lot in Willimantic cemetery. A committal service was read by Rev. Andrew S. Muirhead of the local Methodist church. Mrs. McAvoy was well known in this city. For a number of years she conducted a millinery parlor in one section of the former McAvoy home, on Bellevue street. The J. C. Lincoln company had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Mrs. Felix Lessard was tendered a farewell party at her home on a recent evening by the Pastime Circle and was presented a handsome boudoir lamp by Mrs. Frank C. Lombardo in behalf of the circle. Mr. and Mrs. Lessard are leaving for Springfield, Mass., next week to enter upon a new business.

A Ford auto-truck owned by Mrs. Guilford Smith, of South Windham, and driven by her hired man, Charles Huntington, was struck by a Dodge coupe on the trolley crossing at the west end of the village, Tuesday forenoon. Constable Alfred P. Abbe is conducting an investigation in an endeavor to learn the identity of the driver of the Dodge, which bore Massachusetts registry number 288-710.

Another Ku Klux Klan meeting was held on the Sherman land, just off Mullen Hill road in Windham Center Tuesday night. The ceremonies were started at 8 o'clock and closed at 12 with the customary burning of the cross. It is estimated that two hundred were present, including several from this city. It is stated that several local members have been admitted as a result of the meetings held on the Hill this season.

Willimantic Rotary club held its weekly meeting and luncheon at the Y. M. C. A. Wednesday noon with President Dr. Clarence E. Simonds in charge. The program was curtailed due to the warm weather. No business other than the calling of the roll and the reading of the minutes by Secretary Robert H. Fenton was conducted.

Today (Thursday) is the Annual Clerks' Day and business generally will be suspended in the city. The halt includes banks, barber shops, the various offices of the town building and all the business houses. No definite program has been arranged for the day, the clerks being left to improve their holiday to suit their own accord.

THREAD STRIKERS PLAN ACTIVITY IN POLITICS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Aug. 19.—That the former operatives of the American Thread company known in a body as The Willimantic Textile Strikers, will play a decisive part in the municipal elections in December became known Wednesday. It was announced that at a special meeting of Central Labor Union held in the hall on Main street, Tuesday night, it was voted to hold a similar meeting next Friday night for the purpose of organizing a Non-Partisan political party with the purpose in mind of rewarding friends and defeating enemies in the coming elections. That such a movement has been under way was first manifested by the large number of strikers who registered in order to vote at the caucuses. It is believed that their strength will be dismayed at the primaries in order to halt the nomination of political aspirants whom they hold in disfavor.

At Tuesday night's meeting of the Central Labor Union, when President Thompson presided, it was voted to arrange for a Labor day parade as well as a demonstration and entertainment at the Ten Acre City on North Windham road, where families of strikers have been occupying tents, following their eviction from company houses. A committee of 14 with Mr. Thompson chairman, is in charge of the arrangements. A sub-committee on speakers will invite speakers of national prominence, including Thomas F. McMahon, international president of the United Textile Workers of America; Sarah A. Conboy, secretary-treasurer of the U. T. W. of A., and the entire executive board of the Connecticut branch of the American Federation of Labor. Members of organized labor throughout New England will be invited to attend and participate in the activities. Contests on music and on sports have also been named. It is planned to hold a marathon race in the afternoon.

ALFRED PARADIS DIES SUDDENLY AT HIS WORK

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Aug. 19.—Alfred Paradis, 65, of 61 Spring street, this city a carpenter in the employ of the Doyle & Murphy Construction company, engaged in erecting the new Capitol theatre building, dropped dead while at his work, at 4:25 o'clock, Wednesday afternoon. Death resulted from heart trouble aggravated by the intense heat. An attempt to revive him with cold water and such treatments as piled by Dr. M. D. Riordan failed. Medical Examiner Dr. Louis A. Marcy was summoned and pronounced death due to heart trouble and gave permission for the removal of the body by the Hurteau-Boisse corporation. Chief of Police Alan McArthur was also called ate. Mr Paradis was stricken.

Mr Paradis was a highly respected resident of this city, having resided here for many years. He is survived by two sons, Paul and Arthur Paradis, and two daughters, Mrs. Louis VanHaverbeek and Mrs. Beatrice Brimlamour, all of Willimantic.

THIRD DAY OF E. L. INSTITUTE AT METHODIST CAMP GROUND

(Special to the Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC CAMPGROUND, Aug. 19.—The third day of the Institute dawned pleasant and the morning watch was again well attended. It was led by F. B. Florian, of East Hartford. Usual periods of Institute instruction followed. Dr. Lipp on Foreign Missions; Miss Prentis and Mrs. Stevens on Junior League and Sunday school work; Prof Foley on Senior League Methods and Dr. Gornall on Stewardship. Dr. Gornall is an eloquent and dramatic speaker, and is making his first visit to Willimantic Camp.

The tabernacle was well filled at the 11:15 period open to all, when Dr. Harold Ruoff continued his talk upon Jesus' experiences. Jesus decided He would never do anything contrary to His Father's will. We are glad Jesus was tempted as we are, so we have contact with Him. Naturally, He began His ministry in the synagogue. He read from Isaiah, and claimed to be His own townsmen drove Him out of the Person spoken of by the prophet. town at that. So he went to Capernaum, and chose associates for His work, disciples to think His thoughts after Him. He chose young strong men like Himself. Jesus was wise in His selections.

At the one o'clock Pastors' Retreat under the big tree at the gate, Dr. Spaulding, of New London, spoke concerning the minister as both pastor and preacher. He urged that equal emphasis be placed upon the priestly and prophetical functions of the ministry. A house-going pastor makes a church-going people.

The two o'clock inspirational service was in the auditorium. There was a good audience present. After Rev. Mr. Sallis had led the congregation in song, Rev. Lyman G. Horton, pastor of the Methodist church in Mansfield, Mass., read the Scriptures. Rev. Raymond Wonder, of Millville, Mass., offered prayer.

The subject of the afternoon was "Sure Guidance for the Unknown," and the speaker was Rev. Albert Abbott, of East Hampton.

At 4 P. M. Mrs. Cora Downs Stevens continued her daily elucidation of the text book on Home Missions at "The Haven," on Church Circle. The young people at the same hour carried out games at the playground under direction of the fourth vice president of the Norwich District League, Rev. Roger C. Stimson, of Danielson.

The 1 P. M. service at Stafford Springs house was led by Rev. Clinton E. Bromley, of Brockton, Mass. At 6 P. M. at the same place, the theme of Rev. W. D. Woodward, of Staffordville, was "Following Will-of-the-Wisps."

The service Tuesday evening was in the auditorium. The scheduled speakers, Rev. W. E. Plaxton, of Hazardville, couldn't be present. After Choir Leader Sallis had led an inspiring service of praise, a stereoptican lecture was given by Dr. Lipp on India, where he has been a missionary. Many fine colored views of mountain scenery, Ridge factories, and dusky multitudes were shown. At a period during the address, Dr. Lipp's wife and three children came upon the platform arrayed in the bright colored costumes of the better classes in India.

At the close of the lecture Dr. Gornall, of Chicago, made a short but earnest address. He is daily instructor on "Stewardship."

. . . . and then he changed to Blackstone

Oh Doctor!

(When Prevention beats Operation.)

He used to patch the shattered wrappers of pocket-cracked cigars with tape. Then he learned how to prevent pocket breakdowns by carrying a handy package of 5 or 10 foil-wrapped Blackstones.

A Pocket Package of Blackstones offers you your own individual box of fine cigars. You break the seal—your Uncle Samuel's revenue stamp. You get factory-fresh Blackstones that no one else has handled.

Blackstones are so uniformly good, that nearly half of them are bought in these handy packages. Uniformly free-drawing, uniformly even-burning, uniformly mild. And the costliest Havana filler that Cuba grows.

Blackstone was a fine cigar 52 years ago. It was even finer 10 years ago. It is at its very finest in this year of 1925!

POETRY

WILD ROSES.

On long, serene midsummer days,
Of ripening fruit and yellowed grain,
How sweetly, by dim woodland ways,
In tangled hedge or leafy lane,
Fair wild rose thickets, god unfold
Those pale pink stars with hearts of gold!

Your sleek patrician sisters dwell
On lawns where gleams the shrubs' trim bask;
In terraced gardens, tended well,
Near pebbled walk and quaint kiosk,
In costliest urns their colors rest;
They beam on beauty's fragrant breast.

But you in lonely calm abide,
Scarce heeded save by breeze or bee:
You know what splendor, pomp, and pride
Full oft your brilliant sisters wear;
What sorrow, too, and bitter fears,
What mad farewells and hopeless tears!

How some are kept in old, dear books,
That once in bridal wreaths were worn;
How some are kissed, with tender looks,
And later tossed aside with scorn;
How some their spotless petals lay
On icy foreheads pale as they!

So while these truths you vaguely guess,
A-bloom in many a lonesome spot,
Shy roadside roses, may you bless
The fate that rules your modest lot,
Like rustic maids that meekly stand
Below the ladies of the land!

—Edgar Fawcett.

FROM KERRY.

I heard the lilt of my young love's song,
As he went down the lane;
And I wondered as I heard him so,
"Will he come back again?"

'Tis he will dance with ladies gay,
The finest man of all;
And he'll forget the roadside dance,
And Kerry in the fall.

I heard the call of a lone wild goose
In her flight toward the sea;
"Ah, take my love a thought of home—
And bring him back to me!"

The mist rolls in from the silent hills,
And the smell of peat is strong;
The kine are gathered for the night—
The twilight hour is long!

The lights are lit; the stars are out;
The evening air is cool;
And far away, a dull, dark mass,
The peak of Carintoul.

"And yet, perchance, he'll not forget,"
Is what yon star would say.
He will unlatch the garden gate—
The years are yesterday.

'Tis then the mourning gulls shall scream,
And wheel, a flash of white,
Up, up, toward the new-found sun
That bathes them in his light.

The hills will look a strip of green,
The bay a streak of blue,
For when my love comes home again
It will be springtime, too.

But now the night is come at last,
The world is dark and cold;
Ah, would my love were by my side,
When all the world grows old!

—Norrays Jephson O'Conor.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Juliet—"What a shame that all handsome men are conceited."

Romeo—"I am not, little girl."—Yellow Crab.

Teacher (to new boy): "What do they call you at home?"

Boy: "Flannel, miss."

"But why?"

"Because I shrink from washing."

Our idea of a nervy guy is the bird who found two armed burglars under his bed and made them hunt for his collar button.—University of Georgia Cracker.

"How can you possibly go to sleep sitting in a chair?"

"You forget I spent four years in college."—University of Texas Ranger.

Madge—"You can't imagine the number of young men who proposed to me at the beach."

Marie—"No need for me to try; you've already imagined them."—Boston Transcript.

Smith—"So you have just regained your eyesight. How did you support yourself during the time you were blind?"

Jones—"I was a baseball umpire."—Washington Star.

Diner—"Waiter, let me see. I ordered a tenderloin steak here yesterday, didn't I?"

Waiter—"Yes, sir, you did. Will you have the same again today, sir?"

Diner—"Well, if nobody else is using it I may as well."—Technology Voo Doo.

"I'm bothered fierce with rats," said Mrs. Casey, owner of the boarding house.

"Did ye buy any of thim rat biscuit for them?" suggested Mrs. Kelly.

"Now, Mrs. Kelly, what kind of a house do you think I'm running? Sure, if the beasts can't eat what we do, they kin go hungry."—Everybody's Magazine.

Traffic through the Kiel canal last year had more than tripled since the close of the World war and the total tonnage surpassed that of 1913. In the latter year 53,382 vessels, with a total tonnage of 10,349,929, passed through the canal. The number of vessels in 1918 was 15,929, aggregating 4,720,000 tons. Last year's traffic showed 42,373 vessels, with a total tonnage of 13,434,162.

In Sarah Bernhardt's "The Art of the Theatre," she tells of a farewell performance in New York. "I was twenty-five minutes getting to the stage door," she writes. "Hundreds of people shook my hand, begging me to return. One lady removed her brooch and fastened it to my mantle. At each step I took I was detained. One lady had the idea of producing her pocketbook and asking me to write my name. The idea spread like lightning. Very young people made me write my name on their cuffs. I was completely exhausted. My arms were loaded with small bouquets. I felt some one behind me pulling my hat. I turned around quickly. A lady with a pair of scissors in her hand was trying to cut a lock of my hair, but she only succeeded in cutting my feather. Detectives had to liberate me."

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Under the skilled leadership of Warrant Officer Harry B. Hunt, of New London, the 192nd Field Artillery, C. N. G. presented one of the best concerts on Davis Park that has been heard in years. Perfect weather conditions, coupled with the fact that band concerts are few, drew out one of the largest crowds that has been in the borough for some time. Automobiles were lined on both sides of the three streets surrounding the park. Due to the efforts of Chief of Police John McFarland assisted by Officers Chase and Frasier, no hitches occurred. When it is realized that of the three thoroughfares, two are trunk highways, it is evident that the policemen had no snap. Their work was almost doubled by the little co-operation given them by the motorists, for many squeezed in, or tried to and displayed a disposition to crowd outsiders out of a decent parking space. The program went through without a flaw and was as follows: March, Semper Fidelis, Sousa; overture, The Golden Dragon, King; Old Timers Waltz, Arr. by Lake, selection, Hawaiian, Arr. by Lake; popular, A, Oh, How I Miss You To-Night, Davis, Burke and Fisher; B, Let It Rain, Let It Pour, by Friend and Donaldson; Idyll, The Shepherd's Serenade, Laurendeau; medley, All Hit No. 1, eFists; march, 2nd Regt. Conn. Nat. Guard, Reeves; finale, The Star Spangled Banner.

The bandsmen were escorted from the State Armory to the park by the Danielson unit of the Service Battery and after the concert they were served a lunch in the Legion Hall. Refreshments were sold during the concert by the Danielson Girls' Club.

Peter Cusson surely wasn't born on Friday the 13th. While burning out some caterpillars' nests in the rear of St. James church, a cinder or something got in his eye and as he rubbed it out, there was a terrible racket. A gasoline tank about a few feet away from him had become heated and exploded. The cover was completely blown off and the small amount of gas burned up. The explosion was heard all over that section of the town. That Mr. Cusson was not fatally burned seemed a miracle.

Walter Stanton, Miss Grace Stanton and Frank Gallup have returned from a motor tour through the state of Maine. Mr. Gallup drove the Stanton car on the trip.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. S. Phillips have been visiting friends in Danielson. Mr. Phillips is a former resident of this town and was for many years the proprietor of a market in railroad square.

F. P. Young, a salesman from Providence, is on his annual visit to Danielson. Mr. Young is well known in this town and has forsaken old Dobbin for the product of a popular Detroit manufacturer. During the winter season he travels in the southern part of the country, and in summer the New England states, reaching each place on the route but once a year.

After being clouded more or less for the past week, the sun has again begun hitting the high spots. Occasionally a little breeze stirred Wednesday to relieve yesterday's heat but it didn't stay long enough to do much good.

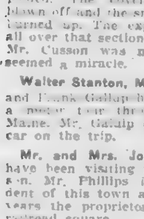
SIDE PAINED HER TERRIBLY

After Childbirth Women Should Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to Restore Normal Conditions



St. Louis, Missouri. — "After my first child was born I was bothered with a pain in my side which became more severe the longer I let it go. It was terrible. I often had to lie down to get any relief. I was in a weak and run-down condition, and my side seemed to be the point for all the pain. I was this way for three months, then I read your little booklet and the testimonials it contained, and started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I could feel relief after the first bottle and I have found it to do all you claim for it. I had to repeat it again after my second child was born. I sure will recommend the Vegetable Compound to my friends."—Mrs. N. R. LAYTON, 2726A University St., St. Louis, Mo.

If you are suffering from any weakness which causes such symptoms as pains in the side and back and nervous feelings, give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial now.

Do not continue to feel all run-down and half sick when relief is at hand.

PRO. AT COUNTY CLUB ESTABLISHES TWO RECORDS

(Special to the Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Aug. 19—Clarence Booth professional at the Putnam Country Club has established two new records for the course. Recently he covered the nine holes in 32 and the 18 holes in 67. The old records were 33 and 68, both held by himself.

Booth has been showing good golf form this season and has finished well in tournaments in which he was entered. Par for the Putnam course is seventy-four, for eighteen holes.

MISS MABEL CONVERSE GOING TO GEORGIA COLLEGE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Aug. 19—Miss Hazel Converse of this city, daughter of Henry L. Converse has been elected instructor in biology in Spellman College, Atlanta, Ga. She will leave the first part of September to begin her new duties. This is considered an exceptional position as Spellman is recognized as one of the finest of the smaller educational institutions of the south. The student enrollment is in excess of 500.

Miss Converse has been teaching in New York state but has been spending her vacation at her father's home in Putnam. She was graduated from Connecticut College for Women with honors four years ago, and has taken post-graduate courses in special subjects.

MOOSUP

Charles Dausreau, was again before Judge Torrey and is held in bonds of [illegible] on appearance in the superior court in September.

Moosup Pond is becoming one of the most popular inland resorts in Southern New England. Visitors now attend the amusements there from all nearby towns, of both Connecticut and Rhode Island.

There are many city visitors scattered all over the hills around Moosup. The good roads have done much toward bringing city folk out among the country population and many city guests spend much of the month of August here.

A number of Moosup people are at Willimantic Camp Ground.

Frank Linnell of Westminster is visiting friends here.

The cards are already being shuffled for the town election. The present town clerk, William H. Buteau, who is also town treasurer, first selectman Henry E. Bessette and second selectman Louis Gendron will all probably be nominated by the democrats. The republicans are by no means idle. Work candidates are not talked of yet to any great extent, there is to be a first class ticket of first class men and each nominated and the G. O. P. hopes to get back into its own. For nearly a quarter century this was a republican town.

ILLINOIS SCHOOL OFFERS POLICE SUMMER COURSE

EVANSTOWN, Ill., Aug.—(AP)—Summer short courses in the theory and practice of law enforcement for police officers loom as the next development in practical education in American universities.

Northwestern University has offered its facilities to the International Association of Chiefs of Police for the holding next summer of a police school. S. J. Dickson of Toronto, Canada, president of the association, has named a special committee to pass upon the university's offer.

The university has proffered class rooms, laboratories, a faculty and dormitory facilities for 150 for the police school. The association may, if it desires, furnish all or part of the faculty. August Vollmer, chief of police at Berkeley, Calif., who already is experimenting with police short courses in his own city, and W. F. Wiltberger, chief of police at Evanston, advocate acceptance of Northwestern University's offer. Courses in the school would include police methods, criminology, sociology, and federal, state and municipal law.

SPITZBERGEN RIVALS LAND SOUGHT BY PONCE DE LEON

LONGYEAR CITY, Spitzbergen, July —(AP)—There are no old, and very few elderly people in Spitzbergen. The great majority are husky, long-limbed Gods from Northern Norway of any age up to 40, with a sprinkling of Swedes, Finns, Scots, Russians and Germans. They all stand squarely on their feet and have fists like hams.

There is practically no mortality here, the doctor in charge of the excellently equipped little hospital told an Associated Press correspondent.

The visitor was shown through the small one-story wooden building where ten spotless white beds had been awaiting occupants for months.

The doctor proudly displayed his operating room, replete with all modern appliances, his X-ray apparatus and his well-filled dispensary.

According to this medical authority, living in Spitzbergen is extraordinarily healthy and a doctor is rarely needed except in cases of accident such as happen in any mining or engineering industry.

While the doctor was holding forth to the correspondent about the salubrity of the Spitzbergen air, six or eight heavy-handed fellows shuffled in, one after the other and sat down silently waiting.

"But here are patients, doctor," the correspondent said.

EPISCOPAL PRAYER BOOK HAS BEEN REVISED

NEW YORK, Aug. 19—(A. P.)—What virtually amounts to formal recognition of prayers for the dead, the principle of which was not recognized in the Episcopal church before 1916, is contained in the recommendations for the revised book of common prayer which will be passed upon at the general convention in New Orleans in October. This recognition is contained in a proposed "Prayer for Memorial Days," which reads:

"Almight God, our Heavenly Father, in whose hands are the living and the dead, we give thee thanks for all those thy servants who have laid down their lives in the service of our country."

Other recommendations will include proposed prayers for a state legislature, for social justice, and for every man in his work. Revised prayers are recommended for "our home", "our country," for "schools, colleges and universities" and for "rain."

PRESIDENT TO RETURN TO SWAMPSCOTT TODAY

PLYMOUTH, Vt., Aug. 19—(A. P.)—Reluctantly, President Coolidge decided today to bring his visit here with his father to a close tomorrow. He plans to leave here after lunch by motor, and on his way to Swampscott will stop overnight at Northampton, Mas., where Mrs. Elmira Goodhue, mother of Mrs. Coolidge, resides.

During his stay at his birthplace here, since last Friday, the president has enjoyed the most complete rest of the summer.

The president's visit to Northampton will be his first to that city since entering the White House except for a brief stop made there a year ago for funeral services for Calvin Jr., on the way to Plymouth for burial.

It was in Northampton that Mr. Coolidge struggled as a lawyer, met, courted and married Mrs. Coolidge, was elected mayor, to the legislature, and later lieutenant governor and governor of Massachusetts. It is still his voting residence and both of his children were born there.

It is expected that Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge will reach Northampton in time for supper with Mrs. Goodhue. They will remain at her home tomorrow night, and will leave Friday morning for Swampscott. The president plants to be back at the summer White house in time to receive Friday afternoon Secretary Edge, of New Jersey, and State Senator Whitney, the republican gubernatorial nominee.

Thus far there has been no indication as to when the president will return to Washington, but it is believed he will remain at White Court at least another week, and perhaps until after Labor Day.

The president remained close to home today except for an automobile trip with Mrs. Coolidge to the 200-acre farm near Reading, of Attorney General Sargent.

Colonel John Coolidge, the president's father showed that he had completely recovered from his recent illness by climbing out on the roof of his home to measure the glass needed to repair broken windows.

TWO MACMILLAN PLANES NOW OUT OF COMMISSION

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19—(A. P.)—Two of the three navy planes with the MacMillan Arctic Expedition are now out of commission, the National Geographic Society was informed today in a message from Commander MacMillan.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19—(A. P.)—A victim of unusual weather, the MacMillan Arctic Expedition was directed today to abandon its effort to fly over the unknown Polar Sea and to concentrate upon supplementary explorations and investigations in Greeland, Labrador and Baffin Island.

The action was taken by the National Geographic Societq, sponor of the expedition, with the assent of the navy department, which contributed the planes and personnel, and was based upon recommendation of Commander Donald B. MacMillan, leader of the expedition. While Lieutenant Commander Byrd, in command of the navy section, remained silent, it was assumed by the navy that Commander MacMillan had not submitted his recommendation without consulting and obtaining his assent.

Secretary Wilbur confessed himself "frankly disappointed" that the expedition could not complete its mission because of the unforeseen barriers.

PLANES TO BE AVAILABLE FOR THE STATE POLICE

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 19—(A. P.)—Announcement was made here today by Major Talbot O. Freeman, head of the new state department of aviation, that the complete equipment of the aviation division of the Connecticut National Guard, will be available for the use of the state police.

Establishment of the new state board of control links the police more closely with the aviation unit of the National Guard, he said, and gives Connecticut a real flying police unit.

George Paranaitis, former sergeant of the 43rd division of the Connecticut air service, has just completed a year's training in police affairs under Superintendent Robert Hurley of the state police, and is now appointed aviation police officer under the new department.

Eight Jenneys, two De Havilands and one Fokker, are now at his disposal for state police patrol and will be called out by the state police in any emergency.

MRS. COOLIDGE GETS LESSON IN PHOTOGRAPHY

PLYMOUTH, Vt., Aug. 19—(A. P.)—Mrs. Coolidge tried her hand today at amateur photography, but had to call on a professional for pointers before she was able to take some snapshots of the president.

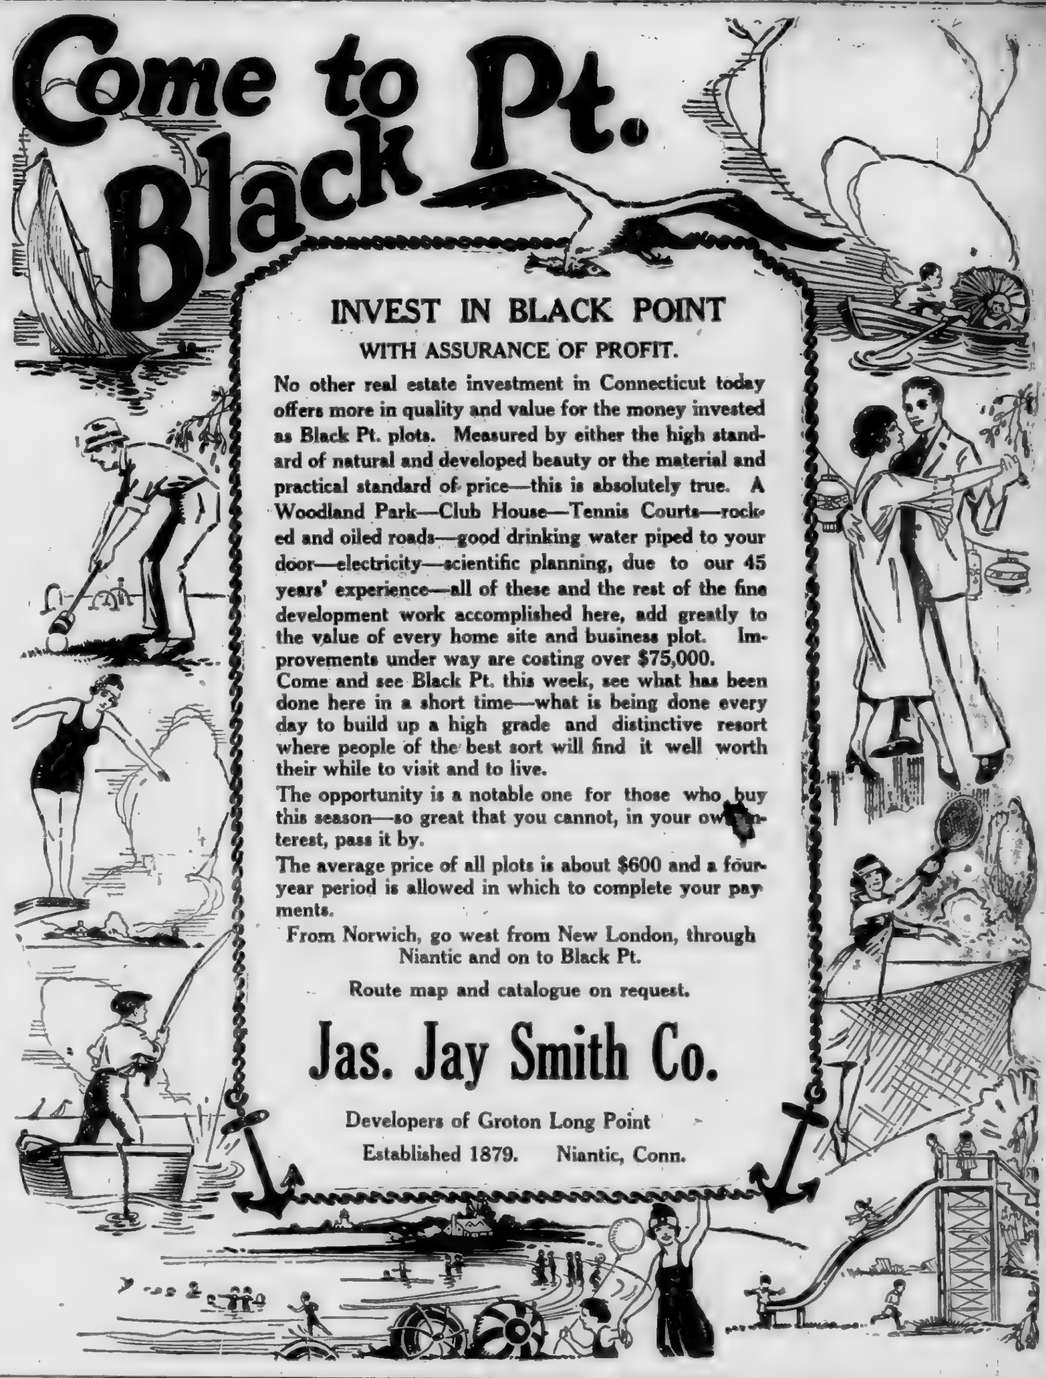
Experimenting with a German-made camera given her by a friend, Mrs. Coolidge soon found she knew little about it. The president who was with her in front of the family homestead spied "Dick" Sears, Boston movie man who he has known for years, standing behind the "dead line" established by secret service men to keep reporters and photographers as well as tourists at a respectful distance.

The president appealed to Sears for help. After the photographer had loaded the camera with film, he coached Mrs. Coolidge as she took several pictures of the president.

As a reward, Sears was permitted to take pictures with his own machine of her doing this.

Thirty-two thousand children from 430 schools in British Columbia are registered members of the Goodwill Society, the purpose of which is "to promote fair play, friendship, and fidelity among ourselves and with all nations." The society is the outgrowth of the World conference on Education, held in San Francisco in 1924. It has the indorsement of the provincial department of education and of parent-teacher associations. Goodwill Day is observed annually in the schools on May 18. Certificates are issued to members, and the childrens names will be officially registered at The Hague for permanent preservation.

Come to Black Pt.



INVEST IN BLACK POINT
WITH ASSURANCE OF PROFIT.

No other real estate investment in Connecticut today offers more in quality and value for the money invested as Black Pt. plots. Measured by either the high standard of natural and developed beauty or the material and practical standard of price—this is absolutely true. A Woodland Park—Club House—Tennis Courts—rocked and oiled roads—good drinking water piped to your door—electricity—scientific planning, due to our 45 years' experience—all of these and the rest of the fine development work accomplished here, add greatly to the value of every home site and business plot. Improvements under way are costing over $75,000.

Come and see Black Pt. this week, see what has been done here in a short time—what is being done every day to build up a high grade and distinctive resort where people of the best sort will find it well worth their while to visit and to live.

The opportunity is a notable one for those who buy this season—so great that you cannot, in your own interest, pass it by.

The average price of all plots is about $600 and a four-year period is allowed in which to complete your payments.

Says Dangerous Varicose Veins Can Be Reduced at Home

Rub Gently and Upward Toward the Heart as Blood in Veins Flows That Way.

If you or any relative or friend is worried because of varicose veins, or bunches, the best advice that anyone in this world can give you is to ask your druggist for an original two-ounce bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) and apply night and morning to the swollen, enlarged veins. Soon you will notice that they are growing smaller and the treatment should be continued until the veins are of normal size. So penetrating and powerful is Emerald Oil that even Piles are quickly absorbed.

ANOTHER ST. AMBOAT HORROR

One of the worst steamboat accidents in a long time is that which occurred near the Newport naval station on Narragansett Bay when a boiler blew up causing the death of 33 and the injuring of a number of whom are likely to die.

The Mackinac is a passenger vessel which had been converted into use as an excursion steamer. Three days of the week it has been plying between Providence and Martha's Vineyard carrying thousands of passengers but on Tuesday and one of the fortunate things in connection with the explosion, if indeed any part of it can be regarded as fortunate, was that fact that it occurred when the vessel was not making its customary trip from shore to shore so that there was no trouble in beaching it.

More than one investigation is probably underway at the present time to determine the cause of the explosion, whether it was due to negligence or lack of proper inspection and whether there was gross negligence in making the test in view of such facts as were known in regard to the condition of the boiler.

Serious loss of life resulted from the failure to provide adequate safeguards for the passengers under similar circumstances. The report stated that as long as steel vessels in order the sailing of the steamer was delayed because of time required to prepare the boiler indicates that all was not what it should have been when the steamer was taken out from the wharf with its human freight aboard.

Was there a disregard of the chance of making the best of a bad stead of laying up the vessel for ed repairs? Was a case of putting more consideration to the dollar revenue than to the safe transportation of the children, women and men? Whether these things entered into it should be disclosed by the investigation but the explosion itself indicates that the boiler equipment of the steamer was far from being what it should be considering the fact that it was engaged in passenger service.

SETTLING THE DEBT TERMS

Debt negotiations with this country were not so terrible as Belgium had been led to believe. They were the worst of it was to be found in the anticipation and getting started. Once there was a resolve to go ahead and the representatives of the two nations got together it was a matter of adjustment. At least it has been possible for the debtor nation to arrange and there finally ground for belief that their agreement will be ratified by the respective countries.

Belgium has clung to the belief that the debt contracted prior to the armistice should be shifted to Germany and that we should accept such a transfer and look to Berlin for the payments thereon. That was one of the things which this country was unwilling to accept. It has to collect of course to pay its own reparations received from Germany in the adjustment of Belgium's debt to this country but it looks to Belgium and not to Germany for the money.

The Belgians must have understood in advance that this would be insisted upon but they were unable to deal with their occupation [illegible] was a moral obligation [illegible] the country through [illegible] made by President Wilson that [illegible] would receive [illegible] ation. This means [illegible] something like [illegible] fighting debt [illegible] from will pay most [illegible] the war, reaching [illegible] approval after the war and the interest on the latter, payments to be made under the same [illegible] the terms as extended to the Belgians.

Thus as far as the interest and period in which payments are to be made are concerned it can be figured from the Belgian terms that the same can be expected by the other nations which have not as yet agreed upon repayment terms. The special consideration shown Belgium in regard to interest release cannot be reasonably expected by the others. The simple situation does not present [illegible] justifying that terms were so quickly reached and it is to be hoped that it will have good effects upon the [illegible].

WARNING SIGNS

Interesting schemes have been hit upon for the purpose of securing the co-operation of motorists in the highway in eliminating the carelessness and recklessness in driving that lead to so many accidents and fatalities.

There are the customary warning signs which call attention to [illegible] curves, steep grades, the advisability of going down in second, schoolhouses ahead, railroad crossings, narrow bridges and dangerous underpasses. They all serve the good purpose for which they are erected. They are of much benefit to highway users especially when they are not accustomed with the particular lines of travel.

But there are other signs which have been employed to direct the attention of the heedless to the mistakes made by others in disregarding warnings and noting the effects thereof. There are those signs which point out that one, two or three were killed on a certain sharp curve last year, others indicate where the lives of several were crushed out through failure to respect grade crossings while similar means of designating and calling public attention to the results of the heedlessness of others have been resorted to. They may not be the means of eliminating all recklessness but they cannot fail to make an impression. If they do any reading and follow it up by any thought at all there must be at least a shudder develop over the reflection that such a sign may yet be erected for them unless they change their methods.

Perhaps an equally effectively and noticeable warning is to be found in the overturned and abandoned car at the foot of a grade or in the gutter at a sharp turn, indicating the folly of those who had refused to go cautiously after signs erected for their protection had received no attention. These cars tell a story of possible death, injuries and certainly a financial loss. It is matter of fact evidence. Perhaps others will be disposed to laugh at the lack of control which the drivers had but when similar accidents are participated in they cease to be laughing matters. The thing to do is to avoid rather than participate in them. Heed the warning signs.

THE GOVERNOR'S CONFERENCE

Just what the outcome will be of the conference of governors which has been called by the governor of Massachusetts to consider the fuel situation no one knows, but certainly it can do no harm. At the same time there may be no discernible results and yet if Governor Fuller puts forward the suggestion of educating the people of New England in the greater use of substitutes as one means of dealing with the anthracite situation, it seems not improbable that this part of the country may obtain some relief from the effects of strikes and threatened strikes in the hard coal region.

The use of substitutes is by no means new. It has passed the experimental stage. The hard coal users who were at one time 26 per cent of the people of this country now number but 17 per cent. That difference to a large degree caused by the use of substitutes, and the situation today is that New England no longer has anything to fear a strike in the anthracite mines if those who have been dependent upon hard coal for fuel will but turn to the use of the available substitutes from which equally good results are obtainable.

While the public is a radical change in the New England fuel is apparent that a campaign underway to a successful decision. Many have abandoned the sailing of the steamer was delayed because of time required to prepare the boiler indicates that all was not what it should have been when the steamer was taken out from the wharf with its human freight aboard.

Was there a disregard of the chance of making the best of a bad stead of laying up the vessel for ed repairs? BUSSES AND TROLLEYS

There was a time when trolley service was regarded as quite satisfactory transportation in and between cities. It met public requirements as to frequency of runs and reasonableness of fare. It took away some business that the railroads formerly had, but even as the electrics hurt the railroad passenger business the motor bus is today doing the same thing to the trolleys. Trolley companies are [illegible] busses in response to demands and in an effort to bring about a reduction of the heavy overhead which goes with the maintenance of trolley lines.

There can be no surprise when the announcement is made that William H. Vanderbilt has secured control of the Newport and Providence railway and proposes to replace the trolleys with a fleet of motor busses. He has recognized the passing of the electrics and the demand for service even though such service involves a larger fare.

The loss of the Newport-Providence business is no different than that of many other lines. With fine roadbeds provided by the state, with no power-houses, no wires and no highway maintenance to consider there is nothing illogical in the move of existing transportation lines in turning to the motorbus. It means a much smaller investment, a smaller payroll and expense account and makes possible a service in many directions where it could not possibly be obtained if the construction of a trolley line was necessary. The trolleys have not gone. They will continue to render necessary service, especially in cities, but they have experienced serious competition from the busses which promises to increase.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Floods come and bandits go but [illegible] never seem depleted.

One of the conspicuous signs of the times is "Road under construction. Proceed under your own risk."

Has the advice to "go west" been temporarily eclipsed by the advice to go south and buy part of Florida?

Only a few more weeks now and it will be possible to make a definite stand up on the pennant predictions.

At this season of the year Norwich is reminded that it is no longer the meeting place of the National Roque association.

That may not explain the changes in the price of gasoline but it is an old story that what goes up must come down.

We have now gotten to the season of the year where the 1925 resolutions are completely forgotten if not actually shattered.

The president of the Turkish republic has experienced difficulties in running his home as well as in conducting the government.

Preparations for getting soft coal to New England from Virginia at a lower transportation rate indicates provision for bridging this part of the country over a possible coal strike.

NOT SO ENTHUSIASTIC

"Did you meet any attractive men while you were away?" began the gossipy girl who believed in hewing straight to the line and wasting no time. "I've always heard that the town was just overflowing with marvelous bachelors."

"I'll suggest to Catherine that she might ask you down," mused her friend with the appealing eyes warranted to do damage at any distance. "I think you would enjoy it. Only I might as well give you a few pointers to help you along. Catherine's cousin Jack is quite a beau and he stepped pretty and politely for my benefit, but to tell the truth I think he has been grossly overrated by Catherine when she has been up here. He—"

"Oh, isn't he good looking?" wailed the gossipy girl sadly.

"He looks as though he earned his living posing for clothing ad artists," admitted the girl who had been visiting. "His nose is a riot, his jaw a dream and his coat always fits across the shoulders, but, if you understand what I mean, he is the sort of man who sends you $20 worth of orchids the day you are shutting the house up to start to California or Alaska and can't possibly enjoy them or cart them along.

"His nicest theater invitations come the night your hair is all out of curl or your head aches, or your best dress is at the cleaner's; he buys you a book when you are looking hungrily into all the candy shop windows, and he invariably suggests a five-mile hike when you have on new shoes that hurt your feet like sixty.

"That Edmund Outside whom Catherine talked about so much also was nice to me while I was there. Catherine was so impressive about his having gone to Europe 12 times and being all steeped in culture that I was quite nervous.

"Being married to Edmund would be just like trying to walk floatingly with a ball and chain on one ankle. A wife needs to be buoyed up by the soothing knowledge that John thinks she is an utter wonder, with exquisite taste and remarkable judgment and superlative knowledge. It keeps her sort of secretly apologetic and hustling to live up to it and kind of pleased and happy. Edmund approaches that model about as closely as an oblique pterodactyl resembles my Aunt Judy's pet canary.

"He cringes if one sets a Chippendale chair next a Jacobean table. It is torture for him to gaze on a face that is powdered with flesh tint when nature has built a brunette tone matches the complexion and he quite fades out of the picture when fogs begin talking of spiffy places to eat in Paris and Vienna when the towns are so crammed with culture lying all around to be viewed through horn-rimmed spectacles!

"There were several other populer beaux in the town who did what they could to entertain Catherine's guest. Bobby Grimes is a hard working and prosperous young lawyer, but he makes loans and is too old to be spoken of as atrocious habit. Henry Buckles had fine teeth and laughs every time you speak no matter if all you say is please pass the biscuit or something like that.

"I had visions of a time to come when sorrowing friends would murmur carefully to Henry that there was no hope, his wife must die, and Henry would break out into his hearty, enthusiastic laugh as a matter of course. If you are really interested I could tell you about a lot more—"

"Oh, no, no!" shuddered the gossipy girl emphatically. "Somehow I'm not so enthusiastic about visiting Catherine as I once was! Only I'll wager there is one perfect bet you are keeping dark, you selfish old thing!"—Chicago News.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Raymond Poincare, who reaches the age of sixty-five today, is a former president and later premier of the French republic. France has probably had no more popular president than M. Poincare, who guided the destinies of the nation during the great war. From the beginning of his career in politics his success has been phenomenal. At thirty he attained cabinet rank, and at thirty-four was minister of finance. For several years he withdrew from active politics and devoted himself to legal work, which brought him an income of nearly $100,000 a year. He showed conspicuously in big commercial cases, and judges would shrink from questioning Poincare's law. In 1911 he became premier, which position he retained until 1913, when he was selected to the presidency. M. Poincare has been called the strong man that France has had at the helm since the days of Marshal MacMahon.

Stories That Recall Others

Got His Hair Barbecued.

Tommy, aged four, called on one of his neighbors recently.

"My, what a nice hair cut you have," remarked the neighbor.

"Yes," replied the little boy, "mother took me to the barbecue yesterday afternoon."

The Reason.

He was a husband and a worker. It was midday and he was cutting his own lawn. Across the street was the neighborhood question box. Blond and curly-headed, five years or so, and ultra-inquisitive.

She frowned a bit. Couldn't understand why the husband was cutting the lawn. He hadn't been doing that of late. "Why aren't you downtown?" she asked.

"I'm on a vacation," he replied.

More wrinkled brows. "Vacation—vacation," and she reported on and on. "Oh, yes, you've been laid off too, huh."

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

HOW FRANCE'S LEADERS FLY TO MOROCCO

"The recent spectacular journey by airplane of Marshall Petain from France to Morocco to take supreme command of the French forces fighting in that country, and the similar air voyage of Premier Plainleve to look into the political aspects of the war, were over one of the most picturesque air routes of Southern Europe," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

The bulletin quotes as follows from a communication to the Society from Lieutenant J. Parker Van Zandt, U. S. Army Air Service, who covered this route, starting from Toulouse, France.

"An answering roar from the engine as the throttle was advanced, wheels plowing through the deep dew-laden grass, tail poised for flight—and I was off on what was destined to prove my most memorable air ride in Europe.

"The gentle valley of the Garonne lay sleeping under a fleecy sheet of light fog. Like a child's ribbon, the canal lay curled at the base of the furrowed hills, a solemn double row of poplars guarding its banks. The black thread of the railroad now ran close beside it, now struck out boldly across the rich farm land toward where the valley narrowed before the encroaching Pyrenees.

"A half hour passes. We dodge through a winding pass ahead, swing to the east again, and abruptly there opens before us a glorious picture of the breaking day. The walled city of Carcassonne slips by, sharply etched in light and shadow, and the glistening waters of the Mediterranean appear ahead. As we swing by the eastern slopes of the Pyrenees, the clouds that had seemed so black and ominous overhead now appear snow-white, soft, vaporous, streaming south.

"Perpignan lies in a fertile valley at the foot of the Pyrenees, and here we make our first landing, one hour from Toulouse, to pick up the mail from Marseille. The connecting plane has arrived before us with another passenger, a young Frenchman with military clothing samples for his clients among the fonctionnaires at Rabat.

"It is noon and we are approaching

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Attacks on Star Spangled Banner.

Mr. Editor:

No doubt you [illegible] have become aware of adversarial attacks on "The Star Spangled Banner" which have appeared from time to time in the press, especially in the large cities. The Bureau for American Ideals of New York city had the article reprinted just as it appeared in the leading papers of New York and mailed a copy to every congressman and senator with a letter copy of which I believe should interest your readers. I believe that the organization has taken commendable action especially since Mrs. Stetson is so bold as to state that the anthem which Americans have always risen to as Old Glory in music is not our national anthem and since Mr. Blair, whom she quotes was so bold in boasting of his disrespect for the Star Spangled Banner. The organization referred to states that it has reason to believe that other patriotic organizations will take similar action, that is, in New York. I think Connecticut should see to it that New York shall not excel it in rallying to the defense of Francis Scott Key's inspired work which a Tory element in America is so bent on destroying.

Very truly yours,
JAMES DOWNING.
Plainfield, Aug. 17, 1925.

From Small Beginnings

John M. Browning, the Gunmaker's Boy, Inventor of the Browning Gun.

It always pays a boy to become interested in the kind of work that his father is carrying on, whatever that work may be, so long as it is honest work. It is altogether probable that the boy has inherited talents that will enable him to go far beyond the father, and to achieve great things for himself and for the world. That, at least, was the case with John M. Browning, the inventor of the famous Browning machine gun that played such a large part in the World war.

John M. Browning was 64 years of age when he made the marvelous machine guns that did the work of many companies of soldiers in the battles in France. One gun alone could pour out an almost interminable stream of shots, making a fire that could not be withstood. And few people know that the inventor turned aside the immense royalties that he might have received—royalties that would have gone far into millions of dollars—and took a single payment of less than two million dollars for his rights.

The making of that wonderful machine gun was not the work of a moment, it was the product of a lifetime. About 1860 John M. Browning had been only a six-year-old boy playing in his father's gun shop. He had watched his father turn iron and steel, use calipers and various other instruments, and he had hoped to grow old enough to use them himself.

"Let me see what I can do," he begged. "Here you are, sonnie; go to work," the father had answered genially.

How much depended on that, the father did not know. The small boy began clumsily with the tools, and the father stopped his own work and guided the childish fingers. In a surprisingly short time the youngster was able to do work that amazed the father. From the day when he first showed a desire to use tools the boy gave promise that he was to become a skilled worker. Soon he began to do new things that no one had ever done before. He began to suggest improvements in gun making, and before he had gained his full manhood the father was the admirer of the boy's work.

Very early in life John M. Browning began to patent inventions that he had made, and to sell the patents to great manufacturing companies. He far surpassed his father's work and his father's inventive ability.

NORWICH BUSINESS MEN HOME FROM FLORIDA

After a pleasant vacation and business trip to Florida, Abner Schwartz and Alex Pasnik, prominent local business men returned home Monday evening. The trip in the southland was a most enjoyable one, being made via the Clyde Line.

On the return trip and on the last night out Mr. Pasnik and Mr. Schwartz arranged for a benefit concert for the members of the crew and a goodly sum of money was realized, the Norwich men owning the boat after that successful event.

While looking about Miami for real estate, Mr. Schwartz decided to take a trip by airplane, over the Everglades. As the motor of the airplane was being tuned up Mr. Schwartz was surprised to hear a familiar voice. Looking about he discovered the speaker to be "Billie" Hill, local insurance and real estate man who recently went to Miami. Mr. Hill being accompanied by "Pat" Hayes, also of Norwich.

Plucking a handkerchief from his pocket Mr. Hill said, "Abner, I've known you for many years and I hate to see you going this way. As a favor to me please tell me where I may send the body." Mr. Hayes seeing the sport also joined in the handkerchief brigade and asked Mr. Schwartz where he could send the body.

This cheering message as he was about to tempt the skies in an airplane had a tendency to make Mr. Schwartz somewhat nervous but not to be "kidded" into remaining on the ground, he entered the plane and started up. What happened after that is a secret known only to Mr. Schwartz and Mr. Pasnik, but it may be said that after a first few minutes of riding the trip proved most enjoyable?

Speaking of Florida real estate conditions, Mr. Pasnik said that it is not a balloon. If it is, he said, then it has a mighty thick skin and it is not likely to burst for some time. As one enters Miami said Mr. Pasnik, the city has more the appearance of New York city, than of a southern city. Skyscrapers are already built and nearly 20 are being built.

Much of the buying in the past has been by small capitalists and fully 90 per cent of the buyers have not got the money with which to go through with the deal if the full payment was demanded. The other 10 per cent., however, he said, have got the capital and can go through with their deals. They are building on substance. The way things are booming there at present time, according to Mr. Pasnik, someone is due to get stuck, and get stuck proper sometime. The buying is speculation mostly and the last man to buy is the one who will get stuck.

The two local men however, being of a speculative frame of mind while in Florida, made several purchases which they figure will net them a profit well worth the trip south.

FUNERALS

Miss Julia C. Doyle.

Funeral services for Miss Julia C. Doyle were held Wednesday morning at 8:20 o'clock from her late home, 36 Church street. Solemn requiem mass was celebrated at 9 o'clock at St. Patrick's church, Rev. Myles F. Galvin officiating, assisted by Rev. John Malley, curate of Sacred Heart church, Taftville, as deacon, and Rev. J. Osmond O'Brien as sub-deacon.

There was a large attendance of relatives and friends at the service, including people from Naugatuck, Willimantic, Hartford and New London. Miss Irene LaVallee was at the organ during the mass and at the offertory De Profundis was sung by Roderick Sullivan. For the waiting hymn he sang Lead Kindly Light and for the recessional, Nearer, My God to Thee. The floral tributes were most beautiful.

Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery where the committal service was conducted by Rev. Father Galvin. The bearers were John Murphy, Mortimer Murphy, Thomas J. Kelly, Maurice Kelly, all of Norwich, Henry Miller of Hartford and Michael Doyle of New London. Arrangements were by Hourigan Brothers.

WEDDING

Weber-Casey.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Casey, daughter of Police Sergeant and Mrs. John F. Casey of 277 Prospect street and Edward J. Weber, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Weber of Brooklyn, N. Y., were united in marriage Wednesday morning at 8:30 o'clock in St. Mary's Memorial church, Rev. William A. Keefe, rector, being celebrant of the mass.

The ceremony was witnessed by many relatives and friends of the couple. The church decorations were exquisite, the altar being decorated with cut flowers, palms and ferns. Miss Elizabeth Malone was at the organ and played the wedding march. During the service Miss Lucia Woods sang O Promise Me.

The bride was charmingly gowned in nile green georgette with pearl trimmings, with picture hat to match. She carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses. Miss Jewel Casey, maid of honor, a sister of the bride, was prettily gowned in pheasant colored georgette with picture hat to match and her bouquet was of butterfly roses. The best man was George Weber of Brooklyn, N. Y., a brother of the groom.

The groom presented the bride with a string of pearls and the gift of the bride to the groom was a pair of gold cuff links. The gift of the groom to the best man was a pair of C. C. cuff links, and the bride gave her maid of honor a sapphire ring. The bride received many beautiful gifts, including sums of money, checks, cut glass, silverware and household articles.

Following the ceremony a reception was held and a wedding breakfast served at the home of the bride's parents, No. 277 Prospect street.

The groom is in the United States navy, serving as a C. P. O. on the U. S. S. Camden, New London. Naval friends presented the bride a handsome electric lamp as a wedding gift.

Mr. and Mrs. Weber left on their wedding tour during the afternoon, to include visits to Niagara Falls, N. Y., and other places. Upon their return they will reside for the present, at the home of Mrs. Weber's parents on Prospect street.

The couple are well known in this city and have the best wishes of their many friends for happiness during their married life.

Wall—Mack.

At St. Patrick's church, East Hampton, at 8 o'clock Monday, Miss Katherine Claire Mack, daughter of Mrs. Mary Mack, and Richard John Wall, were united in marriage by Rev. William T. O'Brien of Baltic, a cousin of the groom. Miss Alice T. Hickey, of Willimantic, a cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid and Richard Gillon, a cousin of the groom, was best man.

The bride wore a gown of cream embroidered lace over blue poudre satin. Her hat was cream Milan caught with wistaria. She carried an arm bouquet of white Killarney roses.

The bridesmaid wore orchid crepe dechine, trimmed with gold. Her hat was of black velvet and she carried an arm bouquet of pink rosebuds. The bride's gift to her attendant was a white gold bracelet, set in sapphires. The groom's gift to his best man was a set of white gold cuff links.

After the ceremony a breakfast was served at the home of the bride's mother. Mrs. Wall received many beautiful gifts.

After a trip through New Hampshire and Vermont, Mr. and Mrs. Wall will be at home at 50 West High street East Hampton, after October 3rd.

GIVEN SIXTY DAYS IN JAIL FOR RECEIVING STOLEN PROPERTY

Edward Monahan, 41, of this city received a sentence of 60 days in jail when he appeared before the city court, Wednesday morning, and was found guilty, by Judge Arthur F. Libby, on a charge of receiving stolen goods.

The stories told in court were of a conflicting nature, Monahan claiming that he had found the watch, valued at about $30; Herbert Chapman, owner of the watch, claiming that it had been stolen from him while in company with Murphy and Monahan, after the three had taken a few drinks of wine, and Murphy claiming that Chapman gave him the watch to keep safely, and that he later gave it to Monahan, with instructions to the latter to return it to Chapman.

An elderly couple, the man claiming an age of 68 and the wife as 80 years, aired their troubles before the court and afterwards the wife agreed to forgive. Judge Libby warned the husband in regard to future treatment of his wife and continued the case for one year. A daughter of the couple paid the actual costs in the case, which were fixed at eight dollars.

Herbert L. McNeeley paid $5 for violation of the parking ordinance, claiming that he stopped on Main street to aid a companion who was to have an X-ray taken of his foot. James J. Way of Norwich also paid $5 for a similar offense. Frank D. Kull, a stranger in town, parked three feet from the curb on Main street and this cost him $5 in the court.

One man went up to jail for 16 days when he did not have the money with which to pay a fine of $16.50 for intoxication.

NORWICH TOWN PEOPLE ENTERTAIN NEWLYWEDS

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Smith of Elm avenue, Norwich Town, and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Freeman of Ripley Place East Norwich, have been entertaining at their respective homes for several days, Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Leas (Florence Osborne), of Toledo, Ohio, who motored to Norwich on their Honeymoon trip, to visit Mrs. Leas' relatives.

Mrs. Freeman is aunt of Mrs. Leas, and Mrs. Smith is her cousin. Mr. and Mrs. Leas were married Tuesday, August 11th, in the Point Place, Union church. The ceremony which was performed in the presence of a large company of guests, by Rev. Lester S. Norris, took place at seven o'clock, in the evening. The bride, who entered alone, wore a gown of white crepe de chine, combined with lace and adorned with handmade flowers. Her long veil was caught to her hair with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses. Miss Marjorie Hall, the maid of honor, wore a gown of seagreen and silver and carried an arm bouquet of pink roses. She wore a band of brilliants in her hair. The flower maids, Grace Harry and Thelma Lathcock, were in frocks fashioned alike of French voile. Miss Grace in green and Miss Thelma in pink. They carried baskets of pink rose-buds.

The bride groom was attended by Harold Haberstitch as best man. Mrs. M. Steager played a programme of nuptial music, and Miss Dorothy Lee sang "O Promise Me."

A reception at the home of the bride followed the church service. Having concluded their visit in Norwich, Mr. and Mrs. Leas, who are taking a two weeks' trip left Wednesday morning for the west, and upon their return will be at home in Point Place. In coming to Norwich, the trip of 950 miles was made by automobile, stopping at Niagara Falls, coming through the Berkshires, taking about four days for the trip.

Such fine roads were experienced in making the trip east, Mr. and Mrs. Leas expected to return by the same route.

Mr. Leas is the son of Mrs. Ella Leas, of Columbus, and his bride is the daughter of Mrs. Mamie Osborne. Mrs. Osborne and Mrs. Ernest Freeman of Norwich are sisters.

UNLICENSED DRIVER TIED UP AUTOMOBILE TRAFFIC

After he had tied up traffic for a few minutes early Wednesday evening, Aristoletis Siderpoulos, 48, of Thames street, was found to be driving, or attempting to drive his machine without a license. He was arrested, booked at police headquarters, and then released on bonds of $100 for his appearance in the city court this (Thursday) morning.

Siderpoulos, who is employed in a local restaurant, purchased a machine several weeks ago and has been learning to drive it. Thursday afternoon it is said he was out with the machine, receiving instructions from a licensed driver. During the early evening, for some reason or other, he attempted to drive the machine alone. He hadn't got far when he experienced all kinds of trouble in turning around on Thames street and the result was that traffic became tied up to some extent.

His predicament attracted the attention of Officer Fraser, who investigating, discovered that Siderpoules didn't have a license to drive. He was arrested and taken to headquarters.

POLICE ON WATCH FOR YOUNG GIRL

Rose Grillo, alias Gentilcha, 14, of this city, is missing and the local and New London police authorities have been requested to be on the watch for her. It is thought that she has run away. She was placed, through a welfare organization, in the care of Greeneville people, Tuesday, a position with them having been secured for her.

Wednesday morning she slipped away from the house and up to a late hour Wednesday night was still missing. She is described as having brown hair and eyes, dark complexion, and wore a blue sailor suit, white stockings and shoes and a tan felt hat.

JOHN IRISH ATTENDS CONN. CAVALRY REUNION

John Irish, of this city, one of a little band of six Civil war veterans, five of them members of the old First Connecticut cavalry and one a visitor from the old 24th New York cavalry, who met in reunion Wednesday at Grand Army hall, Hartford, and voted, amid applause, to continue their yearly reunions as long as two members of the old regiment are alive.

William G. Renfree, of Plainville, a member of Co. E., of the old regiment, was re-elected chairman of the group, while George Egan, of Waterbury, who was unable to be present, and John Irish, of Norwich, were re-elected vice-presidents. F. F. McKenna, of Hartford, was re-elected secretary while Dora Holbrook will keep her position as assistant secretary.

Next year's reunion will be held the third Wednesday in August at the home of Mrs. Mary Dyer Maynard, 303 Quaker lane, south, West Hartford. Mrs. Maynard's father was a member of the old First Connecticut cavalry. Thomas Haney, of Norwich, was also present at the reunion, and Homer F. Northrop of the old New York 24th regiment had many entertaining stories with which to enliven the proceedings. Edward Davis of Co. E. of the First Connecticut, from Shelton, was at the gathering. Comrades Renfree, Irish and McKenna all seemed to live once more their Civil war days. The gathering was larger than the one last year, and the men were very much encouraged by the attendance. When discussion came on the subject of giving up the reunions in the future it developed that not one of those present wanted to do so.

Mrs. Maynard's kind invitation to have next year's reunion at her home, with the promise of a big dinner, was very enthusiastically received. Comrades Northrop and McKenna paid special tribute to the work of the women of the nation in the Civil war, and said that its importance had never been sufficiently recognized.

PLAYGROUND ATTENDANCE SHOWS BIG INCREASE

Superintendent Earle Brigham has announced that the attendance at the playgrounds in the city during the first five weeks was 35,932, being an increase of 350 over the attendance at the playgrounds during the 1924 season. This record is considered an unusually good one due to the fact that rain has caused a closing down of the playgrounds at least once a week during the season.

The attendance record follows: East Side 2350, Lake street 7100, Thamesville 1929, Laurel Hill 1135, Hobart Avenue 1297, Elizabeth Street 4538, Falls 2416, Greeneville 9648, Academy 4144, total 35,932.

An all playground picnic is to be held at Mohegan Park today (Thursday) the children to assemble at their playgrounds at 9 o'clock and be escorted to the park by the instructors. A very sports programme of sports has been arranged for the outing and the affair should prove a success from every standpoint.

MADE LIQUOR HAUL AT BLOCK ISLAND

Rhode Island mounted police went to Block Island Monday from Newport on the morning boat, and when they returned they brought with them a large supply of liquor and the proprietors of the Yellow Kittens, says The Westerly Sun.

Block Island has been one of the islands off the coast which has attempted to compete with Bermuda. The cry has been, "Why go to Bermuda when you can go to Block Island."

The little island was entirely surprised and on a lone state trooper is on guard at the Yellow Kittens, so that nothing untimely might happen at the hands of the natives.

When the police went back to Newport they took with them Winfield S. Dodge, Jr., owner of the Yellow Kittens, and Frank Butler, who is said to be his bartender.

They brought in nine barrels of bottled beer, two bottles of Martini cocktails, three bottles of Old Crow Scotch, one bottle of William Penn rye, one bottle of Gordon gin, one-half half bottle of color fluid which has helped to make diluted stuff look right.

The islanders were a little surprised that the Yellow Kittens should be raided, for they have had more or less trouble with the Red Top Inn, which was run by a former saloon keeper of Providence. He is a "foreigner," and early Saturday morning he was visited by a bunch of natives who broke into his place.

Shots fired by him did not keep them away. The natives crashed through the door and forced Mr. O'Malley, the proprietor, against the wall, growling, "We're here to put you out of business as we said we would a year ago, if you didn't quit."

For more than two years there has been a feud, bitter under the surface, between the "lords and rightful heirs" of New Shoreham and "foreigners," particularly from Providence, who have furnished competition in the liquor traffic during the summer time. A few weeks ago the feud broke oue into violence.

A Providence business man had bought a house on the island. Natives believed he had liquor stored in it, and planned to embark on a rum selling career in their province. The "foreigner" was warned that his presence on Block Island was highly distasteful. He ignored the warning. Upon his arrival to take possession he found his property burned to the ground and every vestige of the charred debris removed.

After threatening to drown Mr. O'Malley, the marauders smashed the furnishings of the Red Top Inn and spattered the walls, floor and ceilings with great gobs of tar. Mr. O'Malley left Block Island as soon as possible Saturday and returned to Providence.

All day Saturday no action was taken by the Block Island authorities in the matter. Sunday quiet prevailed. Monday forenoon it was announced that warrants were expected to be sworn out during the day for the arrest of five of the men who defiled the Red Top and assaulted its proprietor. Monday night no warrants had been issued, but Town Sergeant Aubrey E. Dunn said he thought it likely he would swear out warrants for "four or five" some time Tuesday.

Meanwhile, the "foreigners" who threatened the exclusive liquor profits of native Block Islanders are no longer a menace. But other "foreigners" more formidable have taken their places.

A Rhode Island state trooper clothed with authority stands guard over the Yellow Kittens and, in effect, over all New Shoreham.

It begins to appear that Block Island is coming back into the Union.

EXPLOSION VICTIMS HAVE RELATIVES IN NORWICH

News of the death of Mrs. James McCarthy, her daughter Mildred and son John, all of Pawtucket, R. I. which occurred following the terrible accident in Narragansett Bay, Tuesday night, brought sorrow to a number of Norwich homes, her father, Thomas Crocker and a number of aunts and uncles, being residents of Norwich. Not only are Mrs. McCarthy and her two children dead, but her husband and a one year old daughter are in serious condition and it is a question whether or not they can survive their injuries.

Mrs. McCarthy was born in Norwich, 35 years ago, the daughter of Thomas Crocker and the late Nora O'Connell Crocker. She resided on West Town street and attended the local public schools, the Norwich Free Academy and the Norwich Business college. Upon her marriage she went to reside in Pawtucket, R. I.

Her daughter, Mildred, was born June 10, 1915 and her son John, was born November 14, 1919. Mr. McCarthy's father is chief of police in Central Falls, Mrs. McCarthy is survived by her husband and infant daughter, also seriously injured; her father, Thomas Crocker of Norwich, the following aunts of Norwich, Mrs. John J. Hayes, Mrs. John Callahan, Mrs. William Haggerty, two brothers, Edward, of Hartford and John of New York, and one uncle, Patrick T. O'Connell of Norwich Town.

News of the disaster was received in Norwich Tuesday night and on Wednesday morning, Mrs. Mary A. O'Connell of West Town street and Mrs. William J. Haggerty of 2 Cliff street, received the tragic news. Mrs. McCarthy was well known in Norwich and the news of her tragic death was received with profound sorrow by a wide circle of friends. The possibility of the wiping out of the entire family has cast a gloom over the family circle.

TOWNS WILL RECEIVE STATE AID FUNDS

The towns in Connecticut entitled to state aid for the payment of the salaries of teachers in their public schools have until the last day of September to file with the state department of education the returns which will be the basis of the grant in each case. It is estimated that the amount which the towns paid for teachers' salaries during the past year will amount to about $850,000 and that the towns will be reimbursed to the amount of $360,000.

The towns are divided into nine classes and each class is reimbursed in amounts ranging from 10 to 70 per cent. of the salaries paid teachers. In all there are eighty-six of the towns. The returns made by the towns are closely scrutinized and carefully audited before the allowances are authorized. Only about one-half of the eighty-six towns have made their returns and have been paid the amounts due them.

The Bulletin is in receipt of half a dozen post card views of St. Morits and the surrounding mountainous regions, from Carl M. Welte.

Fewer Inmates at State Prison

During July the population of the Connecticut state prison at Wethersfield was 536, of which 519 were males and seventeen were females. During the month four were discharged, one died, five were released on parole and three were pardoned. As against the thirteen taken from the rolls during the month, twelve were received, a decrease of but one.

The grades maintained at the institution show 487 to be in the first grade, sixteen in the second grade and two in the third grade, while the department for the insane has thirty-one inmates.

ITALIANS SPENT OVER $1,000 FOR MONDAY'S CELEBRATION

During Tuesday and Wednesday, former Patrolman Ralph DeVito, of Franklin street, who was cashier of the celebration of the Feast of the Assumption by his countrymen Monday, was busy paying the bills for that big event.

In all, the day's exercises cost the Norwich Italian Catholic citizens over $1,000, most of which was subscribed by themselves, although a few of their American friends added to the fund.

The members of the committee themselves made up the handsome sum of $335. Others gave in sums varying $30 to $1. The Italian Band was paid $300 for its services during the day and evening. The sum of $50 was given the New York cornetist whose solo work was so fine, during the evening concert on Boswell Avenue Park, and two special musicians from Providence were given $70. The fireworks cost $500. Various other expenses used up the remainder of the fund.

Weather conditions were most favorable and all the local Italians who participated with such enjoyment in the day's exercises are more than pleased with their success.

Mr. DiVito has typewritten a long list of the subscribers to the fund, which list is displayed in the window of his place, No. 210 Franklin street.

NORWICH TOWN RESIDENTS MARRIED 60 YEARS AGO

The Bulletin's Oneco correspondent writes: Mrs. A. W. Mowry, mother of Judge Adin O. Mowry, is at Quonochontaug Beach, R. I., visiting her sister, Mrs. James F. Thurston, at the Thurston cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. Thurston this week celebrated the 60th anniversary of their marriage. Mrs. Mowry was the bridesmaid at the marriage.

Mr. Thurston is a Connecticut Civil war veteran, prominent member of the G. A. R., also a member of the F. A. M. and I. O. O. F. The home of Mr. and Mrs. Thurston is 13 Town street, Norwich Town.

Discuss New Reservoir.

A meeting of the board of water commissioners, Mayor Milo R. Waters, Corporation Counsel William H. Shields, Jr., and City Engineer Shepard E. Palmer, was held Tuesday evening at the water department office, when a general discussion of the preliminary plans for the new reservoir took place. It was stated that necessary options on property would be taken up with in the next few days.

To Remodel Hobart House.

Max Fern, proprietor of the Ocean View hotel, Ocean Beach, who recently purchased the Mrs E. L. Hobart property on Ocean avenue, will convert the building into an apartment house with all up-to-date conveniences. The entire interior of the house will be redecorated and remodeled.

NORWICH TOWN

F. M. Goodyear of Holyoke, Mass., has purchased from Miss Paddock the house No. 335 Washington street. Mr. and Mrs. Goodyear and their family are occupying the home.

Rev. and Mrs. Charles Noble of Washington, D. C., are visiting friends uptown.

Julius Northup, of Wauwecus Hill has made an attractive house with dormer windows, fire place and many other improvements, from the old house on Cemetery land formerly part of the Lanman estate. Tain makes four new houses in a short space between the Green and Harland's Corner.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodbury O. Rogers, of Washington street, left last week to make their home in Holton, Maine.

Arthur R. Blackledge, of Prospect street, is building a modern house on Scotland road, near Peck's Corner, and will occupy it when finished.

The item in Monday's Bulletin commending the careful trolley conductor on the line to Ocean Beach brings to mind the courtesy of Norwich conductors to passengers taking or alighting from the trolley cars, especially conductors on the Yantic line. They take pains to see that all is safe at stops where many automobiles are constantly passing and thus avoid serious accidents.

FRANKIE BUSCH KNOCKS OUT JOHNNY MASON IN SECOND ROUND

FRANKIE BUSCH

(Special to The Bulletin.)

BOSTON, Aug. 19.—Frankie Busch of Norwich knocked out Johnny Mason of Weymouth, Mass., in the second round of a scheduled eight-round semi-final bout at the Fort Banks arena here tonight. The Norwich boy was far too fast for the Weymouth lad although the latter outweighed Busch by 15 pounds. Busch weighed 140 pounds and Mason 155 pounds.

The first round started fast, both boys mixing freely at the first tap of the gong. For the first two minutes it was a slugging match and then Busch sent over a solid right to the head that floored Mason for a count of nine, Mason taking the limit to clear his head. This slowed up the Massachusetts heavy for the remainder of the round.

The second round saw Busch tearing into Mason and raining a shower of rights and lefts to the head and body. Busch again sent Mason down to the canvas with a vicious right hook and the Weymouth fighter again took the count of nine but this time he came up groggy. Not letting him clinch, Busch stepped back and measured Mason and then let loose with a terrific right that crashed through Mason's wavering guard and felled him for the third time. This time Mason failed to rise at the count of ten and the bout was a clear victory for the Norwich boy.

The bout was well received by the large gathering of fight fans and Busch was immediately signed to box at the next show on Sept. 1 against some battler to be picked by the promoter.

FAMOUS SWIMMERS AT JEWETT CITY TONIGHT

When Ethelda Bleitrey hits the water at Ashland park this evening she will be forced to extend herself in the sixty-yard swim, probably more than she anticipates, as Helen Backownaaky, the Jewett City girl who will be pitted against the champion, has been working out at every opportunity and has shown wonderful improvement in her takeoff, which will count considerable in this short swim. Hal Chase, who has been working out with this seventeen-year-old flash, is satisfied that Miss Bleitrey will do no loafing.

Agnes Corby, sixteen-year-old Jewett City girl, who is also developing fast, will be on hand and if arrangements can be made with the champion, these two will swim in relay work, which will force the champion to her limit.

The diving exhibition by the troupe of four beauties, including Miss Miller, comedienne and accomplished diver, who was for three years in the New York Hippodrome act, is unquestionably one of the very best.

A real classy program of eastern Connecticut amateurs has also been arranged and Henry Vincent, Roland Guillette, Louise Segal and Mildred Mondor make as good a quartet of divers as could possibly be gotten together in this part of the state. Each of these performers are going better than ever and have added numerous new dives to their assortment. It is a great program, worth going miles to see.

Sachems Looking for Games.

The Sachem B. B. club is booking games for the remainder of the season, away from home. They ask what has become of all the baseball teams the last few weeks? Is it too hot for them to play ball, or are they all afraid of us. We have letters out to teams that have challenged us, but since we have defeated such teams as Yantic and the fast Moosup team, we haven't seen or heard from them. We would very much like to hear from Brooklyn, Dayville, Danielson, Mechanicsville, or any other fast team around these parts for a game for Sunday. Address Sachem B. B. Club, 34 Lafayette street, Norwich, or Telephone 1126-3, or through The Bulletin, and I will get in touch with their managers.

Rock Star Wins

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 19—(AP)—Rock Star of the Brookmeade stables captured the $4,000 grab bag handicap, for 3-year-olds, feature race at the Spa today, beating W. J. Salmon's 20 to 1, Martha Washington, which was second. Bubbling over, owned by E. R. Bradley, was third. The time for the six furlongs was 1:12 1-5.

SOCONY MANAGER SAYS TROLAND IS NO WRITER

Sporting Editor:

While enjoying your interesting column of sports on the morning of August 17th ,we chanced to read an effort in slang from the fluent pen of the verbose manager of the Taftville A. A. We freely admit that his style is quite original, and that his phraseology is somewhat unique; but at least one of his statements is so amusing that we are forced to exercise our prerogative of handing him the proverbial "raspberry," declaring "So's your old man!" or indulging in another one of those expressions of disdain, so generally prevalent in Sportdom at the present day. In other words, we cannot refrain from giving him "the merry hoot," even as the Polo Grounders bestowed it upon the great Zim, when he chased the present White Sox pilot across the platter with a tally.

His reference to the Socony team of New London stamps him as a baseball correspondent of limited knowledge and outlook. It asks us what teams we have beaten, and answers that we have defeated none. The Sub Base, he admits, is good. Is he ignorant of the fact that we whitewashed this fast combination in one of our three games with them, losing the other two by very respectable scores?

We might retaliate in kind, and cast disagreeable reflections upon his own followers, consigning them to oblivion after their defeat by the Pioneer Hosemen of Groton. Because we are quite certain that the average fan at the mouth of the peaceful Thames rates us several notches higher than the Pioneers.

We readily concede that all great sporting strategists and tacticians cannot wield the pen with that degree of accuracy and precision so pleasing in the works of Ring Lardner, H. C. Witwer, and numerous other slingers of delightful slang. John Joseph McGraw, "The Great Ty-ger," and Cornelius McGillicuddy all appear to better advantage as leaders of men than as literary figures. And it may be that the manager of the Taftville A. A. is of the same genus. Anyway, thinking but little of his talent as a writer, we are agreeable to test his ability on the field of play.

We shall be pleased to meet his outfit in a series of three games, on a monetary basis of "winner take all." One of these contests can be staged in Taftville, one in New London, and the scene of the third, should same be necessary, can be decided by the toss of a coin.

In closing, we might exclaim, as did the youthful David when pinch-hitting against the giant Goliath, "Come on, Bologna! Show your stuff!"

Yours in Sport,
E. E. CHAPMAN
Manager, Socony Baseball Club.

BROOKLYN REDUCES PIRATE LEAD TO TWO GAMES

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Brooklyn defeated Pittsburgh 8 to 7 today and in the Giants humbled the Cubs, the lead of the Pirates in the National League scramble was reduced to two games.

Dazzy Vance stopped the Corsairs and although he was banged for 11 hits, he fanned eight batters. The Robins chased Lee Meadows off the mound in the fourth inning when they scored four runs. Oldham replaced Meadows and held the Robins in check until the seventh when they scored their last three victory tallies. Sheenan finished the game. It was Vance's 18th victory of the season and his third straight. Score:

SOUTHERN LEAGUE TO INVESTIGATE SCANDAL CHARGES

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 19—(A. P.)—Official investigation of published rumors of "scandal" was concluded late today, after hours of quizzing the Nashville players behind closed doors, by John D. Martin, president of the Southern Association, and will be resumed tomorrow at Little Rock where New Orleans is playing.

"It would be ill-advised to discuss the evidence taken until I have completed the investigation and then all the facts will be fully revealed," Mr. Martin said tonight.

Mr. Martin said that Fred E. Eichrodt, former Nashville player on option contract from Cleveland, would be summoned by Kenesaw M. Landis, baseball commissioner, to appear at the commissioner's office for a medical examination Saturday.

Eichrodt was returned to Cleveland more than a week ago and now is undergoing treatment for an injured shoulder at Syracuse.

Eichrodt was referred to by Mr. Martin as an "important witness" after the evidence had been heard from the players of the Nashville club, Ralph McGill, Nashville sport writer, whose newspaper article carried the rumors of an "impending scandal" and Nashville baseball association officials.

Mr. Martin said that he would carry the complete evidence and his recommendations to Chicago Saturday and present them to Kenesaw M. Landis, commissioner of baseball for his action.

EICHRODT CLAIMS SPORTS WRITER WAS SORE AT HIM

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 19—(A. P.)—Fred E Eichrodt, outfielder with the Nashville club of the Southern Association until his recall by Cleveland last week, emphatically denied tonight that he was approached in New Orleans during a series with that club and Nashville recently to "lay down" in his playing so that he could eventually play with the Pelicans by way of a Nashville-Cleveland-New Orleans transfer. He said he felt certain that Ralph McGill, the sports writer of the Nashville Banner was referring to him as one of the players involved in the scandal charges by McGill. McGill, he said, had been "riding" him during the season and felt put out because of his return to Cleveland.

NORWICH TENNIS TEAM WINS FROM MONTVILLE IN DOUBLES

The Norwich Tennis team on Tuesday evening won a clean cut victory over the Montville net team at Montville in the double plays. The results of the play follow:

Harward and Disco beat Lyman and Birs, 6-4, 6-1.

Clapp and Roantree beat Craven and Beckwith, 2-6, 6-4, 8-6.

The last match was a tough battle and the last set went into extra games before it was decided. The next match for the locals will be with the Sub Base team.

TWO BRITISH TENNIS STARS ARE ELIMINATED IN NAT. TITLE PLAY

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Two British stars were eliminated today in the third round of the national women's singles championship but three others emerged victorious and took their places alongside five Americans in the quarter-finals of the title tournament at the West Side Tennis club.

England sustained an unexpected setback when Miss Evelyn Colyer was beaten in straight sets by Miss Penelope Anderson of Richmond, Va., 7-5, 7-5, but the invading forces offset this with two sensational triumphs.

The first of these was scored by Miss Joan Fry, 18-year-old English girl, who came from behind to conquer Miss Mary K. Browne, No. 2 American ranking star, 2-6, 6-4, 6-3, while in the other, Miss Kathleen McKane flashed the most brilliant tennis of the tournament so far in overwhelming Mrs. Marion Zinderstein Jessup, fifth American ranking player, 6-0, 6-0.

These matches paved the way for the high spots of tomorrow's quarter-finals, in which Miss McKane will play Miss Elizabeth Ryan, Californian, while Miss Fry opposes Miss Helen Wills, young American champion.

The other matches among today's survivors will find Mrs. Molla B. Mallory, seven times American champion, arrayed against Miss Anderson and Miss Eleanor Goss of New York opposed to Mrs. Lambert Chambers, veteran captain of the British International team.

Miss Ryan, whose "windup" service and chop strokes today eliminated the second British player, Miss E. H. Harvey, 6-0, 6-3, is favored to conquer Miss McKane tomorrow but she will have her hands full if the British ace continues her spectacular play.

Miss McKane gave a dazzling exhibition of court covering and accurate placing. She smothered Mrs. Jessup, taking the first set in eleven minutes with the loss of only five points and sweeping aside all of her opponent's attempts to rally in the second set to end the match in twenty-four minutes. In her three tournament victories so far Miss McKane has dropped only three games in six sets.

In her triumph over Miss Browne, Miss Fry showed great improvement over her losing matches last week in the Wightman Cup series. The tall, stalwart English girl literally ran Miss Browne into defeat after losing the first set and trailing at 0-3 in the second. She aced her American opponent repeatedly in the last two sets with whistling forehand and backhand drives.

Miss Wills advanced at the expense of the veteran former champion, Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, 6-3, 6-2. Mrs. Bundy tired after winning three of the first four games and was an easy victim for the young titleholder's hard hitting.

Doubles play also advanced to the fourth round with two teams, McKane-Colyer and Wills-Browne, standing out as the favorites in the quest for the title won last year by Miss Wills and Mrs. George W. Wightman of Boston. These rival international combinations each won two matches today, advancing along with the Jessup-Goss, Ryan-Bundy and Chambers-Harvey combinations.

TRAVERS KNOCKS OUT HENRY IN SECOND ROUND

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 19—(A. P.) — Tony Travers, champion lightweight of Connecticut, knocked out Kid Henry, of Montreal in the second round of a scheduled 10-round bout, the start event of a card staged by the Nutmeg A. C., here tonight. Henry substituted for Jimmy Hutchinson, of New York, who notified the club this afternoon that he would be unable to appear because of illness.

In the semi-finals, Joe Sousa, of California, a brother of Babe Herman, knocked out Larry Roach, of Newark, N. J., in the fourth round of a scheduled 10-round bout. Both men landed blows at the same time, Roach going to the floor. He claimed the blow was a fuol but the referee refused to accept it as such and counted Roach out. Joe Currie, of New Haven, was given the referee's decision over Patsy Nelson, of Newark, N. J., in a six-round bout.

Murray Gitlitz, of New Haven, won on a technical knockout from Billy Nolan, of Stamford in the second round of a scheduled six round bout. The referee stopped the bout.

Sammy Cooper, of New Haven, won a technical knockout from Charley Stecher of Stamford, in the second round of a scheduled six round bout. The referee stopped this bout also.

Louis "Kid" Kaplan and Babe Herman who will meet at Waterbury Thursday, August 27, for the featherweight championship, were introduced from the ring and shook hands.

TIGERS EVEN SERIES WITH NEW YORK YANKEES

DETROIT, Aug. 19—(A. P.)—Detroit evened the series with New York by taking the second game 4 to 3, behind steady pitching by Wells, and with the aid of six blunders by New York. Every Yankee infielder except Johnson made one error and Dugan and Wanninger each distinguished himself with two. In the second inning the visiting infield went to pieces, with three errors that allowed the Tigers as many runs. Score:

DR. CROUCH SETS NEW MARK IN ARCHERY

ROME, N. Y., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Dr. Paul W. Crouch, of Boston, established a new world's record for the single American round in the second day's shoot of the forty-fifth annual tournament of the National Archery Association here today. Mr. Crouch made 90 hits and 626 score. The old record, 90 hits and 618 score, made by G. Phillips Bryant, of Boston, had stood since 1918.

Miss Dorothy D. Smith, of Newton Center, Mass., defending champion, retained her title for the highest women's score at sixty yards in the double national round.

Braves Buy Hearne

BOSTON, Aug. 19.—(AP)—The Boston National League management announced tonight the purchase of James Hearne, a pitcher, for the Bridgeport club of the Eastern League. He will report to the Braves at the end of the Eastern League season. He is a left hander.

ATHLETICS DROP TO NEAR TIE WITH SENATORS

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Philadelphia's lead over Washington was narrowed to three points here today when the St. Louis Browns registered their second straight win over the league leaders. The score was 9 to 8.

A belated rally which netted the Athletics six runs in the ninth and put them two markers ahead went for naught. The Brown retaliated in thier half of the inning by scoring three runs.

Philadelphia used twenty players including five pitchers. Al. Simmons, Philadelphia centerfielder, hit his twenty first home run. of the season. Rice of the Brown also hit for the circuit. Score:

SENATORS WIN SLUGGING MATCH FROM INDIANS

CLEVELAND, Aug. 19—(A. P.)—Washington made it two straight from Cleveland today, winning 12 to 8. Ruether helped to win his own game with three hits including a home run with one on. Smith retired with a lame ankle but Karr who replaced him was knocked out of the box. With the bases full and two out in the ninth Ruether gave way to Marberry who pitched 2 balls to retire McNulty.

Third baseman Hodapp recently purchased from Indianapolis, joined the Indians today and made two hits, one a double. Score:

GIANTS WIN FOURTH STRAIGHT BEATING CUBS

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—(AP)—The Giants chalked up their fourth straight victory today, defeating Chicago 7 to 6, in the second game of the series. The Cubs tied the score after being five runs behind in the second inning but lost in the sixth inning when Lindstrom singled and scored on Snyder's double.

After ineffective pitching by Bentley, Wiser and Dean, Huntzinger held Chicago safe, yielding only three hits in five and two-thirds innings.

Ross Young and Manny Brooks hit home runs the former's coming with two on in the second inning.

WESTERLY

Wooden signboards with the lettering, "Look Out for Trains," "Drive Slow, Keep to the Right," and "Passenger Vehicles Only, No Trucks Allowed," all signed "N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. Co," prominently appear on the grass oval plot and the new westbound train driveway recently completed near the west-bound train shelter at the Westerly station of the New Haven road. The railroad company has been to considerable expense to build the drive and since its completion has been kept busy in a maintenance way in filling in ruts, smoothing the surface and otherwise keeping this convenience for New London and New York train patrons in working order. It is hoped by railroad officials that these words of warning will be sufficient.

Many from Westerly, Watch Hill, Pleasant View, Weekapaug and surrounding towns were present at the Watch Hill Chauffeurs' Annual Dance and Carnival held at the Atlantic Beach Casino Tuesday from 10 p. m. until 1 a. m. Music was furnished by Noyes' Melody Boys and the dancing was enjoyed by an exceptionally large number. Special trips were made from Watch Hill to the Casino by the Mooney busses. Favors were distributed at this one of the anticipated social events of the summer season, by many visitors to the beaches of Westerly.

At the annual outing of the republican club of Rhode Island from Westerly at Crescent Park Tuesday were Joseph S. Grills, Albert H. Langworthy, Charles F. Berry, Sheriff Fred T. Mitchell, George B. Utter, Herbert P. Clark and Carl E. Burdick.

G Benjamin Spargo of Westerly is the loser of a new Ford coupe 54-525 R. I. stolen while parked in front of the Colonial club on High street Monday night, sometime between 8.45 o'clock and 12 o'clock. The theft was thought to have been committed about midnight, when the presence of three suspicious young men was reported in that neighborhood. Sergeant of Police Michael Griffin, in Dixon square, when the stealing of the automobile was reported to him, communicated with both the R. I. and Conn., state police and the police authorities of Providence, New London and Norwich. The automobile was described as having a Pennsylvania vacuum cup spare tire on the rear and 11,741,21 was reported to be the engine number.

The Westerly local, Carpenters and Joiners of America are to have their annual clambake and outing Saturday next, at Barnes' Point, Brightman's Pond, when an interesting program of sports has been arranged besides a Rhode Island shore dinner.

The Pleasant View Fire company has discovered a new way of fighting a fire, which in the absence of such equipment as noted ladders of the large city departments was found to be effective as demonstrated Wednesday morning about 1 a. m. At that time the old boat-house of Fred Sullivan, now the property of Hobart B. Ayers, at the South side of the Weekapaug end of the Fort bridge across the Weekapaug breakway, caught fire. The P. V. F. Co., under Fire Chief Charles Lamb with Firemen George E. Phillips assisted with their equipment and by the simple process of pouring the buildings over on its side were easily enabled to extinguished the fire which had gathered headway on the roof. But slight damage was done to the contents of the place.

EIGHTEEN-FOOT FEMALE SHARK BROUGHT INTO STONINGTON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I.—Of late a number of sharks have been seen off the shore line of the South county of Rhode Island, but not until recently have they come in close to the shore.

A 18-foot man-eating female shark weighing 500 or 600 pounds was on the Little Narragansett Bay side of Stonington Point Wednesday morning on the fishing docks of Capt. Fred Ostrum of Stonington borough. The shark was landed off Watch Hill and brought to Stonington still showing signs of life the previous day by Capt. Ostrum and crew. Their fishing pound nets set there were found to have been badly torn by the sharks, the one landed at Stonington and the coast guard. The male shark was loved by the fishermen, but more of a battle was put up by the female. The reason was discovered when it was found that this fish carried a litter of young sharks and when on the Stonington dock proved quite an attraction for young and old.

The man-eating sharks were attracted off Watch Hill by the fish in the pound net to secure which these depredators of the deep ripped to shreds the stout fish net. The jaws of the fish forced open on the dock showed a double row of saw-toothed teeth and the mouth would easily admit the body of a man. The carcass will be disposed of to the lobstermen for bait for their pots, a rich dessert for the crustaceans. Watch after the shark, a school of mackerel was discovered, so the Stonington fishermen journed Wednesday morning at daybreak to the place to seine a large number of these seasonable fish in their morning's catch.

The funeral of James Dowd, was held Wednesday morning at 8.30 o'clock from his home on Spruce street. Requiem high mass was celebrated at the Church of the Immaculate Conception at 9 o'clock by Rev. Frederick White, S. M. The service was attended by relatives and friends including a delegation from Narragansett Council, K. of C., of which Mr. Dowd was a member.

Following the mass C. Leo Higgins sang Jesus, Lover of My Soul, and Martin H. Spellman sang Vale.

Burial was in St. Michael's new cemetery where the committal service was read by Fr. White. The bearers were Ernest H. Saunders, Joseph L. Lenihan, Michael Connors, Charles H. Cushman, Maurice W. Flynn and Albert LaBounty.

Mr. Dowd was born at Brooklyn, N. Y., July 16, 1862, the son of James and Ann Dowd. He came to Westerly when a boy and has been a resident of this town over 50 years. For many years he was employed by the New England Granite works and assisted in setting up many buildings of Westerly granite in other cities. In late years he has been employed at the power plant of the South County Public Service Co., where he was fatally burned several weeks ago when a steam pipe broke.

Feb. 1, 1888, he was united in marriage with Miss Kate D. Galvin of Westerly, who survives him, with two daughters, Mrs. Russell Dower of Westerly and Mrs. James MacGregor of Franklin, Pa., a son, James E. Dowd of Westerly, four brothers, Joseph, Thomas, and Charles of Westerly and Philip of Providence and a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Bransfield of Providence and by a grandson, James MacGregor, Jr., of Franklin, Pa.

Widely known as a prohibition advocate, Mary Harris Armour, LL. D., will be the principal speaker at the Rhode Island W. C. T. U. convention to be held in Westerly Oct. 19, 20 and 21 in Grace Methodist Church.

Dr. Armour, formerly president of the Georgia State W. C. T. U. resigned that office for the broader field of W. C. T. U. lecturer and organizer. She is also field secretary for Georgia. She has traveled in this and other countries and has delivered addresses in 45 states of the Union as well as in various foreign countries. For years she has been one of the principal speakers at the national W. C. T. U. conventions. She had the honor of appearing on the programs of the world's W. C. T. U. conventions in Boston, Mass., 1906; Scotland, 1910; Brooklyn, N. Y., 1913; and London, England, 1920.

A committee representing the Westerly union is cooperating with officials of the state organization in making preparations for the big gathering here in October.

Stranger things have happened than that Miss Helen Bakanowski, of Jewett City, should assay the swim of the English channel. A good part of this end of Connecticut witnessed her splendid exhibition of swimming and diving at the big Fourth of July celebration. Tonight, Miss Bakanowski, before a gallery that indicates her prominence in the aquatic world, will swim against Miss Ethelda Bleitrey, the champion artistic sprint swimmer of the world. "Hal" Chase, is authority for the statement, made Wednesday evening, that since the Fourth, Miss Bakanowski has been in continual practice, and her opponent will have to travel some!

Another Jewett City girl, as smooth in the water as a duck, Miss Agnes Corby may also have the distinction of swimming against the champ. When it comes to diving and trick aquatic stunts, they are all on the calendar. The visiting girls all have recognized standards of excellence, and were answerable to the N. Y. Hippodrome management, for several seasons.

Possibly a chapter must soon be written on "The Passing of the Bullhead." Next Saturday a few local anglers are going to Beach Pond, to test out the report that reached the borough this week, that bull-heads had struck on over there. Whether or not Mr. Bull-head has begun housekeeping in a new locality, or long inhabited resorts have only just been sounded, is a matter for some discussion among the fraternity.

For many years in Tadpole pond, and then again when the Aspinook was flowed, bull-head fishing could be classed among the profitable sports. Many a French family of the old school, never allowed the winter to begin, without having a barrel and sometimes two, of salted-down bull-heads. Hardly in place on the bills of fare of some of the high-class summer resorts, yet, no trout, from coolest mountain brook, ever could hold a candle to a fried bull-head, rolled in corn meal. There is a flavor all its own.

Trout and bass angling, are sure the real thing. And not to be questioned or gainsaid, but as one of the old-timers has remarked. No one has really been fishing until he can recall that night when he sat on the bank of some dark bend, with a smoky lantern and can of worms, and caught bull-heads, often two at a time with a black alder pole.

The other forenoon, a regular "Leaping Lena" of familiar manufacture tumbled and rattled up over the state road here. Its driver, giving every evidence of foolishness or lunacy, took the flashing traffic beacons in the state highway, both on the left hand side. Its dirty plate numbers could not be made out, yet one man was sure he saw "R. I."

Spooky Returns to the Old Orchard

Who e'er would get enough of sleep
Must proper hours always keep.
—Old Mother Nature.

Spooky the Screech Owl doesn't like to have a fuss made about him. That is one reason why he keeps out of sight in daylight. Of course, another reason is that the daytime is his time for sleeping. But Spooky got very little sleep after giving that young Woodpecker, who happened to look in at his doorway, such a fright. You see, after the other birds had departed, Drummer the Woodpecker came to that tree and began drumming on the back side of it close to where Spooky was trying to get a nap.

There was no sleeping with that rat-a-tat-tat going. It was as if Drummer was pounding right on his ears.

"How are the children, my dear?" asked Spooky

He crept up to his doorway and [illegible] He was hissing [illegible] Wilson Snipe, is angry he [illegible] Sammy Jay [illegible] Sammy flew over to [illegible] little fellow. He [illegible] once more [illegible] was all right to do. He went down [illegible] that hollow in the tree. But now [illegible] no better off than he had been [illegible] the first place because Drummer the Woodpecker was still hammering away.

After a while Drummer grew tired of drumming and flew away. It became quiet. Spooky went to sleep. But he hadn't been asleep very long before Mrs. Drummer took it into her head to drum on that tree.

So it went all the rest of the day. Perhaps you can guess how glad Spooky was when the Black Shadows came creeping through the Green Forest. Spooky didn't waste any time. He flew straight over to the Old Orchard. When he got there, he went straight to his old home. Mrs. Spooky was sitting in the doorway.

"How are the children, my dear?" asked Spooky.

"Well, I hope," replied Mrs. Spooky, "but I don't know much about them."

"What do you mean?" demanded Spooky.

Mrs. Spooky sighed. Spooky wasn't sure whether it was a sigh of thankfulness or a sigh of sorrow. "They have started out in the Great World," said she.

"You mean they have left home?" asked Spooky.

Mrs. Spooky nodded. "Yes," said she. "You know I have been showing them about for some little time. Now they have decided that they want to be by themselves and so they have left the Old Orchard."

"I suppose," said Spooky, hesitating a wee bit, "that now there'll be room for me in there."

"Plenty of room," replied Mrs. Spooky. "I certainly miss those children, but they were a great care. It really is a relief not to have to think of any meals but my own."

"I know," said Spooky, trying to look wise.

"Huh!" sniffed Mrs. Spooky, "much you know about it! It's the mother that has to do the work, and don't you forget it. I'm as thin as a shadow. Make yourself at home if you want to while I go out hunting for a dinner. It is a long time since I have had all I could eat."

And so it was that Spooky returned to the Old Orchard, while over in the apartment tree in the Green Forest little Mrs. Whitefoot and her family and little Mrs. Timmy the Flying Squirrel and her family continued to live in peace.

URGES POULTRYMEN TO PARTICIPATE IN TOUR

(Special to The Bulletin.)

STORRS, Aug. 19—Inspection of many of the best poultry farms in Massachusetts and New Hampshire, and a day of sight-seeing in the White Mountains, is offered in the 600 mile auto tour of the Connecticut Poultry Association, which will be held Aug. 31-Sept. 4. This was the statement of Roy E. Jones, extension poultryman of the Connecticut Agricultural College, under whose direction the trip was planned.

Characterizing the trip as "a vacation with a financial return," Mr. Jones urges Connecticut poultrymen to take part in this tour because of the excellent opportunity it offers to observe the practices and methods in use on some of the most successful poultry farms in Massachusetts and New Hampshire, and at the same time to become better acquainted with poultrymen of this state.

That part of the tour including Massachusetts has been arranged through the courtesy of William C. Monahan, extension specialist in poultry husbandry at the Massachusetts Agricultural College, and the New Hampshire itinerary has been arranged through the courtesy of Prof. A. W. Richardson, poultry husbandman at the University of New Hampshire. Through this arrangement, the Connecticut poultrymen are assured of an itinerary that covers the best and most interesting poultry farms in the respective states.

An estimated cost of twenty dollars, exclusive of transportation, has been set by Mr. Jones as the expense involved. This included hotel bills and meals from the Monday morning, when the cars first get under way, to the following Friday night. Arrangements have already been made with hotels along the route that will enable the Connecticut poultrymen to secure accommodations at reduced rates.

As in past years, the general plan followed will be to spend the day on the road, covering anywhere from 100 to 160 miles a day and visiting various poultry farms. At night the poultrymen stop off in a city along the route, when theatre parties or some other form of entertainment is arranged. As each poultry farm is visited, Mr. Jones outlines the most important features to be looked for and then introduces the owner or manager who tells in his own words the most interesting facts regarding the farm. A slight departure is made from the usual order this year, however, in that one whole day will be devoted to a sight-seeing trip in the White Mountains.

Starting on Monday, Aug. 31, the line of cars will leave Storrs and head for Lawrence, Mass., a distance of 111 miles for the first day's run. Along the way stops will be made at Meadowedge Farm, Sterling Junction, Mass., where 2,000 White Leghorns are kept; at Otis Fay's, Westford, where Rhode Island Reds to the number of 2,500 are trapnested; and the Reed Farm at Methuen, the largest White Leghorn farm in the east, with a capacity of 11,000 laying hens.

Five up to date poultry farms and the University of New Hampshire will be visited Tues., Sept. 1, the second day of the tour. The day's run will cover 118 miles and will end at Laconia, N. H., Raymond Holmes's commercial egg farm at Stratham, N. H., where 2,000 Rhode Island Reds are housed in remodelled barns, should be interesting to the Connecticut poultrymen, many of whom are using remodelled barns as hen houses on their own home farms. An hour and a half will be spent at the University of New Hampshire, where an inspection of the college campus and poultry plant will be in order. For those interested in broiler raising, the plant of Charles Wilkinson in Durham should prove interesting. Approximately 12,000 broilers were raised there this year, and the Connecticut chicken men will have an opportunity to learn of Mr. Wilkinson's methods. A large day-old chick plant, owned by Dr. E. J. Piper of Northwood, N. H., will next be visited. Here the tour will see 5,000 Rhode Island Reds, and Mr. Piper will explain his methods in producing his annual output of 40,000 day old chicks. A breeding plant of 2,000 Rhode Island Reds, owned by Bert Stanley of Epsom, N. H., will next be visited, after which the party will move on to the ranch of Fife and Dowst, at Shaw Falls, N. H., where 4,000 more Rhode Island Reds are housed. Following this the party will motor to Laconia, where they will spend the night.

A 162 mile trip through the White Mountains will be the attraction for the third day, Wed. Sept. 2. This will enable the Connecticut party to see Lake Winnepesaukee, Franconia Notch, The Flume, Profile Lake and "The Old Man of the Mountain", Mt. Washington, and the other mountains in this range. This part of the trip will take all day, with the line of cars scheduled to return to Laconia at 6:30 p. m.

On Thursday the tour will proceed to Nashua, N. H., a run of 106 miles, and on the way five more modern poultry farms will be visited. These include broiler plant of Nassiskas' Poultry Farm at Hooksett, where winter broilers are a specialty; Louis Hoyt's farm at Goffstown, where pullet breeding has been successfully practised for fifteen years; Marion Purrington's farm at North Weare, a plant selling 30,000 Rhode Island Red chicks annually; and Grant Jasper's ranch at Hudson, where a specialty is made of high producing White Leghorns.

The last day of the tour, Sept. 4, will see the poultrymen visiting Massachusetts farms on their way back to this state. Pinecrest Orchards, at Groton, Mass., where 2,500 standard-bred Rhode Island Reds are housed is sure to prove interesting. A White Rock hatchery at Lunenberg, Mass., owned by Lewis Harrington, will be visited next. The commercial egg farm of H. D. Parley in the same town, where Reds and White Rocks are kept, will be the last place visited on the tour.

Filipinos Bread Eaters

Filipinos, prospering under American sovereignty, are becoming bread eaters. This may be an explanation of why they are able to win the Far Eastern Olympic games. Last year they bought about $8,000,000 worth of flour from the United States. Prior to the American regime flour for the Philippines came chiefly from Australia. In 1899 only $66,000 worth was brought from the United States. Now, with hundreds of bakeries in Manila, baking machinery is also bought in America.

—a few more golden days

Whether it is golf, or fishing, or tennis, or just plain loafing around the summer place—whatever activity it may be which gives relish to your holiday, those golden weeks of vacation seem all too short.

Many men away on vacation keep in touch with their business affairs by telephone, and are able to decide necessary matters without returning to the city. Toll telephone service will give you daily contact with your office, and maybe you can extend your vacation long enough to try again for a birdie on the fifth, or for that big one which got away.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theater

It's something to see! The B. F. Keith Vaudeville program that opens at the Broadway theater today is positively the biggest mid-summer program ever seen in a local theater. Five high class acts are featured each and every one is entertainment plus.

As the extraordinary special engagement the management has secured Gaby Leslie and her Jazz Revue. Miss Leslie played at this theater sometime ago and created more favorable talk than any act that ever before played in Norwich. She was formerly premiere danseuse of the New York Winter and appears here in a series of terpsichorean interpretations. There are nine people in this offering. The jazz band is out of the ordinary, everyone an expert player.

Bob White, the whizz-bang doughboy is generally funny.

The Dancing McDonalds offer something novel.

Lew Nelson and Co., the 20th century marvels will show you something you've never seen before.

A small American town, the ground on which James Cruze has achieved some of his most remarkable screen successes, is the setting for his latest Paramount comedy production, Marry Me!, which makes its initial appearance at Broadway theater next Sunday.

It is described as a wholesome and humorous story of youth and romance charmingly enacted by a competent cast headed by Florence Vidor, Edward Everett Horton, Helen Jerome Eddy and John Roche.

Tox Mix at the Bread

The Deadwood Coach, which comes to the Breed theater today, Friday, and Saturday, is the greatest Western picture in which Tox Mix has ever been starred, according to officials of Fox Film Corporation who have viewed this production.

Adapted from Clarence Mulford's novel, The Orphan, there is more action, humor, pathos and romance in this Mix production than the Fox Western star has had the chance of portraying before. Lynn Reynolds directed the picture and also wrote the scenario. One of the best supporting casts Mix has ever had includes the following well-known screen players, Doris May, George Bancroft, DeWitt Jennings, Buster Gardner, Lucien Littlefield, Norma Wills, Nora Cecil, Sid Jordan, Frank Coffyn, Jane Keckley and Ernest Butterworth.

The story of the Deadwood Coach concerns The Orphan, a reckless outlaw who is feared throughout the west, but who, in reality, is the enemy of only one man. As a boy, the outlaw witnessed the murder of his father by an outlaw named Tex Wilson, and The Orphan dedicated his life to vengeance. The way he fulfills this vengeance and wins the respect of the community as well as the hand of a girl who makes as thrilling a two-fisted western drama as has ever been presented on the screen.

Most of the scenes for The Deadwood Coach were taken in Zion Canyon, Utah, one of the most picturesque spots in America. The result is that the thrilling incidents in the picture-fights chases, stage coach holdups, all have a beautiful natural background of massive canyons, glaciers and cliffs.

Free Outdoor Exhibition

Tonight at 6:45 D. S. T., corner of Main street and Broadway, Mr. Lew Nelson who with his company is appearing at the Broadway theater the last half of this week, starting today will show you how easy it is to pull an auto full of people for two blocks, by just using his teeth. Mr Nelson is known as the iron jaw man and has more strength in his jaws than most men have in their entire anatomy. See how easily he can pull such a heavy load by his teeth. Be there early and perhaps you'll be able to get an "automobile tooth power" ride. Don't forget the time and place and after the exhibition the logical place to spend your evening will be at the Broadway theater.

Plaut-Cadden Co. Settles Heating Problem With "Oil-O-Matic"

Following the example of many thousands of home owners and business establishments throughout the country, The Plaut-Cadden Co. is installing an Oil-O-Matic Oil Burner for heating their three buildings on Water and Shetucket streets. The company is the local representative for this new type of perfected automatic oil burner and is now making installations in this city and elsewhere. The Plaut-Cadden Co.'s decision to engage in this work is the result of the company's policy of continually broadening their service to home owners and the Oil-O-Matic Oil Burner was selected because of its demonstrated superiority as the most perfect and most efficient oil heating system manufactured. The wonderful success of this burner presages a busy season for the Plaut-Cadden Co. in this new department of their big business.

FORMER NEW LONDON MAN ACTS IN MACKINAC INVESTIGATION

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 19—George Uhler, formerly a yacht master sailing from New London, and for a score of years at the head of the federal steamboat inspection service, is to conduct the investigation into the terrible accident that befell the steamer Mackinac, off Coddington cove, Newport, yesterday afternoon. Mr. Uhler is competent to inquire into every detail of the disaster and to place the responsibility where it belongs. There is none of the men alive now who were associated with Capt. Uhler when he entered the service. The late Charles M. Daboll and William E. Whitney of this city were the last of the old school and they have gone to their reward. The steamer was under the New London district supervision, as to inspection.

The body of Harry C. Warner, son of the late Earl and Martie Champlin Warner, reached here from Norristown, Pa., where he died Saturday, at 6:16 this evening. Funeral services were held in the Memorial chapel in Cedar Grove cemetery which was erected through the generosity of the late Anna Beckwith, daughter of E. F. Beckwith. Rev. P. M. Kerridge, rector of St. James' Episcopal church read the services. Mr. Warner's parents are buried in the cemetery and beside them his body was laid to rest. Mr. Warner was a young man left New London for Norristown, where he established a successful dry goods business.

It is understood that little progress has been made in connecting Daniel Beckwith, held in the county jail here for burglary, with the crimes for the commission of which he is in custody. The police are positive that he is the person who committed the crimes, or most of them, but they have not been able to get proof to fortify their position. It is understood a witness who declared at the time Beckwith was arrested that he is the man who attempted to sell him boxes of cigarettes now that Beckwith was apprehended him. Beckwith will not admit anything in connection with the robberies. He is known to have gone to Norwich and [illegible] almost immediately [illegible] He was also seen to leave [illegible] the west side of the city and [illegible] search has been made in a fruitless effort to find plunder concealed. So the work of the police in running down evidence against Beckwith has not been of the sort that assured his conviction or notable cause being found for binding him over to [illegible] September term of the superior [illegible] that State's Attorney Arthur M. [illegible] may take up the evidence for [illegible]

It is understood that Lucius E. [illegible] property in Ensdell [illegible] the extension [illegible] the latter roadway is prolonged [illegible] east of the Whitton residence which latter street will extend [illegible] Connecticut Co. [illegible] on the south side [illegible] Whitton street, which [illegible] on the so-called J. N. [illegible] The extension of Ensdell Place [illegible] Place was established by the late [illegible] Whitton and Hempstead [illegible] Lions house. Duke Wheeler saw the advantage of [illegible]

It is claimed that the merchants of [illegible] Saturday evenings will adhere to [illegible] the future, notwithstanding [illegible] department stores here keep [illegible] open until the other stores close. [illegible] The competition is such as [illegible]

Miss Katherine Goddard has returned to her home, 22½ Williams street, having spent a fortnight in Boston.

Gerard Boisbert, of Montville; Miss Phyllis Brooks, 23 Stone street; Leroy Peckham, Westerly; Mrs. Annie Coggshall, of Mystic; Master John Jensen, 14 Crocker street; Salvatore Longo, 40 Shaw street; Miss Harriet Hullivan, 158 Ocean avenue; Miss Lucy Simpson, 93 Hempstead street; Mrs. Dr. Cleaves Kinney and infant daughter, 444 Montauk avenue; Edward Dias, 22 Lewis street; Mrs. Ralph Kelsner and infant son; New York; Thomas Dougherty, 195 Main street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were dismissed today.

Sean O'Connell has sold to Victor H. and Nancy Cashman a house and lot on Shaw street.

Jeremiah Twomey and Michael L. O'Connell have sold a tract of land on Highland avenue to Dennis Heffernan.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today caused the operator's license of John Johnson, 119 Ledyard street, to be suspended. The commissioner also revoked the operator's license of O. P. Robinson, 284 Ocean avenue, to be returned to the owner. The license was suspended two weeks ago for Robinson's violation of the automobile law.

Miss Sarah Blodgett, of 11 Chappell street, lodged complaint with the police today, alleging that she has been caused annoyance of late because of radio reading in the neighborhood having landed stones against the side of her home, also because the boys applied vile names to her.

The condition of Hugh McPartland, 70, of Perry street, veteran master plumber, who underwent a major operation at Lawrence hospital a fortnight ago, has so far improved that Mr. McPartland is able to exercise briefly daily. It is planned to permit him to return to his home in two weeks if the improvement continues as rapidly as during the past week.

The city's dumping grounds on Cedar Grove avenue, which broke into a blaze last evening resulting in a still alarm being sent to fire headquarters, caused another still alarm to be sent in again this morning, when flames broke out anew. The Niagara Engine company was dispatched to the location of the blaze and to prevent another outbreak of the flames, a deluge of water was emptied upon the immense accumulation of refuse.

Work was started this morning on the construction of a new highway bridge on Glenwood avenue. The bridge will be completed in a week or ten days, it is planned. The structure became unsafe a fortnight ago as a result of the great amount of automobile traffic over it and recently the city made an appropriation whereby it was possible to have a new and stronger bridge constructed.

For a week the corner of State and Union streets has been in congested condition because of two "doctors" having been given permission to deliver lectures from an automobile. One "doctor" finished four nights of lectures; last night and tonight another started to relate cures for certain ills also to tell of the alleged poisons of certain medicines that are prescribed by physicians. The licenses for the "doctors" to lecture were refused at the police station, but permission was granted them by City Manager William A. Holt.

Joseph Fluett, about 55, of 107 Main street, is missing from his home, having mysteriously disappeared early last evening and tonight the police were requested to institute a search for him. Fluett is a former employe of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad. He has an artificial leg.

Fluett went for an automobile ride last evening and was accompanied by two companions. He returned to the garage where he stores his car early in the night and it was supposed that he intended to park his car for the night. Instead he left a short time later and so far as is known, he was unaccompanied. No trace of the missing man had been found up to 10 o'clock tonight, but as no accidents have been reported in this vicinity it is believed that he will put in an appearance tomorrow. It is not believed that an accident has befallen him for in that case his family would be notified.

A section of the board walk at Ocean Beach has become a danger spot because of the planking having become loose and broken. The location of the danger was discovered late this afternoon by Patrolman Clarence Macon and a report of the officer was filed with the highway department.

WOULD OUST CAPT. PINNEY FOR DETECTIVE HICKEY

(Special to the Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 19.—There is a report here that the powers in the city council are determined that Charles A. FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET WAS REACTIONARY

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Stock prices turned reactionary today under the weight of a large volume of selling for both accounts. Net losses of 1 to 4 points were rather numerous among the motor, equipment, rail and most-standing issues. Several individual strong spots developed, however, in the oil and non-ferrous metal shares.

In the absence of any adverse trade news bearing on the extension of recent crude oil and gasoline price cuts, Wall Street was generally inclined to regard the reaction as a correction of a weakened technical position. The Belgian debt agreement and the establishment of a new 1926 high freight traffic record in the week ended August 8 had a bullish effect on speculative sentiment, which was reflected in the large overnight accumulation of buying orders.

Mack Trucks was one of the hardest hit in the late wave of selling, breaking seven points to 231 after having duplicated its record high of 238. The sharp drop in this issue stimulated the selling of other motors, White, Pierce Arrow common and preferred, Jordan, Chrysler, Willys-Overland and preferred, Fisher Body and Hayes Wheel declining 3 to nearly four points.

Marked heaviness also was shown by American Linseed common, Baldwin, Davison Chemical, International Nickel preferred and Sears Roebuck, all off about 2 points.

Strength of the oils was rather surprising in view of the sharp reduction of 65 cents a barrel in Corning crude prices, but it was explained, in part by the publication of a private report showing a substantial decrease in crude production last week and speculative buying inspired by the belief that several issues had been oversold. Pan-American A and B, selling "ex-dist." each closed more than two points higher at 62 1-2 and 64, respectively, while Marland, Pacific, Texas Company, Atlantic Refining and Standard Oil gained a point or more. Mid-Continent Lead soared ten points to 1-4 and American Smelting and National Nickel each moved up more than 2 points to new 1925 high ground at 140 3-4 and 85, respectively. Many others were unable to maintain all of their gains.

Kansas Electric reached a new peak above 64. Other strong spots in the general group included California Packing, Fleischmann, American Express, American Radiator, Kelly Springfield and 8 per cent. preferred and Union Bag & Paper, all of these points or more.

Rails were mixed altogether New York, New Haven & Hartford, Louisville & Nashville, Southwestern, "Katy" Missouri Pacific, Kansas City Southern preferred and Pere Marquette eclipsed previous high prices for the year. Chesapeake & Ohio, New York, Ontario & Western, Delaware & Hudson, Canadian Pacific, and Reading showed independent strength. Great Northern preferred, Northern Pacific, Central, Missouri Pacific common and Wheeling & Lake Erie common were distinctly heavy.

Call money held steady at 4 per cent. Time money rates were unchanged but a slight stiffening was noted in the tone of prime commercial paper. Bankers were quoted at 4 to 4 1-4 instead of at 4 per cent basis.

Sterling exchange moved within very narrow and irregular limits. Francs rallied nearly 8 points around 4.55c on the announcement of a debt agreement, but lost half of the gain before the close. Demand sterling was slightly easier, around 4.85 5-8 while French francs pulled down 2 points higher at 4.69 cents.

THE WEATHER

Conditions

The disturbance that was central north of Lake Superior Tuesday night was moved eastward to Quebec, there have been local thundershowers within the last 24 hours at scattered points in the North Atlantic states.

The weather has continued fair generally in the Washington forecast section.

The disturbance over Kansas will probably move east and cause showers on Friday, in the lower lake region and the middle Atlantic states.

There will be a change to cooler weather, Thursday night and Friday in the middle and north Atlantic states.

Winds

North of Sandy Hook and Sandy Hook to Hatteras: Moderate to fresh southwest shifting to northwest and partly overcast weather Thursday.

Forecast

For southern New England: Partly cloudy and cooler in north portion Thursday; Friday increasing cloudiness and cooler.

TAFTVILLE

John Gay, of Plainfield, a former Taftville resident, was a caller on friends in the village Tuesday.

John D. Donovan, of Merchants avenue, is enjoying his annual vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Noe Gauthier and two daughters, of Westbrook, Maine, have been calling on friends in town this week. Mr. Gauthier was a resident of the village a number of years ago, and stated that he was employed at the Ponemah mills at the time that Charles L. Brainerd was overseer of the carding department.

George Munroe and Valmore Couture are trimming the trees on South Second avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. John William Mather and Miss Mabel Mather of North A street, and William Shea, of Occum Road, motored to Newport, R. I., via the Jamestown ferry, recently in Mr. Shea's car, to visit Mrs. Mather's brother, who is a patient at the naval hospital in Newport.

The badges for Pioneer Day are being distributed in the village. This year they are purple in color with gold lettering.

Miss Axel L. Aberg, Miss Helen C. Aberg and Master Mahlon E. Wood, of North Third avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond A. Pingree and daughter, of Saylesville, R. I., who are spending this week in town, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Aberg, were at Ocean Beach Wednesday.

Mrs. Usmer Jewett and children, of Norwich, have been spending some time this week with Mrs. Jewett's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Adams, of North Third avenue.

Miss Laurienne Deshais, of South B street, has resigned her position with the spinning department of the Ponemah company.

Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Paquette have taken a house on South C street.

Mr. and Mrs. Hormidas Disco and family, of North B street, who are spending the month touring the Province of Quebec, Canada, write friends from Quebec of the excellent condition of the roads in the Dominion, and the quaint places which they have visited.

Charles Barstow, of Canterbury, was a business caller in the village Wednesday.

Some of the younger generation who enjoy dips each day in the Lisbon pond, usually return with bunches of pond lilies which are quite plentiful this year in some of the ponds about the town.

That the state highway department plans to do some work on the stretch of road over Merchants avenue which was constructed several years ago, was evidenced Wednesday, when the trucks of the department were noted carting sand to be used in repairing the road.

Miss Rose Murphy and Francis Murphy, of South A street, are spending a few days in New York.

John H. Andrew, who has been spending several weeks in town, has gone to Boston, Mass., for a short stay.

Miss Alice Rondeau, of Lisbon, is enjoying her vacation.

The annual clambake and outing of the Taftville Business Men's association is to be held this (Thursday) afternoon at the Poquetanuck Drawbridge.

Mrs. Martin Wohlleben, of Norwich (Franse) is a patient at the William W. Backus hospital.

A telephone message received by the Misses Thoma, of Lisbon, Wednesday stated that their relatives, Mrs. Emile Troeger and Miss Mildred Trueger, of Thurber avenue, Attleboro, Mass., were among those severely injured by the boiler explosion on the steamer Naushon which was bound from Newport to Pawtucket, R. I., on Tuesday. The injured women are also related to the Heberding family, of Norwich avenue.

The first political party convention in the United States met in 1830.

W. L. DAVIES ELECTED PRESIDENT OF 18TH REGIMENT, CONN. VOLS.

William L. Davies, of New London, was elected president of the 18th Regiment, Connecticut Volunteers, at the annual reunion held Wednesday at Buckingham Memorial. Owing to the death of the president, James McKee, the meeting was called to order by the secretary and treasurer, Arthur L. Peale, at 11:30 o'clock. Mr. Peale called for nominations for a presiding officer. First Vice-President Daniel D. Danielson being absent, Second Vice-President A. A. Buchannan was nominated and took the chair. Prayer was offered by Regimental Chaplain A. C. Greene. The secretary's minutes of the previous meeting together with his annual report were read and approved.

The mortuary list was given as follows:

Charles F. Keables, Co. C., Feb. 1, 1924.

Charles H. Lynch, Co. C., July 29, 1924.

Myron J. Chaffee, Co. B., Dec. 17, 1923.

William J. Robertson, Co. I., April 4, 1924.

Multord Brown, Co. E., July, 1924.

L. W. Robertson, June 16, 1924.

Hugh McLaughlin, Sept. 5, 1924, Co. B.

James McKee, Dec. 3, 1924, Co. E.

Charles H. Ellsworth, Co. C., March 12, 1925.

Jared L. Kingsley, Co. A., March 25, 1925.

Henry T. Clark, Co. C., June 6, 1925

Franklin H. Converse, Co. D., July 16, 1925.

The report of Treasurer Peale showed that the regimental balance for this year amounted to $354.39. As this balance with its interest will care for the expense of the future reunions no collections were taken this year.

The officers for the coming year were elected as follows:

President—William L. Davies, of New London.

Vice-Presidents—Daniel D. Danielson, A. A. Buchannan, James Haggerty, Henry Babson, George W. Loomis, the last named being the newly elected vice-president.

Secretary and Treasurer—Arthur L. Peale.

Comrade Davies thanked the organization for the honor conferred upon him and stated that he would endeavor to carry on the work of the organization as best he could. He appreciated being its president and said that coming as a surprise to him it was doubly appreciated.

Secretary Peale expressed the opinion that it would be a splendid thing to keep up the 18th Regiment. He proposed that the way to do this would be to elect a list of honorary members. The plan was approved and the following honorary members, submitted by Mr. Peale, were elected:

William G. Ely, Schenectady; Miss Anna L. Ely, Henry Peale, Richard P. Peale, Norwich; Walter W. Woodward, Brockton; Mrs. D. Louisa Atterbury, Norwich; George A. Keppler, Herbert B. Cary, Charles D. Foster, Mrs. John M. MacDougall, Mrs. Mabel H. Vaughn, Norwich; Grace H. Kirkpatrick, Storrs; Charles W. Davies, New London; Willard Kelgwin, Mystic; Mrs. Herbert Willey, Norwich; Clarence E. Carpenter, Norwich; Miss Evelyn Converse, Southbridge; sons of George W. Loomis, Dallas, Texas; William H. Caruthers, Detroit, Mich.; Miss Mazie V. Caruthers, Norwich; Miss Edna Lerou, Norwich; Harold E. Heath, Pawtucket; Miss Hattie Comau, Webster; Alfred O. Giroux, Joseph E. Giroux, Southbridge; Mrs Ida Gelchett, Mrs. Louise Robidoux, Mrs. Lucy Martin, Mrs. Emily Laroche, Southbridge; George H. Geloux, Mrs. Maud Moody, Norwich; Albert F. Wood, Catherine Wood; sons and daughters of Captain Haggerty, Willimantic; Mrs. Harvey Lathrop, Miss Dorothy Lathrop, Hampden; sons and daughters of A. C. Greene, Danielson.

The secretary, on motion of Captain Woodward, was authorized to secure as near as possible a complete list of all the sons and daughters of regimental members to be presented at the next meeting for honorary members.

A rising vote of thanks was given Secretary Peale for the splendid work he has done in behalf of the regiment. Votes of thanks were also given Sedgwick Post No. 1, G. A. R., Sons of Veterans, the 26th Regiment, the Woman's Relief corps, and to all who in any way contributed to the pleasure of the day.

Secretary Peale read the following letters from veterans unable to be present at the reunion:

George G. Loomis, Dallas, Texas—It will be impossible for me to meet with the boys on the 19th, much as I would like to. However, I will be with you in spirit on that day.

I very much regretted hearing of the death of James McKee whom I had known so intimately during the war, also my good friend Henry Hovey. I had the pleasure of a nice visit from him at my home here several years ago. Hope Captain Woodward will be there as he usually is. I shall be pleased to have you send me a report of the reunion and with kindest regards and best wishes for a very pleasant reunion for all the old boys of the 18th Regiment, I remain.

James H. Sawyer, Niles, Mich.—I had kind of planned to go east this year, and be present at the reunion, but I am disappointed. It is on account of an injury received on the 20th day of December, 1863, my 20th birthday. It was that day when a part of the regiment marched from Martinsburg to Charlestown, Va., and forded the icy water of the Opiqnam river. Your father was in command of the battalion that day.

That act brought on a sort of an obscure trouble in my left hip that began a short time after and has stuck to me ever since, with more or less severity. Of late, it has broken out very severe, so I am afraid to go very far away from home for fear of being caught disabled, for that is what it is coming to, sooner or later.

Otherwise from that I am in good health. I would so very much like to meet the remnant of that long blue line that swung out of Camp Aiken that 22nd day of August, 1862, but more than likely I never will. The most of that line is under the sod now, as shown by the roster of Company B, arranged as is shown in the part enclosed. Those standing are the survivors, as reported at last report. I made that roster last winter and to show the whole line of Company B, it extends eleven feet.

I hope there will be a good attendance of those who are left.

J. D. Brown, Missouri Valley, Iowa—Cannot attend the annual reunion of the Eighteenth Regiment Association, Wednesday, Aug. 19.

It would be a great pleasure if I could meet with my old comrades on the 19th, but I cannot. I shall think of you and send my regards and best wishes to you all and may you have a pleasant reunion. I wanted to attend the National at Grand Rapids, but I cannot. Just over bad case of flu and not fit to go. Also wife in bad shape from flu.

A. M. Lathrop, Inland, Neb. written for him by his granddaughter—I answer "Here" to this annual roll call. I deeply regret that I can not be present at this reunion. It is more than 54 years since I have attended a reunion and since that time our ranks have thinned out until there are only a few survivors. We have all come now to be past 80 years of age. Some kind friends sent me a printed account of the death of Mr. James McKee. This deeply affected me because no member of the company stood closer to me than Comrade McKee. I wrote to his family.

I reached my 84th birthday on July 11 with continued good health. But regret to say that I am suffering from two disabilities instead of one last year which was blindness. On March 21 of the present year I received injuries in an accident which sent me to a hospital. My left leg was so severely injured than gungrene set in which necessitated the amputating of my leg in order to save my life. This amputation occurred 3 months ago or on May 5. I was detained in the hospital for 65 days before I was discharged. I am now living on my farm in the family of my son recuperating and getting along nicely. I get around in my wheel chair. When the time arrives, I shall secure an artificial limb. Have been attending the regular post meetings since I have received my injuries, but I have to be carried up the stairs. I am still serving as chaplain, in the post room I occupy a wheel chair. Our post has had nearly 300 members, but now only 37 remaining. All these are comrades of 80 or more years except one. This one comrade is 79 and was a member of the 2nd Maryland Infantry. Our last Department Encampment, held in May, about 800 comrades assembled. As Nebraska was largely settled by soldiers of war, this was a small number. Our department will be represented at the annual convention. He is a delegate. A special train from Lincoln will take the delegates.

All my reading and writing is now done by some member of the family. What eye sight I have is from my left eye. There has not been much change since last year. I shall think of you comrades when the day arrives. I still take the National Tribune and try to keep informed on G. A. R. matters. Hoping to get a printed account of the reunion, I remain your comrade in F. C. and L.

W. B. Aldrich, North Attleboro, Mass.—I can't tell you how pleased I would be to meet you all on the 19th. I am in good health but I am fixed so I can't come this time. It's a long ride and I am 82 years old. Give my best regards to the dear boys, keeping a good share for yourself. Hope you will have a good time. I shall think of you all day.

Samuel Armington, Killingly, Ct.—I regret very much to tell you I am not able to attend for my health is very poor.

Charles E. Bates, Eldridge, N. Y.—I regret that distance and health prevent my joining with you at our regimental reunion. Kindly present to my old comrades my heartfelt love, and hoping that we may all enjoy life in the best possible way during our remaining years.

A letter was also received from Mabel H. Vaughn and Grace E. Kirkpatrick, who wrote as follows:

We wish to thank you for your kind invitation to attend the reunion of the 18th Connecticut Regiment association, but we will be unable to attend. Enclosed please find check for five dollars for the regimental fund in memory of Henry Hovey.

Comrade James Haggerty of Willimantic was called on for remarks. He spoke in his jovial and interesting vein. Following his remarks the business meeting adjourned for dinner which was served at 10 o'clock. The dining table was attractively decorated and the menu, served by the members of Sedgwick Woman's Relief Corps, No. 16, follows:

Chicken Soup
Roast Lamb Potatoes
Green Peas Corn on Cob
Tomatoes
Apple Pie Cheese
Watermelon
Tea Coffee Cigars

A guest at dinner was Mayor Milo R. Waters who extended a hearty welcome to the veterans. Captain Woodward, Mrs. D. Louisa Atterbury, representing the Daughters of Veterans, Commander Orrin M. Price of Sedgwick Post, and George A. Keppler, representing the Sons of Veterans, all spoke.

Those present at the reunion were as follows:

Co. A. J. Service, A. C. Greene; D. A. A. Buchannan, Joseph W. Heath, John L. Momau; E. George Parkinson, Abel Burdick; F, Captain John E. Woodward, William L. Davies; I, J. K. P. NAMED HEAD OF FORT GRISWOLD TRACT COMMISSION

State Treasurer Ernest E. Rogers was elected president of the Fort Griswold Tract Commission at its annual meeting held Tuesday at the residence of Mr. Rogers in Pequot avenue. Other officers elected were:

Vice President—H. Wales Lines, Meriden.

Secretary—Charles E. White, Groton.

Members of Commission—George S. Palmer, New London; Lucius Robinson, Hartford; Mrs. Frederick P. Latimer, Groton, and Mrs. Helen H. Jenkins, Norfolk.

Following the meeting the commissioners went to Fort Griswold to look over the tract and found it to be in perfect condition. The tract was turned over to Connecticut by the United States some years ago and a commission of seven people was created to look after it.

The state legislature appropriates $500 annually for its maintenance and care. Last year an additional $2,000 was appropriated for necessary repairs and improvements.

ATTACHES NO BLAME TO AUTOMOBILE DRIVER

In a finding by Coroner J. J. Desmond in the death of John Misiaszek, age 7 years, late of the town of Griswold, Joseph Woytowics of 26 Hill street, Jewett City, has been completely exonerated.

The boy was fatally injured on Ashland street, Jewett City, on July 14th, when he darted out from behind a parked machine directly in the path of the Buick car driven by Woytowicz, who did everything possible to avoid the accident. The testimony favorable to Woytowicz was given by several witnesses to the fatal accident.

NEITHER DORSEY NOR PAYNE WILL ACCEPT

Col Henry S. Dorsey, chairman of the general committee of arrangements for the seventh annual state convention, to be held in New London Aug. 27, 28 and 29, announced Wednesday that under no consideration would he accept the nomination for election as state commander. Colonel Dorsey, who is charity commissioner in New London and who for many years has given unsparingly of his time to National Guard service and since the institution of the American Legion, has worked hard in its behalf, said that he could not spare the time which would be required of a state commander if he did the right thing by the office. The colonel has many friends throughout the state and quite a lot of booming for his candidacy has been going on.

With Colonel Dorsey's decision not to run and the refusal to consider the nomination by Maj. Gen. Morris S. Payne of New London there seem to be no likely candidates from New London county at present.

At present there are four prospective candidates being mentioned for the office. They are Harry Jackson of New Britain, Leroy Downes of South Norwalk, Attorney Justus Fennell of Stamford and Kenneth Cramer of Hartford.

HUNTINGTON PORTRAIT GIVEN AS GRANDFATHER WISHED

Mrs. Mary Hunntington Childs of Huntington Lane, Norwich Town, who passed the last years of her life in Florence, Italy, wrote from Italy regarding the portrait of Gen. Jabez Huntington. It was at that time in her possession and later was given by his cousin to the late Frederick J. Huntington. Mrs. Childs stated that she intended offering to the Trumbull gallery in Hartford the portrait of her great-grandfather. She said "It is an historical picture of value and the first painted by John Trumbull." There is a good copy of this portrait in Miss Perkins' book, "Old Houses of Norwich." In the late F. J. Huntington's will Mrs. Childs' wish was carried out.

OUTLINED THE PROGRAM FOR ROTARY CONCLAVE

The weekly luncheon of the Norwich Rotary club was featured by an entertaining and instructive talk on "Lightning" prepared and delivered by James J. Madden. Mr. Madden's paper dealt with the effects of lightning, the proportionate fatalities from the lightning, and a brief resume of the scientific experiments which are being conducted at the Pittsfield Laboratories of the General Electric Co. According to one scientist that Mr. Madden quoted the safest place for a person to be during an electrical storm is in an open field lying flat on the ground.

Vice President E. A. Harris presided at the meeting in the absence of President Weymouth. Joseph C. Worth was the song leader while Johnny Egan was at the piano. Very little business was transacted at the meeting other than a report by Chairman H. E. Campbell regarding the fall conclave to be held at Eastern Point in September. Dr. Campbell briefly outlined the tentative program for the three days.

There was an unusual number of guests present representing Holyoke, Mass., Pittsfield, Mass., New London, Boston and Cleveland. William F. Kyle, vice president of The Cleveland Trust Co. was the guest of James L. Case. Stanley Osborne, a member of the State Public Health commission, a member of the Hartford Rotary club was the guest of Dr. R. R. Agnew.

STATE HAS SURPLUS OF MILLION AND A HALF

A surplus of $1,699,007.58 in revenue receipts above expenditures by the state during the fiscal year ended June 30, is shown in a comparative statement on finances submitted to the governor Tuesday by Treasurer Ernest E. Rogers. The surplus is the largest for any year since the deficits of 1919, 1920 and 1921 were overcome. The total expenditures for last year are listed as $27,140,367.28, while revenues amounted to $28,839,374.87.

The net surplus for the fiscal year however, was $729,261.13, representing the difference between the state's funded debt amounting to $16,291,100, and the total of the sinking fund and the civil list funds on hand, which was $17,020,361.13. The amount of the sinking fund at the end of the period was $12,156,448.14, a gain of $486,921.97 over the previous year; and cash on hand amounted to $4,863,921.99. The funded debt remained at the same total since it was increased in 1921 from $14,291,100.

The fiscal period ended June 30 was the only year in the past ten in which a net surplus was shown, except in 1918, when the state was able to show a net surplus of $593,572, according to the statement.

State expenditures have almost quadrupled since 1916, or during the ten years which the comparative statement covers.

MAY SEND DELEGATE TO COAL CONFERENCE

Owing to the absence of Governor Trumbull, an official representative of this state may be appointed to attend the conference on the coal situation called by Governor Fuller of Massachusetts. Executive Secretary Edward L. Kelly telegraphed to Governor Fuller explaining that Governor Trumbull is on a vacation in Maine, but that if a representative was desired one would be appointed.

THREE C'S FOR THE CARE OF FOOD

Three C's for the Care of Food is the title of an article in this week's issue of the Health Bulletin issued by the state department of health. The article is as follows:

Unless certain precautions are taken, food may become a source of danger to health. This is particularly true in the summer months when conditions are more favorable to the growth of bacteria which may be found in or on food. People have an aversion to visible dirt, and presence of it on or near food is sufficient reason for distaste for that food. They often forget that invisible dirt may be even more dangerous. Would that these microscopic bacterial or mold forms which, associated with invisible dirt, collect on the surface of food or gain entrance within, might be plainly visible! Then such food might be avoided, or precautions taken to protect it from contamination.

To make food "safe for consumption" the three "C" rules should be adopted—clean, cold and covered. These are the essence of protective measures.

Let us take for granted that the food is clean to start with—contamination at the source is another story.

Clean food is food which contains no more than the usual number of bacteria normally present in food, is free from surface dust, and is in a fresh enough state to have developed no sign of decay. Such foods as are soft or sticky like dates, raisins, figs, prunes, berries, candy, frosted cakes etc. or those whose surface has no natural protective covering, such as meats, fish, butter, cheese, bread, pastries; or such liquids as milk, cream, molasses, syrups; or cooked foods; all these are easily contaminated by handling. In the shop where foods are on display, or handled frequently, there is great danger of contamination from hands which are not clean, from redistribution of germs from one food to another, or from contact with soiled clothes of the handlers.

So, trade in a shop where food is handled in a clean manner.

Since a certain amount of dirt may be present on the surface of food from even the best shops, it is essential to wash the surface of such foods as meats, fish, dried fruits, berries and fruits with a skin covering which may be eaten—such as apples, peaches, pears, plums, grapes, as well as those whose outside covering is discarded though handled in opening—such as bananas, oranges, grape fruit, melons, etc.

All vegetables should be thoroughly washed in several changes of water in order to rid them of particles of dirt which represent not only dust but garden soil. Extra precautions should be taken with those vegetables which are used without cooking such as lettuce, cabbage, celery, tomatoes, cucumbers, radishes, for these may harbor disease germs of intestinal origin from the fertilizer used in their production.

The looks of a food is, unfortunately, no criterion of its safety. The highly polished apples may have been subjected to methods far from sanitary, in which the chief role was played by hands, known to be one of the greatest offending agents in the spreading of germs.

No fruit should be eaten without being washed.

YANTIC GRAIN TRUCK WRECKED AT MYSTIC

Carl Gray, manager of the Mystic branch of the Yantic Grain company, sustained a bruised hip and other slight injuries Tuesday evening when a one-ton Graham Brothers truck which he was operating over-turned on the Long Hill road off Broad street extension at Mystic. It is reported that Gray was driving the machine, unloaded, toward Thames street when the driver saw a woman walking in the road ahead of him. In an attempt to avoid hitting the woman the driver turned the wheel sharply to the right, causing the front end of the car to drop into a shallow ditch at the side of the road. Pulling the wheel sharply to the left to avoid driving further into the ditch caused the steering knuckle to snap.

The driver lost control of the machine, which plunged to the left side of the road and crashed head on into a large boulder. The impact caused the machine to swing directly across the road, where it overturned.

Gray was in the cab of the machine but crawled out of the wreck unassisted. He made no complaint of injuries at the time. The forward end of the machine was badly battered and the fenders on the left side of the truck were smashed. The windshield was also shattered but the driver escaped being cut by fragments of glass. Gray communicated with the main store in Yantic and a number of men appeared on the scene to remove the overturned truck.

LEADER OF COAL MINERS RESENTS INTERVENTION

John L. Lewis, International President of the United Mine Workers, Advises the Business Interests of the Anthracite Region "to Keep Their Hands Off the Situation"—Civic Leaders and Business Men of the Hard Coal Region Are Endeavoring to Prevent a Suspension of Work on August 31—Statement Made by Representative of the Mine Owners.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 20—John L. Lewis, international president of the United Mine Workers, in a telegram to the chairman of the Wilkes-Barre mass meeting today advised the business interests of the anthracite region to "keep their hands off the situation."

"The business interests of the anthracite region," said the telegram, can best help in this matter by not confusing the situation through any ill-advised action."

Unless anthracite operators agree to the wage increase demands of the miners and the adoption to the check off," he said, "a suspension of mining in the hard coal region September 1 is inevitable."

EFFORTS TO BRING MINERS AND OWNERS TOGETHER

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 20—More than 100 civic leaders and business men from all sections of the hard coal region attended a mass meeting here today at which plans were outlined for bringing the representatives of the anthracite mine workers and the operators together and prevent a suspension of work at the expiration of the wage contract on August 31.

STATEMENT BY MINE OWNERS' REPRESENTATIVE

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 20—(A. P.)—Hard coal at $2 to $3 more a ton this year would be the price of granting the anthracite miners the demands they are making for renewal of the present contract expiring August 31, W. W. Inglis, chairman of the operators' scale committee, tonight notified Gov. Alvan T. Fuller of Massachusetts.

Mr. Inglis wrote to Gov. Fuller in behalf of the conference of New England governors the latter had called to discuss the anthracite outlook. The letter, sent from Scranton, Pa., was made public here by the anthracite operators' conference.

Mr. Inglis emphasized the willingness of the hard coal mine owners to settle their present differences with the miners by impartial arbitration.

His letter follows:

"Noting your call for a conference of the governors of New England states to consider the situation that may arise if a suspension of anthracite mining occurs on September 1, we desire to set before you the steps leading up to the present impasse.

"Upon the opening of negotiations for a contract to replace the one expiring on August 31st, we were met by demands for a large increase of wages with an inevitable increase in costs and prices. This increase, if granted, would be superimposed on many others in recent years which have given the mine workers real wages 192 per cent. above their pre-war pay in 1924.

"It is our belief, supported by a wealth of evidence, that the anthracite consumer will not and should not be expected to pay more for this product. The demands of the anthracite miners were therefore refused.

"Before the operators had stated their case before, indeed, the miners had completed the presentation of their own case, negotiations were broken off by the miners on the ground that the operators declined to concede the miners' extreme demands. The miners also refused to consider arbitration.

"Arbitration had been insistently urged by the operators since July 9th, at the opening of negotiations between the anthracite operators and miners' workers at Atlantic City, when Samuel D. Warriner, chairman of the anthracite operators' conference said: 'We wish to urge that provision be made at the outset against the possibility of a suspension on September 1. Such joint action on our part would receive public confidence. It can be accomplished by an agreement to the effect that if our respective committees are unable to agree upon any issues such issues shall be referred to arbitration, upon the understanding that production shall be continued at present wage scale until the arbitrators render an award.'

"On August 4th the representative of the mine workers moved for an indefinite adjournment of the negotiations. On behalf of the operators the following questions were asked:

"(1) Are we to understand that in view of our opposition to an increase of wages and the checkoff, you refuse to continue negotiations.

"(2) In view of the differences of opinion between us, do you flatly reject our proposal that the matters in dispute be submitted to impartial arbitration under conditions assuring fair rejudication to all parties concerned and work to continue after September 1st at present wage rates pending result of such arbitration?'

"The reply to the first question was in the affirmative.

"Mr. Lewis, the miners' spokesman, stated that his answer to the second question was contained in his letter of August 1st to Mr. Warriner.

"The letter of August 1st again rejected arbitration. To this letter Mr. Warriner replied on August 7th, saying in part with reference to the question of arbitration:

"'You attack not merely a suggestion applying to this case, you attack a principal that is universally approved by right-thinking men as the best means yet devised to arrive at justice between contending parties. The only alternative is industrial strife with its attendant waste and loss to the industry.

"'In spite of the terms of your letter and the breaking off of negotiations, I am hopeful that means will be found to compose the differences between us and avoid a suspension of production. Every consideration demands that this be done.'

"Answering Mr. Warriner, the president of the United Mine Workers said on August 8th, 'I will be glad to hear from you when you abandon this position;' i. e., the position that anthracite costs and prices can not be increased. As to arbitration, the miners' last word was: 'We really do not care to arbitrate. Thanks for the offer. We know that you think the medicine would be good for us, but frankly, we have little faith in your diagnosis.'

"As the matter stands, therefore, the position of the miners is that they do not care to negotiate unless the operators concede in advance an increase of wages and other adjustments—which would add from $2 to $3 to the price of anthracite and also concede the checkoff.

"The position of the operators is that the consumer would not pay more for anthracite and that even present prices can not be maintained without inviting the future use of substitute fuels.

"If the anthracite mine workers' wage were below a fair and reasonable level we fully realize that there would be no justice in asking these workers to sacrifice themselves in order that an industry, however useful, might survive. The fact is, however, that by reason of successive increases of wages since the war—17 per cent in 1920 and 10 per cent in 1923—the anthracite mine worker is enjoying wages far above those of other comparable employments, the average for the actual miners being $2,300 a year and for all workers in excess of $2,000 a year. Lower earnings that have from time to time been reported are not those of full-time," but of part-time workers.

"Under all of these circumstances, which of course are presented in this letter in the barest outline but can be greatly amplified if you desire, we earnestly hope that the governors meeting at our invitation will consider the problem in the light of the necessities of the industry as well as of the public.

"That we have not been unmindful in the past of our responsibilities for continuous production is shown by the fact that in 1920 differences between the operators and miners as to the terms of a new contract were arbitrated.

"In 1922 and 1923 as now, we offered arbitration, and proposed that productions should continue without interruption. The representatives of the miners refused. We respectively submit that this is not attitude of a group of employers who seek to hold up the public by encouraging strikes. It is, rather, the attitude of those who seek by every means at their disposal to avoid strikes.

"May we repeat that we are ready at all times to submit the issues in dispute to any impartial arbitrators in the expectation that this method of settlement having been adopted suspensions of mining may be avoided in the future."

COOLIDGE SPENT THE NIGHT IN NORTHAMPTON

Northampton, Mass., Aug. 20—President Coolidge tonight was back in his home town, scene of his earlier political triumphs, for an overnight visit. He arrived here late today after travelling 135 miles by automobile from his father's home in Plymouth, Vt., tomorrow he will continue on his way to to Swampscott, arriving there probably before night fall.

Leaving his father's home in the Vermont hills immediately after lunch in company with Mrs. Coolidge, the president travelled by a round about route over bumpy, dusty roads through Brattleboro, across the Massachusetts line through Greenfield and into Northampton.

At the Northampton City limits, the president was greeted by a reception committee, headed by Mayor Felker. He paused for a moment to shake hands, then continued to the home of Mrs. Elmira Goodhue, mother of Mrs. Coolidge where he was to spend the night.

30,000 GARMENT WORKERS AUTHORIZED TO STRIKE

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—(A. P.)—Thirty thousand garment workers, members of three insurgent locals of the International Garment Workers' union today authorized their joint action committee to call a general strike in the industry "whenever the committee shall consider such a step necessary." Resolutions to this effect were passed at 13 meetings held during a two hour "stoppage" from their work.

The workers demanded reform of internal conditions in the industry, reinstatement of the three locals and their 77 recently expelled officers, resignation of the present administration of the union and a cessation by employers of interfecence with affairs of the union.

$250,000 Robbery of Jewelry In Chicago

Four Bandits Herded Proprietor and Seven Employes of Store Into Corner.

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Jewelry valued at upwards of $250,000, most of it in diamonds, was the loot of a robber quartet who late today invaded the seventh floor offices of Lazarus and Weil, jewelry manufacturers in a building on the fringe of the downtown district, held a half dozen employes and officials of the company, at bay, raided five large safes and fled without disturbing more than 30 other employes in adjoining rooms.

Officials of the company said the loot was at least $200,000 and possibly much higher, half of this is covered by insurance.

DEATHS FROM MACKINAC EXPLOSION NOW TOTAL 41

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 20—The toll of deaths in the Mackinac disaster stood at forty one tonight with every indication that at least nine more names would be added to the list before daybreak.

These nine persons, terribly scalded when the boiler exploded on the excursion steamer as she steamed through Narragansett Bay on Tuesday night, have not the slightest chance to recover, physicians at both the naval and Newport hospitals declared.

Four other persons, reported as missing, are believed to have drowned. United States naval flyers flew over Newport harbor today in search of their bodies. Navy and police officials planned to start dragging for them tomorrow.

Investigation of the disaster moved swiftly today following the arrival of Inspector General George Uhler, head of the United States steamboat inspection service, in Providence. He left Washington to assume charge of the federal probe on the orders of Secretary of Commerce Hoover, who was requested to take action by Senator Metcalf of Rhode Island.

After a conference with Captain Robert R. Clark and Inspector Richard Bailes both of his service, Mr. Uhler inspected the Mackinac which is now tied up at her wharf in Pawtucket. He gave the vessels boiler, which state officials declared was defective a minute examination.

HARTFORD BREWERY NEAR BEER PERMIT REVOKED

HARTFORD, Aug. 20—The permit of the manufacture of near beer issued to the New England Food Products Company of 503 Windsor street, charged with violation of its permit's provisions in the alleged shipping to Long Island of 101 barrels of beer containing more than the legal percentage of alcohol, has been revoked by the federal prohibition authorities, Director Frank T. Putney said today. The charge made by the federal men was that the New England Food Products company, formerly known as the New England Brewery, shipped beer to John F. Raymond of New York, which on analysis, was proved to contain nearly 4 per cent. of alcohol. The matter of forfeiture of bonds posted by officers of the company at the time they were granted the license to manufacture the near beer is under consideration, it was said. President A. C. Wagner, of the food products company, and James Degnom, shipping clerk at the Windsor street plant, appeared before Director Putney in answer to charges arising from the shipment more than a month ago. At that time, it is understood, their plea was that the beer had been allowed to remain in the car two days and a half during the hot spell early in July and the alcoholic content was thereby appreciated.

PRESIDENT APPROVES BELGIAN DEBT PACT

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Aug. 20—President Coolidge tonight approved the Belgian debt settlement.

The agreement was rushed from Washington to Swampscott and was brought here by E. C. Geisser, personal stenographer of the president.

The settlement was negotiated by the American debt commission with the Belgian mission after President Coolidge had discussed the proposed terms at Plymouth with Secretary Mellon and Senator Smoot of Utah and had given his verbal approval of the settlement program.

The president's signature to the agreement leaves the next step, so far as the American government is concerned up to congress, which under the provisions of the act creating the debt funding commission, must ratify all settlements.

The twenty eight honorary pallbearers include life time associates of Mr. Lawson in newspaper work, the field of benevolence and Chicago social life.

PENALTIES IMPOSED ON INCOME TAX EVADERS

HARTFORD, Aug. 20—For failure to disclose profits alleged to have been derived from liquor transactions, Frank J. Scollins, Jr., of Danbury has been required to pay approximately $20,000 to Internal Revenue Collector Robert O. Eaton in back taxes, penalties and interest.

Scollins was assessed an aggregate of $15,215.98 in additional income tax, alone. Of that amount, $14,845.31 was added to his return for the tax year 1921, $271.05 to that for 1923, $63.48 to that for 1920 and $36.14 to that for 1919. He was represented by Lawyer Charles E. Williamson, of Darien.

John Bonadies, of 222 Hillside avenue, this city, former All-Hartford football star, has been required by Collector Eaton to pay $459.62 in taxes and penalty on income which, according to the revenue bureau, he was delinquent in reporting. He claimed that the income was from real estate transactions.

CHANGE IN COMMAND OF THE U. S. COAST GUARD

NEW YORK, Aug. 20—Capt. George Creighton Carmine took command today of the United States coast guard of this district succeeding Capt. W. V. E. Jacobs, who goes to the west coast to take command of the San Francisco district.

The change in commanding officers it was reported, will be followed by a new offensive against rum row. The Mojave, one of the largest cutters, has been named flag ship for the fleet of twenty destroyers which will be sent out from New York and New London for the new patrol service.

Twelve of the destroyers will be assigned to the New London base and eight to the New York base. Several of the larger vessels brought here from other ports to effect the blockade of rum row will be withdrawn, but thirteen patrol boats of the 100 foot type will be delivered in the near future to take their places.

CALL ISSUED FOR RECORDS OF FILMS SINCE JULY 8

HARTFORD, Aug. 20.—(A. P.)—A call for records of moving picture films exhibited in this state between July 8 and August 25, on which date direct collection of the tax will be in force, was issued today by Tax Commissioner Blodgett to exhibitors of motion pictures and operators of machines. The records are returnable under the order before September 5, and must show the name of the producer and distributor, the length of each reel, whether the reel is a comedy, drama, news reel or educational feature, the date delivered to the machine operator and the name and address of the deliverer.

Failure to make the return of the sending of incomplete information will mean a check-up by investigators from the tax department. The notice further states that the record must be complete as to all reels whether exempt from taxation or not.

HYLAN CONDUCTING CAMPAIGN IN BROOKLYN

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—(A. P.)—Rumbings of internal dissension within his own ranks in Brooklyn today carried Mayor Hylan to his home borough where he delivered a campaign address asserting his own loyalty to the democratic party and bitterly attacking the leadership of Tammany Hall in opposing his renomination.

The mayor's offensive today came on the heels of a serious deflection in Brooklyn where the Coney Island Democratic club voted support to Senator Walker.

Prospects of areach between Mayor Hylan and John H. McCooey, the Brooklyn leader who has disagreed openly with the mayor recently, were apparently heard today.

CAPTURED BANDIT ADMITS MURDERS AT MT. VERNON

Frank Daly of New York Was Captured in House in the Woods Five Miles From the Center of Westport—Victims Were Slain During Hold Up of Car of the Weschester Street Railway at Mt. Vernon—Details of the Crime Given in Confession.

WESTPORT, Conn., Aug. 20—(A. P.)—Frank Daley, of New York told the state police here today of the leading part he played in the murder of two men in Mount Vernon, N. Y., on July 20. "They thought I was kidding them and I wanted them to know I meant business. Certainly I did it. I shot both of them. But I wish I stuck to stealing tires."

Taken to the state barracks after a sensational raid on a secludod house in the woods five miles from the center, staged at dawn by a squad of state policemen, Mount Vernon detectives and members of the Homicide squad of New York city, Daley is said to have assumed responsibility freely for the slaying of Jacob Schumacher, 64, railway inspector, of Mount Vernon, and R. I. Nichols, 101 Arch street, Greenwich, a motorman, both employed by the Westchester street Railway company.

Daley has been here since Sunday. He came here with two other men about his own age, it was stated, and with some young women, all acquaintances and all dance hall habitues. Since their arrival all but Daley have been seen frequently riding in taxicabs to and from dances in this section of the county.

Daley remained behind on all of these excursions, despite the pleas of the girls. Scoring him as a "flat tire," they left the place where all were staying together, intending to select a new boarding house, but all trace of the others has been lost.

The police have been on Daly's trail for several days, it was stated. The car in which Daley and his companions came to bridgeport was traced, and Captain Silverstein and Lieutenant Mattes, of Mount Vernon, and Detectives Martin and Donahue of the homicide squad. New York, came here last night and conferred with Sergeant Walter Lynehan, of the state police barracks.

At midnight a party of state policemen, with the officers from outside the state, set out to surround the farm house where Daley was believed to be staying. They waited until 5:15, when the order to close in was given. Sergent Lynehan and Detective Donahue broke down the outside door and then forced the door to Daly's bedroom. Daly was in bed, but awake, and before he could move, he was handcuffed. He was taken at once to the barracks, while members of the raiding party started a search for the missing members of the party.

Daley is said to have told his story readily, relating the incidents connected with the hold-up of the railway employes in Mount Vernon on July 20, when Schumacher refused to hand over the leather bag containing $1,806 in small change.

At a special session of the town court, Daly waived extradition and was taken at once to Mount Vernon.

MURDEROUS BANDIT GIVES DETAILS OF HIS CRIME

NEW YORK, Aug. 20—(A. P.)—Police announced tonight that they had obtained a detailed confession from Frank Daly, who was arrested today in a farmhouse near Westport, Conn., for the murder of two men in the trolley car holdup in Mount Vernon on July 20. Daly was brought to this city a few hours after his arrest by New York policemen and Connecticut state police.

After killing an inspector and the motorman of the trolley car, Daly and his confederates in the crime divided about $1,900 in silver, police quoted him as saying. Daly received $200 for his share, but the money was so heavy that he threw away part of it.

The robbers hid near Mount Vernon a few days, and then Daly returned to New York. A few days later he went to Connecticut, where he was successful in hiding until the Connecticut state police located him in the farmhouse, which is now run as a boarding house.

Daly, in his confession, told how he and one of his confederates made a trip to Mount Vernon the day before the robbery to "look over the ground," according to the police. They decided that it "looked good to them," and returned to Mount Vernon.

The confederate who looked over the ground with Daly has not been arrested. He and Daly decided upon the robbery after they had received a "tip" that Jacob Schumacher, the inspector, carried $3,500 in cash on a certain day.

WILL BE CHARGED WITH FIRST DEGREE MURDER

WISHES TO MAKE ANOTHER FLIGHT IN THE ARCTIC

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20—Indications that Lieutenant Commander Byrd, commanding the navy section of the MacMillan arctic expedition, was not entirely convinced of the futility of further efforts to penetrate the frozen north by air, were seen in a dispatch to the National Geographic Society today from Commander Donald B. MacMillan. Commander Byrd, he said, wished to make one more flight before accepting defeat.

"Commander Byrd wished to make one more flight with maximum loads to prove to himself more decisively that the work cannot be done," said the message, which came on the heels of the decision of the National Geographic Society and the navy department to call off further efforts to explore the unknown polar sea.

AUTOS CAUSED NINE DEATHS IN THE STATE LAST WEEK

HARTFORD, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Nine deaths resulted from automobile accidents last week in the state, besides the numerous injuries which were reported to the motor vehicle department with the records of the 511 major crashes. The fatalities were at East Hartford, Windsor Locks, East Haven, New Haven, Plainville, Meriden, Seymour, Lakeville and Waterbury.

Fourteen cities contributed 247, or more than half of the total number of accidents. Hartford led all cities with fifty eight, New Haven was second with forty four and Bridgeport, third with thirty eight. Other cities reported as follows: Waterbury, 29; New London, 10; New Britain, 11; Norwich, 10; Norwalk, 5; Greenwich, 8; Stamford, 7; Middletown, 13; Meriden, 9; Danbury, 4; and Winsted, one.

FOUND DEAD IN HIS AUTOMOBILE IN ROAD

STAMFORD, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Edwin Peters, 45, was found dead in his automobile tonight on the Farms road in the Long Ridge section on the outskirts of this city. He had been dead but a short time when a passerby noticed his condition. Death, it is believed, was due to acute indigestion. Peters was superintendent of the casting department of the Stamford Rolling Mills. He is survived by a wife and one son.

Motorcycle Policeman Harry Curran was on duty at headquarters when the ambulance call was received and upon reaching Peters' car found that the dead man was his wife's uncle.

Cassidy, of the Waterbury and Milldale Tramway company, represented those companies at the meeting which was at the Hartford club.

SPEEDY JUSTICE FOR ASSAILANT OF CHILD

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 20.—(AP)—One hour and three minutes after he was placed on trial today, Frank Perri whose home is in Atlantic City, was convicted and sentenced to from 15 to 30 years in the Eastern State penitentiary for drugging and attacking six-year-old Molly Hindin.

The attack took place on August 11 and Perri was arrested three days later. He was indicted today and was placed on trial at once. The jury returned its verdict without leaving the box.

Perri, who is 21 years old, protested his innocence to the last, even after his little victim had identified him from the witness stand.

Molly testified that Perri had met her on the street, offered her candy and taken her to a vacant house. Then she said, he had put some "medicine" on a handkerchief and tied it about her face and then tied her hands.

WEALTHY FLORIDA REALTOR ACCUSED OF POISONING

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Mrs. H. D. Hunt, who died in a hospital here yesterday, came to her death from poison administered by John Gobel, wealthy Florida realtor, a coroner's jury declared late today.

Mrs. Hunt, was visited at the jail Tuesday night, where she was held on a charge she had stolen a $1,500 diamond ring from Gobel with whom she had been friendly. While Gobel was visiting her, she ran from the cell, declaring he had forced her to drink poison.

County Solicitor Robert Taylor testified that while examining Gobel, the latter offered him a $500 bribe to "fix things up."

Gobel, he said, denied giving Mrs. Hunt poison, but admitted he had been on friendly terms with her previous to her arrest.

Deputy Sheriff L. A. Short also said Gobel had offered him a bribe.

TWO ARRESTS IN HARTFORD ON CHARGES OF THEFT

HARTFORD, Aug. 20—Raymond S. Pride, of 25 Bassett street, New London, and Ernest Champion, who says he lives at Capitol park, were arrested today by Detective Sergeants Moriarity and Sheren, charged with theft. The arrests are the result of a number of complaints that the police have received reporting the loss of valuables from clothes left in lockers while the owners are swimming in the pool.

WILLIMANTIC

William Saranofski of Bricktop road was in the police court Thursday morning charged with assault, breach of the peace nd trespassing. He entered a plea of not guilty. The complainant in the case was Mrs. Laura Jean of No. 103 Main street, who charged that her three and one-half year old daughter, had been assaulted by the defendant, who also created a breach of the peace, at their home Monday afternoon, about two o'clock.

The witnesses against the accused were children; Eugenie, ten-year old daughter of the plaintiff, Albert Briere, 10 and Roland Dube, 12, who testified that they were playing in the yard at the Jean home Monday afternoon. Mrs. Jean, they said, had just gone up street when a man came into the yard, entered the Jean home and locked the door. They looked in through a window and he waved his hands at them. The man then pulled down the curtains and then the children heard little Irene crying upstirs. They claimed to recognize Saranofski as the intruder. According to the children the two boys went directly to the temporary state police barracks and told one of the officers of the circumstance. At that time the door of the house was still locked.

Officer Honeyman testified that he responded to the call of the boys but could find no man there. The little girl Irene told of a man coming up stairs, awakening her and holding her by the neck. The state policeman said that there were finger prints on the back of the child's neck. Eugenie Jean also testified to having seen the finger marks.

The description of the man given by the children resulted in a warrant being made out for Saranofski's arrest. It was served Wednesday afternoon by Officer Grant Bombria and the accused was brought to the police station.

Saranofski, through an interpretor, denied being implicated in the alleged assault. He said that he came to this city Monday morning, attended the strikers' meeting and then went directly to his home, where he remained all day and declared that yesterday morning was the first time he had ever seen the witnesses or the little girl he was accused of assaulting. The court was of the opinion that more evidence should be secured and for that reason, the case was continued to September 12.

Henry E. White, charged with failure to give the proper signal to another driver before coming to a stop, pleaded not guilty. The complainant in this case was Fred Herrick, a local jitney driver, who testified that Friday noon of last week, he was driving west on Main street when White, whom he was following, pulled up ahead of him and suddenly brought his car to a stop. Herrick stated that if he had not been onto his job, a collision would have resulted. The complainant said he asked White what the idea was of making the stop as he did and according to Herrick, the accused told him to go to hot place."

White said that he did stop quickly due to teh fact that a car just ahead of him came to a sudden halt, and he did not have time to give a signal. The accused denied telling Herrick to go to a warmer clime. No other witnesses were heard. In view of the fact that no damage was caused, the court acquitted the accused.

Archibald W. Buchanan of Mansfield Center, agent for the state board of education was at the common council chamber in the town building Thursday forenoon meeting children between fourteen and sixteen, seeking employment certificates. Ten applicants, all told, took the required examinations.

Thursday being the annual holiday for local clerks, most of the stores in the city, together with the banks, barber shops and offices in the town building were closed all day. The majority of those having the day off went to nearby shore resorts, or went automobiling in the country.

Clement Hurteau and Joseph Bosse, of the Hurteau-Bosse Corporation, attended the outing of the New England Furniture Dealers' Association held at Webster ake, Mass., yesterday afternoon.

Funeral services for Miss Elizabeth Barge, were held at her home in Warrenville, Thursday afternoon at two o'clock. Rev. John H. Knott, pastor of Chaplin Congregational Church officiated. Burial was in the West cemetery, Warrenville.

Francis S. Long Woman's Relief Corps, No. 28 resumed regular meetings Thursday evening in G. A. R. hall. An appetising supper was served at 6:30 o'clock to members and candidates. The business session was called to order by the president Mrs. Lena Tripp, at eight o'clock. Among those in attendance were State Department President Mrs. Maude Deming and Miss Annie Smith, state secretary, both of this city. Two candidates were initiated and national and state corps and general corps orders were read. Mrs. Cora Nye was named chairman for a cafeteria lunch and food sale to be held later.

The annual meeting of Ashford Bible Society, auxiliary of the Connecticut Bible Society was held at Buck's Grove near Westford village Wednesday with about 250 in attendance. Rev. B. C. Bugbee of Warrenville, president of the Ashford society, was in charge. The speakers were Gustave Bodhman, secretary of the Connecticut Temperance Union, Samuel Raymond, secretary of the Connecticut Bible Society, Allen B. Lincoln, of Westford and Rev. H. A. Coolidge, of Union. Secretary Raymond declared that the state society distributed over 25,000 Bibles during the past year. Over 30,000 homes were found without a Bible and distribution was made only where it was evident that the sacred book would be welcomed and read.

The women's society of Westford parish provided a delicious luncheon at noon. Seven members of the Babcock Cornet Band furnished excellent music, also leading the singing under the direction of Prof. A. E. Lyman of Columbia, bandmaster. It was a real old home day as well as a religious meeting, as many former residents of Ashford make a practice on this "Bible Day," always the third Wednesday in August, to come back to the old home town.

Miss Carol Robinson of Mendham, N. J., is a guest of her cousin, Judge Otto B. Robinson and family of Lewiston avenue for a few days. Miss Robinson has been visiting relatives in Hampton for two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur P. Benner, of Summit street, left Thursday morning with the latter's nephew, Dr. Chester B. Cole, by motor for Brooklyn, N. Y., where they will be his guest for two weeks. Mrs. Cole and children are in Windham Center for a seveal weeks' stay.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Kelley of High street returned Thursday after a two weeks' visit in Buffalo, N. Y., and Cleveland, Ohio.

A session of Columbia town court was held Thursday forenoon at which Courtland Stimpson was charged with non-support of his several minor children. He pleaded guilty. Stimpson was arrested Wednesday, by State Policeman Comstock, in Haddam, on a warrant, and lodged in the local police station over night. More than a year ago, the Stimpson family resided in Haddam and at that time, the father was arrested on a similar charge. He furnished a bond to cover a weekly allowance for his children, which bond expired in June. Mrs. Stimpson and her children came to Columbia some time ago and recently became a burden on the town, when Stimpson failed to send any money to his family. Stimpson said that he was unable to care for the children at present, on account of being out of work. He was bound over to the next criminal term of the Tolland county superior court under a bond of one hundred dollars, which he could not furnish, so was taken to jail.

Alfred Henry Paradis, 60, who dropped dead while at work in a store in the new Capitol theatre building late Wednesday afternoon, was born in St. Jule, Canada, Nov. 20, 1864. He had resided in this city for a number of years and was well known and highly respected. He was a devout member of St. Mary's parish and held membership in Conseil Florimond, "Union St. Jean Baptiste d'Amerique, local No. 825, Carpenters' union, the Sacred Heart and Holy Cross societies and other orgaizations of the parish. He is survived by two sons, Leopold and Arthur and two daughters, Mrs. Peter Van Haverbeke and Mrs. Andre Brindamour, all of this city; a brother, Peter Paradis of Chicopee Falls, Mass., and three sisters, Mrs. Thomas Perreault and Mrs. Gustave Van Haverbeke, of Willimantic, and Mrs. Corinne Benoit, of Saskatchewan, Canada.

Miss Catherine A. Thompson, 62, who died at her home in Hampton late Wednesday afternoon from a stomach ailment, after a long illness, was born in New London, May 31, 1863, a daughter of George M. and Ann Tipton Thompson. She is survived by three brothers, Charles W. of Springfield, Mass., George M. of Hampton and E. B. Thompson of Mansfield Depot, and by three sisters, Mrs. John A. Scott of Scotland, Mrs. Albert L. Mills and Miss Eudora Thompson of Hampton.

Mrs. Annie Shanley's funeral was held from the family home, No. 40 West Park street, Thursday morning. Requiem high mass at St. Joseph's church at 9 o'clock was sung by Rev. Charles M. Kelly. Mrs. Edmund R. Portelance was at the organ. As the body was borne into the church, Mrs. Henry J. Mathieu sang "Nearer My God to Thee"; at the offertory, she sang "O Salutaris" and for a waiting hymn, "He Wipes the Tear From Every Eye." The services were largely attended and there were beautiful floral tributes. The bearers were Michael Monahan, William Owens, Joseph Pepin and T. F. Sheehan. Burial was in the family plot in St. Joseph's cemetery. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Killourey Brothers.

State Policeman James Finnegan who is connected with the Westport barracks, acting inspector of applicants for motpr vehicle operators' licenses, was on duty at the patrolmen's room in the Willimantic police station yesterday from 8 a. m. to 4 p. m. About a score of persons were registered and examined by Officer Finnegan as to their driving qualifications.

AGENT DON H. CURTIS REPLIES TO CITIZENS' COM. LETTER

(Special to the Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Aug. 20.—The following letters concern a situation which is of vital interest to every one in this city, in regard to the decision of the American Thread Company made some time ago on account of the strike, to remove the printing department in connection with the plant to some other city.

The first written by Harry J. Smith on behalf of the Citizens' Committee of Willimantic to Agent Don H. Curtis of the American Thread Company, is as follows:

"At a meeting of the executive committee of the Citizen's Committee of Willimantic, held August 7, 1925, the following policy with reference to the industrial development of Willimantic was adopted:

"The executive committee recommends to the committee on new industries that it is deemed advisable and desirable that no policy toward the securing of new and diversified industries for Willimantic could be complete without due and proper consideration of maintenance and development of the industries which are now or which may hereafter be located here. In other words, it is not only considered advisable to endeavor to secure the right kind of new and diversified industry for this community, but it is equally important to retain present industries and endeavor to develop them.

"Following the adoption of this policy, the committee, being cognizant of the fact that your company had announced its plan to remove from the Willimantic Mills, the printing department to some other city, and being also aware of the fact that your company has removed machinery and equipment from these mills to other points, believes that an effort should be made which would result in retaining the printing department and returning such machinery and equipment to the mills here, providing such action would be considered by the management.

"I was accordingly instructed by the executive committee to approach the management on this subject, and to suggest that if content and practical, you give consideration, not only to the retaining of the printing department here, but also to the question of returning such machinery and equipment which is now in operation elsewhere, so that production in the Willimantic Mills may proceed in as full a measure as practicable.

"Respectfully submitted in behalf of the Citizens' Committee."

Agent Curtis' reply follows:

"I have received your communication of August 14th and note the outline of policy which the executive committee of the Citizens' Committee of Willimantic hopes to follow, in order to bring about the industrial development of this city.

"As the decision to move the printing department was arrived at by my board of directors, I have naturally referred your letter to them, and I am authorized to say that due to the absence, for various reasons, of several members of the board, they are unable at the present time to make any statement, other than to assure you that at the first opportunity, the matter will be reconsidered.

"As you are aware, the strike in our printing department has resulted in considerable expense and inconvenience to us, and as printing is by no means a section of the textile industry, we realized, as a result of the strike, the danger of continuing to maintain it as a part of the Willimantic plant.

"In regard to the other types of machinery moved from Willimantic, you are also aware that the company has been put to considerable expense in transferring same to New York, and it seems hardly likely that the board of directors will view with favor any suggestion to replace it entirely at Willimantic. As stated above, the whole matter will be gone into at the first opportunity and you will be advised in due course as to the decision arrived at.

ATTENDANCE IS INCREASING AT CAMP MEETING SERVICES

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC CAMPGROUND, Aug. 20.—Another bright day greeted the campers, and all the Institute students carried forward their studies with zeal. Rev. F. W. Gray, of Rockville, conducted the morning watch. The Institute lessons were taught, as usual, in the four morning periods.

Dr. Lipp continued his instructive lessons on India, and Mrs. Cora Down Stevens on Home Missions. Dr. Gornall, of Chicago, in his period, emphasized the fact that the body is the "temple of the Holy Spirit." He said the physical examination of our youth at the time of the World war was "distressingly depressing." He urged that parents should talk frankly and with utmost purity to their children concerning the marvelous origin of life.

Prof. Walter P. Foley, of Chicago, in his hour on Senior Epworth League Methods, called attention to the fact that too often so-called "good times" are over-emphasized, to the detriment of spirituality.

Miss Marenda Prentis, of New London, had her hour on Junior Sunday and League Methods in the tabernacle at 10:25.

Dr. Knapp at 11:15 held his Bible Study period in the tabernacle: a larger audience than usual was present. He spoke of the fact that Jesus' teachings offended the scribes and Pharisees, because they threatened to deprive some of them of their jobs. Because of John's being beheaded, Jesus withdrew with His disciples to Cesarea Philippi, where opposition was not so hot. Here He asked them, "Whom do you say I am?" and followed it up with "Whom do you say I am?"

Another mountain peak of Jesus' experience was His transfiguration, at which time He seems to have realized the cross was ahead and to have been encouraged from heaven to go to Jerusalem and death.

Dr. C. E. Spaulding, of New London, gave his closing talk of the series at his "Pastors' Retreat," under the big pine by the Campground gate. His theme was Preaching. He especially deprecated the minister's fearing the people so much that he will not preach needed truth, lest he tread on somebody's toes. Dr. Spaulding also elaborated upon the necessity of education going hand in hand with religion. Churches that do not educate die spiritually. We need more than the Sunday school as an educational feature. Education cannot be truly successful apart from religion. Education is more scaffolding. If Christian character is not a result, mere education is a failure, and may result in cultured devilry. Knowledge is never an end in itself.

At the close of these excellent addresses Rev. A. S. Muirhead called for a vote of thanks to Dr. Spaulding, which motion was unanimously carried.

Dr. E. V. Claypool, of Hartford, was the speaker of the afternoon yesterday. A large audience gathered at 2 o'clock in the auditorium. Rev. E. P. Phreaner led the people in the repetition of the first Psalm. Rev. J. E. Duxbury, of Manchester, offered prayer. Dr. Claypool in his address claimed that the Old Testament proclaimed a national God, while Jesus in the New Testament revealed a God of humanity. He discussed the governmental and political relations which Christians should bear to society. In this democratic republic the will of the people is supreme.

What is a Christian nation? Is the United States one? A Christian nation is one which, as soon as it finds out that any policy like slavery or the drink traffic is evil, proceeds to do its utmost to eradicate it. So far, the United States has stood splendidly on this platform.

After the singing of America, Dr. Claypool gave the benediction.

The preacher of Wednesday evening was Rev. Joseph Cooper of South Manchester. Prof. Sallis led the singing; a chorus of forty voices assembled on the platform about the preacher's stand. Miss Roberta Bitgood, of New London played a fine violin solo. Prayer was offered by the secretary of the camp meeting association, Rev. F. C. Baker, of North Grosvenordale, after Scripture had been read by Rev. G. A. Selleck of East Hartford.

The chorus sang an anthem under the leadership of Choirmaster Sallis. Dr. Cooper's theme was "Spiritual Power." How to get it, and how to keep it.

Luke 4:14 was the text, "Jesus returned in the power of the spirit into Galilee and the fame of Him spread abroad. What is power? Is it mere force? There are natural powers, and intellectual powers and spiritual powers and spiritual powers. These powers are quite different from each other. We get power by contact with its divine source.

After this service the young folks and some older ones adjourned to the tabernacle for a game of Bible baseball in which questions were asked in reference to characters and events in both the Old and New Testaments. Right answers put their giver along on the bases, while wrong ones were out. Of the four groups competing, Asbury and Embury were pitted against Lee and Garretson. The former team won 19 to 1.

After the baseball game, the young people assembled on the steps in the auditorium and sang several hymns without instrumental accompaniment.

Who's Who in the Grove

Mrs. J. W. McKinley and Miss Mabel McKinley, her daughter, motored to the grounds for a few hours Wednesday afternoon, to call upon Mrs. McKinley's sister, Mrs. A. D. Zabriskie.

Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Lyon of Staffordville and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McCarthy of Springfield attended the annual Ashford Bible meeting in Westford, Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Courtland E. Colver, of Gales Ferry, with their son Junior, daughters Helen and Margaret, and Mrs. Fanny A. Molthrop came to camp Wednesday afternoon for the balance of the meeting. They are at "The Colvers" 90 Wesley Circle.

Mrs. Nellie H. Perry of Buffalo, N. Y., is staying at the cottage of George Geer of Baltic, during the week

Rev. and Mrs. Ernest A. Legg, of Stafford Springs, with their daughters Martha and Grace, motored to camp yesterday for several hours' stay.

Will Gordon, of Hazardville, came to the grounds, Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Gordon and remain through the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Symonds, and Mrs. E. P. Sims, of Rockville have opened up the Cleaveland cottage, 24 Haven avenue, for the rest of the camp meeting.

At the East Hampton cottage on Church Circle are Mrs. Samuel Thatcher, and Mrs. George K. White, of that town.

Dwight Bushnell of Canterbury, came Wednesday and is staying at the Danielson house.

Mrs. Lucinda Hayden of Willimantic is spending from May to October at her cottage, "Hillcrest", 10 Cartwright avenue.

At the Esch-El are the following guests. Revs. I. Garfield Sallis, Mystic; H. W. Ruoff, Jamaica Plain, Mass; Dr. R. E. Gornall, Chicago; Walter B. Foley, Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. George A. Selleck of East Hartford.

At 8 p. m. yesterday "The Glory of the Secret Place" was the subject of a talk by the District Superintendent Rev. M. E. Genter, at the Stafford Springs House, Wesley circle.

At 33 Haven avenue, Miss Flora Stanley and Miss Henrietta Devon, of Manchester, have been staying for a few weeks.

At the "Anchorage" 39 and 41 Haven avenue, formerly the property of the late Jason Randall of Groton, are Mrs. L. R. Olin, her son, Walter, and daughter, Mrs. Sadie Carpenter, all from Willimantic.

A big celebration is soon to be held in Osaka to mark the completion of ten thousand miles of railway in Japan.

LEFFINGWELL

Although last Thursday was rainy, about thirty people spent a very enjoyable day at a picnic at Hemlock Point. Bountiful lunches were taken and boating and bathing were enjoyed.

Miss Winifred Holton, of Franklin is spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Roy L. Beard.

Mrs. Robert Albert, of Corona, Long Island, N. Y., is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Taylor.

Miss Mildred Swan, of Connell St., Norwich was a recent caller in Leffingwell.

The front of the Leffingwell School is noticably changed, by adding a window, while a large window takes the place of one of the front doors. The addition on the back makes the building much larger and six windows on the east side make the room much lighter. John I. Ross and his assistant John E. Rogers have laid new hardwood floors throughout the building. A large number of books is kept in the library, where the woodshed used to be. This room has been boarded up all around, also the ceiling and floor received new boards. Work is progressing rapidly and visitors stop in each day to inspect the change.

Guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Whitney of Thamesville and Mr. and Mrs. Le Grande Chappell and daughter Barbara, of Thames View.

Wednesday an all-day Missionary Meeting was held at Quaker Hill at the home of Mrs. Roger A. Bullard. Sixteen were present. Basket lunches were eaten at noon. In the afternoon Mrs. Silas W. Leffingwell was in charge of the meeting. Rags were sewed for rag rugs. Several gave readings and Mrs. A. H. Beebe read the church letter. The treasurer's report was given and the collection was large.

STAFFORDVILLE

Miss Dorothy Belcher, nurse in Wesson Memorial Hospital, Springfield is home with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Willis Belcher, for three weeks.

Herbert Bosworth was the guest of his brother and sister-in-law Mr. and Mrs. George Bosworth in Springfield recently. He also visited his niece, Mrs. Lucy Vandeburg in South Hadley Falls.

Rev. Charles G. Fogg of Gloucester, Mass., a former pastor of the Congregational church preached in the church last Sunday on the subject, The Progressive Discovery of Who Jesus Is.

Mrs. W. D. Woodward led the Epworth League service last Sunday evening; the subject was Stephen—A workman of the Way.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Phelps and family recently spent a week in Leeds, Maine, on a vacation.

Misses Bertha and Hazel Belcher spent last week with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brown, in North Billerica.

Rev. Wilfred D. Hamilton and family of Provincetown, Mass are spending their vacation with Mrs. Hamilton's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Maro B. Hatch, at Hydeville.

Those attending Willimantic Camp meeting from this place this week are Rev. William D. Woodward, Mrs. H. G. Dunham and granddaughters Misses Evelyn and Catherine Clark, Mrs. F. H. Ballou and granddaughter, Miss Ruth Bosworth.

Miss Eva Sartori and Domenico Sartori of Springfield are home with their father for a few weeks.

Mrs. Earl Belcher, Mr. and Mrs. Belcher and Mrs. Herbert Barlow visited Earl Belcher in the Massachusetts hospital at Boston recently and found the patient improving.

Mr. Belcher is in the Massachusetts hospital at Boston, for treatment for his eyes for a few weeks.

Mrs. Herbert Barlow and daughter Lois of New Britain have been visiting the former's sister, Mrs. Frank Belcher.

GOVERNMENT TO CONTEST TAX REFUNDS DECISION

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20—Reversal of a decision of the court of appeals of the District of Columbia, which the treasury holds involves millions of dollars in tax refunds will be sought by the government.

The supreme court will be asked to issue a writ in a test case to determine the interest to be paid the taxpayer who is erroneously overtaxed. The lower court held the legal one-half of one per cent. interest should be paid to the date of the refund, while the internal revenue bureau has held that it should be paid only until the date the commissioner signed the schedule admitting over-assessment.

George Washington married one of the richest women in America.

STERLING

The signal force of the N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R. Co., has erected a double flash signal at the dangerous Devil's Den Crossing in conformity with the demands of the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce

New signals were put in at that crossing after the terrible disaster about two years ago, but the railroad officials are not contented until the best possible protection is given the public. The local station agent, James F. Wallace has helped greatly in this railroad reform that will be of value to the town beyond power of computing.

The citizens of the town of Sterling are fortunate in having such men as James F. Wallace at the station here, and Daniel A. McCarthy at the station in Oneco. They are not only first, last and all the time loyal railroad men, but always are keen for the interests of Sterling's two hustling villages.

Clinton Place and Helen Place of Providence, R. I., are spending the summer on Gibson Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. George Place, on the Potter farm, are entertaining Mrs. Place's daughter.

A. H. Phelps of the Connecticut Humane office has two serious cases under observation.

The idea of the post-office box is said to have originated with a clerk in the Richmond, Va., post-office, where the first of such boxes were installed in 1810.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Wilson of Bath, Maine were recent visitors with friends in Danielson. Mr. Wilson was formerly an instructor at Killingly High School and coach of some of its basketball and baseball teams. He is now superintendent of Schools in Bath and has made his home there for some time.

Machinery was being unloaded Thursday for the construction of the new state highway, between Elmville and the borough line. Work will be started about the first of next month. The new highway will eliminate several wicked curves that are on the old road, particularly those near the state police barracks and near the property of N. A. Jorcan. Cutting out these turns will not only make the highway safer, but will shorten the distance between the two points appreciably.

Next Tuesday afternoon, two sessions of the Citizenship school, conducted under the auspices of the Windham County league of Women Voters is to be held in the town hall, at Thompson. The morning session will begin at ten-thirty. After a lunch at Vernon Stiles Inn, the afternoon session will begin at one-thirty. Commissioner Samuel Gruham has been engaged to deliver an address on "Duties of the County Commissioner." In addition to Commisisoner Graham, Seth L. Pierpont of Litchfield, and Howard Dunham of Wethersfield will give addresses. The former will tell about "County Institutions," and Mr. Dunham's subject will be "The County as a Political Unit." At the afternoon session, Mrs. Herbert Knox Smith, of Farmington will speak on the "Ideals and Purposes of the Citizenship School." Mrs. Smith is president of the state League of Women Voters. During the afternoon a trip will be made to the County Home in Thompson.

The death of Lillian Dufresne, 11, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Valmore Dufresne of Wauregan occurred Wednesday afternoon at Day-Kimball hospital, Putnam. Miss Dufresne was operated on for appendicitis at the hospital Monday, but complications set in that were the cause of her death.

At nine o'clock Thursday morning, funeral services were held in St. Joseph's church, Dayville, for Patrick Cavanaugh, long a resident in that village. The celebrant of the solemn requiem mass was Father Ignatius Kost, with Fr. McCarty deacon and Mr. Greene, of North Grosvenordale, subdeacon. The bearers were Armand Bibeault, Francis Gagnon, John O'Neil, Joseph Butch, Christopher Brennan and William Gillholy. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery. Funeral arrangements were by Louis E. Kennedy.

It was stated Thursday that women of the Klan burnt a cross on Tatnic Hill, Brooklyn, after holding a meeting there.

Good progress is being made on the construction of the new plant of the Eastern Dairies Company on Reynolds street.

Officer Christopher Andrews was on duty Monday morning, in the absence of Chief McFarland.

The famous "Witching Waves" of Coney Island haven't got anything on the section of Mechanic street between the telephone exchange and Hutchins street. To ride over that road is like riding on an overgrown washboard and the car that survives the trip before getting good one. Part of this road, one of the most used thoroughfares in town, is now only wide enough to allow the passage of a single automobile at one time, because of the laying of the new water mains. This doesn't help matters in the least. In case one vehicle is proceeding from north to south, and one wishes to go the other way, the latter must wait at the beginning until the first one has gone through. By a process of elimination the upper end of the street has been completed and most truthfully be called the most improved street in Danielson. This may be the first in a long time that it has not been torn up, for some reason or other. Gas, water and sewer pipes have been laid and so there's nothing more left to dig for, and those who travel on the street are glad of it.

Many memebrs of the Odd Fellows and Rebekah lodges were at the annual picnic held at Wildwood Park Tuesday afternoon. In the evening a basket supper was eaten.

The Danielson Town Team has two such ball games ahead, the last of this week, Saturday. It will endeavor to put a stranglehold on a Moosup team and Sunday will try to take a crack at the Wauregan ball-tossers. For the round of baseball the team is receiving the patronage and encouragement given to it to date are rather disappointing. The team is now playing a number of outside games to build up its reputation a bit more and then will play a number of home games in a final attempt to wake up what at present seems to be an absolute disregard for the National pastime.

Thursday was the opening night of the carnival of the Goodyear Community Club. A concert was given by the Danielson band.

Miss Ruth Franklin is spending a few days at Oakland Beach, R. I.

Rev. James T. Edwards will preach today at the Baptist church. Mr. Edwards formerly held the pastorate here but is now located in Virginia.

Miss Corinne Mitchell is the guest of friends in Fitchburg, Mass.

Danielson store employes were thankful for the fine weather on their weekly half-holiday. For the past few weeks they have been given rain aplenty.

Funeral services for Mrs. Ophelia Kelly were held Thursday at one o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Merril, of Elmville, Rev. Leonard R. Richards conducting the services. The bearers were Frank McGorty, John Reynolds, George Steen, George McIntosh, James Steen, and Carl Thercox. Burial was in Webster, Mass. L. E. Kennedy had charge of funeral arrangements.

Henry Hawkins, Donald Gibson, William Larrow and Henry Davis are on a camping trip to the White Mountains.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester M. Elliott and son Harold left by automobile for Plymouth, Mass., where they will camp for about ten days.

St. Philip's Episcopal church Mission is to build a rectory on the land on Pleasant street, next to the residence of George A. Rawley. The land between the church corner at Grove street and the Rawley property is owned by F. W. Seward and he has agreed to sell the building lot next to Mr. Rawley's and has given the church an option on the remaining parcel, if he decides to dispose of it. It is understood that building operations will begin soon in order to have the rectory completed this year.

Dr. Georgs T. Lamarche has bought the residence of Howard Cole, on the Little River road, and will move there from the house he now occupies, on Church street.

Mrs. William Falter, who went to St. Vincent's hospital, at Worcester, a week ago for a surgical operation, remains too weak for the surgeons to attempt it and they are waiting until she regains some strength.

C. L. TORREY'S ANCESTORS HELPED FOUND OHIO TOWN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Aug. 20.—Attorney and Mrs. Charles L. Torrey have returned from a two months' trip, which took them as far west as Illinois. They found their mode of touring a most enjoyable one. Starting with no settled plans other than to visit Marietta, Ohio, whose founders were Mr. Torrey's ancestors, they stopped as long as it pleased them in any city or town they passed through. The roads were excellent, hotel accommodations good and the weather for the most part delightful.

At Marietta, the hotel at which they stayed was within 250 feet of the house which one of Mr. Torrey's forefathers built and lived in more than 200 years ago. Marietta is the oldest settlement in Ohio and the oldest house is one of the attractions that its people exhibit to visitors. From there they drove up the beautiful Muskingum Valley, crossed Indiana into Illinois and among other points in Illinois visited New Salem, where Lincoln lived for many years.

In reply to a question of what had impressed him most Mr. Torrey said without hesitation that it was the universal spirit of reverence and admiration that the people have for the martyred president. It revived one's faith in Americanism, he said, and he felt that to have experienced the realization of such a feeling made the journey well worth while, if there had been nothing else to it.

IRON BRIDGE BUILT IN '81 COST THE TOWN ONLY $1,800

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Aug. 20.—The iron bridge over the Quinebaug that is being torn down to make way for the new concrete Memorial bridge was built in 1881. An appropriation of $1,800 was made to cover the cost of it. How much, if any, the cost exceeded that amount is not known.

The contract for the new bridge is $28,800 without the trimmings.

Silas M. Wheelock, agent of the Putnam Woolen company, has a copy of a vote passed by the selectmen of the town of Putnam Nov. 5, 1880, which reads as follows:

"Voted, by the Selectmen of the Town of Putnam that a sum not to exceed $1,800 be appropriated to pay for an iron bridge over the Quinebaug river at Cargill Falls."

Work on the bridge was begun in February of the following year, 1881 and was completed that summer.

According to the recollection of older citizens, the bridge that it replaced was not of long life. Mrs. J. B. Kent says that on returning from Vassar college in 1868, she found a new bridge in course of construction. Judge L. R. Fuller says that this bridge was not a covered one, but Judge Davis Figg is confident that there was a covered bridge at this site. William E. Rafferty, who incidentally remarked that his age was only half of the youngest of these commentators, said that the bridge before the present one was a covered one but that the cover was taken off several years before the bridge was replaced by the iron one.

All of which is interesting, but the fact that causes the most thought is that a bridge built 45 years ago, of a well constructed steel structure of a standard type and cost about $1,800.

PICKED 58 QTS. BLUEBERRIES NEAR ABINGTON, IN A DAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Aug. 20.—Albert Dufault holds the record for blueberry picking in this vicinity. Recently near Abington, Mr. Dufeault, who lives in Putnam, picked 58 1-2 quarts of blueberries between daybreak and dark.

Friends who were with him vouch for the quantity which was measured and remeasured.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

First Newspaper Headline Writer—Give me a synonym for "funny tribe."

Second Headline Writer—How about "fish?"

First Headline Writer—Fine! I never'd thought of that.—Life.

Jimmy, what became of that little pie I made for you yesterday?

I took it to school and gave it to teacher.

That was very generous of you. Did she eat it?

I guess so. She wasn't at school today.—The Glenwood Boy.

Young Jim Junket doesn't seem to amount to much since he left college.

No, you see his college education made him too smart to work and not smart enough to get along without work.—Boston Transcript.

Lecturer—And what has become of our family circle—where is it to be found today.

Voice (from the rear)—At the movies. — Chicago News.

Mr. Biggs—Ethel, they say death loves a shining mark.

Mrs. Biggs—Well, you should worry, my dear, you should worry!—Exchange.

Auntie—Well, Willie, do you think you will be promoted this term?

Willie—Oh, I think so—that is, if I can get papa to quit helping me with my lessons.—Kansas City Star.

Is he very grammatical?

I should say not. It took him a year once to finish one little sentence. —Wisconsin Octopus.

KALEIDOSCOPE

Utah claims that the first woman to cast a ballot in the United States was a niece of Brigham Young, when she voted in the Salt Lake City municipal election on February 21, 1870.

Julia Hoyt, New York society leader and actress, has added designing of gowns and wraps to her list of talents. She has signed a ten-year contract to act as designer for a prominent firm of garment manufacturers.

The match recently had its 100th birthday, having been introduced in 1825 by John Walker, an Englishman, who conceived the idea of selling his matches in boxes at 1 shilling a pence a box. The safety match, called "Swedish" did not appear until the year 1892. This was the first match which could be lit only when struck on the box. The idea of the match, however, antedated Walker by nearly two centuries. As early as 1680 Godfrey Hawkwits was using phosphorous to ignite little wooden sticks, dipped in sulphur. Various experiments were made by other scientists of the day, but it was not until 1825 that the match emerged from the laboratory and was placed on the market.

George A. Ross, of Lisbon, Conn., has a pair of cart wheels that were used in the revolutionary war and were at York (now Yorktown) when Cornwallis surrendered. The tires on these wheels are in sections which are spiked on the fellies, splicing them and making the rim strong.

While employes were unloading coal cars at Pitman, N. J., one noticed something moving in the pit where the coal is taken up by moving buckets and distributed to the various bins. Tons of coal had been shooting from the cars into the pit. This flow was quickly stopped and the pit was opened. Out hopped a frisky squirrel. It scampered away, apparently unhurt.

THE MACMILLAN QUEST

Regret will be felt and expressed over the fact that weather conditions made it impossible to continue the flight programme which had been mapped out for the unknown polar regions, but discretion is the better part of valor. We have waited a long time to find out about the unexplored regions of the far north and it will be no very serious matter to allow it to go for another year. It was certainly nothing which called for carrying out the programme regardless of what might have been the cost. There are times when lives are lost in such undertaking but that doesn't mean that all kinds of risks should be taken regardless of weather conditions.

Arctic weather has not been favorable to the quest of the MacMillan expedition relative to the exploration of that unknown territory lying to the north of Canada. Success was to be expected but in such things as were made to establish stations there was encountered much cloudiness and fog which made especially hazardous the crossing of the mountain ranges. And with the season nearing its end after which more severe conditions can be anticipated the return journey of the plans must be regarded as the logical one.

In this connection it is impossible to overlook the advance which was accessible by the end I and in being able to communicate with these back home concerning the course. Radio made possible a long distance conference. The judgment of those on the scene of action was asked and suggestions made regarding new plans. There is more than one lesson to be learned about wireless, nothing is clearer. The abandonment of the intended explorations does not mean that the expedition is going to be a complete failure as well as the difficult journey to another location, and even though there will be disappointment because of the forced change there is bound to be much more satisfaction than there would be had the flight over the unknown been insisted upon at a time unfavorable to success.

DEFENSE TESTS

Army officials as well as citizens generally interested in the defense of the country were much interested in the tests that were made at Fort Tilden, N. Y. on the question of determining the practicability of [illegible] and explosives [illegible] that some men [illegible] to be trained as to whether it is wise to have any great amount of defense [illegible] to the [illegible].

[illegible] Tilden it was demonstrated that [illegible] to hit the largest towed [illegible] having [illegible] at a speed of 6000 [illegible] and above prevented [illegible] but it did prove that the anti-[illegible] would be [illegible] Even [illegible] made at [illegible] favorable results but [illegible] day not the night [illegible] effectively shown [illegible] New York was [illegible].

It is not to be expected that [illegible] and [illegible] on any such [illegible] that we are not unmindful of the importance of providing an adequate defense, but they are not to be [illegible] into the discard all the protection that has been relied upon in the past for dealing with aircraft from terra firma. It would be as unwise right now to junk the anti aircraft guns as it would be to scrap all the battleships, even though it has been quite effectively demonstrated that battleships are subject to serious annoyance from the bombing planes.

As improvements continue in aviation it is not unthinkable that the day will come when war in the air will be restricted or else such weapons will be the cause of displacing certain other forms of warfare. Development is certain to take place and it will be necessary to keep abreast of the times through modern equipment or hasten the day of universal peace through resorting restrictive agreements. World peace seems to be more than just around the corner.

SETTLING THE DEBTS

The United States has persistently maintained that there was no absolutely sure and fast rule for the adjustment of the war debts owed by other countries. It has insisted upon consideration of the case but it has made it clear that the conditions of the respective cases would be taken under consideration.

How this has worked out is well illustrated in the case of Belgium. That country was the object of great sympathy during the war. It obtained funds in large amount here and great sums were actually given to it, but the war debt was an obligation which called for payment. By the agreement reached it is to be paid but such consideration was given to the representations of the Belgians that the interest on its debt during the fighting period will not be called for. There was a situation involved which justified a compromise.

This does not mean that this calls for the cancellation of the interest on the debts contracted by France and Italy, or others during the fighting period. It doesn't appear that there was any promise made to them as existed in the case of Belgium. In the British adjustment there was no such elimination of interest and unless other countries can convince this government of its moral obligation as Belgium did there is no precedent established beyond the fact that adjustments with all nations will be made under such conditions as exist. In other words it is not to be expected that France and Italy, for instance, have obtained an advantage just because President Wilson obligated the United States to call for no interest. If such were the case there would be justification, of course, for Great Britain to ask for a reopening of its agreement and apply for similar treatment. It had no claim when adjustment was made but Belgium did. Other nations can expect to be dealt with in just the same manner insofar as their position places them in the British or Belgian class.

Uncle Sam is simply carrying out a business arrangement in the belief that it is proper and that it will have the best effects upon the future peace of the world.

THE FOURTH OF JULY RECORD

Some time is required to get the record of the Fourth of July accidents and fatalities. Up to date three quarters of the states have reported and the figures show that while conditions are not as bad as they used to be there is still good reason for the application of safety and sanity to the celebration of the nation's birthday.

The time for serious reflection upon the desirability of preventing such a list of deaths and injuries is just previous to the holiday, but the horrible results of recklessly celebrating the Fourth cannot fail to make its impression upon the thoughtful.

When it is shown that in 36 states there were 111 persons who gave up their lives, 25 cases being from lockjaw, 22 deaths from fireworks of various kinds, 19 from explosions, 8 from shots and 37 children being burned to death it is time for others to do a little reflecting upon their future course of action. When in addition there were 79 who were disfigured by loss of some part of the body, 148 blinded in one or both eyes and a total list of 1030 seriously injured, there are to be found too many living examples of what the lack of safety and sanity in connection with Independence day will produce.

There is no one with a spark of patriotism in his breast who would in any way decrease the interest in the observance of the Fourth of July, but the number is large and has been growing larger for a number of years who believe that it does not call for a sacrifice of life or limb. The record this year was smaller than on some others but it is still altogether too large.

CHILD DELINQUENCY

According to the probation officer of the juvenile court in Washington, D. C., 90 per cent. of the child delinquency in the national capital last year was traceable to unsatisfactory home conditions. "Divorces, separations and other domestic difficulties are at the root of the evil" according to the probation official.

The right home influence is a matter of vital importance to the life of any child. Some of them receive it but many do not. It is unfortunate that there is such a disposition to let the child suffer for himself, to entrust his bringing up to the merciless hands of others, to farm him out, to fail to exercise discipline and to think little or nothing about his welfare until something has happened to demand the needed attention.

Without any question the broken home works havoc with the children, but there are are also many homes where parental responsibility is neither assumed nor exercised to the extent that it should be. In some instances it is felt that this should be left to the school teacher or to the playground instructor. There has been a growing disposition to leave the proper bringing up of children to others, when the duty rests upon the parents and should be eagerly and fully discharged by them.

It may be difficult to put the finger on the cause of child delinquency that would apply in all cases. Conditions vary, children vary and so do parents, but with good home influence working to capacity and giving heed to the needs of the children and the responsibility of parents much relief would be felt by those who come in such close contact with the cases of child delinquency. The importance of giving the citizen of tomorrow the right start cannot be too strongly emphasized.

COMPLICATED DATES

"Here," said the popular girl, who was eternally getting her dates mixed, "you've just got to help me out! I don't in the least know what to do!"

"Oh, what's wrong now?" queried the girl who was a trifle jealous, great cheer decorating her remark. "You poor thing!"

"I can't explain unless you have an understanding heart," proceeded the worried one. "If you have any sense at all and are really honest you must admit that it is impossible to have one rule for all men. They must be individually managed for their own good and happiness, to say nothing of our own peace of mind! While I believe in being strictly honest——"

"OOOOOee!" the jealous girl reproached her. "Nobody has since Eve gave her first afternoon tea! Is it that nice Parkins Darke?"

"You must have him on your mind to be able to think of his name so promptly," jabbed the popular girl, who was not feeling any too calm. "Of course, I admit that I have been running about with Parkins a great deal this winter, since Jimmy Seebreeze had to go to New York, and maybe I haven't always mentioned the fact in my letters.

"Jimmy is one of these intense persons and he assured me that the only way he possibly could survive his exile was to hear from me constantly—and I suppose he never will give me the least credit for the toil and self-sacrifice with which I have kept the mails burdened! I felt so sorry for him—"

"You would!" purred the jealous girl. "Any girl would just bubble over with sympathy when a man has such a cruel bank account as Jimmy has, and three cars and everything!"

"I had to say something in those letters, didn't I?" demanded the popular girl. "So of course I told Jimmy how I missed him and how lonely I was, and, of course, it was true, because I did piss him. But no matter how much you miss a person you really cannot spend twenty-four hours a day doing it, and I had several other occupations to kill time. The poor boy seemed so perfectly delighted at my sorrow and so cheered up by my unhappiness that possibly I laid it on a bit thick.

"You know how those things happen—you begin writing some simple little thought and it sort of spreads out and elaborates itself and you get all twisted up in your sentences and to end them properly have to say a little bit more than you intended—though, of course, being terribly fond of Jimmy! there was a foundation for all my remarks, which he evidently cherished. Most men are made frightfully pleased by the notion that your life is a blank without them and that when they are not present all you do is sit by the window, chin in hand, and mourn sighingly.

"Well, here is a telegram from Jimmy Seebreeze saying he arrives at 6 tonight and meet him for dinner and a show and that he's spend Sunday with me and then we'll plan what we'll do Monday. Going to give me a real whirl, you see, and brighten my dull life and all that—and I'm dying to see Jimmy! And on the other hand here is Parkins Drake, who is taking me to the club dinner-dance tonight with Mary Anne's morning supper early after it—and Parkins is coming to lunch at my house the next day. Sunday, before we drive out to Dilly's on the north shore for a skating party and supper—and Parkins is taking me to a theatre Monday."

"Don't!" begged the jealous girl looking very bright and happy. "I can see that the situation is perfectly perilous and that you stand to have both of them cast you off, hard—and you know, dear, I'd do anything in the world I could to help you, but I am going to be very busy the next few days and won't have a minute to spare! If you knew how sorry for you I am!"

"Then I suppose I'll have to come down with something contagious that lasts only a few days!" decided the popular girl, beginning to wipe off the rouge and look pale. "Darn!"—Chicago News.

From Small Beginnings

John B. Herreshoff, the Blind Boy, the Yacht Builder

A blind boy ran his hands over the model of a boat on which he was working, and smiled as he felt its proportions and its symmetry, and he was sure of his work, even though he could not see it. One would have thought it impossible for a blind boy to make a model of such exquisite beauty as the one that he had just made, for it was perfect in every detail.

From earliest boyhood John B. Herreshoff had loved boats and tools. He had not become blind until he was 15, and he had used his eyes to advantage. He had looked at boats of all kinds and had studied them. He had thought out the reasons why one sailing vessel can sail more rapidly than another. He had noticed the values of the various materials that go into the making of sailing ships and he had studied the methods of management of a boat that would develop the greatest speed.

Working at first with a jack-knife and then with various tools, he had made many models that delighted the men of the sea. He had looked ahead to a career. Then blindness came upon him. Anyone else might have given up—but the quality of true greatness is that its possessor does not yield.

With his brother, John B. Herreshoff, he went to school and to places for special training. He continued to make boats, and even in his blindness made them superlatively well. He established the Herreshoff Manufacturing Company, noted all over the world for the wonderful boats that it builds. To those who had watched the boy making his beautiful models, it was no surprise that the cup-defending yachts should come from his establishment. Persistence, even in the face of great misfortune, had won fame.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

The old rule that sons of able men don't amount to much is ill observed in America. A notable case in point is John Hays Hammond, Jr., who is negotiating with Uncle Sam for the lease of a giant dirigible to try out aviation on a large scale. Mr. Hammond is the son of John Hays Hammond, the famous financier and engineer and one-time associate of Cecil Rhodes. For several years the younger Hammond has been getting more publicity than his celebrated father. At an age when his father's wealth would enable him to cut a wide swath in gay and frivolous society, he has devoted his days and nights to abstruse calculations, endless blueprints and sputtering dynamos. For some years he has devoted himself especially to the study of telautomatics, which is the science aiming at the control of mechanical movements at a great distance by means of wireless. Young Hammond has made several notable inventions along this line.

Redwing the Blackbird Makes a Fuss

I know of nothing quite so sad
As sharing in a name that's bad.
—Mr. Water Snake.

Of course, Peter Rabbit should have been at home in the dear old Briarpatch. That is where he belongs in the middle of the forenoon. But Peter wasn't there. Peter was over by the Smiling Pool. It was a sunny morning. Peter was sitting well out of sight beneath the alder bushes that grew near where the Laughing Brook flowed into the Smiling Pool. Just beyond, the rushes grew for some distance out in the water and in the rushes on the edge of the Smiling Pool was Jerry Muskrat's house.

Nothing had happened and Peter, having been out all night, was rather sleepy. He nodded and dozed. It was very quiet, very peaceful and warm. Never in his life had Peter felt more like a nap. He had just about made up his mind that it would be quite safe to really go to sleep, when suddenly Redwing the Blackbird began to make a great fuss. Mrs. Redwing

"Now, what do you know about that?" exclaimed Peter joined him. Peter didn't even have to ask what it was all about. He had learned by experience to know that whenever any of his feathered friends get so excited in just that way it is because they have discovered a member of the Snake family.

Peter thought at once of old Mr. Blacksnake and wondered if the latter could be after the babies of Mr. and Mrs. Redwing. Then he remembered that the nest of Mr. and Mrs. Redwing was somewhere out in those rushes and could be reached only by someone who could swim or fly. He knew that Mr. Blacksnakes was a land Snake.

Of course, Peter stretched his neck and peered and pecked trying to see what all the fuss was about, but he saw nothing to cause all that excitement.

After a while Redwing and Mrs. Redwing quieted down. They flew off about their business. Once more it became quiet and peaceful. But by this time Peter was no longer sleepy. He hopped along a little farther and presently he came to a place where he could see quite clearly the roof of Jerry Muskrat's house standing above the water.

At first Peter didn't notice anything out of the usual. On the top of that roof the sun poured down warm and bright. "Hm," said Peter to himself. "Jerry Muskrat must have added a lot of mud to the top of his house. I wonder why he did that. If he was going to add anything I should have thought he would have put rushes there instead of mud. This isn't the time of year for him to be making repairs on his house anyway."

There was a brown mass on the top of Jerry Muskrat's house, and perhaps Peter was excusable in taking it for a mass of mud at that distance. It had the color of mud, brown mud. Peter was still idly looking at it and wondering how it happened to be there when it moved. Yes, sir, it moved. You should have seen Peter sit up then. "Now, what do you know about that?" exclaimed Peter. His eyes bulged right out. How Peter did stare!

The brown mass didn't move again. Peter watched so long that finally he made up his mind that he must have been mistaken. He made up his mind that his eyes had played him a trick. It must be that he had simply thought that something had moved there. But while he was busy thinking this a flat head with unblinking eyes was raised just above the middle of that brown mass. Peter almost squealed out. It was the head of a Snake. Yes, sir, it was a head of a big member of the Snake family. But what on the earth was he doing up there on the roof of Jerry Muskrat's house? This is what Peter wanted to know.

Stories That Recall Others

Preferred Square Ones

One evening a meek looking colored man appeared before the clerk who sold him some stamps and said in a most apologetic manner, "Please, mister, I think you sold me the wrong stamps," at the same time laying down two of the lovely new Concord-Lexington stamps. "I want the square kind, for I sure want my letter to go."

The clerk assured him that the stamps were all right. He took them away but he went shaking his head and looking doubtful.

A Real Boy.

Billy, age six, was the proud possessor of his first real boy suit. His mother was dressing him to go to a party. Thinking he looked unusually neat she thoughtlessly said: "Do you think they will say you look pretty when you go to the party?"

Very disgustedly he said: "I hope not; that's what they say to a girl. I'd rather they said I look like a big bum."

The rodent extermination department of Los Angeles, organized late last year, reports that during the first four months of 1925 it cost the city $1.40 for every rat captured, except in the harbor district, where the figure was $7 a head. The total cost to the city during the four months approximated $125,000 for the capture of 40,000 rats.

An Ancient Oak Chest

In years ago, when our old home was broken up,
Beneath my attic eaves
They stored much of the quaint old furniture—
(The wind of memory grieves!)

Today it rained; I chanced to have an errand there
Under my attic eaves;
There stood the oak chest from old England brought—
(The wind of memory grieves!)

Two hundred years ago, John Choate, my ancestor,
England's prim hedge-rows leaves
And brings across the sea this heirloom piece—
(The wind of memory grieves!)

How many a bride has kept her homespun in this chest . . .
Her coverlets she weaves . . .
Each generation's housewife stored her linen there—
(The wind of memory grieves!)

Dim shadows cluster fondly round the old oak chest;
I tiptoe past, and leave it to its dreamless rest.

Mr. and Mrs. John Sample and Misses Celia and Susan Curry of Summerville, Mass., are spending the week at the home of Mr. Sample's mother, Mrs. Daniel Sample of River avenue.

FUNERALS

Mrs. Albert M. Brown.

A very impressive funeral service for Mrs. Albert M. Brown was held on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bennett, Preston City with whom she had made her home since the death of her husband. The service was conducted by Rev. F. W. Tholen of Stafford, formerly pastor of the Preston City Baptist church. He was assisted by Rev. Mr. Harrison, the present pastor. After the reading of Scripture, Rev. and Mrs. Tholen sang, "There is a Home Eternal," after which prayer was offered, Rev. Mr. Tholen spoke of Mrs. Brown as a good friend to everybody and as one who was deeply interested in those in need, always having a kind word and a cheery smile. She was indeed a true friend and neighbor, one that believed in doing good to all she could, thus following the example of her Saviour of whom it is written, "He went about doing good." She will be greatly missed by her large circle of relatives and friends. The profusion of flowers was a token that she was loved by many. At the close of the service Mrs. Tholen sang, "The Homeland" and Rev. Harrison offered prayer. At the cemetery Rev. Tholen read the committal service and Rev. Harrison pronounced the benediction. Undertakers Church and Allen had charge of the funeral.

Miss Bertha Ella Slater.

Wednesday morning a prayer service for Miss Bertha Ella Slater, daughter of Captain Austin Slater of Coventry was held at the home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. William Bickner. At 10 o'clock a funeral service was held at the Preston City Baptist church. Rev. Joseph Harrison, assisted by Rev. Frederick W. Tholen, conducted the service.

The floral tributes were many and beautiful. Sometime We'll Understand, End of the Road and Beautiful Valley of Eden were sung by Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Tholen. Burial took place in Willimantic, Rev. Mr. Tholen conducting the committal service. The bearers were Ernest W. Slater, Earl Slater, Herman Slater, Clifford M. Maine, cousins, Jesse R. Wilcox and Frank J. Burr. Undertakers Church and Allen had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Mrs. Roger Tighe.

The funeral of Mrs. Margaret Tighe, wife of Roger Tighe, was held Thursday morning at 8:30 o'clock from her home, No. 16 Pratt street with a requiem mass at St. Mary's Memorial church at 9 o'clock, Rev. William A. Keefe, rector of the church, officiating. Miss Elizabeth Malone presided at the organ and Miss Mary Buckley sang Pie Jesu as the offertory hymn and Beautiful Land on High as the waiting hymn. The recessional hymn was Lead, Kindly Light. There were many beautiful floral remembrances and a very large attendance of relatives and friends, some coming from Branford, New Haven and New London.

The bearers were Michael J. O'Mara, Dr. D. J. O'Mara, Daniel T. O'Mara, Thomas F. Burns, George E. Chamberlain and Frank Harrington. Burial took place in St. Mary's cemetery where Rev. Father Keefe conducted a committal service. Cummings & Ring were in charge.

Miss Arlene B. Krawjewski

With a very large attendance of sorrowing relatives and friends the funeral of Miss Arlene B. Krawjewski, who was drowned in the Willimantic river, was held from her home, on Howard street, Thursday morning at 7:30 o'clock. The prayer for the dead was read at the house by Rev. Peter Sroka, of St. Joseph's church. A requiem mass was held at 8 o'clock at St. Joseph's church, Rev. Father Sroka officiating.

As the casket was being taken from the home by the bearers, Donald Connor, Marcel Rozycki, Frank Marcelli and Anthony Olaf, the following members of the Children of Mary, acted as a guard of honor: Teresa Wismuwska, Margaret Sadusky, Mary Tumicki, Bertha Domiwat, Helen Stalinolins and Bertha Rynsza. At the church the Children of Mary attended in a body while Mrs. Thomas Healy presided at the organ, directing the Junior choir, assisted by Edward T. Connelly and Frank Murdy. Miss Anna Jacobowski, soloist, rendered Luzzis' Ave Maria at the offertory. There was a very large attendance at the church including a delegation of nurses from St. Joseph's hospital, Willimantic. The burial took place at St. Joseph's cemetery, Rev. Fr. Sroka reading the committal service. Undertakers Cummings and Ring had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Mrs. Catherine Dunegan.

Funeral services for Mrs. Catherine Dunegan were held Thursday morning at 8:30 o'clock from the home of her niece, Mrs. Nellie Moore McHale, of 264 West Main street, requiem mass being celebrated at 9 o'clock at St. Patrick's church by Rev. Myles P. Galvin.

Miss Irene LaValle was at the organ during the mass and at the offertory Roderick Sullivan sang Pie Jesu. For a waiting hymn he rendered Lead Kindly Light. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends at the service from New York, Hartford, New London and Willimantic, and the floral tributes were beautiful.

Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery where the committal service was read by Rev. Father Galvin. The bearers were Timothy and Bartholomew Sullivan of New London, Conrad Menser of Hartford and Michael Moran, Joseph Fitzgerald and Jeremiah Sullivan of Norwich. Hourigan Bros. were in charge of the arrangements.

ALLEGED SHOPLIFTERS ARE CAPTURED BY LOCAL POLICE

Quick work by Officers Michael Carroll and Bernard Keenan, following a report that shoplifters had attempted to ply their trade at the Brooklyn Outfitters resulted in the capture of John Mario, 27, who gave his address as New York, and Joai Sato, 27 also of New York, who also gave a business address of 216 Canal street, Boston when the two men were making their way out of Norwich on the Willimantic trolley, Thursday morning. Both men are now locked up at the local police station to await a hearing in police court this (Friday) morning.

It is alleged that the two men went into the Brooklyn Outfitters Co., store Thursday morning, and attempted to put two men's suits into a bag they were carrying with them. A sales girl detected them in the act and told them to put the suits back, which they did. Before making the alleged attempt to take the suits a shirt was purchased in the store.

Chief Linton was immediately notified by the management of the store of the actions of the two men, and was furnished with a description of the shoplifters. Officers Carroll and Keenan learned that the men had left Norwich on the 10.45 o'clock trolley for Willimantic and hailing a passing autoist they requested the operator to put after the trolley car, overtaking it on North Main street near the Shetucket Coal Co.

Boarding the trolley the officers located the men as described by the salesgirl and ordered them to accompany them to the police station. The two men were sitting some distance apart, one having a black travelling bag, a paper bag and a brief case. They denied knowing each other and also denied the ownership of the travelling bag and other travelling things. Officer Carroll called out to the passengers, asking them if any of them owned the travelling bag, but no one claimed ownership.

At the police station Chief Linton, upon opening the bags, found about ten men's suits of high grade materials, some merchandise in the bag and dime novels of the Nick Carter type, in the brief case. The men continued to claim that they were strangers to each other but the sales girl and a salesman from the Brooklyn Outfitters pointed out the men as the same two who were in the store less than an hour earlier, carrying the black bag.

Mario stated that he was a Spaniard and Sato claimed to be an American. Sato at first claimed he came from New York, but later stated that he had a branch office at 216 Canal St., Boston.

A representative of Savard Bros., dealers in men's clothing also came to the police station and identified the men as the same two who were in the Savard store Thursday morning. He said that the men looked around but nothing was attempted there. He placed the value of the suits at about $400. The suits bore no marks by which they could be identified, but a close search disclosed the buttons on one suit to bear the name of Horsefall's, a Hartford clothing store.

Chief Linton telephoned the Hartford company and gave a description of the men, receiving the information that men answering this description were in the Horsefall's store Wednesday. It was not known whether a suit had been stolen, but Chief Linton was informed that an investigation would be made.

At present City Attorney Lee Roy Robbins has not drawn up any complaint against the two men, but they will appear in police court this (Friday) morning.

The men are well dressed, about five feet six inches in height and speak fairly good English, both are dark complexioned and one of the pair wore a sporty suit of a value of about sixty-five dollars. It is believed that the men are clever operators and that the Norwich police department is to be complimented on their fast work of detecting and placing them under arrest. The charge against the men's names on the police blotter is theft.

CELEBRATED PURCHASE OF A. M. E. ZION PARSONAGE

Members of the A. M. E. Zion church celebrated the sixth anniversary of the purchasing of the parsonage, Thursday evening, at the parsonage home of Rev. Dixon A. Brown, pastor of the church. The program was arranged by Miss Idela Scott and included solo numbers by Mr. Bates, of Boston, who is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Scott of School street, and by other members of the church; duets, violin solos and readings.

A feature of the evening was the collection of a substantial sum of money to be sent to Rev. and Mrs. Frances, now missionaries to the Gold Coast, Africa, it being Rev. Mr. Frances who started the movement to purchase a parsonage for the church.

During the evening the following interesting paper was read by Mrs. Robert Johnson. We are here tonight to celebrate the sixth anniversary of the purchasing of the parsonage. It was in 1918 that we were what is commonly called "up against it," the problem on our hands being the housing of our pastor and family. Rev. W. D. Frances, now laboring for the cause in Africa. He came to us filled with courage and helped us to cast aside some of the worries of those days, his motto being, "where there is a will there is a way." He went ahead and in cooperation with our trustees on July 20, 1920, we were able to pay down $200.50, thereby giving us the right to take possession of this beautiful little home in such a desirable location. Thereafter a monthly payment was made and month after month he worked for the parsonage.

In the first year of the pastorate of Rev. Dixon A. Brown, the property was cleared from all debt and we were able to burn the mortgage, by putting over a drive for $1,000. We went over the top in this drive with the help of our trustees and many fine improvements were made.

Why should we not rejoice? It is with an air of pride we are able to look back over these years and see how we are able to enjoy ourselves with such a pastor and his loving and cheerful companion, Mrs. Brown, who is always ready and willing to receive us. We must not forget, however, from whom all these blessings flow. We must be thankful to our Heavenly Father and be ever willing to work for Him and give ourselves to His cause.

FANNY BROWN FOUND DEAD IN BED AT HER HOME

Fanny Brown, 66, colored, was found dead in bed Thursday morning at the home of Delaware Howard, 9 Forest street, where she lived. Mr. Howard who discovered the woman's body notified police headquarters who in turn notified Medical Examiner C. C. Glidersleeve who conducted an examination. The woman has been in poor health for several weeks.

State Chamber Directors

There will be a meeting of the board of directors of the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce today (Friday) at the Chippanee Country club in Bristol, for the purpose of electing a second vice-president and two directors, necessitated by the resignation of Vice President George T. Kimball of New Britain and Directors Winthrop M. Daniels of New Haven and Ralph B. Ives of Hartford.

The directors will also pass on four proposed amendments to the by-laws, which provide for the creation of separate committees to represent banking and insurance, respectively; changing the provision for the appointment of the agriculture committee; empowering all directors to appoint proxies and raising of the standing committees from five to seven members.

It is expected that there will be discussion on the threatened coal strike, the New England conference, and the question of joining the National Highways association.

Seek $4,000 Damages

The Yale Tire and Rubber Co., of New Haven has brought a superior court action against William Mileski of this city, claiming damages of $4,000 on the common counts. The papers in the action have been filed with the clerk of the superior court in this city.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Miss Helen L. Perkins, of Uncas street, is visiting Miss Jane Bill, at her cottage on Groton Long Point.

Mrs. E. R. Lace has returned to Brooklyn, N. Y., and Commander and Mrs. John A. Monroe have returned to Mystic, following a week-end visit with Mrs. James Lewis Smith and Miss Carrie P. Rogers.

Norwich friends attended a dance Thursday evening given by Mr. and Mrs. George S. Palmer, of The Pequot, for their daughters, Misses Georgiana and Priscilla Palmer, who are entertaining several school friends.

G. & E. EMPLOYES HAVE OUTING AT RED TOP

Red Top, the training quarters for the Harvard rowing crew, has seen many good times and a variety of outings, but it is doubtful if ever a better time was held at the riverside resort than that held Thursday by over 180 employes of the City of Norwich Gas & Electrical department, their wives and children. All day long care was laid aside and everybody joined into the festivities of the day with a vim, the kind of action which in business spells success, and in fun and pleasure, gives assurance of a wonderful time.

The committees in charge of the outing and bake had prepared a program of events for the entire day and competition ran keen between the men, women and children, in the various events scheduled for them to participate in to win prizes.

Practically every employe of the department who could be spared from duty was at Red Top for the outing and it was certainly a happy family which sat about the tables as the sun was bidding farewell to the day and the gray shadows of night were slowly creeping up the river Thames, a setting to delight the heart of any artist.

However, although the scenic picture may have been one of beauty the 180 and more hungry employes took little time to gaze about them but paid strict attention to one of the finest bakes ever served in eastern Connecticut. Everything on the menu was done to a turn and from baked clams to lobster, the supper was a grand success. The menu was as follows:

Baked Clams
Sweet Potatoes	White Potatoes
Baked Native Chicken
Brown Bread	White Bread
Tomatoes	Pickles
Olives	Cake
Chicken Croquets
Roasted Green Corn
One-Half Broiled Lobster
Ice Cream	Soda
Coffee

The program of athletic events began in the morning and continued throughout the day, the results being as follows: Men's obstacle race—Robsky, first; Geevers, second; prize, silk stockings. Woman's potato race—Mrs. Joseph Moran, first; prize, silk stockings. Boy's 50-yard dash—David Isham, first; Joseph Slosowski and Arthur Popoirier, second; prize, baseball. Girl's 50-yard dash—Miss Tubbs, first; Miss Cayen, second; prize, chocolates. Three-legged race—Sullivan and Dickerman, first; Boleaky and Wheeler, second; prize, cigarettes. Fat men's race—Amos Wheeler, first; James L. Case, second; prize, razor. Women's hoop roll—Miss Florence Disco, first; Mrs. Moran, second; prize, chocolates. Needle threading contest—Mr. and Mrs. Poirier, first; Mr. and Mrs. Roisky, second; prize, handkerchiefs and necktie. Sack race—Dickerman, first; prize, Eversharp pencil. Standing broad jump—John Sullivan, first, 8 feet 7 1-2 inches; Archie Spalding, second, 8 feet 5 inches; prize, necktie. Hop, step and jump—James Cafferty, first; John Sullivan, second; prize, pipe and tobacco. Women's broad jump—Miss Evon Broadhurst, first, 5 feet 6 1-2 inches; Miss Disco, second. Women's 50-yard dash—Miss Disco, first; Agnes Murphy, second.

A feature of the athletic program was the annual baseball game between the married and single men, the married men losing out on the argument by the score of 11 to 7. Austin and Bowker were the battery for the married men while Cafferty and McCarthy and Coughlin were the single men's battery. Joseph Sullivan umpired on bases and Amos Wheeler in the field.

During the afternoon dancing was enjoyed with music furnished by D'Atri's orchestra, while other members enjoyed themselves with cards or by other means. A short entertainment program was given shortly before 6 o'clock in the afternoon by Charles Geevers, whose feats of hand balancing brought constant applause from a delighted audience.

The employes of the department were favored with the presence of Mayor Milo R. Waters and several members of the board of gas and electrical commissioners, among them President James L. Case, J. P. Connors and ex-Commissioner Fred A. Fox. Previous to the serving of the bake Mayor Waters was called upon for remarks and he congratulated the department on its record during the past few years, the co-operation, he said, making it possible to bring the department to the present high point of efficiency. His remarks led to a cheer for the man who did it, Charles W. Taggart, general manager of the department, who was also called upon for a short speech.

The committee in charge of the outing, which was voted the best ever held by the department, comprised the following employes: General Manager Charles W. Taggart, Earle Taggart, N. C. Pierce, E. A. Rich, R. H. Mather, Paul Brumme, Walter Carrigan, Archie R. Spalding, H. A. Clark, W. T. Shanley and M. J. Kirby. Messrs. Spalding and Kirby acted as secretaries of the affair.

OBITUARY.

M. Joseph Berberich.

The death of M. Joseph Berberich occurred Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock at his home, No. 329 West Main street. He was born in Germany, 62 years ago the son of Mr. and Mrs. Antone Berberich, and had made his home in Norwich for the past 35 years.

Mr. Berberich was employed by the Crescent Fire Arms company for the past 25 years and was a member of Germania lodge, O. D. H. S., No. 11, of Norwich and the Holy Name society of St. Patrick's church. News of his death came as a shock to his many friends and sympathy is expressed to his family in their sad bereavement.

Mr. Berberich is survived by his wife and one daughter, Mrs. Conrad Swan of Brooklyn, N. Y., also three brothers, Frank and Albert of Norwich and Charles of North Grosvenordale; also two sisters, Mrs. Theresa Busch of Florida and Mrs. Leonard Hoffman of Norwich. There are also several nieces and nephews.

Miss Mary O'Connell.

Following an illness of two months the death of Miss Mary O'Connell occurred Thursday evening at the home of her sister, Mrs. Samuel Carr, of 35 Elizabeth street. Throughout her long illness Miss O'Connell bore her suffering without complaint and was most tenderly cared for by loved ones. News of her death will be received with sorrow by a host of friends in this city.

Miss O'Connell was born in Willimantic, August 18, 1856, the daughter of John and Hannah O'Connell. She came to this city with her parents when a girl and attended local schools. She was a member of St. Patrick's church and always took active interest in church work as long as health permitted.

She is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Samuel Carr and Mrs. John C. Brooks, both of Nowich; three brothers, Dennis of Lindhurst, N. J., Michael of Brooklyn, and John of Norwich. There are also several nieces and nephews.

Mrs. Jeremiah P. Downing

Following an illness of several months, the death of Ellen D. Downing, widow of Jeremiah P. Downing, occurred Thursday night at 10 o'clock at her home No. 455 North Main street. Throughout her lengthy illness she was most tenderly cared for by members of the family.

Mrs. Downing was born in Ireland, the daughter of John and Mary O'Reilly Brennan but came to this country when 17 years of age, most of her life being spent in Norwich as a resident of Greeneville. On May 6, 1884, in St. Patrick's church, she was united in marriage with Jeremiah P. Downing by the late Rev. P. P. Shahan. Mr. Downing died about 28 years ago.

Mrs. Downing was a member of Division No. 18, Ladies auxiliary, A. O. H. and a member of the Charitable society of St. Mary's Memorial church parish. She was a woman of high ideals and took great pleasure in aiding her many friends. News of her death will be received with regret by a host of friends, especially in Greeneville, and the members of her family will have their sympathy during their bereavement.

Mrs. Downing is survived by two sons, Patrick F., of Norwich and Jerry P. Downing of Derby; one daughter, Mrs. Dennis C. Sullivan of Norwich; two sisters, Mrs. Catherine Houlihan of Norwich and Mrs. William Pyle of Fishers Island; one brother, Jeremiah C. Brennan of Lancaster, Pa.; three grandchildren and several nieces and nephews.

COLCHESTER BAZAAR IS PROVING GREAT SUCCESS

The bazaar under the auspices of the borough of Colchester and the New London County Voiture, No. 743, American Legion, at Colchester Green, Thursday evening, was well attended and opened with a parade through the principal streets of Colchester headed by the Moodus Fife and Drum Corps. Included in the line of march was the French box car and engine of the local voiture, which caused no little comment. The booths, which were very attractively decorated and also the grounds, received considerable patronage from the throng in attendance. Dancing was enjoyed throughout the evening on a large out of door platform the music being furnished by D'Atri's Wauregan House orchestra of Norwich, and was of the usual high class, calling for many encores.

NORWICH MARKETS

NORWICH MARKET.

Furnished by the Market Reporter of the state board of agriculture to The Norwich Bulletin.

Active demand: Peaches, cantaloupes, corn and tomatoes.

Moderate demand: Beans, potatoes, onions and eggs.

Slow demand: Squash, celery, beets and carrots.

Market Conditions (Aug. 20, 1925.)

Markets were active this morning in handling the larger supplies of tomatoes, corn, beans and potatoes. The market tendency is downward on corn, tomatoes and squash, due to heavier arrivals on the market of late. Offerings of lima beans on the market is adequate. Native peaches are arriving in larger quantities on the markets so as to warrant lower prices. Alberta are expected on the markets early in September. This grade of peaches is always in active demand. Cabbage markets tend higher under lighter receipts. Native potatoes reported lower. Egg markets are upward on all grades this week.

HARRY GREB IS SEVERELY INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT AT PITTSBURGH

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Harry Greb, middleweight boxing champion, was seriously injured early this evening when his automobile overturned a few miles from this city. He was brought to the West Penn hospital where physicians said he sustained two fractured ribs and cuts and bruises on his back and chest. The extent of internal injuries he may have suffered will not be known until X-ray photographs have been made, it was said. The champion's condition was declared to be serious, but not necessarily dangerous.

Greb and two other men had started in the boxer's car for Erie, Pa., where the former was to fight Jimmy Darragh tomorrow night. As they ascended a hill, which was slippery from a light rain, the party observed two parked automobiles at the foot of the hill blocking the highway. Greb threw on the brakes and his car, the wheels locked, skidded off the road and turned over.

The fighter was pinned down by the steering wheel. His companions, Leo Gerill, a sparring partner, and Allen Jones, crawled from the wreckage not seriously hurt. Passing motorists came to their aid and Greb was brought to a hospital.

KAPLAN WORKING HARD FOR BOUT WITH HERMAN

MERIDEN, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Louis (Kid) Kaplan, of this city, featherweight champion of the world, will be ready for Babe Herman, his challenger, when the two meet for the 126-pound title at Waterbury next Thursday night. While Kaplan was sparring with his partners, his manager and trainer, Dennis McMahon, spoke in behalf of the champion, discussing the coming battle, which is Connecticut's first title bout since the halcyon days Hartford.

"Kaplan is working very hard," said McMahon. "As in the past he gets right down to business as he has never allowed himself to consider any opponent an easy one. Louie will have no trouble in making the weight and he will give the fans something to remember before the evening is over. In fact I don't think the Kid ever looked any better than he does this afternoon."

Kaplan worked out with Eddie Lord, of Waterbury, Tracey Ferguson, of Northford, and his two brothers. Each man as he left the ring was emphatic in saying that the champion was hitting with stinging force.

Maloney Wins on Foul

BOSTON, Aug.—(AP)—King Solomon of Panama forfeited the decision to Jim Maloney of Boston at the end of the third round of the scheduled 10 round bout at Braves Field tonight when the referee called a foul on a hard right to the jaw which knocked out Maloney just after the bell struck. Solomon had carried the first and third rounds. He weighed 189 3-4 and Maloney 196.

MISS BLEITREY GIVES EXHIBITION AT JEWETT CITY

Over a thousand persons sat on the banks of Ashland pond in Jewett City Thursday evening and watched with enthusiasm one of the best aquatic exhibitions ever given in eastern Connecticut. There were several features of the program, which was arranged by Prentice W. Chase, among them being the appearance of Miss Ethelda Bleitrey, world's champion woman swimmer, in a special 60-yard race with one of the Jewett City swimmers. In this race Miss Helen Backowonesky was picked to oppose the champion and for the first thirty yards made things interesting but in the last sixty Miss Bleitrey demonstrated why she is world's champion.

The program of water sports for the local swimmers included a relay race for the younger swimmers, boys vs. the girls, in which the former won by a scant margin. The Ashland diving quartette, Miss Louise Segal, Miss Mildred Wondor, Henry Vincent and Roland Guillert, performed brilliantly in the fancy diving exhibition. Their form was so good that they have been extended an invitation to perform at the Rocky Point pool on Labor Day. As a special added attraction Eugene Storey, only ten years old, gave a burlesque on diving.

The Main attraction of the program was the Rocky Point Natatorial quartette, Miss Peggy LaRue, Mabel Macken, Miss Eva Miller, and Miss Gordon, who gave a most perfect exhibition of diving.

Miss Bleitrey was unable to complete her program as she had to return to New York at the urgent request of her manager.

PLAYGROUND ACTIVITIES
Crescents Beat Rosedales

Thursday eve at the N. F. A. diamond Courbois' Crescents brought home their slice of bacon in a return game with the Greeneville Rosedales. The Rosedales went down to a 6-3 defeat at the hands of Crescents.

Conture pitched remarkable ball for winners, striking out six and allowing none to walk. Kamff's cornersault catch in back of second was stellar performance of the five-inning game. The score:

Prize to Winners

Now that Jack's Sport Shop has donated a handsome trophy for winners of Junior Twi league, competition should wax keen. The Junior League schedule has just about four games to go, with Warriors leading league with five wins and no defeats.

Tonight at the Academy Campus, the Crescents, winners of last night's game will pit their diamond skill against the undefeated Warriors.

HARTFORD TAKES CLOSE GAME FROM BEARS

HARTFORD, Aug. 20—Hartford made it two straight over Bridgeport here this afternoon, taking a close game by a 7 to 6 count. Although Hartford piled up a commanding lead, James was unable to hold it, and in the ninth inning with the tying and winning runs on base gave way to Dailey, who was boosted out of the box by a snappy double play that ended the game. Mullen's triple with the bases loaded and catches by Shay, Batch and Durocher featured. The score:

Bridgeport	0	0	0	3	0
Hartford	3	0	2	1	1

Two base hits, James, Comiskey, Burke. Schinkel, Burns. Three base hit, Mullen, Henzes.

TROLAND ANSWERS CHAPMAN IN POWERFUL LANGUAGE

Sporting Editor:

Kindly permit me to reply to the puerile notes of Mr. E. E. Chapman and other garrulous managers of baseball teams who have recently been so apt at repartee. Mr. Chapman, manager of the Socony nine, not only aspires to become one of the world's greatest baseball mentors but in addition endeavors to change the sporting page of The Bulletin into a sheet of literary criticism by penning his views of my literary style and ability and resorting to age-old witticisms and coarse irony to gain his end. His letter contained hardly any substantial data of the relative strength of his team only that the Sub Base had defeated his Oil Representatives by a respectable score in two games. Just what he means by a respectable score is a matter of conjecture but the point is that Socony were beaten both games.

It is expedient at this time to inform, once and for all, the various managers who have been so quick to unbridle their tongues telling incredible fairy tales of the impotency of the Taftville A. A. Up to the present writing we have won 28 games, tied 2, and lost 8. Such a splendid showing cannot be scoffed at by managers of less fortunate baseball teams. We would willingly play a series with all challengers were it not that our schedule must be carried out as drawn up.

Let me inquire, why do all the teams of any merit crave a series with Taftville A. A.? If we were not the outstanding team in these parts, I, the manager, would not be annoyed on all sides by wild challenges from wilder and more erratic and unreasonable so-called master minds of sand lot baseball. It is merely the case of the champion smilingly sitting back at those envious of the crown.

In conclusion allow me to state especially to the Messrs. Liberty, Chapman and Donovan, that our schedule may be so adjusted as to permit these loquacious Would-be John McGraws to send their teams to slaughter. I have one of those well known telephones which would enable any or all of the challengers to get in communication with me if they were really sincere.

Trusting this letter will pass the literary censor who so magnanimously dubs himself poet-laureate of Baseballdom. Let's play ball and stop the (as the clever Mr. Chapman would say) the bologna.

JIM TROLAND.

RICE'S HOME RUN BEATS ATHLETICS IN 9TH

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 20—Rightfielder Harry Rice's home run and Manager George Sisler's triple with a men on base in the ninth inning of today's game gave the St. Louis Browns a clean sweep of the three game series and relegated the Philadelphia Athletics to second place in the league standing. The score was 7 to 6.

Washington, by virtue of its 12-inning victory over Cleveland, now leads the American league by a scant six point margin.

Dykes home run with two men on bases on the fifth inning featured Marty McManus, second baseman of the Browns, also out for the circuit. Score:

SENATORS TAKE OVER TIME GAME FROM INDIANS

CLEVELAND, Aug. 20—(AP)—Cleveland and Washington battled for 12 innings today before Washington won, 1 to 0, in the final game of the series.

Although Washington made 13 hits off Miller, the collegian southpaw, he was effective with men on bases.

He also received excellent support the Indians executing three double plays. Washington also gave its pitchers good support, also having three double plays.

Zachary after holding Cleveland to five hits in eight innings, retired in favor of a pinch hitter and was replaced by Marberry, who went in as a relief pitcher for the third consecutive day. Score:

BRAVES SWEEP SERIES WITH THE CARDINALS

BOSTON, Aug. 20—The Boston Braves swept a four game series with St. Louis by taking the final today, 6 to 3. Rogers Hornsby, league leading batter, again went hitless in four trips to the plate. He only made one hit in the series. The Braves infield backed up Barnes in sensational style in the pinches. High lights of the game were home runs by Hafey and High, each when a mate was on base. BRASSCOS WIN DOUBLE VICTORY OVER ALBANY

WATERBURY, Aug. 20—(A. P.)—Waterbury won its fourth straight game and the third in two days over the Albany club here today by taking both ends of a double header by the scores of 2 to 1, and 10 to 9. Andy Rush's home run with one on base in the opening game decided a pitcher's battle between the Waterbury hurler and Bill Hinkle. The Brasscos hit hard in the second game but Touchstone's wildness, coupled with miscplays gave the visitors six runs in the ninth inning to take the lead. Waterbury scored two runs in final inning to win the game.

WILLS SAYS HE IS READY TO MEET TUNNEY OR DEMPSEY

PARIS, Aug. 20—Harry Wills, American negro heavyweight pugilist and contender for Jack Dempsey's crown, arrived in Paris today looking trim and fit after three weeks at Carlsbad, and declaring that he was ready to to take on any opponent with four wekes training after he reaches America.

Wills said that he would sail for New York August 29 on the Aquitania, and that he had been called home by a cable from his manager, Paddy Mullins. This message said that his presence was necessary in New York before September 5, but added no further particulars.

"All I know about my being matched to fight Gene Tunney on September 26 is what I read in the papers," Wills said. "If this is true I am ready. The only thing I am afraid of is that the boxing authorities won't stand for my meeting Tunney. You see, he only weighs 150 pounds, while the lowest I can make is 212. However, if they are satisfied I am."

Concerning a bout with Jack Dempsey, Wills said that the date in 1926 proposed by the champion suited him perfectly. "I am certain that Jack has no personal ill feeling toward me," Wills said, "and would not stand in the way of my making a few hundred thousand dollars."

Wills said that he now weighs 225 pounds in his street clothes and can get down to fighting weight in two weeks.

The negro pugilist will leave Paris Monday for a tour of the battlefields, and will return just in time to board the Aquitania at Cherbourg.

MISS RYAN IS ELIMINATED BY MISS McKANE

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 20—Miss Elizabeth Ryan's attempt for the tennis laurels of her native land came to an unexpected end today when the Californian bowed to her British opponent, Miss Kathleen McKane, in a sensational three set duel, 3-6, 7-5, 6-2.

While Miss McKane was eliminating the woman generally regarded as the tournament favorite, Miss Helen Wills, 19 year old defending champion, was herself forced to a sensational extra set match to take the measure of her young English rival, Miss Jean Fry, 4-6, 6-0, 6-3.

These matches the most thrilling of the championship tournament at the West Side Tennis Club, put the victors in the semi-finals.

Tomorrow Miss McKane will play Mrs. Molla B. Mallory, seven times American champion, who today decisively defeated Miss Penelope Anderson of Richmond, Va. 6-2, 6-1. While Miss Wills will play an American girl, Miss Eleanor Goss, who put out the veteran International captain, Mrs. Dorothy Lambert Chambers, in a brilliant match 6-2, 1-6.

CUYLER'S HOMER WINS CLOSE GAME FOR PIRATES

BROOKLYN, Aug. 20—(A. P.)—Hazen Cuyler's freak home run in the sixth inning today gave Pittsburgh the margin by which it defeated Brooklyn, 2 to 1, and made its advantage in the pennant race a full three games as New York lost to Chicago. Cuyler's hit appeared to be an ordinary single but bounded high over Brown's head in center field and rolled to the exit gate.

In the fifth, with Brooklyn players crowding the bases, Cuyler cut down a triple from Brown's bat with a sparkling gloved hand catch. Brooklyn's only run was a homer by Zack Wheat in the first. Cox, Brooklyn outfielder who had hit safely in nineteen straight games, was unable to solve Kremer's delivery. Score:

DAVIS CUP TEAM IS DEFINITELY NAMED

NEW YORK, Aug. 20—(A. P.)—The United States Davis Cup team, which will defend the International Team Tennis Championship at Philadelphia September 10, 11 and 12, will be composed of William T. Tilden, William M. Johnston, Vincent Richards and R. Norris Williams, the last named serving as captain.

The Davis cup selection committee, which decided the make-up of the team at a meeting today, also announced that Howard P. Kinsey of San Francisco had been named first substitute. He will not gain a place on the team, however, unless some mishap, occurring not later than ten days before the challenge round, forces one of the regulars out of the lineup.

A committee on playing strategy to represent the Davis cup committee, also was selected. It is composed of Holcombe Ward, Karl Behr and Dean Mathey, all veterans of international play.

The selection of the "big four" of American tennis for the cup team fulfilled predictions made after the conclusion of the recent test matches at Forest Hills.

At the same time, however, the committee did not reveal its final decision on how the players will be assigned, except that Tilden will be number one in the singles. It is considered certain, nevertheless, that Johnston will be the number two singles man, particularly as he won both trial matches against Richards to decide to relative merits of these two stars. Richards and Williams probably will form the doubles combination.

America's opponents in the challenge round will be determined at Forest Hills, September 4, 5 and 7, when France, winner of the European zone competition will oppose either Australia or Japan, which contest in the American zone began today at Boston.

BLANKENSHIP PITCHES SOX TO VICTORY OVER BOSTON

CHICAGO, Aug. 20—Ted Blankenship registered his eighth consecutive victory today when Chicago defeated Boston 12 to 7, making a clean sweep of the three game series. Erratic fielding behind Ruffing and Zahniser who were both hit hard in sports, gave the locals their runs. Blankenship weakened in the seventh inning and was replaced by Connally who held the visitors safe until the ninth inning when a pinch hitter, Carlyle, started a rally with a three base hit. Fast fielding by Collins and Davis cup the rally short, however. The score:

A WOMAN SHOPLIFTER OPERATES IN NEW LONDON APPAREL STORE

(Special to the Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 20.—A shoplifter operated in New London's business district this afternoon it was revealed when George Beloff, proprietor of an apparel store, State street known as Blair's, reported to the police that a black crepe dress, valued at $22, had been stolen a short time before Beloff made a report of the theft at the police station. Beloff stated that about 2:30 o'clock a middle-aged woman, stout of build, appeared in the store and was observed by one of the sales girls to place a bulky object in a large bag that she carried. The woman was seen to leave the store, but the sales woman did not make known her observation until after the dress was discovered missing.

Miss Agnes Murphy, of 124 Huntington street; Vladimir Desselofsky, United States Coast Guard service; Glen Reed, yacht Ironich; Mrs. John Odden and infant son, 116 Howard street; Francis Duffy, of Camp Trumbull, Niantic, and Oscar Haashi, 170 Poquonoc road, Groton, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were dismissed today.

Lieut. J. Greeley Winn, attached to submarine 13, stationed at the base, reported to the police about 3 o'clock this morning that [illegible] his automobile [illegible] to a chief petty officer, Tuesday night and that the auto had not been returned to him. nor had he seen the petty officer, Wednesday night or since. James Fowler, residing at 15 Ocean avenue, had reported [illegible] authorities that a Ford coupe had been loaned in front of his home some time early that forenoon and that the [illegible] had been abandoned. It was learned that the car was that owned by Lieutenant Winn and it was brought to the police garage and held until this morning, when claimed by the owner.

Nathan Belcher this morning filed with City Clerk Julian D. Morgan his acceptance of the nomination of member of the board of school visitors. Mr. Belcher's acceptance is the last to be received, for the other two nominees, P. LeRoy Harwood and Clifford H. Relden have already filed their acceptances.

The cargo of 500 cases of alcohol and whiskey seized by the crew of the revenue cutter Beale, Sunday, when the fishing sloop, Lena C., was captured off Block Island trying to reach her home port, New Bedford, Mass., with the contraband, was taken from the sloop, which is owned at the United States Coast Guard pier, this morning and transferred to storage in the customs house. The crew of the Beale, five in number, are scheduled to be given a hearing tomorrow afternoon before United States Commissioner Russell H. Corcoran at the customs house here. They are now at liberty under bonds.

Howard Lockwood, 37 Federal street, will be in the police court tomorrow morning on a charge of violation of the automobile law, having been arrested this morning by Sergeant Nelson on complaint of Morris Mallove, 43 Denison avenue, who alleges that Lockwood evaded responsibility last night when he operated the car he was driving away following the machine colliding with Mallove's car. Lockwood furnished a bond of $100 for his appearance in court. Mallove, in lodging his complaint with the police, stated that he was driving through Main street and when at a point between John and Douglas streets the car driven by Lockwood came along at a fair rate of speed and crashed against the side of the Mallove auto. Lockwood, instead of stopping to learn what damage had been suffered by Mallove's car, drove away. Mallove, however, obtained the registration of the colliding auto and reported the accident to the police with the request that the driver be apprehended. This morning it was found that the colliding automobile was the property of Mrs. Nellie Maynard, station 13, R. F. D., Waterford. It then was revealed that Lockwood was the driver of the machine last night and his arrest followed.

Carl S. Kaelstrom, John Mc Osterchine operated by Miss Sadie Jark, sold a house and lot on Perry street to Sadie Steinberg.

An automobile owned by Viggo E. Bird, manager of the Connecticut Power company, and driven by Benjamin Walker, 15 Waldo street, and a machine operated by Miss Sadie Jack 21 Elliott avenue, were damaged this noon, when the two cars were in collision at the corner of Willetts and Montauk avenues. Both machines suffered disfigured mudguards and running boards.

Joseph Fluett, about 55, returned to his home, 107 Main street, this forenoon, after a mysterious absence of 36 hours. Fluett's face was badly disfigured and his automobile was wrecked indicating that Fluett suffered his injuries as the result of his car having run off the highway in the country, although Fluett refuses to state the manner by which he suffered his injuries or how his machine was damaged. The car is now at a service station, having been towed there from Waterford this morning.

Fluett left his home about 8:30 o'clock Tuesday night in his car and was accompanied by one or more men. That was the last his family had knowledge of Fluett's whereabouts until he appeared at his home today.

A marine and an orderly, stationed at the submarine base, brought serious trouble to themselves, trouble that will be severely dealt with both by the military as well as the civil authorities. Late this afternoon the marine was taken into custody charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor and the orderly, who was arrested on a [illegible] charge of [illegible] tion was later turned over to the guard from the submarine base. The marine will be in the police court tomorrow morning; the minimum fine for the offense is $100. The orderly will be given a court martial at the submarine base within a day or two. When the marine is returned to the base following his police court trial, severe discipline awaits him there.

The orderly and the marine started for the post office, about 3 o'clock to obtain mail and were then to proceed to the home of an officer, on Ocean avenue, where two of these sailors had been engaged throughout the day performing painters' duties. The truck was driven to the post office and after the mail was delivered to the orderly, the trip to Ocean avenue was started. Going through Bank street, and near the corner of Howard street, the truck collided with an automobile operated by a woman. The woman lodged complaint with Traffic Officer Thomas Cavanaugh, but failed to give her name to the officer. The police station was notified of the fact that the naval truck had collided with the pleasure car and that the driver had continued through Bank street without stopping to determine the extent of the damage occasioned. After the truck had picked up the sailors at Ocean avenue, the trip for the base was started, instead of the truck being driven through Bank street, the driver proceeded through the side streets to State street, but Traffic Officer William Corcoran detected the truck and holding up the driver, it was evident that both marine and orderly were intoxicated, so both were locked up and the truck was held at the police station. The base authorities were notified of the arrest of the marine and orderly and a truck driver and orderly were dispatched to bring the truck and mail to the base and a guard was detailed to bring the orderly back there.

Whether the marine and orderly obtained their liquor on the reservation or on civil territory is not definitely known, but it is probable that they visited a drinking resort either in Groton or New London after leaving the base.

Stephen H. Crowell has sold a house and lot on Darrow street to [illegible] Paquette. Mr. Crowell is an engineer in the employ of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad and with his family recently moved to Providence.

Miss Jane McBride, of Truman street, is spending a week as guest of Miss Maude Egan, Goshen, N. Y., formerly of New London.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Rentell, Brooklyn, N. Y., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Oren Converse, of Federal street.

Captain of Police Charles A. Pinney is to undergo an operation for gall stones at Lawrence hospital Friday morning if his condition is not any worse than it was this evening. There has been a vast improvement in the condition of the patient the past 72 hours and tonight it was decided if there was no change for the worse tomorrow that the operation would be performed as it is imperative, if Captain Pinney is to survive, that the operation be performed without delay.

Mrs. Nelson Briggs, 975 Bank street, wife of Conductor Briggs of the Connecticut company, is a patient at a private hospital, where she recently underwent a serious operation. Her condition this evening was stated to be most encouraging and it is believed she will be able to return home the latter part of the month.

George Kalozins, of Gobled street, visited in New Britain today.

Miss Janice Fowler is spending a fortnight with relatives in North Walpole, Mass.

At 8:30 o'clock this evening a telephone message was received at the police station from a woman residing on Ocean street, stating that a serious fight was in progress on Cutler street, near the corner of Colman. The woman stated that the battle was a terrific one in which several men were involved and she pleaded with Desk Sergeant Frank Howard to send officers to the place without delay. Patrolmen Howard Sloan and John Foley rushed to the location where the fight was reported to be in progress, but upon arrival learned that two youths had engaged in a brief combat.

A herd of Guernsey cows owned by Everett C. Thompson, of Allyn's Point, was struck by a commercial truck owned by E. R. Glauson company, a Massachusetts concern, early this morning, on the military highway near Gales Ferry. One of the cows was so badly injured, having suffered a fractured leg, that it was killed by a veterinary. Three other cows were bruised and it may become necessary to dispatch one or more of the animals. The truck, which, it is understood, was driven by a woman, was travelling at a high rate of speed and when the cows were observed grazing along side the highway, the woman evidently became confused and was unable to guide the machine clear of the herd with the result that four of them were struck and knocked over.

Robert Kelley, clerk at Groton post office, has started on his vacation of a fortnight. Mr. Kelley will have visited in New York state and Canada before he resumes his duties.

Miss Nellie Drago, Woodbridge street, has returned home, having spent several days with friends in Westerly.

Miss Annie Williams has returned to her home in Hartford, having spent several days with friends in New London recently.

Edward M. Phillips, of Waterford, was fined $25 and costs in Waterford court on a charge of reckless driving, but $15 of the fine was remitted.

Waino Lehto, of Waterford, charged with operating a motorcycle at an excessive rate of speed, was fined $25 and costs; $15 of the fine was remitted.

Sol Dolgin, of Hartford, charged with speeding, was fined $10 and costs.

ACCUSED DID NOT HURRY— SENT COLLECT TELEGRAM

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 20.—In the Waterford town court last night, Abraham Cohen, of Hartford, was fined $5 and costs on each count of trespass and operation of an automobile without registration. The costs amounted to $28. Cohen was ordered into court Sunday when he was found parked on property of Edward C. Hammond and with a young lady as companion. He failed to heed the summons, so a request was made of the Hartford police to notify Cohen to present himself in court last night. He acknowledged the receipt of the summons by sending a collect telegram to Constable Chester Bingham. When Cohen did obey the summons last evening he received the costs of the court aplenty.

TOOK OUT HUNTING LICENSE BUT IN THE WRONG TOWN

(Special to the Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 20.—Gaspero Perigno of East Lyme was before the New London police court this forenoon where he was fined $1 for procuring a hunting license by telling the town clerk in this city that he (Perigno) was a resident in New London at 579 Bank street. That statement was not true for Perigno is and was when he got the license a resident in East Lyme and had voted there at the last election. Now the cost of the license Perigno obtained is $1.25 and it could have been obtained in East Lyme at that price. Perigno reasoned that as auto operating licenses can be obtained at any branch office for any city or town in the state, the same law held good for a hunting license. Judge Prince did not find that though Perigno was a violator of the law he was not such by intent nor premeditation, so he fixed the minimum penalty for the offense. Perigno is a resident at the Ninigret house, and he declared that he obtained the license for the sole purpose of taking the boys into the woods.

FIRE MAY BE DUE TO SPONTANEOUS COMBUSTION

(Special to the Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 20.—The hardware store of the G. M. Williams Co., 47 State street, was threatened with serious damage by fire this forenoon, when flames were discovered in the rear floor of the stock room of the three story wooden structure. But for the timely discovery of the blaze and the prompt responding to an alarm sent in from Box 23, corner of State and Bank street, serious loss might have resulted. As it was the blaze was confined to that section of the building where it was discovered, and it is now believed that the damage will exceed $300. How the fire started is not known, but it is the belief of Fire Chief Charles Rose, who conducted an investigation immediately following the subduing of the fire, that it originated from spontaneous combustion. There were no electric light wires found defective and there had been no heat from stoves of any description on the floor.

The fire was discovered about 9:30 o'clock when a strong odor of smoke was detected and in a few seconds clouds of smoke were observed issuing from the windows on the second floor. An alarm was rung in and the firemen located the blaze on a series of shelves where new stock had been received, the stock being wrapped in heavy paper. It was put in place on the shelving only yesterday. The fire damaged the stock slightly, also the building. The blaze was extinguished with chemicals, which accounted for the small loss.

A Middle-Aged Romance

By Phil Moore

FOR 20 years the Widow Jones, attenuated of body but determined of mien, had lived next door to the colonel. In fact, only a good-sized yard separated the two places, and after all this time she had come to the conclusion that the dapper little bachelor needed someone to look after his material wants besides "that man Jed," who glowered like a thunder cloud whenever she looked in his direction. Furthermore, she decided to annex him, if he were annexable.

That settled, the widow proceeded to supplement her usual neighborly kindnesses with further expressions of good will. These consisted of appetizing dainties that she knew wouldn't fail to attract the eye and tempt the palate of any normal male human. Everything in the line of edibles, from soup to pie, found the trail to the colonel's door.

When the "hand outs," as Jed called them, appeared more and more frequently, the colonel experienced a vague uneasiness.

The climax came one Winter morning as he was leaving the house. There in the snow, almost under his windows, was the gushing announcement, "Oh, the dear colonel! How I love the dear colonel!"

"Scheming individual," muttered the angry little man. "What's she after now?" striding wrathfully up the road. That some young torment might be the offender never occurred to him even when, from the tail of his eye, he noted a duplicate inscription scrambled across the snowy expanse of Widow Jones' front yard. As his resentment abated, a sensation of fear came in its stead. The widow was tall enough to look clear over the top of his head, and who knew what these designing females, especially widows, might do? Pictures of bodily kidnapping flashed through his brain, and he kept close inside his own domicile for the next few weeks.

The widow's reception of the wrath-provoking words was equally explosive, and the colonel's subsequent ducking for cover produced a snort of derision.

"So the old reprobate thought he was acting smart, eh?" Her expression and tone registered contempt. "Well, I'll let the little 'fraid cat severely alone and see what will happen. Maybe 'twill start something and maybe 'twon't."

She promptly transferred her attentions and culinary donations to Gramp Simpkins, who lived down next to the parson's. For a while this arrangement worked, then the colonel began to show alarm. The parson was a widower and might be on the lookout for a wife, for all anybody knew. Consequently, whenever he saw his neighbor leave the house with a suspicious-looking parcel, he got out his field glasses and watched her. Sure enough, she turned into the parson's driveway every time.

"And Biny's (her name was Arabine) the best cook in this burg," he wailed, jealously. "'Twas mighty nice of her to fetch Jed and me those tasty messes."

Now that it was too late, he wanted what he couldn't have. (Such is the perverse nature of the male of the species). And he not only wanted more of "those tasty messes," but Biny, also. As that astute lady had wisely surmised, the way to his heart lay through his stomach.

When he could stand the strain no longer, he invented numerous errands that would take him over to her house.

His clock was forever gaining time, or losing time, or stopping entirely.

Jed, the colonels' man of all work, frowned disapprovingly on these mysterious proceedings. "What's he larruping over there 14 times a day for? And there he was yesterday," disgustedly, "climbing that wiggling ladder to fix the water spout. S'posin' that angular widow had given the ladder a flip, where'd he landed? Right per-plunk in her blasted old rain barrel!" Jed could be what he called "dinged profane" when the occasion demanded a display of verbal fireworks, and just now he felt like airing all that he had ever acquired. Later developments caused him to scratch his head in perplexity. And likewise to voice his disapproval of the whole business." Just see what he's done now!" he growled. "Gone and bought that fidgerator (what the thing was for Jed didn't know; moreover, he didn't care—not overmuch, anyway), and the newfangled bureau contraption they call a shiverette (at least that is the way it sounded) and a plush square art."

He couldn't understand why the colonel should waste good money on foolish "concerns," when the house was full of stuff plenty stylish enough for angular widows, or any other kind.

However, the widow simply smiled serenely. She was cordial enough, but appeared to take no especial interest in his various comings and goings, and still carried "hand outs" down the parson's way.

Things went from bad to worse, according to the pessimistic Jed, until the season came when a young man's fancy (and an old man's too, apparently), lightly turns to thoughts of love." By this time, the colonel had mapped out his plan of action.

Early one Monday morning, dressed in his Sunday best, he left the house, singing gayly, "You have me hypnotized, mesmerized, paralyzed."

"Huh, hope she does paralyze you, and quick, too!" glared Jed with withering scorn.

But the blissful lover tripped blithely on. In the middle of the road he met the town terror wearing an impish grin and an immense peony fastened to his coat.

"Hello, Bub," the Colonel beamed; "that's a smashing button hole bouquet you've got. What'll you take for it—a dime?"

"Sure, hand it over."

The dime changed owners and Bub's peony bobbed giddily from the Colonel's coat lapel.

"Now where's he going?" worried Jed, who had watched the transaction. He knew the Colonel needed a guardian the worst way, but, "glory be to the love of the United States," who wanted to tackle a job like that?

From the Widow Jones' shed door came unmistakable sounds of vigorous scrubbing and the Colonel headed that way. If his feet had been prone to lag, the militant "rub-a-dub-dub" would have been an added spur.

"Great grief!" Biny exclaimed, as she saw him march bravely up the walk. She sniffed derisively. "All the common sense these he-creatures own could be packed in a peanut shell and then leave room to spare. What's he parading over here washday for, and all dolled up with that blazing posy?" She had an overwhelming desire to call out, "Hey, peony, where you carrying the little chap?" but refrained and bent chuckling over her tub.

"Morning, Biny," chirped the Colonel. "Thought I'd come over and help—turn the wringer or something." Suiting the action to the word, he grasped the handle and turned energetically while the solemn-faced Biny fed clothes to the revolving rollers. They were getting on swimmingly, the Colonel exulted.

Still, as everyone knows, the course of true love never did run smooth, and the Colonel's affair was to be no exception to the general rule. He presently struck a snag in the shape of an obstinate button that would not go through. Undaunted, he gave a tremendous pull to the wringer handle as Biny pushed from her side, and over went bench, tubs and the Colonel, the sudden deluge completely obliterating the little fellow.

Awestruck by the catastrophe, the startled Biny stood like a graven immage. When she became aware of strange gurgling sounds coming from beneath the biggest tub, she remembered that her suitor was buried somewhere under the debris, and set to work.

"Suffering Jonah!" spluttered the wilted Colonel as she fished him out of the wreckage.

"Oh-h-h, Lemuel, dear," quavered the widow. She was down on her knees in the swirling flood, pawing over the wet clothes in a frantic effort to locate the dear Lemuel's lost peony.

In less time than it takes to tell it, that gentleman had marshalled his scattered wits. He plunged his dripping self down beside her in the soapy puddle, and clasping her neck with a strangle hold, planted full on her surprised lips a kiss that he would have termed "smashing."

"Biny, will you be mine?" gasped the Colonel, his mouth full of soap suds. "I'm famished for some of your waffles."

"Yes, yes. I'll marry you tonight if you'll just let go my neck. My windpipe's almost squashed."

The Colonel, his eyes filled with visions of smoking waffles, subsided happily upon the cake of soap.

Russia Has Few Farm Scientists

LENINGRAD, Aug. 19. — A census undertaken by the Leningrad Academy of Science shows there are 4,265 acknowledged scientists in Leningrad, while in Moscow there are only 2,740. The majority of the scientists are mathematicians and natural science specialists. Agriculturists form only four per cent of the above figures. The percentage of women among the Moscow and Leningrad scientists is 14 per cent and 23 per cent, respectively.

Few Germans Train Physically

BERLIN, Aug. 19. — Only two per cent of Germany's population apply themselves regularly to any form of sport, according to Theodore Lewald, Under-Secretary and President of the German Committee for Physical Culture. Of the 5,000,000 members of sporting clubs he figures that only 20 per cent may be called active, that is, go in for regular training.

POPULATION OF MOSCOW GROWS 39,000 IN YEAR

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19, AP—The population of Moscow on January 1, 1925 was 1,511,000, as compared with 1,472,000 on January 1, 1924, and 1,617,00 in 1912, official statistics received by the Russian information bureau here show. The area of the city was 71,250 acres as compared with 43,700 acres in 1912. The death rate for last year showed a decrease of 9.2 per thousand from 1913, the marriage rate showed an increase of more than 100 per cent, and the birth rate showed a small falling off.

Deaths were 27,083 as compared with 39,126 in 1913. Marriages were 25,187 as compared with 10,093 in 1915 and births were 51,781 as compared with 54,649 in 1913. The number of suicides was 310 ase compared with 360 in 1913.

Thirty-three Irish Laws Passed

DUBLIN, Aug. 19, (AP)—During the session of the Free State parliament recently concluded, 33 acts were passed covering every variety of national activity. One of the most notable was that authorizing the use of the River Shannon to supply electricity.

Another act which provoked much controversy was the treasonable and seditious offenses act. It provides the death penalty for treason and graded penalties for various other offenses against the state.

Parliament, which had been in session almost continuously for three years, adjourned to November 3.

Japanese to Study U. S. Politics

TOKYO, Aug. 19. — Leaders of the three major political parties in Japan, the Kenseikai, Seiyukai and Seiyuhonto, have decided to send to the United States six parliamentarians for the purpose of studying American political practices. The delegation will attend the international convention to be held in Washington in October and will subsequently visit other cities. It is hoped the parliamentarians will bring back to Japan a number of new ideas which can be applied to the modern political situation in the empire.

Los Angeles Spreads Itself

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 19. (AP)—Los Angeles grew 3.79 square miles in the past fiscal year, its city engineer reporting that its area now totals 410.77 square miles. From north to south the city stretches 44 miles, while east to west it extends 29 miles. A little trip around the city's boundary line would amount to 269.8 miles. During the past year 129 miles of streets were paved, while for the new fiscal year the city engineer has on hand orders including 229 additional miles of paving.

Los Angeles Children Thrifty

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 19. (AP)—The teaching of thrift has become part of the curriculum of nearly 200 public schools here. The subject involves the "value of a savings account" and "home and business economy."

Establishment of a school savings department, advocated by Los Angeles banks as a division of the course, has produced what is termed "amazing results." Up to July 1, there had been opened 63,478 school savings accounts with $686,000 on deposit to the credit of students.

Austria Turns Out Largest Cable

VIENNA, Aug. 19, — The largest wire cable in the world has been constructed for the suspension railway that is to be built to the summit of the Zugspitze in Bavaria, which has an altitude of 9,725 feet. The cable is of one piece, 3,827 yards in length 1.8 inches in diameter, and weighs about 88,000 pounds. It was made by the St. Aegydier Iron and Steel Industry Company of Austria.

Children of Zoologists Wed

BERLIN, Aug. 19, (AP)—The names of two families noted in the zoological and animal world were united here recently with the marriage of Hildegard Hagenbeck, daughter of the celebrated Hamburg animal collector, to Heinz Heck, son of the director of the Berlin Zo. Both children were born in a zoological garden and both grew up among wild beasts.

Rep. Madden Advises Tax Slash

Representative Martin B. Madden had a conference recently with President Coolidge at White Court, Swampscott, Mass. He came out for a big slash in the higher income taxes, cutting the surtax to 15 per cent and eliminating estate and gift levies entirely. He says that the small wage earner is not paying too much now and is against a further reduction in taxes on incomes of $5,000 and less.

Americans Wed in Bulgaria

SAMAKOV, Aug. 19, AP—This Bulgarian town recently witnessed the wedding of two young Americans, the culmination of a short romance. The bride was Miss Laura Standish of Oak Park near Chicago, who, last spring started on a trip around the world with little thought, it is said, of marriage. In Samakov she met John Stearns, a teacher in the American school. Their engagement was announced after a short courtship. Mr. Stearns is a graduate of Harvard.

Lord Glenconner Engaged

London, Aug. 19, (AP)—Lord Glenconner, England's most eligible bachelor in the eyes of society mothers with marriageable daughters, is engaged to Miss Pamela Paget, the younger daughter of Sir Richard and Lady Muriel Paget. He is 26 years old, very wealthy and inherited many business interests as well as the famous Tennant collection of pictures, a part of which sold for $1,000,000 two years ago.

Chloride Pinch Hits for Ice

ROME, Aug. 19, AP—When the Roman summer reached its most intense torridity, complaints increased that fish peddlers loath to spend money for sufficient ice, were resorting to the use of bichloride of mercury to keep their wares "fresh."

Newspapers took up the complaints and published warnings to the public together with caricatures showing avaricious fish mongers injecting embalming fluid with a hypodermic needle into fish.

Bulgarians Observe Holiday

SOFIA, Aug. 19, (AP)—International Cooperative Day was celebrated recently and was made a national holiday in every city, town and village. The movement for the celebration was under the direction of the Central Cooperative Bank, which has a large establishment in Sofia.

The growth of this bank is reflected in its business for the last year which was more than 2,000,000 leva. Its previous high record did not exceed 1,000,000 leva for any year.

Tobacco Popular in Japan

TOKYO, Aug. 19, (AP)—The total sales of tobacco in Japan, including cigars, cigarettes and pipe mixtures, for the fiscal year 1924-1925, ended last April, amounted to 245,767,455 yen. Compared with the sales of ten years ago, the present figures show an increase of more than 500 per cent.

Prof.—I am going to lecture on the usefulness of prevarications to day. How many of you have read the 25th chapter of the text?

Unanimous responses of unlifted right hands.

Prof. Good! You are a very good audience. There is no twenty-fifth chapter!—Buffalo Bison.

"Can A Nation Be Moral?"

That is what Dean Shailer Mathews, of the Theological Seminary of the University of Chicago asked a few days ago at Chautauqua, N. Y., where prominent Churchmen are gathered. He claims that nations have never regarded themselves as moral units as do individuals, recognizing no authority but war. As morality is the outgrowth of group life, found in individual, community life, etc., there is no other way to expect or to have moral nations but the group life of nations.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET WAS IRREGULAR.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—(A. P.)—Revival and strength in the oil shares following a protracted decline which carried many of them close to their low levels of the year, was the outstanding feature of today's irregular stock market. Coppers and steels were also well bought but motors were again reactionary. Mack Trucks breaking 13 points to 218.

Except for the sharp reduction in crude oil production last week there was nothing in the day's news to account for the sudden outburst of activity in the oils. Active short covering in those issues is believed to have been based in part, upon the belief that no further reductions in crude or gasoline prices were likely, except minor adjustments to meet prevailing prices of leading producers and refiners. The Pan American issues, Marland, Atlantic Refining, Barnsdall A., General Petroleum, Pacific, Phillips, Royal Dutch and Standard Oils of California and New Jersey all showed net gains of one to two points.

American Smelting continued to lead the advance in the copper group, touching a new high record at 111. Kennecott and American Zinc preferred showed net gains of one and 7-8 points, respectively. A stiffening tendency for copper, zinc and lead prices has inspired the recent buying of these issues.

Spectacular advances were again recorded by some of the high priced issues. Havana Electric soared 14 points to a record top at 220, closing just below the high. U. S. Cast Iron Pipe jumped 12 points to 177 and also maintained most of its gain. General Electric moved up nearly 6 points to a new record top at 329 1-2. Savage Arms clombed 7 1-2 points to 68 and then settled back to 65 1-2.

U. S. Steel common again crossed 138 but encountered large selling orders around that level and eased to 137 5-8, up 5-8 on the day. Westinghouse Air Brake moved up nearly 4 points to a record top at 141, but lost about half of its gain. U. S. Industrial Alcohol responded to the announcement of high school prices by advancing to 89 3-4, slipping back later to 88 1-2 for a net gain of 2 1-2 on the day. Loew's, Inc., was run up over two points to a new high record at 34 in anticipation of an increase in the annual dividend from $2 to $3 next month.

Net gains of two points or more also were recorded by American Express, American Republics, Consolidated Cigar, Crucible Steel, Sloss Sheffield, Universal Pipe and Worthington Pump.

Selling of the motors reflected the growing competition in that industry. White Motors broke over 4 points to 97 3-4 and then rallied slightly while Fisher Body, Martin Parry, Moon Motos, and Willys-Overland preferred, fell back a point or more.

Rails moved within rather narrow and irregular limits, although St. Louis-Southeastern, Seaboard Air Line common, "Katy" common and Kansas City Southern preferred broke through their previous high prices of the year.

Call money ruled unchanged at 4 per cent. Time money rates were slightly easier, 60 to 90 day funds being quoted at 4 to 4 3-8 instead of 4 1-4 to 4 1-2 with corresponding reductions in the longer maturities. Commercial paper rates held steady.

Except for ten point rallies in Norwegian and Danish kroner which ruled around 18.68 and 23.04 cents, respectively, fluctuations in the foreign exchanges were extremely narrow and irregular. Demand sterling ruled steady around $4.85 3-8 with French francs at 4.68 1-2.

LEGAL NOTICE

NOTICE TO ARCHITECTS

PLANS AND SPECIFICATIONS FOR THE STATE OF CONNECTICUT

In conformity with the provision of Section 64 of the General Statutes, Revision of 1918, "An Act Regulating the Employment of Architects on Public Buildings," architects are hereby invited to submit competitive plans for the following named buildings for the State Tuberculosis Commission at the Norwich Sanatorium, Norwich, Conn.

INFIRMARY FOR WOMEN

The building to accommodate 60 patients in two wards—with reception room, locker rooms and baths. Wards to have sleeping porches. Provision also to be made for four rooms for nurses. Not more than $50,000 available for this building, including architects' fees.

ADMINISTRATION BUILDING

To include offices and X-Ray department, laboratory, sleeping rooms and bath. Floor space to be approximately 75 ft. x 45 ft. Not more than $50,000 available for this building, including architects' fees.

EMPLOYEES' BUILDING

A two-story building to house approximately sixteen people on a floor in single and double rooms, approximately two to one with bath rooms and recreation rooms on each floor. Floor space to be approximately 30 ft. x 110 ft. Not more than $25,000 available for this building, including architects' fees.

All buildings to be fireproof or semi-fireproof.

Further details may be had of the Superintendent of the Norwich Sanatorium.

All plans must be signed by the architect and deposited with the Comptroller of the State at his office in the Capitol, City of Hartford, not later than Monday, September 28, 1925, at 11 o'clock, D. S. T.

The committee in charge will give, in accordance with law, a public hearing on said plans in Room 61, State Capitol, on the above date at 11:30 o'clock, D. S. T.

The right is reserved to reject any and all bids.

Dated at Hartford, Connecticut, this eighteenth day of August, 1925.

FREDERICK M. SALMON,
aug20d Comptroller.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theater

If there is a thrill left in you, if ur memory can go back to the days real sport, when the greatest hero your imagination was the two-gun n of the plains—then you have a eat evening's entertainment in store you at the Breed theater. Tom x in The Deadwood Coach, a Will-m Fox screen adaptation of Clarence idford's novel, The Orphan, opened a ee day's run Thursday.

With a superb cast, Mix has made it we believe is the best western ture picture of his career. It has illing action, breath-taking sus-nse and a comedy relief which is ndled expertly and is calculated to ke the most case - hardened film shake with laughter. Lynn Rey-ds directed the picture and made screen adaptation. He has done a e job.

The Deadwood Coach is a story an outlaw, known as The Orphan, o has terrorized the countryside d to whom all manner of crimes ve been attributed in reality, he s a vicious character. He is the emy of only one man—Tex Wilson, man who killed his father and ised his mother's death when he s a boy.

The Orphan is accused of a murder l Sheriff Shields starts out alone apprehend him. Suspecting that crime would be laid to him, The phan expects a posse to hunt him n. Using the keen strategy of hunted man, he turns a band of ewas Indians in the path of his suers. Then he sees a lone white n—the Sheriff—ride into the trap. races to his rescue and when the t is over he convinces the sheriff his innocence. The sheriff per-ades The Orphan to give up his ing life and become a guard on Deadwood Coach.

Tom Mix is at his best in this pro-tion. He rides Tony like the wind l he shoots and fights like a man pired. Tony was never more active l seems to enter into the spirit of play with a vengeance. Doris y makes a very winsome leading dy and when the occasion requires, splays real histrionic ability. Lucien nfield supplies a fine brand of medy as an impetuous, but ardent, porter of The Orphan, who knows ood looking woman when he sees . Others in the cast are George ngerl, De Witt Jennings, Buster ubner, Norma Wills, Nora Cecil, Sid dan, Frank Coffyn, and Keckley d Earnest Butterworth.

Broadway Theatre

Keith is to vaudeville, The proof White sterling is to silver, that's what o the seeing, so take in the Broad-w today and Saturday.

The Dancing MacDonalds open with ighting of clever dances which has pkes and pep.

Lew whizz-bang doughboy Hoh tells an ex-service man sells his of-ring to the best advantage. He sings, ses jokes and does imitations that worth seeing.

Miss Leslie Revue is the big at-ction. Miss Leslie was the former miere danseuse of the N. Y. Win-Garden. She has a fine routine of interpretations and with her ng band of eight men makes this ection an outstanding one.

Callahan and Mann hit the target h their line of comedy patter t is real good.

The closing offering is Lew Nelson Co. Here is an act alone worth the e of admission. Don't fail to see iron jaw man. The feature pic-re is a Paramount offering "Marry with a great cast.

Palace Theatre

Another great vaudeville bill at the ace theatre is proving a rare treat e last half of this week supported the full of pep screen attraction titled "Jimmie's Millions," starring hard Talmadge.

The vaudeville is headed by Ar-and Kaliz, the producer of Temp-ons of '24-'25 in a musical comedy tled "The Snappy Cabaret."

Olga Mahka and Co., premier dan-s of "Tickle Me". Vanities and ver Slipper offer a very pretty ancing act which is very highly re-ived. William Sistor, champion har-onica player of the world is certain-y all he is billed, he plays six har-onicas at one time never missing a te. He plays them inside, upside own and backwards.

Devine and Gould furnish the hok-m and keep the audience well sup-ied with laughs for fifteen solid nutes.

Louise Levy opens the show with me very catchy violin solos.

In all it is a great bill and should seen by everybody.

CALLAHAN OIL CO. ORGANIZED IN NORWICH

With Jacob R. Slosberg, president, arles Slosberg, vice president and ex P. Callahan, treasurer and man-er, The Callahan Oil Co., Inc., has en organized in Norwich and is now gaged in the distribution of gasoline, tor oil and fuel oil. The company is strictly local concern and the offi-ials have already installed a dozen ractive gas tanks in Norwich. The mpany has two trucks on the road.

That their products are meeting a gular demand is indicated by the avy demands made on the company r oil and gas and indications are hat it will soon become one of the ty's prominent industries.

Mr. Callahan, the treasurer and anager, was born in this city and has ways made his home here. He is a raduate of the Norwich Free Aca-my and for ten years was employ-d by the Texas company, entering e employ of that company as a tank agon driver and working up to the sition of local manager before he anized The Callahan Oil company.

1924 WASHING MACHINE SALES TOTAL $85,680,000

Following special study of the growth the electric washing machine, made Hornblower & Weeks, it is announ-ed that while but 1300, valued at $1,-00,000 were sold in 1914, 612,000 valued $88,680,000 were sold in 1924. The ankers point out that at the close 1924, there were approximately 13,-00,000 homes in the United States red for electricity out of a total of bout 20,000,000 homes; that 75 out f every 100 of these had an electric on, 44 out of every 100 had a vac-um cleaner, while but 29 out of every 00 had an electric washing machine.

Sales of vacuum cleaners in 1424 are stimated at 1,250,000 and valued at

TRYING TO GET SOMETHING FOR NOTHING

(Written Specially for The Bulletin)

"Free: Send No Money."

The mails, especially in the rural districts, are cluttered up and sometimes almost clogged with publications chiefly devoted to advertisements of "free" offerings. How many times have you who read this opened one of those packages to find it contained a paper you never heard of before, from whose every page stand out those words, "Free. Send No Money?"

And how many times have you ever got anything, absolutely free, by accepting the offer?

You remember Barnum's famous remark about fools, that "there is one born every minute." This class of advertisers must think so. For no one of sound and reflecting mind ever expects to get something for nothing in this world. Yet there must be numbers who are not possessed of sound and reflecting minds to bite at this sort of bait. Otherwise it would cease being used.

If you will think about it for a moment, you'll soon see that there are a great many other forms of payment than those coined by the mint. It is not only in dollars that debts are paid, but sometimes in sweat and tears and blood; sometimes in humiliation and dishonor; sometimes in loss of integrity and surrender of manhood.

It is still as true as when Paul wrote it that "God is not mocked; whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap;" and whatsoever a man buyeth that shall he also pay for. Yea, to the uttermost last split farthing. Either in coined money or in something else just as valuable.

It is not true, as the banal copybooks used to set forth, that success is the reward of virtue. Not in this world, anyway. Success comes to those who are willing and able to pay the price. This may, indeed, in some cases be a fair price and an honest one. It may equally be unfair and dishonest in other cases. What the world calls success, and what its winners flaunt themselves outwardly upon attaining, comes to those who pay the price, whether they deserve it or not, and whether the price is of honor or of dishonor.

This may seem unjust to many of us. But we can't conceal the truth by shutting our eyes to it, nor destroy it by denying it. Nor can we make it any different from what it is by any manner of disguise, no matter how well meant or helpfully intended. You can't stop the throbbing pain of a boil by whitening it with face-powder. Nor can you make a mouse a man by putting it into breeches and hiding its paws in kid gloves. No more can you alter, amend, or modify the truth when its utterance seems repellent by pretending to substitute high-sounding moral phrases for its harsher tones.

The simple truth about all success, in all its forms and varieties, is that it comes to those and to those only who will pay the price. And by success is meant all attainment, all gain, all growth, even the maintenance of life. No one of us ever gets something for nothing. We pay always the full price listed on the market wherein we buy the goods.

There are men of high achievement who have attained their success by a combination of intelligence, fair dealing, and hard work.

There are also men of great prominence who have reached their hight by paying their own souls to the devil of ambition.

And the latter sort are quite as apt to be envied and looked up to by the admiring mob as the former.

In fact success, which is as often the guerdon of vice as the wage of virtue, is not and cannot be properly regarded as, in itself, either admirable or despicable. Its standing depends entirely and solely upon the price which was paid for it. Sometimes it is worthy of worship; sometimes of pitying contempt. All depends.

One of the evilly foreboding omens of this back and belly worshipping age is that, in its indiscriminate idolatry of success, it takes no account of the means whereby success is won. It bows its head as adorningly before the Baal of Mount Peor as before the Holy of Hollies on Zion. All it seems to consider is how high its idols is lifted up, regardless of the means by which it climbed.

Which inevitably leads to a popular feeling that the end, once it is accepted as desirable, justifies any means. And, —human nature being what it is,—this feeling inevitably leads too many to act on the belief that they actually can get something, either without paying anything, or without paying the full price.

I suppose some of you are wondering what all the preceding preachment has got to do with farming and farmers.

Just as much as with any other class of people; no more and no less.

The idea that it is possible to make a success at farming without paying the price is getting to be altogether too prevalent. There are proportionately quite as many farmers who think they can make good without paying up as there are mechanics or professional men.

Success at farming is not sold for money. It must be paid for in different coin. Such, for instance, as

Careful Planning and Hard Work;
Thrifty Management
and More Hard Work; Painstaking Attention to Details and Still More Hard Work.

I've just got my small haying finished. Had to hire it done, and leave all the details in the other fellow's hands. As I look over the result my farmerish soul is fairly wrung within me. It has been a poor job slackly done. Only a single one of the items listed above is in evidence. The jobber did some "careful planning." I'm compelled to admit. But it was not planning how to do the best work; is was planning how to get on the job by standard time and leave it by daylight saving time;—planning how to avoid trouble as far as possible; planning how to skimp work and conserve sweat. The fence corners were not cleaned out; the brook edges were not trimmed; the tilt-bar was set up so high that, in shorter grass, not over half was cut; every soft spot of two or three rods square in the low meadows was left the center of an unmown acre; and the half-wilted grass was raked and drawn in, sometimes within two hours of its cutting, so as to save the trouble of cocking it up.

The whole job was done without any regard for details, with no sense of thrifty management, with just as little work as possible,—and at the highest market rate of wages.

My observation of other farms shows that my treatment was in no way exceptional. That is very much the way in which haying is done on practically all the farms in my vicinity which have to employ hired help.

Nor is the "slackness" confined to haying. It is manifested in the treatment of all other crops. Corn, which used to march its marshalled ranks up a thousand hillsides, is seldom seen any more, and, when seen, exhibits but a straggling and stunted disorder. The growing of potatoes, which used to be done for market to the tune of hundreds of carloads every season, has ceased except for domestic use. Kitchen gardens which used to laugh with exuberant yields of all sorts of vegetables, have generally become "patches" of scrawny sweet-corn, worm-riddled cabbages, and a few stunted tomato-plants, all half-smothered in jungles of weeds.

As many reasons are give as answerers are found. But one omnipresent reason which has quite as much to do with degeneracy as any of the others, is the growing disinclination of the farmers concerned to pay the price in planning and management and work and sweat for the attainment of good crops.

They are bitten by the Easy Snap bug, too. They want to get crops without hard work; to avoid trouble as far as is humanly possible; to get something without paying the price.

Not all. There are still some whose well-kept farms are a delight to the eye and a source of pride to the owners. But the tendency of the times is to avoid work and trouble; to hunt for easy ways of doing things, not for right ways; to care more for today's comfort than tomorrow's welfare. The pestilential infection has spread to the farms. There's no use denying it, for it is as plain as the snout on a pig's face. Nor it there any sense in turning our eyes away and pretending we don't see it. It's there, alles-samee.

We farmers have ample right to complain of the unfairness with which manipulated markets treat our productions. We are within reason when we kick because we can get only 20 or 30 cents of the dollar the ultimate consumer pays for our crops. We have wide basis for our disgust with the cumbrous and extravagant and inefficient system of distribution which "big business" has developed for our undoing.

But,—

We are not ourselves wholly without blame. We have wandered far, a good many of us, from the steep and narrow path which alone leads to farm success, in our search for some broader and easier and leveler boulevard. We have, too many of us, fallen into the popular belief that it is possible to get something for nothing off our farms; to harvest success without paying the price.

It can't be done.

Instead of chasing any such will-o'-the-wisp we will do much better to wade back to solid ground and give over attempts to fool God and nature by spending our energies trying to find easy ways to do hard work.

Instead, we might better give devout thanks that the price we are called on to pay is only hard work, and not, as in some other cases, the sacrifice of truth and manhood and honor.

In any case, the price—must—be—paid. There is no dodging it. Only slackers haggle about the terms. Only scalawags choose to pay with their souls rather than with their sweat.

THE FARMER.

CLARK'S CORNER

Rev. W. L. Muttart called on the people of this section of his parish last week.

Mrs. John Hammond was in Norwich Monday, attending the funeral of Mrs. George W. Bailey, of Norwich.

Mrs. Eva Upton, Miss Gladys Upton, also Turner Upton, of Norwich, were recent guests at Mrs. Hammond's.

Mrs. Alice Murdock has returned to her home in Medford, Mass.

G. W. Ide, of Brooklyn, called on his old friend, Allen Jewett, Saturday.

Miss Annie L. Page, of Danielson, visited at Mrs. Robert Clapp's this week. Miss Page and Mrs. Clapp taught in Danielson at the same period.

Mr. and Mrs. George Peloquin, of Willimantic, were in town Sunday.

Mrs. John Navin spent her vacation in New Haven.

Sunday, Aug. 16, Mrs. Robert Clapp entertained in honor of her father, Allen Jewett, on his 86th birthday. Relatives, friends and neighbors called during the day and a birthday lunch was served on the lawn. Out-of-town guests came from Norwich, Willimantic, Jewett City, Danielsoon, Brooklyn and Chaplin. A silver shower was given Mr. Jewett. He was presented a large tray containing just eighty-six dimes from old-time friends of Willimantic. They aimed to have one for each year and the amount was still larger and increased by silver and checks from relatives and friends, the total making a substantial sum. Mr. Jewett was surprised and delighted at the testimonial of Willimantic business men, which was first presented, but as he continued to be showered with silver, he became jovial over the surprise and his pleasure was shared by his guests. Other gifts were received, among them three handsome birthday cakes, one from his neighbor, Amos A. Stone, which bore the dates 1839-1925, and was very beautifully decorated. Fifty letters and cards bearing good wishes; also two original poems were received, and many flowers.

Mrs. Daniel Flaveley, of Norwich, was at her home here last week.

MISS EDERLE AGAIN TO TRY CHANNEL SWIM

BOULOGNE, France, Aug. 20—Gertrude Ederle, American girl swimmer, has decided to have another try at the English channel, probably on August 31 or September 1.

Miss Lillian Harrison, the Argentine star, also plans to make her fifth attempt on one of those dates, and the two girls may start out together. Ishak Helmy, Egyptian, will make his trial the coming Saturday or Sunday.

All these dates naturally are dependent upon weather and water conditions.

Finance Minister Caillaux announced at an Anglo-American press luncheon in Paris, he would in all probability go to the United States, and that if he does it will be to "settle this unhappy question of debts."

THE WEATHER

Conditions

The northeastern disturbance has increased considerably in intensity during the past 24 hours and a trough of low pressure now extends from the Canadian maritime provinces, southwestward. The northwestern high pressure area has moved slowly eastward and southeastward and it is now extending from the Hudson Bay region southwestward.

Pressure is also relatively high east of Florida. This pressure distribution has been attended by local thundershowers within the last 24 hours in northern New England, and the middle Atlantic states.

Elsewhere the weather has continued fair. Cooler weather has overspread the interior of the middle Atlantic states.

There will be showers in portions of the middle Atlantic and north Atlantic states on Friday. Otherwise generally fair weather will prevail Friday and Saturday east of the Mississippi river. The temperature will be lower Friday in the Atlantic states. The temperature will remain moderate in the Atlantic states on Saturday.

Winds

North of Sandy Hook and Sandy Hook to Hatteras: Fresh northwest and north and mostly overcast weather possibly local rains Friday.

Forecast

For southern New England: Mostly cloudy and cooler Friday, possibly showers Friday morning; Saturday fair.

CONSTABLE VINCENT JONES CHARGED WITH ASSAULT AND BREACH OF PEACE

On complaint of Leonard Main, son of Leonard R. Main, proprietor of a grain and grocery store at North Stonington, Constable Vincent Jones of North Stonington, was arrested Wednesday by Deputy Sheriff Oscar H. Main of this city on charges of assault and breach of the peace. Constable Jones is at liberty on bail and his case is to be heard at a session of the North Stonington town court next Wednesday afternoon.

The trouble it appears is the result of the placing of a post and the stretching of a piece of wire across what Mr. Main claims is a right of way which he is entitled to use. The controversy over the right of way came to a head about a week ago after Mr. Main had chopped down the post erected by the constable. Constable Jones was not at all pleased with the chopping down of the post and it is said carried his argument to Mr. Main's store porch. The elder Mr. Main claims the constable made a pass at him and hit the younger Mr. Main. Then the younger Mr. Main and the constable had something of a tussle.

Then the younger Mr. Main complained to the authorities, a warrant was drawn up and Constable Jones taken into custody. The outcome of the case will be watched with considerable interest by the residents of North Stonington as both men are well known in the town and the constable's arrest has created more or less of a sensation.

SWEET CORN PRICES AT NEW LOW LEVEL

Eat your fill of sweet corn now and can all that is left for winter use, is the advice sent out by the state department of agriculture. For the first time in many years corn has struck a new low level and housewives are urged to do their canning now while the price is low and the quality good. A two-fold reason for canning now is pointed out by the department, first the price is low and secondly the season for canning of fruits and the making of jellies will be here in a short time.

In the past, corn has been considered a hard vegetable to can, but now after information sent out by the Extension Service and their canning demonstrations, marked success is being reaped by nearly all those who can, according to reports given out of last year's results.

With the arrival of beans on the markets in large quantities, housewives are abandoning the early season plan of giving the family corn on the cob and have reverted to that famous old India dish succotash, according to a census taken by the Department. Nutrition specialists are advocating more freedom in the use of this ancient dish, which is now becoming a favorite throughout the country.

One of the popular recipes for canning corn in the state sent out by the Extension Service is as follows: Can corn the same day as picked. Remove husks and silk. Blanch on the cob in boiling water for five to ten minutes and then plunge corn quickly into cold water. The next operation is to cut the corn from cob and pack in jar, then add one teaspoonful of salt to every quart and sufficient hot water to fill jar. Place rubber and top in position and seal partially but not tight. The jars are then sterilized for 180 minutes in hot water bath outfit after which they are removed, tops tightened, joints tested and then wrapped in paper and stored for later use. Corn canned by this method retains its color, flavor and yet takes but very little time to put up, according to a department bulletin.

SELECT PLANS FOR NEW COLLEGE DORMITORY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

STORRS, Aug. 20—At their regular meeting held yesterday, the Trustees of the Connecticut Agricultural College selected the plans of Delbert K. Perry of New Britain for the new $168,000 men's dormitory at Storrs. The plans call for a building similar to Storrs and Koons Halls, the men's dormitories now in use at the State College through several improvements are planned for.

Red brick will be used in the construction of this building, which will be three stories high. There will be eighty rooms, of which the majority will be double, although a few single rooms will also be provided. As in the other dormitories there will be two club rooms in the basement, one study for each double room, a storage room, a janitor's room, and a front room.

Once the structure is completed and ready for occupancy, it will help considerably in relieving the crowded condition of the dormitories, which at the present time are accommodating many more than were originally planned for.

FOUR AGREEMENTS ARE FILED WITH COURT CLERK

On the return trip homeward, Mr. Casey left Perryville, N. Y., at 5:34 A. M. daylight time, Saturday morning reaching Norwich at 6:10 P. M. Saturday night.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Coppolo of East Norwalk announces the engagement of their daughter, Janet, to Carl M. Yetkie of Norwich Town. The wedding will take place in September.

URBAN FOUND GUILTY OF RECKLESS DRIVING

Deputy Judge Henry H. Pettis presided over the session of the city court, Thursday morning, when several automobile cases came up for a hearing.

Ralph Urban, 32, of Taftville was found guilty of reckless driving and $25 and costs, the court taking into consideration the account of damages Urban had to pay as the result of his accident on August 21st, when he collided with a car operated by Walter Hitchon Jr., at the intersection of Washington street and Lincoln avenue. Officer William Ryan testified that marks on the road showed that the car driven by Urban had travelled a considerable distance after the brakes were applied, and that the car was found bottom side up on Chelsea parade. Officer Michael Carroll gave similar testimony and Edwin V. Ross, testified that he had seen City Attorney Lee Roy Robbins pace off the distance the Urban car had travelled, some 27 paces from the place where the brakes were applied.

At this point Urban was offered a chance to question the state witnesses but he did not care to do so and was about to leave the court room when Judge Pettis stopped him. Upon learning that Urban was under a doctor's care and wanted to recess, Judge Pettis declared a brief recess.

Upon resuming court Walter Hitchon Jr., was called and testified to the accident, claiming that he was struck head on and had no time to turn out for Urban's car, which was travelling at a fast rate of speed.

Urban testified that Car Hitchon car struck his car about in the center, causing it to rock and overturn. He was pinned beneath the car and testified that Hitchon lifted the car from his body and shook Lands with him, saying, "He was glad it wasn't killed." His car did not hit the curb and turn over, he said, but turned over backwards towards the right hand side of the street, due to being struck by Hitchon's car.

Judge Pettis said that it was recklessness in itself to come down Washington street at a fast rate of speed, with three intersections, some of which are blind, Williams street and Lincoln avenue, both close together.

Aristoletis Siderpoulos, 48, of 19 Thames street paid $25 and costs on being found guilty of driving his automobile without a license. The accused claimed that his car had rolled from his yard, into the street, and that he tried to bring it back to avoid damage, and this led to the arrest for driving without a license.

Upon recommendation of City Attorney Robbins, Deputy Judge Pettis nolled the charge of evading responsibility, which has been pending against Alex Papato of this city. The court felt that as statements by various people indicated that Papato was not guilty of the charge, it should be nolled. It is alleged that the children were playing nearby jumped into the spare tire for a ride, and in this manner Steve Sabosavic, age 7 years, was slightly injured.

ARCANUM CLUB OUTING AT GARDNER LAKE

About 100 members of the Arcanum club went to Gardner Lake Thursday afternoon for their annual outing, which was held on the spacious grounds of A. Chester Brown, a prominent member of the club. Refreshments were served, consisting of clam chowder green corn, ham sandwiches, peaches and bananas which were supplemented by ice cream, cigars and cigarettes.

A half dozen athletic events were on the programme for the afternoon and the results were as follows:

Potato race, first, Louis M. Carpenter; second, Dr. Clarence G Thompson.

Three legged race, first, Louis M. Carpenter and Frank J Royce; second, Joseph A. French and Ivar Anderson.

Single oared boat race, first, C. V. Pendleton; second Percival W. Chapman.

Swimming race, first, Harold P. Hull; second, Earl Matthewson.

Two oared boat race, first, P. W. Chapman and C. V. Pendleton; second, Dr. Clarence A. Spear and Louis Young.

Sack race—first, Ivar Anderson; second, A. C. Brown.

A baseball game was played between teams captained by Harold P. Hall and A. C. Brown, the game resulting in a victory for Capt. Hall's team, by a score of 9 to 8.

After the dinner was served late in the afternoon the members returned to Norwich, well pleased with the outing which was managed by the entertainment committee, A. C. Brown, Edmund S. Smith and Calvin L. Swan, who were ably assisted by the club steward, Fred Blanchette.

SQUIRREL CAUSED FIRE WHICH BURNED 30 ACRES

HARTFORD, Aug. 20—A fire which burned over more than thirty acres of brush and woodland, causing damage estimated at $400, was started by a squirrel which caught fire from a high tension wire, according to a report made by Deputy Fire Warden G. H. Chappell of Waterford to State Forester Austin F. Hawes.

Tracing the origin of the fire, which occurred in the Cohanzic district of Waterford, Warden Chappell says he found the squirrel burned to a crisp at the foot of an electric light pole, where presumably the fire started. The manager of the electric company told him that it appeared the squirrel had climbed the pole and reached the live wire, which set the animal afire. The burning carcass fell to the ground setting fire to the grass which spread to adjoining undergrowth and woodland. Nine men were employed in extinguishing the blaze.

Mrs. Ida Kantrowitz.

Funeral services for Mrs. Ida Kantrowitz, 61, who died Wednesday, were held at 10.30 o'clock Thursday morning from the parlors of Hourigan Bros. Burial was in the cemetery of the Norwich Hebrew Benevolent association, at Brewster's Neck.

JEWETT CITY PROPOSES NEW ROAD SURVEY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

JEWETT CITY, Aug. 20.—Herbert R. Branche, of Norwich, secretary of the Norwich council, No. 309, C. C. F., was the speaker at a meeting of the Jewett City Chamber of Commerce held at Grange hall Wednesday. The main object of the meeting was to hear Mr. Branche's views and plans relative to the proposed changes of the federal highway, as touching the points where the re-routing entirely eliminates the borough of Jewett City. The meeting voted to accept the plans as proposed, with the exception of that part where the blueprint drafts show that this town is practically side-tracked.

The new proposition provides that the federal highway shall leave the present state road at a point about opposite St. Mary's cemetery, in Lisbon. It will then pass back of E. H. Cheney's residence and proceed up the west bank of the Quinebaug, crossing the Aspinook reservoir on a new bridge at a point near John Potts' property in Tadpole (so-called). The connection of the state road will be re-established just above the lower overhead Tadpole bridge. There are three outstanding facts connected with this survey. The grade crossing at South Main street in Jewett City will be cut out. The bad "S" curve at Tadpole will be gotten rid of, and Jewett City will be "set off" the federal highway through eastern Connecticut. William M. McNicol and George H. Prior are the sponsors for a proposed new survey, which Mr. Branche will present to the government and state engineers. This plan provides for the new bridge to cross the Quinebaug a few hundred feet below the present Lisbon bridge. The new highway then, after leaving the state road in Sylvandale, will proceed under the tracks of the New Haven railroad, a few feet south of the present crossing, passing in the rear of the John Sharkey, the F. S. Leonard and W. H. Payne properties, and then come into Main street at or near the corner of Slater avenue. The as yet unaccepted plan then takes the road via Main street to David Hale Fanning park where it is planned to go up East Main, passing out of the borough above the Textile plant, then by F. C. Whiting's and Frank Gier's, joining the present highway above and east of Bishop's crossing.

The beneficial features of this plan are far in excess of the survey as presented for the chamber's consideration and action. First, the South Main street crossing is eliminated; second, the Tadpole curves are not on the road at all, a bridge at Potts point would be twice as long and cost twice as much, as the proposed Quinebaug bridge; most weighty consideration of all, the feared and fatal Bishop's crossing is done away with as far as through trunk line traffic would be concerned. These changes and whatever plans the final decision may adopt, will carry no cost to the town of Griswold. The federal government pays one-third, and the state of Connecticut takes over the rest.

Bishop's crossing, with its much too long list of fatalities is to have an overhead bridge, at a cost of $60,000. But if the borough's plans are accepted, Bishop's crossing will be relegated to the disused cow-path class. No one would pass that way, grass would grow between the rails, and the needs of a new $60,000 overhead steel bridge would automatically become negligible.

George H. Prior, Jacob Wechsler, John T. Dolan, James H. Shea and William W. Bromley were appointed a committee representing the Chamber of Commerce to investigate all matters of whatever nature, pertaining to and as touching the proposed new survey. Other business of minor importance was acted upon and settled. The Pachaug Grange served a full course roast lamb dinner.

ROADSIDE MARKETS ARE BEING INVESTIGATED

An effort to eliminate the practice of selling the "Saturday night" leftovers of city produce markets to Sunday tourists at roadside markets is being made by the state department of agriculture. Investigation of every roadside market in the state is under way to determine the percentage of home-grown products offered for sale. At the completion of this survey the department will issue certificates to all "honest" roadside dealers. Commissioner Philo T. Platt said recently.

Commissioner Platt said that motorists are being imposed upon by hucksters, who operate vending carts on week days and wayside products the vegetables and fruits that could not be disposed of during the week. This practice has been a detriment to the legitimate roadside market operators, he said, who are mostly farmers offering home-grown products.

Conferences have been held on the subject with leading growers and investigation has been ordered. Elliot Platt, market investigator has been detailed for the work, and during the past three days has been on the highways between Hartford and New Haven. He reports that all the distributors of home-grown products direct, welcome the investigation by the department.

An interesting fact that has come to light is that less than a score of years ago the only roadside market between Portland, Me., and New York city, was at Berlin. At present there are more than forty such markets between Hartford and New Haven, besides the hundreds of others on various highways.

AUTO CAUGHT FIRE ON STARR STREET

Thursday morning about 9.30 o'clock the fire department responded to a telephone call for a fire in an automobile on Starr street. The car was not damaged as the fire was extinguished with sand, before the flames had made any headway. The machine is owned by Alonzo Letendre and was driven by William Carver. Backfiring through the carburetor is blamed for the blaze.

LIONS CLUB TO MEET AT MOHEGAN

The Norwich Lions club held its regular meeting Thursday noon at the Wauregan House with President William A. Anderson in charge. It was announced that the next meeting of the club would be held at Mohegan with the Mohegan Indians and a large turnout of members is expected.

A short talk on conditions of real estate in Florida was given by Lion Abner Sylvester, who gave interesting descriptions of the real estate situation there and most encouraging. The meeting closed in the usual manner, with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

PLAN NEW BUILDING FOR UNCAS-ON-THAMES

Comptroller Salmon and the members of the tuberculosis commission will hold a hearing September 2d on plans for the building of additions to the tuberculosis sanatorium at Norwich. One of the buildings is to accommodate sixty patients and its cost is limited to $50,000. The other is to be a two-story building to house sixteen people employed at the institution and the cost of its construction is limited to $25,000. The buildings for the patients is to be fireproof and the other semi-fireproof.

Safety Devices Satisfactory

The efficiency of the mechanical department and the safety committee is reflected in the recent visit of the state factory inspector, says Finishing Topics, published by the U. S. Finishing Co. This inspector spent a day at the Norwich plant, thoroughly examining the sanitation and safety devices in each department. He stated that very few plants in his district could compare with ours in guarding the health and safety of its employes, and had no recommendations to make at headquarters.

MAY PROVE BOMERANG TO MINERS AND OPERATORS

Public Aroused by Recurrent Threats of Strikes in the Hard Coal Fields—Movement Started by Governors of New England and Then Representatives to Lessen New Englands Dependence Upon Anthracite—Planning to Educate People in the Use of Substitute Fuels and to See That Such Substitutes Are Supplied.

BOSTON, Aug. 21.—(AP)—The governors of the New England states and their representatives who met here today to discuss the coal situation as it affects New England agreed that the best method of combatting leadership should an anthracite shortage develop would be to educate New England in the use of substitute fuels and to see to it that such substitutes were supplied.

It was voted to continue as a permanent body today with John Hays Hammond, chairman of the federal coal committee two years ago, as chairman and Henry L. Shattuck of Boston, secretary.

Chairman Hammond who stated that he was not present as a representative of President Coolidge, declared that he had no fear of an anthracite strike this year. The operators, he said, that they are losing their markets because of increasing prices and the public is getting a message, and the miners were "in the same boat."

Each should a strike develop, he said New England could easily make up deficiencies such as soft coal and those off the "shoal" of anthracite, which is commonly regarded as a luxury in other parts of the country.

Prices of bituminous fuel will be increased this year, Mr. Hammond said because of lack of any danger of a strike in the soft coal fields. Union soft coal miners dare not strike, he declared, because the mines are non-union fields, who now produce 40 per cent. of the total output and giving them too strong competition.

Thomas J. Storrow, former Massachusetts state fuel administrator, declared that the only reason New England had failed to adopt soft coal as a fuel was inability of the dealers to secure the proper kind for domestic use. He urged the creation of a commission which would be able to produce the proper kind of soft coal for domestic use for at least one developing community.

Eugene C. Hultman, chairman of the Massachusetts commission on the necessaries of life, said he doubted if there would be an anthracite strike but that sixty per cent. of the winter's supply of anthracite had been received in Massachusetts and that probably similar conditions existed in other New England states.

Alex T. Treadway, state congressman from Massachusetts, urged federal legislation to control the anthracite industry.

Governors Fuller of Massachusetts and Brewster of Maine attended the conference in person. John W. Storrs, New Hampshire state fuel administrator represented Gov. Winant of that state and Ernest L. Sprague, secretary of state, represented Gov. Pothier of Rhode Island. John D. Sherburne represented Gov. Billings of Vermont and Edward W. Goss appeared for Gov. Trumbull of Connecticut.

MINERS' PRESIDENT LEWIS ABSENT FROM QUARTERS

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Aug. 21.—(AP)—When John L. Lewis, president of United Mine Workers of America, failed to return today to his temporary hotel headquarters here after his departure yesterday, speculation developed as to possibility of final developments soon in the anthracite wage situation. Mr. Lewis's whereabouts were not disclosed by his staff.

Nothing was looked for, however, much before next Monday when the present anthracite wage contract enters practically its final week.

Meanwhile word reached here that James J. Davis, secretary of labor and reported one of the government spokesmen in coal, would arrive in New York next Tuesday after a vacation trip abroad.

U. S. Senator George Wharton Pepper, who has been mentioned as an amicable mediator in the present deadlock between the operators and miners, is said to be in New England. His office does not expect him here until after Labor day.

Silence shrouds the offices of the anthracite operators' conference in the continued absence of samuel D. Worriner, chairman.

Producers Discuss Motion Picture Tax

They Are Planning to Take State Tax Fight Into the United States Supreme Court.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Plans for taking into the United States supreme court the fight on the Connecticut motion picture tax law were discussed today at a meeting in the offices of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America.

More than a dozen members of the organization attended the meeting. George W. Wickersham, former attorney-general, who fought the constitutionality of the law in the federal court in New Haven, also was present.

The question of placing a ban on the shipment of films into Connecticut as a protest against the law was discussed, but no action was taken. Another meeting will be held next Tuesday when, it is expected, definite plans will be made.

THEATRE OWNERS TO SUBMIT LIST OF FILMS

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 21.—(AP)—New Haven theatre owners will comply with every request made by State Tax Commissioner William H. Blodgett in his notice asking that they submit lists of films exhibited by them since July 8, up to and including those which will be shown until Aug. 25, it was learned today.

This is the first official step taken by the state in an effort to enforce the new motion picture tax law which recently was held constitutional by federal court judges.

Under the order, the records are returnable not later than Sept. 5, and must show the name of the picture, the number of feet in each reel, the name of the producer and whether the picture is a comedy, drama, news reel, or educational subject. The date each film was delivered to the operator must be shown with the name and address of the deliverer.

Failure to make returns or the sending in of incomplete information will mean a check-up by investigators from the tax department. The notice further states that the record must be complete as to the reels whether exempt from tax or not.

Splits in New York's Mayoralty Campaign

Independence League, Hearst's Old Organization, Refuses to Recognize the Publisher's Secretary.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—(AP)—The $500,000,000 grade crossing bond issue proposal, which will come before the voters of the state in the form of an amendment this November, has become an important factor in New York's jig-saw puzzle mayoralty campaign.

Yesterday Mayor Hylan assailed the proposal, which is favored by Governor Smith, as a scheme to trade railroad crossings at the expense of the public with the railroads the real beneficiaries. Immediately democratic state senators and assemblymen who had voted for the proposal rallied to the governor's defense and their own positions.

The ruffled situation in the republican camp was a little smoothed today when two so-called insurgent candidates against the ticket headed by Frank D. Waterman, dropped out of the primary race.

The fight in the Independence league, the old organization of William Randolph Hearst, still continues. E. T. O'Loughlin, who has been leader for the past few years, today refused to recognize the leadership of J. P. Wilcombe, the publisher's secretary, who took the league in hand several days ago after one wing had voted in favor of Senator Walker. The Wilcombe wing has come out for Mayor Hylan.

CONFERENCE TO BE HELD ON RURAL EDUCATION

HARTFORD, Aug. 21—N. Searle Light, director of rural education for the state department of education has arranged for a conference of school supervisors and principals to be held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week at the Old Senate chamber in the capitol. About forty-five are expected to attend and the meeting will discuss objectives for the coming school year.

Dr. A. B. Meredith, commissioner of education, will be the speaker at the opening meeting Tuesday at 9.30 a. m., standard time. His subject will be "The Supervision Service." Director Light will lead discussions. Other speakers during the conference will be F. S. Camp, supervisor of elementary education; L. C. Staples, supervisor of schools of Suffield and East Granby, and C. W. Maddocks, supervisor of schools of Deep River.

An outing at one of the local parks is planned for Wednesday afternoon at which guests of the supervisors will be present.

MISS MABEL GERRY ENGAGED TO F. S. E. DRURY OF LONDON

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 21—Announcement of the engagement of the Miss Mabel Gerry of Newport to Mr. F. S. E. Drury of London was made today by Mr. Eldridge T. Gerry, her father.

Miss Gerry is a sister of United States Senator Peter G. Gerry of Rhode Island, and Robert L. Gerry.

Mr. Drury is the son of the late Archdeacon Drury, former chaplain of the house of commons. His mother was Miss Daubeny of Wiltshire, England.

He is a widower, with two sons and a daughter, the latter the widow of the late Arthur Coke, who was killed in the world war.

The marriage will take place in the autumn.

INJURED CYCLIST FINED FOR ENDANGERING PUBLIC

DEDHAM, Mass., Aug. 21—Edward Palmer of Dedham, who broke a bone in his foot when he drove his motorcycle around a parked passenger bus into another machine, hobbled into the Dedham court on crutches today and was fined $50 by Judge Sanborn for driving so as to endanger the lives of the public. Judge Sanborn ruled that although Palmer was the only person injured he was part of the public endangered. Palmer paid.

Dollar Day Today

Dollar day has long since become a fixture as a special trading day during the summer. It is recognized and anticipated by the buying public as an occasion not to miss.

In view of the efforts of the merchants, buyers from far and near will be encouraged to visit this trading center today for the purpose of satisfying their many wants under the most favorable conditions. Excellent values will be placed before the people and Dollar day should result in a day of special satisfaction for a small army of buyers as well as for the merchants.

Dollar day presents opportunities that should be improved and not ignored. Norwich stores have planned for the movement of a large volume of goods at prices which are most attractive.

24 FEDERAL PROHIBITION ADMINISTRATORS SELECTED

They Have Been Given Ten Days to Begin Formation of Their Staffs to Conduct an Intensive Campaign—Walton A. Green, Former Army Officer, Has Been Selected to Build Up a Highly Trained Group of Investigators Who Will Work on Big Conspiracy Cases—Only Six New Men Appointed.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—(AP)—The field commanders of the nation's reorganized prohibition army were named today, giving them ten days in which to begin formation of their staffs in preparation for an intensive campaign to dry up the United States and its possessions.

The new command, made up of 24 federal prohibition administrators who will assume full charge of administering the dry law September 1, and one chief prohibition investigator was organized chiefly from among the old dry officers, only six new men being appointed. Eleven of the former state directors, five division chiefs, the chief of general agents, one assistant divisional chief and one general agent were promoted.

This came as a surprise, since Assistant Secretary Andrews of the treasury, the prohibition field marshal, had declared in announcing his plans for reorganization, that the new army regime would be made up principally of big business or military men in an effort to put fresh life into the enforcement organization.

Explaining the retention of so many of the former officials, Mr. Andrews said today that he had concluded after meeting them that it would be a great mistake not to give most of them the chance to operate under a system that I feel will give more power and efficiency to the field enforcement of prohibition."

It was evident that the assistant secretary had made some changes with his original plan in that decided to keep many of the former officers, as five of the new men appointed were former army officers and one a railroad official.

Seven of the executives were named only as acting administrators because, General Andrews said, he had not yet determined on the men who "may meet the requirements" in those districts. He expected, however, that after the new machinery begins working, some of those given temporary assignments "may demonstrate their ability to render the service."

Outstanding in the announcement of the appointment of Walton A. Green, former army officer who assisted Mr. Andrews, who served as a brigadier general during the war, in the formation of the military police in France as the chief prohibition investigator, a new office and the sending to the San Francisco district as federal administrator of U. S. Attorney [illegible] of general prohibition agents, whose office is abolished.

Mr. Green, who also is a former publicist on the coast, will be charged with the building up of a [illegible] group of investigators who will work on big conspiracy cases.

Besides Chief Inspector Green, the appointees include Frederick C. Dyer, former deputy collector of the Customs and Lake Erie railroad, who will be in charge of the Pittsburgh district; Roscoe Patterson, formerly connected in the [illegible] engaged in business in Eagle, Canada of Tampa, Herbert H. White, retired army officer at Fort Worth Texas; Robert E. Fifth, former army officer at Los Angeles and Arthur Hellman, former army officer at San Juan Porto Rico. R. B. Sams, former director for for for New Jersey, will [illegible] for New Jersey, will be acting administrator of the Boston district, J. A. Foster, [illegible] Philadelphia [illegible] New York district; R. G. Marsh, [illegible] special chief at New York, the Buffalo district; B. E. Ewing, former director for Illinois, the Chicago district; C. Townsend, former divisional chief at Chicago, the St. Paul district; W. H. Moss, former divisional chief at Kansas City, Mo., the St. Louis district; [illegible] C. F. Childs, former general agent, [illegible] Hawaii, district.

PLAN TO HAVE U. S. JOIN THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug. 21.—(AP)—A plea to the United States to assure world peace by joining the League of Nations was the closing event of the fifth annual session of the Institute of Politics. Dr. William E. Rappard of Geneva, a member of the permanent mandates commission of the league made the plea at his last lecture tonight. He described Russia as openly hostile to the league and now the scourge of Europe and the world, and Germany as playing a game of bluff and seek with the league.

Dividing the present member nations of the league into troops of those desiring "security first, peace first, or justice first," Dr. Rappard said that Italy and Japan could not be assigned to any group, the latter because of her reticence and silence, and Italy because "neither security or peace nor justice can be held to characterize the ideas of her present government."

COUNSEL DID NOT CONFER WITH GERALD CHAPMAN

HARTFORD, Aug. 21.—(AP)—The conference of Judge Frederick H. Grochi and his client, Gerald Chapman which would take place today at the Wethersfield State prison was not held and no information that such a meeting was to have taken place was had by prison officials. It was expected that Judge Grochi conferring with Chapman, would inform the latter of the Hague murders alleged to have been committed by George "Dutch" Anderson, Chapman's underworld companion. Nathan P. Freedman, junior counsel for Chapman was to have accompanied Judge Grochi.

FINED $500 FOR DRIVING CAR WHILE INTOXXICATED

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 21.—(AP)—George Drexel Biddle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Craig Biddle of Philadelphia was fined $500 and costs in court here today on charges of driving his car while intoxicated, reckless driving and operating without a license.

Biddle's machine struck another containing Morton A. Weaver and a woman companion on July 9, causing injuries for which Weaver and Mrs. Mary Colonin of Pawtucket, R. I., have brought civil suits for $5,000 and $10,000 respectively.

60-YEAR-OLD MAN FATALLY SHOT BY TWO HOLD-UP MEN

PERTH AMBOY, N. J., Aug. 21—(AP)—James Gallaghe, a 60-year-old special officer of the Perth Amboy Arust company, was fatally shot without warning today by two hold-up men who escaped with a $12,000 payroll which he and Charles Gray were taking in a taxicab to the offices of the Delehanty Ferris and Silliman contractors, erecting the $5,000,000 victory bridge across the Raritan river.

THERMOMETER DROPPED 22 DEGREES IN YONKERS

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—(AP)—New Yorkers thought of approaching winter and the threatened coal strike when the thermometer dropped to 57 at 3 p. m., today a slide of twenty seven degrees since the high reading of 84 at 3 p. m., yesterday. It was also the lowest temperature for the month this year.

DEATHS IN MACKINAC DISASTER REACH 46

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 21—Three deaths today brought the total number of fatalities in the Mackinac disaster of last Tuesday night to 46. Two other persons are not expected to live.

The last victim to die was Peter Bursay, 27, a Pawtucket, R. I., policeman.

Sheets, blankets, pillows and counterpanes were frequent subjects of bequests in the middle ages.

GEN. PERSHING INTERVENES IN DISORDER AT ARICA, CHILE

ARICA, Chile, Aug. 21.—(AP)—General John J. Pershing, president of the Tacna-Arica plebiscitary commission, intervened today when the hostility of Arica's Chilean inhabitants to the newspaper published and distributed here by the Peruvian delegation to the commission resulted in disorders in front of his residence.

A Chilean crowd gathered this morning to attempt to prevent the sale of the newspaper on the streets of Arica and heightened the soldiers into the Consular of General Pershing's residence where three members of the American delegation interviewed. When the general's attention was called to the incident he immediately visited Augustin Edwards head of the Chilean delegation, and afterward announced that the Peruvians "will have a perfect right to sell papers or to go anywhere in the city."

The Aricans' hostility to the paper, which is published around the Peruvian transport Ucayali, has increased daily since it first appeared on Aug. 20. Potatoes were thrown at the Peruvians.

SOCIAL GATHERING OF ECLECTIC PHYSICIANS

NEW AVEN, Aug. 21.—(AP)—The gathering of the eclectic physicians hiere today was nothing more than a social gathering, according to Dr. G. A. Richardson, of Bridgeport, secretary of the Connecticut Eclectic Medical Society. He said that the recent decision of the supreme court upholding the revocation of eclectics' licenses was not discussed.

"The gathering was mosely a social one, among a number of friends," Dr. Richardson said. "They were not all doctors, but just friends who came from various parts of the state. It was in the nature of a smoker."

YOUTH ARRESTED FOR PASSING SPURIOUS CHECKS

New Gravity Pendulum Invented

TOKYO, June—(AP)—Dr. H. Nagaka, professor of physics in the Tokyo Imperial University, is credited with inventing a new pendulum for use in determining gravity. The pendulum is said to be constructed solely of tungsten, mounted in a special way, and to be practically free from outside influences. Its inventor claims e peAkx-ite ontIrst.....h etooin the pendulum can withstand heat and magnetic impulses combined.

Prussia to Get Busoni Collection

BERLIN, June—(AP)—The widow of Ferrucci, Busoni has declared her intention of bequeathing to the Prussian state the entire Busoni archieve, comprising all letters, autographs, musical scores, pictures and instruments of the late master. A special feature of this gift is a rare collection of original manuscripts and scores which Busoni collected with the utmost pains in the course of many years.

UNUSUAL WEATHER CONDITION IN ARCTIC

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—(AP)—"The unusual weather conditions in the Arctic which caused abandonment, this year of the MacMillan expedition's plans to explore the Polar area" were described by the National Geographic society tonight as apparently only manifestations of nature's complexity in producing the current summer.

"MacMillan, pushing up the coast of Labrador in June found more ice than had been present at that season in the memory of the oldest sealing captains," said a statement of the society. "At the same time, however, the United States was from one to six degrees above normal."

Beginning the latter part of June, there have been hundreds of below-normal temperatures from the northeast and north, possibly a reflection of the unusually cold conditions which MacMillan has found in the far north. Abnormally low temperatures were being recorded in Alaska at the time that abnormally high temperatures were present over the rest of the United States."

The greatest handicap to students of weather is the lack of reports from a sufficiently large area. The weather with which the United States is concerned is "brewed" all over the northern hemisphere—in fact, it is highly probable that in its larger phases weather north of the equator is affected somewhat by conditions in the southern hemisphere. Yet the United States obtains complete reports only from its own territory.

PLANS OF GRAND DRAGON OF THE KU KLUX KLAN

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Hiram W. Osborn, grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan announced today that the annual meeting of grand dragons of the United States, which opens at Buckeye Lake, near here, next Tuesday, will have for its object organizing "methods to save America from a pagan civilization—to return the church to Christ."

Mr. Osborn said today the question of barring the teaching of the theory of evolution in the schools is not considered a serious issue with Klan and no effort is to be made to oppose it. But the Klan does insist, he added, that the Bible teachings of the creation both of these be taught alongside the evolution theory. He indicated that the Klan expects to continue the fight to bring about compulsory Bible education in the schools.

Approximately 250,000 persons are expected to attend the Konklave, Mr. Osborn said. A 700-acre tract near the lake has been taken over for the review.

DISCHARGED MAN WAS FUGITIVE FROM JUSTICE

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Emmet Diggs, of Washington, had just been discharged by Judge Sheridan T. Whitaker in city court today on a liquor violation count and a charge of willifying a police officer, and was just about to leave the court room when John Roache, county bailiff, rushed in and announced to the court that the man was a fugitive from justice, being wanted in Wallingford.

It developed that Diggs had been involved in an automobile accident in Wallingford, Aug. 16, the day before he was arrested in New Haven. He was released on bonds to appear in the Wallingford court Thursday. Being locked up in the New Haven jail, however, he was unable to appear in Wallingford and a warrant was issued for his re-arrest.

STATE EMPLOYE KILLED BY ALBUQUERQUE EDITOR

EAST LAS VEGAS, N. M., Aug. 21.—(AP)—Carl C. Magee, Albuquerque editor and storm center of New Mexico politics, tonight shot and killed John E. Lassatter, a state employe in a hotel here tonight when in a fight with former District Judge H. J. Leahy, his political enemy, he drew a revolver and fired suddenly. Lassatter was a by-standeer.

McGee fired two shots after he had been knocked to the floor by Leahy, the first shot striking Lasateer and the second wounding Leahy in the arm.

Leahy was the district judge who tried Magee in two cases, both of which gained national publicity.

Leahy walked into the hotel, witnesses of the shooting said and immediately approached Magee and began pummelling him.

Magee was taken into custody but no charge had been filed against early tonight.

HAYTIEN CONSUL HELD FOR LIQUOR LAW VIOLATION

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—(AP)—When customs officials today searched the baggage of Eugen Le Bosse, honorary Haytian consul at Manchester, N. H., they found not 240 bottles of liquor which Mr. Le Bosse said they contained, but 98 bottles, two cases of Jamaica rum, 100 cartons of perfume and cigars and cigarettes.

Yesterday Mr. Le Bosse claimed diplomatic immunity when customs officers wished to search his trunks. When this was denied, he readily admitted that the trunks contained liquor which he was bringing in for friends.

There were 240 bottles, he said, and Edward Barnes, assistant collector at the customs house, fined him $1,200. In accordance with the usual custom, Mr. Le Bosse promised to pay the fine Monday. As the result of the discovery of the additional bottles, however, the fine will probably be more than doubled.

TO REPRESENT STATE ON FISHERIES COMMISSION

HARTFORD, Aug. 21—Representative Charles E. Wheeler of Stratford, has been appointed by Governor Trumbull to represent this state on the Atlantic fisheries commission, which was formed by Secretary Hoover, of the department of commerce to study the condition of fisheries along the Atlantic seaboard. Each interested state will have a representative to act with the federal commission.

Acting Governor Brainard today issued a requisition on the governor of New Jersey for the extradition of William Wallake, who is wanted at Bridgeport, on a charge of non-support. He is being held at Jersey City.

ANNUAL CRUISE OF THE NEW HAVEN YACHT CLUB

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 21.—(AP)—The annual cruise of the New Haven Yacht club will start tomorrow when the yachts of the club and a numerous other clubs will rendezvous at Morris cove. The captains of all the yachts will meet about the commodore's flagship and definitely decide the next stopping place or port. This arrangement will be followed every day.

The itinerary of the cruise will be westward and among some of the ports that will be visited are Larchmont, New Rochelle, Stamford, Mamaroneck, Manhassett and several other places not yet decided upon. The cruise of the yacht club will also take in the finals of the Gold cup races at Manhassett.

FINGERPRINTS OF DEAD MAN SOLVED THE CASE

BRIDGEPORT, Aug. 21—That the finger prints of a dead man smoothed away the difficulties that barred an inheritance to his wife, was disclosed today when the estate of Stephen Horvath was offered for probate.

Horvath died two weeks ago, leaving an estate of $2,000, most of which was deposited in the Postal Savings bank, here. Horvath opened his account under the name of "Paul Pitt", leaving finger prints in addition to a signature when depositing the money.

"Has the man been buried yet?" asked Probate Judge Bartlett, at a consultation the day of Horvath's funeral.

"No, but he will be in a few hours," the executor answered.

"Then hurry and get some one to take his finger prints," the judge advised. This was done, and the prints were the same as Piti's, establishing the identity.

GARMENT WORKERS IN NEW YORK IN TROUBLE

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—As a result of yesterday's two-hour stoppage of work by 30,000 members of three Insurgent locals of the International Ladies Garment Workers' union, about 40 shops discharged individual workers today and all the other workers in these shops walked out in protest, according to the joint committee of action of the locals.

In 15 of the shops, the committee stated, the discharged workers were reinstated after their fellow-unionists walked out. The joint committee announced that a strike will be called in the shops which have so far refused to take back the workers.

TO EXPERIMENT WITH AN EXCHANGE OF WAVE LENGTHS

HARTFORD, Aug. 21.—(AP)—As an experiment, WTIC, the Travelers Insurance company radio station here and WEEI, the Boston Edison Electrical company's station at Boston will exchange wave lengths beginning Thursday, Aug. 27. The experiment probably will be continued regularly for two or three weeks and it is expected that it will prove whether local conditions have any appreciable effect on one wave length which does not exist in the other, particularly as respects to topography and surrounding structures.

With the consent of the department, WTIC will broadcast on 476 meters on and after August 27 until further notice. The value of the experiment will be measured by reports from radio listeners.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

At a special business meeting of the Congregational church, the resignation of Rev. Walter Byron Williams was accepted. F. A. Jacobs was chosen moderator, and the following committees were elected: Pulpit Supply: Arthur G. Bill, chairman; Miss Amelia B. Hutchins, David A. Witter, F. A. Jacobs, Miss Frances W. Danielson, Burdette C. Hopkins, George B. Guild, S. S. Russell, Miss Agnes Jacobs; Clerk, Marion D. Chollar; Committee to act with the pastor for calling a dismissal council: Willard S. Danielson, Mrs. James M. Paine, and Harry E. Bass. A resolution offered by Mr. Bass, which the church accepted praised the faithful and efficient pastor who has decided to accept a call from the North Congregational church in Berkeley, California.

While the Westfield Congregational church of Danielson, most highly appreciates his loyal, effection and affectionate services to this church and its people for the past eight years, and while the church will feel most keenly the loss of his leadership, the church accepted the resignation, and voted to unite with its pastor in calling a council to approve this action and dissolve the pastoral relation now existing.

The church expressed heartfelt regret that it must dismiss to another field of labor one who for eight years has been an ideal pastor, of marked achievements in church business and finance, in the social and intellectual life of church and community. His preaching has been able, and he has kept abreast of the times. He has performed work of mark and eminence in [illegible] and in carrying out [illegible] improvements and the construction of a new parish house. He found the church's physical property in need of repairs and renovation, and relinquishes it in a completely improved state, having raised and expended thereon tens of thousands of dollars, and he leaves the church without any [illegible] of all these the church releases him [illegible] commends and recommends highly to the organi[illegible] he is going.

The plant of the Westfield Textile company has been closed down for [illegible].

Mr. and Mrs. Albertus F. Wood were among honorary members of the 18th Regiment, Connecticut Volunteers, at the annual reunion held in Norwich. Mr. Wood's father was a member of this command. The purpose of choosing honorary members is to have some one carry on the work after all the old [illegible] have passed away.

Parts of the Quinebaug mill will be stopped for a vacation period to begin next Monday.

At the Old People's Home on Main street, Mrs. Kate B. Sibley Titursday observed her 83rd birthday. During the afternoon she entertained relatives from New Britain and New Haven.

Final tryouts for the state rifle team that will compete in the shoot at Camp Perry, will take place today (Saturday) and Sunday at the Rifle range, [illegible] south of Danielson. A week from [illegible] will leave for the [illegible] ammunition this year is [illegible] distance as the 300 yards [illegible] has been abandoned. The men need somewhat more practice in order [illegible] familiarize themselves with shooting [illegible] distance.

Rev. Sarah A. Dickson is to preach today at the Westfield Congregational church. A large and appreciative audience greeted her sermon [illegible] same church.

Delegates have been chosen by Leo [illegible] the post, American Legion, to the state convention in New [illegible] Thursday, Friday and [illegible] elected were Joseph [illegible], Arthur De[illegible] commander; Ira A. War[illegible] and Herbert E. [illegible] adjutant. At the same time the Legion convention, the "Forty and Eight" will also hold their convention in New London. The man [illegible] Burdick, alternate. The American Legion has signed a contract with the Orpheum Theatre for the production of a play, "All Aboard." A play is given each year and is run two days. This year the [illegible] will be presented on some date in October. The Legion, now [illegible] affiliated [illegible] Legion, now [illegible] its annual convention at New London on the same day as the men. The delegates [illegible] Mr. Sidney Bard. Mrs. Lucian Lambert, and Mrs. J. Dyer Potter. Mrs. Thomas Beckett was chosen delegate-at-large.

[illegible] A. Mills has returned [illegible] Cape Cod [illegible] Adirondacks.

Funeral services for two-year-old Henry Polanski were held Wednesday morning at St. James church by Rev. [illegible]. The bearers were Stanley Wenzel, Nicky Goretski, Edward [illegible] and Adam Slowik. Burial in Holy Cross cemetery. Funeral arrangements were in charge of L. E. [illegible].

Mrs. J. C. Witter, Miss Katherine Aylward, F. A Sullivan and Mrs. Fenner Woodward are on a trip to the [illegible].

Mrs. John Winslow, and Everett Winslow, of Carolina, R. I., were recent visitors in Danielson.

Numerous small boys about the town have recently begun to try to emulate Evel Knievel James Smith, whom they saw in action Thursday night, when he went up the side of the Danielson garage.

Inspector Wright, of the insurance underwriters was a Danielson visitor today.

After rain had fallen all day Friday the sun suddenly came out brilliantly at 4 o'clock, making the day a fine illustration of good and bad weather.

Miss Emma Chartier of the Weht [illegible] was pleasantly surprised Thursday night when a number of friends gathered her a shower in honor of her marriage which takes place next Monday morning.

L. A. W. ACCEPTANCE CORP. BUYS EIGHT DAYVILLE HOUSES

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Aug. 21—One of the largest real estate transactions in some time was that late yesterday afternoon, when Frank Davis sold to the L. A. W. Acceptance Corporation eight houses and the lots on which they stand. The property is located in Dayville, on the westerlyside of the highway in the rear of the trolley carbarn, beginning with the third house from the north and going toward the state road leading to Goodyear.

The sale includes the water plant, consisting of a windmill, well, electric pump and the necessary piping. The price is understood to be in the neighborhood of $16,000. When the cars were stored at the barn the row was often called "trolley row" and many of the railway employes made there homes there.

PUTNAM

The local police descended on a camp near the Little Dam Taverh last evening after complaints had been made by those living in the vicinity and took the eight people they found there to the city prison on a charge of intoxication. In the city court Friday morning Assistant Judge Macdonald found them all guilty and imposed prison sentences varying from twenty to sixty days on six, and fined the other two. As they had no money to pay the fines the double quartette was taken to Brooklyn jail. They are rounders, most of them having previous court records.

Rosario J. Beausoleil has sent his resignation as first lieutenant of Headquarters Company, 43rd Division, National Guard, to Captain J. J. McGarry and the latter has forwarded it to the adjutant general. Lieutenant Beausoleil gave no reasons for resigning the post which he has held since the organization of the company, a year and a half ago. He was drill sergeant at Camp Devens during the war and is considered a very efficient officer. It is expected that Captain McaGrry will recommend his successor soon and that whoever he proposes will be commissioned.

Second Lieutenant Owen J. White, has been the principal at Israel Putnam school but sent in his resignation at the end of the school term in June. He has two or three offers from schools in other cities so if he leaves Putnam he will naturally retire fromh Headquarters company.

The committee that has been engaged in securing the names of the Putnam Veterans who served in the World War and whose names should go on the Honor Roll on the Memorial Bridge are nearing the completion of their work. A number of new names have been added during the past week, many have been transferred to the accredited list, where doubt existed as to the time of service or the residence of the person. There have also been numerous corrections in the spelling of names, especially those of French extraction. Among the new names that meet these two requirements, residence and military service are: Harry M. Brown, George Grinsell, Jr., Napoleon Lecroix, Jr., Walter J. Phoulx, Oscar St. Laurent and William Wood.

Union services of the Methodist and Congregational churches will be held on Sunday at the Second Congregational church at 10:30 A. M, with the Rev. Mr. Englihs in charge.

Several copies of the annual report of the Foochow Missionary Hospital by Dr. Kinnear have been received, and copies are obtainable from Mrs. H. J. Thayer. The Second Congregational church of this city helps support the Mission of which Dr. Kinnear has charge.

Joseph Giraca of Les street, an employe of the American Express company has returned from a trip to Montreal.

Mrs. Stella A. Bowan, of South Main street, announces the engagement of her daughter, Marion Louise, to Henry Cutler Hawkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Hawkins, of West Gloucester, R. I.

The conditions as far as riparian rights are concerned are entirely different from those that prevails at Alexander Lake, where orders have been posted by the state police prohibiting bathing.

LOCAL GIRL PASSENGER ON STEAMER MACKINAC

(Special to the Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Aug. 21.—The eight year old daughter of Patrolman John Ryan of this city and her step-sister, Mrs. Nora McDavitt, of Pawtucket, were passengers on the steamer Mackinac when the boiler blew up in Narragansett Bay Tuesday evening causing the death of nearly fifty people. Neither Mrs. McDavitt nor the the little girl who had been visiting her were injured.

They had gone on the excursion from Pawtucket to Newport and on the return trip were among the last to board the steamer. Tugs were at the opposite end of the boat from where the fatalities occurred, only a short time after the accident they were taken off in a steam launch.

Officer Ryan took his family to Pawtucket Wednesday morning, found the girls all right and returned to Putnam today.

FRENCH AND SPANISH JOIN IN BIG DRIVE ON MOROCCO

CANTERBURY GREEN

The annual sale and supper of the Ladies' Aid Society held over from Thursday was continued Friday evening. Though the weather was not propitious, th e prograw mas carried out and a pleasing entertainment was given from the church porch and adjacent green. Electric lights from a plant furnished by Chas. Fletcher added much to the effect and brought out to the audience the beauty of the stately front of the old church. The program consisted of selections by the Canterbury orchestra, two songs with encores by the Odd Fellows' quartette of Plainfield, song and encore by Roy Goodrich, piano solo, Miss Mary Brown and a minuet by eight young women in old-fashioned costumes of various hues. This was introduced by an explanatory song by Mrs. Milo Appley. A social tea of these ladies of olden times was followed by the minuet on the green, which presented a pretty moving picture in color. Before and after the entertainment the usual variety of articles and edibles were on sale in charge of various committees. A roast beef supper was served on both nights from 6 to eight, by Mrs. Nelson and her assistants. There was a good attendance and a satisfactory sum was added to the treasury.

The Sunday school and community picnic has been planned for Thursday of next week and will probably be held at the usual place, Babcock's grove.

The Grance held a meeting on Wednesday evening. At the next meeting, Sept. 2, it is expected that Plainfield Grange will present the Connecticut travelling gavel and give a program. Canterbury Grance is also booked to visit Plainfield, Sept. 1.

LIBERTY HILL CHURCH HAS MORTGAGE BURNING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

LIBERTY HILL, Aug. 21—Seven years ago the Liberty Hill Congregational church bought for a parsonage the Norton B Loomis house and about six acres of land situated opposite the residence of Horace Foote assuming a debt of $2,000 The church then went to work with a stoving will to pay it off as well as newly furnished the church and made repairs on parsonage. Suppers and fairs have frequently been held, until recently the pastor and wife, Rev. and Mrs. L. L. Harris purchased five acres of the land, which with what the church had accumulated, paid off the mortgage. Wednesday eeon the church had a publication dinner, furnished by the women's society of the church. Those who in the past sampled the cooling of the cakes at Liberty Hill know what kind of a delicious chicken pie dinner it was. Rev. L. L. Harris was chairman of the exercises following the dinner. Before eating the Doxology was sung. Mr. Harris saying grace. After dinner Mr. Harris called on John Clarke, chairman of the trustees who gave a history of the church and its unity Following this, Miss Mary G. Fuller was given the honor of burning the mortgage dede, on account of her and her sister Nancy R. Fuller's tireless efforts in piecing quilts and at fairs and suppers. After this, an original poem by Miss Mary E. Fuller was read by John Clarke entitled Burning The Mortgage.

WESTERLY

A regular session of Third District court was held in the court house Friday morning, when Clerk M. Walter Flynn, Jr., read the following docket:

New Writs—Herbert Whitmore vs. Nicholas Mooney et ux. Jury trial claimed for an automobile accident at Avondale corner.

Annie Nelson vs. N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. Company. If unanswered during the day, continued one week

Byron R. Cole vs. Frank Burgess. If unanswered during day, continued one week.

Roy S. Lockwood vs. Louis Deutsch (two cases) if unanswered during the day, continued one week.

Old Writs—John E. Ruisi vs. George Bookataub. Plaintiff's proof of claim submitted. Judgment rendered the plaintiff for $36 and costs.

McCaskey Register Co. vs. P. H. Kelly of Shannock. Plaintiff's proof of claim submitted and judgment rendered for the plaintiff in the sum of $128.75.

Pasquale Furcolo vs. Giovani Galucci. Marked ready. Later Judge Tutano told Lawyers Roche and Dunn for the plaintiff and defendant, respectively, that as he had been a party at interest, the case would be heard by the clerk. Continued.

Carl Olsen vs. Orlando Gamaris. Continued one week.

State, Thomes E. Brown, complainant vs. Thomas Fiore. Continued one week.

State, James E. Norman, R. I. State Policeman, No. 38, complainant vs. Roy Earl. Ready.

Judge Michael J. Turano took up the trial docket and Claude F. Haxton, 17, was presented by Chief of Police Frank Brown, of Hopkinton, on a complaint of operating an automobile without proper headlights. The trial brought out the fact that on August 15th he operated an automobile on the Hopkinton road in Ashaway and for a period of five weeks had only one headlight. He pleaded guilty, and was fined $10 and costs, which was paid.

LeRoy Talbot, 26, was arraigned on complaint that he operated an automobile on Broad street, Ashaway, August 16th, without first securing a license from the Rhode Island State Board of Public Roads. He pleaded not guilty, and the case was continued to August 26th for trial, surety being required in the sum of $200.

Later Prosecuting Attorney John Ferguson, Jr., amended the complaint to read "operating an automobile without having a license in his possession" at 34 miles an hour. The defendant pleaded guilty and was fined $5 and costs amounting to $10, which was paid.

State, Thomas E. Brown, chief of police of Westerly complainant vs. Mario DeFanti was called and the witnesses were directed by Judge Turano to appear in court next Friday without further summons. The same direction was given to the witnesses in the case of Frederick Jencks.

State James E. Norman, Rhode Island State Trooper No. 38 vs. Ray Earl was called Earl, aged 37, pleaded guilty to the operation of an automobile in Charlestown, August 8th. Judge Turano said that "owing to certain circumstances, called to my attention, I'm going to suspend sentence, upon payment of costs." The costs were paid and the defendant was discharged.

Louis V. Jackvony, third assistant attorney general of Providence, appeared in court in the case of the State. Sheriff Fred T. Mitchell, complainant vs. Bert Wylie of Charlestown, represented by Attorney Dunn, who asked that the case go over two weeks for trial. It was continued to September 8th. Mr. Jackvony told the court that Wednesday he had been engaged in the Mackinac steamship explosion investigation in Newport harbor, and had failed to get in touch with the sheriff. The case is a possession of intoxicating liquor charge, when the [illegible] cottage was raided on the Boston Post road in Charlestown, sometime ago.

In the case of Lucy P. Webster vs. William B. Rathbone, for trespass and ejectment, heard a week ago, in which decision was reserved, Judge Turano said he would render his decision for the plaintiff for possession and costs. Notice of an appeal was given and bonds were required in the sum of $300.

Crowds attended the Elks' charity bazaar on the carnival grounds, off large numbers as on Wednesday. If weather is favorable just as large an attendance is anticipated for the last night of the fair tonight (Saturday.) An added attraction will be an afternoon vaudeville show for the children.

The flag of the Rhode Island State armory on Dixon street was displayed at half mast Friday and will be halfmasted again today (Saturday) on orders of the adjutant general of Rhode Island, following orders issued by Governor Aram J. Pothier, commander-in-chief of the Rhode Island military forces, out of respect for the nearly fifty persons who lost their lives in the Mackinac steamship explosion on Tuesday evening in Newport harbor.

A Nash sedan, 33-866 Mass., of George W. Hyburg of 70 Randolph street, Springfield, Mass., skidded Friday morning on the wet surface of Liberty street, near the foot of Nerry Hill and crashed through the fence at the property of St. Michael's convent, tearing down a section of the same but without doing any great damage to automobile or driver. The Fancher truck was parked on the side of the road and when brakes were applied on the sedan suddenly it swung around twice in the road and crashed through the fence on the left hand side. Patrolman C. Wilson Brown of Pawcatuck later investigated the automobile mishap.

A number of large plate glass windows in Westerly and Pawcatuck have had their surfaces scored or cut by some sharp object. It would appear to be in the nature of malicious mischief as the marks all have a circular form.

Mr. and Mrs. Peleg I. Slocum of Westerly are to leave town Tuesday, August 25th, for a visit in New Hampshire and Vermont.

An automobile party consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Hoxie, their son Carroll and Myron Kenyon, all of Pawcatuck, left Westerly Friday for a vacation trip through the state of New York to Niagara Falls, stopping to be the guests of relatives and friends.

MOTORIST WHO KILLED DOG HAD BETTER SEE JUDGE TURANO

(Special to the Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Aug. 21—Judge Michael J. Turano has a summer cottage at Pleasant View, where he had two—that is up to yesterday morning early—pedigreed dogs. One dashed out on Atlantic avenue in front of a speeding automobile, and now dashes no more.

After the Third District court session, Friday morning, Judge Turano made known the facts in the case. If the automobilts who operated the car appears in regular court session next Friday morning, then—the costs of summons, at least, could be saved in the case.

GETTING AN EARLY START.

We do not need to go very far to find successful men who impress us with their youthfulness. If we analyze their early success we are apt to find that they made an "early start." We will find that they began earning money in some form or other when quite young and that isn't all—they began Saving when they began earning.

You must START if you wish to arrive. If you haven't started—do so today and keep on GOING.

USING THE FUNDY TIDES

For many reasons than one there will be interest outside the state of Maine in the sentiment of the people of that commonwealth as expressed through a referendum relative to the development of hydro electric current [illegible] that state to other states. A state law now prohibits it. Maine seeks to restrict such production for its own industries, but if hasn't now, [illegible] will have enough [illegible] use of its power advantages to any [illegible] tent and in the meantime they are not being utilized and waterpower is daily going to waste in large quantities.

[illegible] referendum [illegible] to harness [illegible] Fundy which scheme would be developed on Maine territory in Passamaquoddy bay, and [illegible] between 500,000 and 700,000 [illegible] wer could be developed, [illegible] ly serve as a big [illegible] erpower system [illegible] has been laid out for the eastern states.

[illegible] Fundy, where [illegible] feet, nor the [illegible] ssing them is a [illegible] are one of [illegible] of that region and with the flow in both directions [illegible] is nothing fanciful when engineers say that they can be utilized for power purposes. Convinced that it is entirely feasible as an engineering proposition and confident that he will experience no difficulty in getting the necessary capital [illegible] P. Cooper, a hydraulic [illegible] is ready to push the [illegible] Maine shows that it is [illegible] give the necessary [illegible] enough taking down [illegible] the obstructions [illegible] the product of [illegible] a power plant.

Maine has taken the position that it should restrict its power development [illegible] consumption believing [illegible] industries there- [illegible] it is doing is to block industrial development and causing the [illegible] ants of horse power which is needed elsewhere over and above what use there might be for it in that particular state.

COMING HOME "BROKE"

[illegible] are credited with claiming that returning American tourists are coming home from across the ocean "broke" there's nothing alarming or unusual about it. Who [illegible] come home [illegible] whether it is spent in this country or abroad? The fact is that many are not only carrying an empty pocketbook but [illegible] have had to telegraph home for [illegible] in order to complete their vacation [illegible] to their schedule and [illegible].

Going on a vacation is going for the most part for a good time and [illegible] indulged know that it requires money if there ever was a time when traveling and sightseeing and vacationing could be done for little or nothing, it has long since ceased to exist. Those who go to Europe are no different than those who go to Atlantic City, except that for many it means in all probability the only time that they may ever get across the water and they are wise enough and eager enough to make the most of their presence there to see all that is possible and make a complete job of their visit while they are there. What does a few dollars amount to under such circumstances? Certainly it would require a great many more to come back home and plan for a second trip to do those things which a small outlay while they would accomplish.

No doubt there is much that they could get along without seeing, but they are human. They cannot display a lack of interest in the things which the average tourist wants to see and which their friends will want to know all about on their return. There are also many unforeseen opportunities for spending money. Like building a house one has to go through the experience several times before there is acquired a proficiency that brings perfection. It is expensive nevertheless to go to Europe. Experience reveals it [illegible].

But coming home "broke" or with flattened purses is not surprising. It simply means they have been getting what they went after and found much more of it than they had prepared for. [illegible] for Americans to come home "broke" doesn't necessarily mean that they are going to stay that way.

LIMITATIONS

There are limits to what may be expected of a flying machine, and this is true whether it is used for pleasure, bombing or explorations. In the last named respect it is brought to attention by the decision reached in regard to the part it was expected to play in connection with the MacMillan explorations.

Amundsen found that the conditions in the arctic placed a handicap upon the use of a flying machine. He has since been quoted as declaring that his futdre operations in that part of the world would be carried on by means of a dirigible. Possibly he will change his mind before that time comes, but he voices much the same thing that has been brought to attention in connection with the proposed survey by the naval fliers.

It makes little difference what method of transportation is employed in going into the polar territory consideration must be given to the weather conditions and the obstacles that lie in the way of proposed activities. The situation there is entirely different from what exploration activities would be in the temperate zone. There is only a limited time in which the most favorable conditions can be had in the far north and even during that period the cold, storms and fog contribute plenty of peril.

It is under favorable conditions that airplane, or seaplane, operations in the far north must be conducted. By that means it will unquestionably be possible to get to points where no white man has visited and to learn something about these unknown regions. But such use as the flying machine can be put to will depend upon the conditions. It would be as foolhardy to send them out into the unknown in the face of a storm, or during a period of admittedly bad conditions as it would be to try to make a dash for the pole by sledge when everything weatherwise was against it.

Perhaps the time will come when a flying machine will be sufficiently safeguarded so that it can defy anything, but no one would make such a claim in this day and generation.

THE MACKINAC AFFAIR

Judgment in regard to the Mackinac disaster is bound to be withheld until it has been possible for those who are making the investigations to get at the real facts of the situation. It cannot be based upon unsubstantiated statements or rumors. Those who are engaged in probing the affair are disposed to learn what the conditions were which surrounded the power plant of that passenger vessel.

If the claim that the boiler was weak, that it was several times patched and thin, it would not appear that there had been that degree of close scrutiny on the part of inspectors which is supposed to surround steamboats, and particularly those which are used for passenger transportation. Likewise it is pointed out that the patching of a boiler is an operation which must be reported to the authorities, the purpose apparently being that they may be informed and have a chance to look over the conditions for the purpose of insuring safety.

The time has passed when anything that can be kept afloat can be employed for the carrying of passengers.

Inspection is part of the duty of certain officials. Therein lies one of the safeguards under which the traveling public is supposed to be protected. Boilers which are liable to blow up are a serious menace but the situation becomes all the worse if those who are supposed to detect such conditions and prevent the use of such equipment fail to measure up to their responsibilities.

Public indignation naturally runs high under such conditions and it is to be hoped and expected that the investigations will serve to bring about the punishment of any who may have been criminally negligent, and end any laxity which may have developed in giving proper protection to steamboat passengers.

VICTOR F. LAWSON

An important figure in the journalism of this country and particularly in the city of Chicago has been removed by the death of Victor F. Lawson, editor and publisher of the Chicago News.

He inherited his newspaper inclinations since his father was the publisher of the Scandinavian and responsibilities in connection with it were thrown upon his shoulders at an early age because of the death of the elder. As the outcome he came into touch with Melville E. Stone who had in 1875 established the Chicago Daily News, a paper was has continued to grow and be admired as one of the great newspaper enterprises of the country. He acquired control of the paper from Mr. Stone in 1888 and had since given his personal attention to conducting it, carrying this on to his last days. Even though he had reached the age of 75 it was not too much of a task for him to give his attention to matters of detail which entered into the character of his paper.

He had a conscientious regard for the type of a newspaper that was produced and because of that it has long wielded a strong influence in the metropolis of the middle west. Mr. Lawson was one of the founders of the Associated Press, of which his former partner Mr. Stone was so many years the general manager, and his death means a distinct loss as one of the leaders of journalism in this country but brings to a close a career that has been an inspiration to many another. He has set an example the good of which will not cease with his passing.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The man on the corner says: The chief objection to mosquitoes is their fondness for humanity.

The arctic regions would be much farther away than they are but for radio.

It is characteristic of the English channel swimmers to be confident of success. That is the proper spirit even though it isn't accomplished on the first try.

The drug disclosures in Chicago are simply further proof of what has been repeatedly claimed, and Chicago is not the only city with many addicts and extensive illicit sales of dope.

Mayor Hylan of New York may not be unmindful of the opposition to him but he probably rejoices in the fact that there are so many candidates being put in the field to divide it.

It is interesting to note once in a while that the public comes in for attention in the coal controversy, but it is left to struggle for itself when it comes to getting equal attention with the others.

The governor of Massachusetts thinks it is time to abandon anthracite in New England. Quite a few have already been convinced of the wisdom of such a move and backed their judgment by action.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

Isn't there some close bond of identity between a man and the automobile he drives? A railroad engineer once told the writer that his engine always responded to his moods. If he was irritable and excited it was all he could do to keep the engine on the track. If he was calm and collected the great machine can beautifully. He went so far as to say that at times it seemed that his engine anticipated what he wanted before he acted. The psychologist would easily explain that on the ground that familiar action is so often repeated as to be unconscious action. The automobilist finds the same thing true. When he is in a jubilant state of mind his car runs beautifully; the engine just purrs like a cat when she enjoys the felicity of mere living. But the moment he gets into a state of nervous excitement anything conceivable is likely to happen within the space of three seconds. What we need is the age-long lesson of self-mastery.

How much we need independence of mind, especially when we consider religious questions! The topic that was studied in the uniform series of lessons for July 26 emphasized this fact. It showed us that one of the important functions of Christianity has been to steer clear of old forms and mere ceremonies that tend to offset its free spirit. Paul and Barnabas had been very successful in presenting the claims of Jesus to the people of Asia Minor. There was something so beautiful and reasonable in it that converts by the multitude were made. Then a disturbing element entered. Sticklers for the old Jewish faith interfered with this work saying that one could not be a Christian unless he practiced the old Jewish regulations. That is, any departure from the old form would be fatal. It made the letter of the law more important than its spirit. If there were fewer forms in our religious life there would be fewer denominations.

One of the most important duties of the home life is the training of children. There are three general methods. First is the theory and practice of non-interference. According to this to the tender mercies of nature, and to the tender mercies of nature, and nature usually does as much for children as she does for those that are wholly given over to her care. This is following the line of the least resistance. Second is the threat theory which involves the shouting method, of which the following is a fair sample: "Stop your noise;" "Shut your mouth!" "For heaven's keep still, and let somebody else talk!" These tender admonitions are often accompanied with a slap or a shove. Third, by putting yourself into the child's environment, be one of his chums, play with him, take hikes with him answer his questions, read with him and to him. Make his instruction and companionship of more importance than the selfish indulgence in pleasure.

Without criticising any particular jail, may we not with some show of reason raise the question whether our present jail system is not as much of a nuisance at it is a necessity? In a remarkable article in a recent issue of The Congregationalist, James A. Warneck, editor of The Los Angeles Times says: "By way of perendiesis. It has been remarked, by those supposed to know, that the jails of Los Angeles are not the favorite rendevous of respectable criminals. As a matter of fact, even the decent citizens of Los Angeles recently became so ashamed of the city jail that they decided to build a new one—one that will hold undesirables and that will compel rats and lice to seek other quarters." His striking article is entitled: "The Angel of Hell's Half Acre." Reference is made to the wonderful rescue work of Tom Lidecott. The jail question will only be settled by banishing the causes that keep them in existence.

It is doubtless true that the greatest hold this country has on the other nations comes more from the wholeheartedness of its liberality than from the keenness of its diplomacy. No country in great distress ever appealed to the United States in vain. In fact our greatest diplomacy has come through our generosity. Take the case of the Boxer rebellion in China; while most of the nations were collecting every cent of indemnity that was assigned to them, the United States refused to take her share and suggested that the amount go into the education of the people. The Chinese have never forgotten it. There is also the near east relief in which American money saved millions of innocent children from starving. Let us remember that the task is not yet completed and unless America continues with her aid starvation will claim its thousands. This is one powerful avenue of approach to the Christian religion.

If we are searching for evidence of stability and uniformity we mustn't look for it in the vegetable world. It certainly does not take its cue from the planetary system which is the very perfection of dependability. The vegetable world is as fickle as dog-days or any other days that happen to fall within the territory of New England. "Solomon in all his glory" and with all his wisdom would be unable to tell what the weather is going to be two hours in advance or what change was coming to his garden. Take, for instance, a garden that has a dozen varieties of vegetables and you will find that each variety will feed, clothe and shelter about seven different kinds of parasites before the summer is over. They come by express trains, trolleys, automobiles, but mostly by air ships. According to the best authority the psalmist was sitting in his backyard looking at his garden when he wrote: "In the morning it flourisheth and groweth up; in the evening it is cut down and withereth." Shakespeare would never have written, "O frailty, thy name is woman." If he had known less about women and more about squashes.

There are a great many funny things in this world. They are all about us and sometimes they crop out in places and at times the least expected. In fact the funny things of this world are more than the puny mind of man can number. Even in the economic world where we do not expect to find them any more than we do in a table of logarithms. If you don't believe this take such a matter-of-fact substance as gasoline, which to most of us is far more serious than funny. Even here we find something that is funny. In Massachusetts one can buy this quite indispensable commodity for 20 cents a gallon—or, at least, that was the price when these lines were written. At the same time here in Connecticut the price was 27 cents. Will some political economist explain the mystery, or difference? It is quite a serious joke if the oil companies have the retailers here in Connecticut by the throat, saying, "Pay our price or get out of the business." But it is seriousness minus the joke for the consumer. Are these same companies buying graciously before the Massachusetts retailers and saying, "Gentlemen, here is your oil, you have only to name the price you are willing to pay?" How many funny things you run across when on the road!

Tortoise shell, which for centuries has been used in the manufacture of ornamental objects, is found on only one of the many kinds of sea turtles.

NEW ENGLAND MANUFACTURING CONDITIONS

In its "New England Letter" the First National Bank of Boston refers to improving tendencies in the manufacturing specialties of that section as follows:

"New England footwear markets for the past month have been marked by increased production and fair orders for fall and winter delivery, although in June the aggregate output for the United States was 23,335,331 pairs, the lowest for any month since July, 1924. The improved trend recently noticeable is illustrated by the condition in one large factory which is operating close to two-thirds capacity compared with one-tenth a few months ago. Emphasis appears to be placed on the less expensive grades, with factory prices generally firm, though in a few cases producers have made efforts to reduce their quotations. Financial statements of some large manufacturers show satisfactory results for the first six months of this year, while tanners' books show a slow swing from the loss to the profit side.

"Pressure for low costs in leather has been heavy, but some tanners have refused offers because price would not equal displacement cost. Patent leather appears to be the best individual seller. Tanners' stocks of cattle, calf and kip upper leather, in June showed a decline from a year ago and sole leather stocks were also considerably less.

Tanners Continue Caution.

"Tanners are continuing their cautious policy on purchases of raw material, and sizable business was done in a quiet way prior to the recent peak. Relative scarcity of hides has been a factor in the price advance, but exports are slowing down and the situation appears somewhat easier. Imports on the other hand are gaining and indicate a movement in the direction of normalcy.

"Cloth markets have weakened somewhat and stocks in mill hands have been materially reduced. Southern mills engaged on print cloths and sheetings are comfortably supplied with business for a month or more ahead. There has been some sale of goods to China and Red Sea ports and general export trade in cotton goods is holding up, while imports have shown a substantial drop. Many low prices were named to move stocks, the most notable being the break in wide sheetings, which, however, made a 50 per cent. recovery after stocks were distributed. Bleached goods and percales have moved steadily and some of the heavy goods, such as fabric, hose and belting duck, have been bought moderately. The outstanding feature in the industry is the large volume of rayon mixtures being produced in cotton mills for fall and spring.

"There has been a slight reaction during the past few weeks, following a spurt which drove wool prices up 12 to 15 per cent. from the low point of the year. The easier tone is attributed partly to the fact that the trade is between the heavy and light weight seasons and there has been some uncertainty about the response of the buyers to the showing of light weight lines for 1926. It is believed that a fair volume of orders has already resulted from the showings thus far made. Prices named by the leading factor at the opening averaged somewhat less than 5 per cent. below corresponding quotations last year, but were fully 10 per cent. under the level of six months ago. Values on women's wear and semi-staple lines were about on a parity with the staple lines and are generally conceded to be reasonable.

Wool Mills Speeding Up.

"While wool consumption has declined steadily since the first of the year, mills are reported to be speeding up on some belated orders and heavy weight lines. With a 10 per cent. reduction in wages, the outlook appears healthier than for some time. It is estimated that 85 per cent. of the domestic clip is out of first hands, with possibly 15 million pounds still in western pools. The Jericho pool of about 850,000 pounds, the largest single accumulation of wool in the country, was recently sold at 42 cents.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Dr. W. E. Gye, the English medical scientist who is being hailed as the discoverer of the cancer germ, admits that his discovery would have been impossible without the aid of J. E. Barnard and the special microscope which the latter had made. One of the world's greatest authorities on the microscope, Mr. Barnard is a hatter by trade, with a little shop in Jermyn St., London. For years he has devoted his mornings to business and the afternoons to what in the first place was his hobby—the improvement of microscopic apparatus. His microscopical researches have won him worldwide fame. It is seldom that so exclusive a body as the Royal Society confers its fellowship on a business man. Perhaps less seldom is that a scientist gives his services without charge of any kind to the nation. Both these distinctions stand to Mr. Barnard's credit today.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Missing Link.

Mr. Editor: As we are never lengthy and try to be concise in expression, we trust you will not be wearied with our further questionings upon the evolution hypotheses.

Like others, we are interested in the quest for the supposed missing link—a quest as eagerly pursued as that for the Holy Grail, or the Fountain of perpetual Youth; all equally mythical and hopeless.

If nature has given to science indubitable evidence that man has been evolved from the ape—what need have they for further proof?

Indeed, if this proof were needful why should they be obliged to search the world for it?

The ape himself is here in evidence and the man is on hand for examination. Why is the link in hiding?

Both science and Genesis are in agreement that the man is the latest product of the animal kingdom. If the being for which they are searching is one a little higher than the ape, and a little lower than the man, it belongs between them as to time, and if it has—like the Dodo, left no living successor (that fowl having been exterminated)—why should not the important link, like the dodo, have left behind it some conclusive record of its previous existence?

As neither ape nor man belong to the prehistoric age we cannot look for fossil remains, by which many animals left us proof of their former being.

The fact is, that there is not, nor ever was, a missing link nor any kind of link beyond the link of resemblance, and science has made the most of this link, but there being so many other resemblances in the animal and vegetable kingdoms, the analogy from resemblance is only a weak evidence. Examples are numerous—we cite just two: That among rodents, rats and mice, which bear striking resemblance—yet are distinct species. Among aquatic fowls, the goose and duck—with great resemblance in form and habits, yet essentially distinct for all natural purposes, and as diverse in species as are the cat from the barn-owl.

Darwin theorized that all the animal creation sprang from "almost, four or five original species, perhaps, indeed if lead by analogy (which he has the candor to say, is not always a safe guide) he would decide on the belief "that all animals and plants have descended from some one prototype—some one primordial form into which life was first breathed."

In this use of words Darwin throws us back into the Mosaic record of the divine formation of the man, almost the language and act by which the man became a living soul. The inference, unavoidable here, is that some pre-existent creative spirit must first touch the button, before leaving Great-presumptive-Evolution to do the rest.

But, some derisive scoffer may here pop up saying "What qualifications have we to criticize such men as Darwin and Huxley? With this too we may hear the echo of the same "Loud laugh that speaks the vacant mind."

Our qualification is only the common sense that fits the public as jurors, to whom the students of science are making their appeal. We, surely, are expected to judge of the evidences which the professors' study and search enable them to obtain and classify. It is ours to measure the amplitude and value of their analyses. These prerogatives we must be admitted to possess. If we are to adopt or reject the findings of science.

Now, when Mr. Huxley, for example, tells us "that the structural differences between man and the Gorilla are not so great as are the differences between the Gorilla and other apes," the analogy does not strike us as in point proving any thing. But we think even less of it, when he goes on further to state, 'that every bone in the Gorilla bears marks that distinguish it from the corresponding bone in the man." And "that this does not justify us in concluding to place the man in a distinct species." We call this special and irrelevant pleading, and we reply if this does not justify us in placing the man in a distinct separate species, it does justify us in placing the Gorilla and apes in a special and separate species. Even science knows that resemblance is not argument nor proof.

Some time ago a young student informed me that, in some stages, the foetus of the dog is indistinguishable from that of the human being. As I had read of this before I was not baffled to give reply, which was this:

"All right, if the biologist has not sufficient acumen to distinguish between the foetus of the dog and the human, the genius which presides over the reproductive functions has; and, hence, from one it will produce a whelp, and from the other the human form divine—a being but a little lower than the angels.

Deep Seated Plot.

Mr. Editor: I have read the article Mr. Downing speaks of in regard to Mrs. Stetson a Mr. Blair and one or two more concerning the Star Spangled Banner, and think that Mr. Downing has hit the nail square on the head.

When Mrs. Stetson, or any other person, start spending money at the rate of $850 for one Sunday in one paper to advertise her unpatriotic, un-American views, common every day lovers of Old Glory had best stop listen and think hard before falling in with such views. No living American has interest enough in destroying the Star Spangled Banner as a national anthem, to spend such sums of money in advertising.

The man who boldly boasts of disrespect to the flag should be carefully watched and his hat removed very tenderly——" the next time he fires this insulting refusal to acknowledge due respect to the starry banner. There is a deep-seated plot somewhere and it is every American's duty to smoke out the enemies of our flag.

From Small Beginnings

John Masefield: The Cabin Boy, the Great Poet

The little cabin boy on the sailing vessel did not have an easy life. He endured all the hardships and all the monotony of long days at sea. He had run away from home, and so he did not murmur. He did his work and became a sailor before the mast. Then, tiring of the rough, hard life at sea, he wandered from country to country. Finally in New York city, he worked in a Greenwich village hotel where the barroom was one of the chief attractions. Thence he drifted to employment in a carpet factory.

The many people who saw John Masefield, whether on ships at sea doing humble work or wandering into strange places or working in Greenwich Village, did not realize that he was really at school in the greatest university in the world, that of "Hard Knocks." He was gaining that rich experience with life and the world that has made his songs the delight of every reader.

One day he happened to buy a copy of Chaucer's poems and he read it with the delight of discovery. Here was story-telling united with poetry; realism united with beauty. His own life had been full of experiences. From which earliest days he had wished to write. Here he had found a teacher!

Today John Masefield is looked upon as one of the greatest of living poets. His works fill many volumes. In them one finds, as one might expect, the sea and all its beauty and mystery; but one also finds an understanding love and sympathy for the seaman. The cabin boy and sailor had seen the poetry in rough lives and this he set forth with restraint and power.

With the coming of fame John Masefield has written in many forms of literature; but his aim is always truth and beauty. Out of his rougher days, in which he kept alive the flame of aspiration, has come his power.

Stories That Recall Others

Ambrosia?

Mrs. S. was instructing the new maid about dinner before leaving for the afternoon. After enumerating the various viands, she added, "And we shall have ambrosia for desert."

The maid looked puzzled for an instant, then said:

"Ambrosia! Who's she?"

His Idea Of It.

A child's original conception of what a bee uses for his weapon is told in the object lesson Frank, age four, learned recently.

He was playing in the backyard of his home and feasting on ripe, juicy pears which had fallen to the ground. He picked up one that had a bee on it and the boy became aware with frightful suddenness that he had been stung on one of his fingers. It being his first experience with a bee sting Frank yelled, inspected the injury and rapidly swelling finger and then, crying, ran to his mother for first aid.

"Oh, mother," he cried, "a bee stung me and left his leg in my finger."

Enraged at the attentions Walter Johnson, 25, paid to Mrs. Rose Feleci, 19, her husband, victor, branded his initials, "V. F." on Johnson's cheek with a wire heated over a gas flame, as the victim lay, tied hand and foot.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Jerry Muskrat is Undisturbed

For what some others do or say
The innocent must often pay.
—Old Mother Nature

Over on the roof of Jerry Muskrat's house Peter Rabbit could see a big member of the Snake family coiled up. He knew it wasn't Mr. Blacksnake because this wasn't black. He was brown. Peter was puzzled. He understood why Redwing and Mrs. Redwing had made such a fuss. They had discovered who was on the roof of Jerry Muskrat's house and they made a fuss until they grew tired. Then they had gone off and left the big Snake in peace.

Peter was still sitting there on the edge of the water looking across to Jerry Muskrat's house, when who should come along but Jerry himself.

"Hello, Jerry!" cried Peter.

"Hello, Peter! What are you looking so pop-eyed about?" inquired Jerry.

"Just see who's on the roof of your house!" cried Peter excitedly.

Jerry looked over to his house. He didn't seem at all excited. In fact he said so. "I don't see anything to be excited about," said he. "I don't see anybody over on my house excepting Mr. Water Snake. I certainly can't get much excited over him."

"But haven't you any little babies?" demanded Peter.

"Certainly," said Jerry. "I've got as nice a little family as ever you laid your eyes on, Peter Rabbit. I'd like you to see those babies. I would so. But they are too small now to venture out in the Great World."

"Jerry Muskrat," said Peter severely, "I don't know what to think of you. Supposing that fellow over on the roof of your house there takes it into his head that he would like a baby Muskrat for dinner."

"He won't," said Jerry.

"How do you know he won't?" Peter demanded.

"Because Mr. Water Snake doesn't eat baby Muskrats," replied Jerry.

"Perhaps he never has, but that isn't any proof that he never will," retorted Peter.

"Then he'll have to change his habits completely," replied Jerry. "But I don't believe he'll do [illegible]. Some of his relatives, like Mr. Blacksnake and Mr. King Snake and Spotted Adders, may like birds and mice and things of that kind, but Mr. Water Snake doesn't care for anything but fish and frogs. No, he is a perfect good neighbor so far as I am concerned. If he wants to take a sunbath on my roof he's welcome to do it. In fact, he has been doing it ever since we came out this spring. I suspect that he thinks that roof really belongs to him now. If I were a small fish [illegible] I certainly would be on the lookout for Mr. Water Snake, but as I am [illegible] needs to look out for him. [illegible] he goes into the water now."

Peter watched [illegible] Mr. Water Snake glide [illegible] the water. A moment later he saw [illegible] disappear. In his mouth was [illegible]. Well, Jerry could tell [illegible] and little [illegible] fear from Mr. Water Snake.

Mr. Water [illegible] the fish and the [illegible] on the roof of Jerry Muskrat's house for a sunbath and nap. That roof was almost perfect for such a purpose.

Sunday Morning Talk

Facing Difficulties With God

Disappointing facts do not warrant discouraging conclusion. It is not likely Caleb and Joshua were delightfully exhilarated by the sight of the giants and the walled cities, any more than the ten spies were. The giants were actually no bigger and the walls no higher to the ten than to the two, the facts were the same, but Caleb and Joshua concluded differently. Why? Because [illegible].

The ten faced the situation by themselves, the two faced it with God. The ten judged God in sight of their difficulties, and said, "It cannot be done!" The two judged the difficulties in the sight of God and said, "We are well able."

If, in the bright lexicon of youth, there is no such word as fail, so in the records of our lives as Christians who trust in the living God, there never should be written, "And they brought back a discouraging report." Let the odds be against us, the obstacles seem insurmountable, we have but to include the Almighty in faith, and ourselves in fidelity and Let God draw conclusion. "He shall not fail, nor be discouraged," is the divine intent concerning every soul that trusts Him.

CORPUS CHRISTI PROCESSION BERLIN'S FIRST IN 400 YEARS

St. Hedwig's Roman Catholic church early on Corpus Christi Day opened its doors to the [illegible] of trombones to let out a procession of men, women, and children [illegible] by monks and priests in [illegible] robes, and nuns [illegible] by the archbishop under a [illegible]. CADDIES GET ORDERS TO LEAVE GROTON

Ten professional caddies, between the ages of 13 and 16 years, three of whom said they were from New Britain and the other seven from Bridgeport, were ordered to leave Groton Friday morning when they were taken into custody by Bailiff James A. Ward of Eastern Point. The boys came to Eastern Point several days ago to obtain employment during the golf tournament at the Shennecossett links. They did not secure places of course and slept out in the open and wandered about the Eastern Point section while waiting for the tourney to begin. Complaint was made against them by a resident of Eastern Point, who said that they made a practice of using a cattle trough as a wash basin. It was also charged that the caddies trespassed upon private grounds doing damage to property. The five caddies were taken before Capt. Andrew I. McGarthy to whom they expressed their willingness to leave town rather than have court charges. The names of the boys were not given according to the police authorities.

PLAN JOINT PICNIC FOR NEXT WEEK

The regular meeting of Clara Barton tent, Daughters of Veterans, was held this week at Buckingham Memorial with the president, Mrs. Alice Brinkman in the chair. National orders and department general orders were read and it was announced that a joint picnic of members of the Daughters of Veterans and the Woman's Relief corps of Sedgwick Post, G. A. R. would be held on Tuesday of next week at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth McKay at Mohegan. Members were notified to take the 9:45 o'clock trolley Tuesday morning.

It was also announced that on Thursday of next week a social gathering would be held at the home of Mrs. Jennie Newbury of 55 Greene avenue commencing from afternoon until evening. The members have been requested to notify Mrs. Newbury by Tuesday night whether or not they are to attend.

On the following Thursday the Daughters of Veterans and the Women's Relief corps are invited to attend a picnic as guests of Mrs. D. Lewis Artesbury, at her cottage, Idaho, at Groton Long Point, members of the D. of V. expecting to attend, to notify Mrs. Gene Evans and members of the W. R. C. to notify Mrs. M. Florence Dean if they are to attend.

It was also announced that some time during September a picnic will be held at the home of Commander Orrin M. Price on Lafayette street, also that a supper was being planned for September 26th.

The meeting closed in the usual form with the salute to the flag and the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

Diamond Brothers Recalled

Of interest in Windham county, where Joseph Diamond served a term in Brooklyn jail for assault on a Woodstock farmer, is the following from a New York paper of Friday:

Mrs. Louisa Pantano, 67, of 8588 Twenty-second avenue, Brooklyn, the mother of Anthony Pantano, who is in the death house at Sing Sing awaiting execution for the murder of two Brooklyn bank messengers, died yesterday after a long illness, aggravated by her son's sentence. Friends of the family said she began to fail rapidly after her son was denied a stay of execution by the supreme court last week on the confession of John Farina, who has been executed, that he and Morris and Joseph Diamond forced Pantano, at the point of a pistol, to tell them when the messengers of the bank were he was formerly an employe, would carry money.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Dr. and Mrs. A. J. LaPierre have returned, after six weeks' trip to the Pacific coast.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Norton, of Broadway, who are at their summer home in Eastern Point, will have as luncheon guests today (Saturday) Mr. and Mrs. Robert Briggs, of Paris, who are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Lucius Briggs.

Mrs. Amos A. Browning and the Misses Browning have returned, following a week's tour of the White Mountains, visiting Conway, Crawford Notch, Bethlehem and Franconia.

Mrs. Archibald Mitchell, Jr., who is at her camp at Gardner Lake for the season, will have an informal family dinner Sunday, in celebration of the birthday of her father, Calvin H. Frisbie.

H. Reynolds Palmer is a member of a week end house party at "Westover," the residence of his cousins Mr. and Mrs. George S. Palmer, at The Pequot, given for their daughters, Misses Georgiana and Priscilla Palmer. The young ladies returned Thursday from Shelter Island, accompanied by several school friends. Churchill Scott, of Norwich, attended the dance given for them Tuesday evening.

LOCAL CONCERN IS AWARDED WILLIMANTIC TELEPHONE CONTRACT

The Peck-McWilliams Co., of Norwich has been awarded the contract to build two extensions to the present building of the S. N. E. Telephone Co., at Willimantic.

Among those bidding for the work were The T. J. Cardy Construction Co., of Bridgeport, The H. Wales Lines Co., of Meriden; Doyle and Murphy of Willimantic and Clark Construction Co., of Waterbury.

The plans call for three stories of Fiske tapestry brick touched by hollow brick. In the basement there will be all the latest sanitary plumbing, fixtures including shower baths for the help.

On the first floor the offices and operating room will be finished in the best oak trim. On the second floor will be the ladies toilet room and shower baths. Also cloak rooms and a modern cafeteria at which place the girls will be provided with lunches any hour of the day or night.

The exterior trim will be North River Blue stone, artificial stone and architectural terra cotta.

The North River Blue stone will be used on the water table. The artificial stone for sills and the architectural terra cotta for the cornices.

The roof will be a 5 ply Barret specification roof. New cement walks will be laid around the building. An entire new heating system of the Vapor type will be installed.

COUNTY POMONA HAS OUTING AT MYSTIC

New London County Pomona Grange No. 6, P. of H., met at Mystic Oral school, Thursday for the annual field day and picnic. The visitors were made welcome by Mr. and Mrs. Tucker and Miss Shaw. All were invited to go through the school building, visit the other buildings and see all of the equipment. In the dining hall the tables were all prepared for visitors to eat their basket-lunch and Mystic grange made forty gallons of fruit punch that proved refreshing as the day was very warm.

After lunch in the dining room, all were invited under a large tree and C. M. Adams of Groton with assistants served watermelon.

Mrs. H. T. Whitham, lecturer of Pomona Grange called the meeting to order after chairs had been brought from the dormitory and people were seated. State lecturer Charles Wheeler of Storrs College led the singing of Keep the Grange Fires Burning. Mrs. Whitham presented Dr. L. M. Allyn in a witty speech and he as chairman of the board of trustees welcomed the grangers to the Oral school. In his brief address Dr. Allyn put all in good humor for the good things that followed.

Mrs. Whitham then presented Supt. Walter J. Tucker who read a most interesting paper on Methods of Oralism. He went back to the first instructions given in England and France, then gave a history of the first efforts made in America to instruct the deaf and dumb. He gave an account of Enoch Whipple's teaching his deaf son, which proved the foundation for the present school of oral teaching. The paper held the close attention of all present.

Lecturer Wheeler led the singing of "Old Connecticut Forever." Mrs. Edery Burdick gave a recitation "Suckers and his little blue hen." To applause so loud and long for another, she gave Baby Brother.

Chaplain Cyrus Avery, member of the Groton grange was called on for an address as he was acquainted with the Whipples who founded the school and present at Hartford when the first efforts were made to make it a state institution.

Credit is due Lyn C. F. Congdon who first thought of their meeting there and made the arrangements with Dr. Allyn and Supt. Tucker and he asked for a rising vote of thanks which was quickly given. Lecturer Wheeler announced the New England lecturers' conference at Storrs next week. Already 100 are registered. Tuesday evening National Master Taber and U. S. Senator Hiram Bingham are the speakers. Mystic grange is sending her lecturer and paying the expenses.

The closing song was "Old Glory" to the tune of Old Black Joe. The next Pomona meeting is to be held Oct. 15 at Preston City.

About 150 were present nearly every grange in the county being represented.

HIGHWAY COMMISSION IS SUED FOR $25,000

Because a state highway department motor truck in making an assault upon his modest roadster in Clinton gave him a grizzly bear hug, Walter J. Beckwith of Clinton is suing Highway Commissioner John A. Macdonald, of Putnam and incidentally Arno I. Usinger who drove the truck, to recover $25,000 damages.

Mr. Beckwith says in his complaint, just returned to the superior court, at Middletown, that because of the deadly embrace he was unable to follow his occupation, which is the compounding of pills, notions and prescriptions for a period of three months.

He also declares he has suffered much physical pain and mental anguish and is likely to continue to suffer such for some time to come. All this happened to him while he was in the exercise of due care and caution.

Sept. 25 last was the day which brought such misfortune to Mr. Beckwith. Clinton's recognized druggist. The State Highway department was working to make the Boston Post road nice for travel. Many trucks were in use, including the one driven by Usinger.

About the hour of 4 p. m. the plaintiff, so the writ says, had stopped his car on Hull street, just off Main street in Clinton. He was on the right side of the highway and was examining the interior works of his machine from the left side all with care.

Along came the big truck, driven by Usinger. It instantly made an assault upon the pleasure car and Mr. Beckwith was caught in the deadly embrace. Usinger tried hard to back off the truck, but he got his levers crossed and only squeezed all the harder, much to the hurt of Mr. Beckwith's ribs and their covering, to say nothing of the squeezing applied to his interior. He was badly battered when the hug came to an end and for three months he was unable to attend to his business, which profited by "his skill and knowledge" as the complaint states. Only heavy damages will recompense him for what he suffered and lost.

In order to assure some possible return if judgment is in his favor against Mr. Usinger the plaintiff had garnished the Clinton National Bank for all moneys it may have belonging to that defendant.

Given Bachelor Party

Thomas F. Dorsey, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Dorsey of Ocean Beach was tendered a bachelor party by 24 of his intimate friends at Ferry tavern, Old Lyme, Wednesday evening.

Taking him by surprise his friends descended upon Mr. Dorsey at his home and over his protests, carried him away to the Tavern.

Mr. Dorsey was presented with a beautiful leather traveling bag, the presentation speech, a humorous composition, being made by John M. Mallon, Jr., and a feeling response being made by Mr. Dorsey. Following the dinner the party adjourned to Mr. Gardner's summer home at Golden Spur, where fun making had the floor until a late hour.

Mr. Dorsey is to wed Miss Helen Collins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Collins of Montauk avenue, New London, Wednesday, Aug. 26.

FORMER NORWICH MAN DIED AT BROOKLYN

Word was received in Norwich Friday of the death of Charles Luther, of New York, formerly of Norwich. Mr. Luther was the eldest son of the late Albert and Sarah Tilden Luther, for many years residents of Norwich Town the home being situated at the beginning of Town street, near Harland's corner. Mr. Luther who was about 58 years of age, married a New York woman who survives him, with one brother, John L. Luther, of late years a resident of Canada, also a nephew Philip T. Luther, of Columbia, Ohio, and a niece, Mrs. Clifford Lathrop, (Elizabeth Lathrop Luther,) of Worcester, Mass., the last two mentioned the children of Alonzo and Gertrude Lathrop Luther, both of whom died a number of years ago. Another brother Albert Luther, Jr., died many years ago.

When Mr. Luther's parents were at first married, for a time they resided in New York, later removing to Norwich Town in the location mentioned, which was originally the home of Mrs. Albert Luther's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Tilden (Elizabeth Davis.)

It was in this home of typical New England ancestry, that the four sons of Mr. and Mrs. Luther were reared, all developing into fine young men. The first break in the family circle was at the death of Albert, Jr., many years ago, followed by the death of Alonzo, then the father and mother, the last three having passed away only a few years apart, within the past eighteen years. With the death of Charles Luther the family is practically extinct, except for the youngest brother John. The family were members of the First Congregational church, always constant in attendance, and whenever Charles Luther visited his relatives, he was a familiar figure in the church as well, where the entire family was held in high esteem.

Mr. Luther was a graduate of the Norwich Free Academy, having left Norwich when a young man. There also are two cousins in Norwich who survive.

HELD ALL DAY OUTING AT PLEASANT VIEW

Work at the plant of Julian L. Williams of 25 Town street, Norwich Town, was at a complete stand still Thursday, when his entire force of men went by automobiles to Pleasant View, where they were Mr. Williams' guests for an all day outing at the shore.

The Williams family has been occupying a cottage during August at Pleasant View, and it was here that the company of employees were hospitably entertained. This is not the first time that Mr. Williams has given his men a fine treat in the way of entertainment, as past occasions still linger in the memory of those who have been privileged to enjoy the courtesy and good will of Mr. Williams, assisted by his good wife, who always does her share toward making things complete.

Those who attended the gathering Thursday included William Bottomley, salesman; Lloyd Ames, foreman; Leonard Tompkins, assistant foreman; William McKelvey, stock clerk; James Way, battery man; and Edgar Archambeault and Melvin Peretti; also Carlton Morse who is employed by C. Morgan Williams.

Leaving the plant at eight o'clock in the morning, the party was driven to the destination assigned, by Foreman Ames. Mr. Bottomley and Mr. Morse, in three different cars. Mr. Bottomley was accompanied by his wife and their little son Eddie, who were guests of Mrs. Williams. At the cottage the party comprised Mr. and Mrs. C. Morgan Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Julian L. Williams and daughter, Miss Louise Williams, the last mentioned of Pasadena, Cal., who is passing the summer with her relatives.

Upon arriving at Pleasant View the day was diverted to sociability, bathing, canoeing, music and dancing. The most important feature of the day was the elaborate shore dinner with all the fixins, which was served at two o'clock.

The Norwich party left for home at 10 o'clock, also having enjoyed the evening at Pleasant View.

HELD SURPRISE PARTY FOR KATHRYN ECKSTEIN

A very pleasing surprise party was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eckstein, 318 Franklin street Friday afternoon, in honor of their daughter, Kathryn's eleventh birthday. Thirteen of her little friends gathered at the house at three o'clock. Games and music were enjoyed for an hour. At four o'clock the children marched into the dining room which was very tastefully decorated in pink and white and enjoyed refreshments.

After refreshments a peanut hunt was held and prizes were won by Andrew Guertin and Julia Lamperati. Kathryn received many useful gifts. At 5:30 the happy party broke up wishing Kathryn many happy birthdays. Mrs. Eckstein was assisted in serving by her daughter, Elizabeth and Mrs. Tony Eisconti.

DOUBLE SUNFLOWERS IN NORWICH TOWN GARDEN

In his garden of old fashioned flowers, James Rogers of West Town street, has several beautiful double sun-flowers. The stalks are about twelve feet in height, and the blossoms nearly the size of a dinner plate.

A day recently, Mr. Rogers' daughter Miss Josephine Rogers took several snapshots of the various flowers, which now are at their best. Mr. Rogers was standing in the garden at the time.

LEFT FOR AUTO TOUR TO CANADA

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Pultz, Mrs. Elmer Pultz, Mrs. W. H. Gane of Le Barron left by automobile Friday, for Sherburne, N. Y. Watkins Glen, Finger Lakes, Thousand Islands and Canada.

At Alpha Class Picnic

Mrs. Joseph F. Cobb of South Windham, attended the picnic of Alpha Class of the Universalist Sunday school of Norwich held Wednesday at "The Colonial," the home of Mrs. Annie Mackenzie and Miss Agnes Woodruff in Franklin.

SIX MONTHS IN JAIL FOR SHOP LIFTING

Pleading guilty to shop lifting when presented before Judge Arthur F. Libby at the city court session Friday morning John Mario, 27, of New York and Boston, and Josi Sato, 27, of New York, were sentenced to six months in jail and each fined $75. They were the two men captured Thursday by the local police as they were attempting to make a get-away on a Willimantic--bound trolley car. Attorney Thomas H. Shields appeared in behalf of the accused. Sato and Mario entered pleas of guilty to charges of theft of two suits from the clothing store of Quinn and Desmond, Main street. A second count of attempt at theft was nolled. The latter count was one of attempt to steal two suits at the Brooklyn Outfitters, Main street.

Of the several proprietors of local men's stores who inspected the suits found in a black bag in the possession of the shop lifters Quinn and Desmond were the only ones who positively identified any of the suits as stolen from their store. Two of the suits were identified by them as their property.

When presented in court the attitude of the two men was altogether changed from that at the time of their arrest. When the police arrested them on the Willimantic-bound trolley car after chasing the car by auto to Greeneville the men claimed they did not know each other and denied the ownership of the black bag in which the stolen suits were found. At the court session Friday morning they conversed freely with each other while in the pen.

The black bag used by the men in their operations is of high grade leather and is estimated to be worth $50.

Following the sentencing of the accused Detective Sergeant Garvin of the Hartford police force and C. Sieg and J. Shaughnaussey, buyers for Horsfall's store, Hartford, arrived at the city court room, it having been suspected that some of the suits found in the bag were stolen from Horsfall's store.

Two photographs, closely resembling the duo were produced by Sergeant Garvin. According to the detective the two are the same who worked the same stunt in Hartford about one year ago, but for lack of evidence the cases against them were nolled. At the time, the detective stated, and on the back of the photograph, Mario went under the alias of Sebastina F. Blanco, Havana, Cuba, while Sato went under the assumed name of Toni Melon, of Houston, Texas.

Sato and Mario denied that they were the same persons as shown by the pictures. The two buyers of the Horsfall store identified four of the ten suits as coming from their store. The four suits were taken back to Hartford. It is said the two men were in the Horsfall store Monday and one was carrying the black bag at the time.

A warrant was left by Sergeant Garvin with Chief George Linton for the arrest of Mario and Sato for the Hartford police after they have completed their six months' jail sentence in this city. The warrant charges the men with theft of suits, valued at $200.

Officer John Donovan had a most important part in the capture of the two shoplifters, made Thursday morning by Officers Carroll and Keenan, as they were about to make their escape from the city on the Willimantic trolley car.

Descriptions of the men wanted were furnished Officer Donovan by Harold Reardon, clerk at the Brooklyn Outfitters Co., whose presence of mind in tipping off the police, resulted in their capture and subsequent return of clothing to Quinn & Desmond, whose store was also touched for clothing. Officer Donovan then canvassed the clothing stores on Main street describing the men to the clerks in the stores and this information was acted upon by a clerk in Savard Bros. store who saw two men answering the description of the men wanted, boarding the Willimantic trolley car, then notifying Officer Carroll who went to Greeneville after the men.

COUNTY DELEGATES ARE BACK FROM BRIDGEPORT

The delegates from the ladies auxiliaries of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, have returned home from the annual convention held Wednesday and Thursday at Bridgeport. Harkins and Mrs. Sarah Mansfield alternate delegates, were also present.

Members of Division No. 54, this city, who attended the convention as visitors were Mrs. Margaret Peters, Mrs. Alice Shea and Mrs. Rosamead Jacques.

It was the largest gathering of delegates in the history of the order, the women seating 302 delegates and the men 300.

The convention was opened by a mass celebrated in St. Augustine's church by Rev. Fr. Keating of New Haven, state chaplain, followed by a reception at the Hibernian home, after which the ladies' convention was officially opened in St. Augustine's hall and the men's at the A. O. H. home.

At 4 p. m. special trolleys conveyed the delegates to Pleasure Beach where amusements were greatly enjoyed until 6 p. m. Then a splendid banquet was served in the dining pavilion. John M. Cullinan, was toastmaster. He called upon the Hon. T. W. Behrens, mayor of Bridgeport, Fr. Keating, Hon. David Fitzgerald, mayor of New Haven, Mrs. Jennie C. Carroll, state president, and many other prominent speakers. This was followed by a dance. At 10 o'clock a splendid display of fireworks was greatly enjoyed. The special feature of the fireworks was "Welcome A. O. H."

On Thursday morning the convention opened with the usual high mass and men and women reconvened in their respective halls. The election of officers were as follows:

Mrs. Jennie C. Carroll, re-elected state president; Miss Eileen Mulligan, re-elected state vice-president.

With several in the contest for state secretary the office was won by Miss Ella Garvin of Hartford. With several in the contest for state treasurer the office was won by Mrs. Julia Brock of Div. No. 54, Norwich.

Mrs. Mary Jackson was re-elected state historian. In reading her report Mrs. Jackson announced that Edward Lyons of St. Mary's school, of Greenville was the winner of the $5 gold piece given by Div. No. 54, of Norwich for the best essay on "Thomas Frances Meagher" and Richard Buckley of St. Patrick's school was the winner of the $5 gold piece given to St. Patrick's school with honorable mention to Miss Margaret Morley. The national prize on the same subject went to Waterbury.

New London county was represented at the convention by 20 delegates and several visiting members.

GRANGE LECTURERS TO MEET AT STORRS

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Aug. 21.—The fourteenth annual grange lecturers' conference which is one of the big events in New England Grange circles, will be held this year at the Connecticut Agricultural college, August 24-26. Charles A. Wheeler of Storrs, Connecticut state lecturer is in charge of the arrangements, and plans have been made for an attendance of 1000 Grangers from all the New England states. Following the close of the conference, the delegations from Maine, Massachusetts and Rhode Island will take one and two-day auto tours of the state, visiting points of educational, industrial and historical interest.

Among the speakers who will address the grangers are Senator Hiram Bingham of New Haven, National Master of the Grange L. J. Taber of Columbus, Ohio; and Charles M. Gardner of Springfield, Mass., managing editor of the National Grange Monthly and high priest demeter.

It is expected that most of the grangers will make the trip to Storrs by auto, and plans have been made along the route to accommodate the various state delegations. Those coming from Maine assembled at the Lewiston state fair grounds last night where John W. Hanson, adjutant general of Maine provided cots and blankets. The Maine contingent will stop at the University of New Hampshire at Durham tomorrow night, and the Massachusetts Agricultural college at Amherst, Mass., Sunday night. Monday morning will be spent in sight seeing through Springfield, after which the run will be made to Storrs arriving late in the afternoon.

As in past years, the programme will be arranged to allow each state delegation to have one and a half hours with the time equally divided between formal talks and papers, and informal discussions. The Maine and New Hampshire delegations will lead the meetings Tuesday morning with the Massachusetts lecturers in charge in the afternoon. The Rhode Island and Vermont delegations will lead the discussion Wednesday morning, with an address by Charles M. Gardner of Springfield, featuring the afternoon programme. Later an inspection will be made of the college campus. The conference will be closed Wednesday evening with a concert, reception and social hour.

A daily paper will be issued during the conference. This will be edited by Walter Stemmons, the college editor.

State Grange Lecturers in New England are as follows: Merle J. Harriman, Readfield, Maine; John A. Hammond, Laconia, New Hampshire; Albert W. Lawrence, Springfield, Vermont; Berton T. Mowry, Raymond Center, Massachusetts; Miss Walter Rodman, Davisville, Rhode Island; Charles A. Wheeler, Storrs, Connecticut; Orlando L. Martin, nationa, grange lecturer, Plainfield, Vermont.

GLENDON IS APPOINTED ROWING COACH AT COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Richard J. (Young Dick) Glendon, coach of successive naval academy crews for three years, will be a large figure in the Poughkeepsie regatta again next year, but as head coach of Columbia University. His appointment was announced by the Columbia rowing committee today.

Glendon, although a comparative youth, is a veteran of athletic competition, having captained teams in baseball, football, basketball, track and swimming in the schools of Boston and Chatham, Mass., but perhaps more than anything else his knowledge of rowing has been developed by his father, "Old Dick" Glendon, who for twenty one years coached the navy crews and developed the powerful eight of sailormen which swept the waters in 1920, returning from the Olympic games in Antwerp as best among the world's best.

Young Glendon, in three years of leadership at Annapolis, where he succeeded his father in the fall of 1922, has had his great crews. In 1923 the navy finished second to the university of Washington at Poughkeepsie, the Pacific coasts first triumph in the event national regatta on the Hudson. In 1924 the sailors were not entered and this year, only a few months ago, they avenged the defeat of 1923 by conquering Washington in one of the greatest races rowing ever has known.

The change at Columbia comes after a disastrous season. The Blue and White varsity finished last in every race it entered and a few weeks before the Poughkeepsie event Fred Miller, an alumnus, resigned as coach, to be succeeded by Bill Haines, who had had a large measure of success with the Massachusetts Institute of Technology oarsmen. Haines and the Columbia rowing committee let it be known that the arrangement was temporary.

MGR. CHAPMAN IS SUSPICIOUS OF TROLAND

Sporting Editor:

We were both surprised and pleased with the latest missive appearing in your column over the well known name of Jigs Troland. There is a bit of suspicion that he has made a change in his literary department and used a new writer as on the job. The contact is handled in a manner that might make old Avon Bill himself, were he yet on this side of the Gloomy River, uneasy with jealousy and discontent with his laurels. Also, the sentiment expressed in regard to games is extremely gratifying. It certainly behooves us to know that he is willing to rearrange his schedule to accommodate those "envious of the cream," which he so gracefully seizes for a fitting headpiece.

Of course the mentor of "the outstanding team in these parts" must expect "wild challenges." Especially when his craving for a little free advertising leads to unwarranted statements in the public press.

His desire for newspaper publicity is excusable only when one reflects that several big league moguls may seek new leaders for the season of 1926.

It is not our intention to hit and run like many modern knights of the padded fists. With us it is a matter of give and take, and may the better team win. The present situation has been brought about by the wild ramblings of Brother Troland, who would seem to have mightier pens than bats at his disposal. We are very glad to accept his invitation to a telephone conference. Through your sporting page we wish to announce that we stand ready to play him on the basis announced in our previous communication.

As far as the Second club is concerned, the diet of bologna is over, and by means of action on the field we shall look forward to handing our some tough taffy to Taftville.

AUSTRALIANS BEAT JAPS IN DAVIS CUP PLAY

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 21—(A. P.)—It will be Australia against France in the final interzone Davis cup play to decide the nation whose tennis team will challenge the United States this year for international honors. This was decided here late today when Australia's double aces, John B. Hawkes and Gerald Patterson, routed Zenzo Shimizu and Takeichi Harada of Japan in straight sets, 6-3, 6-2, 6-4.

It was a decisive conclusion to the work of Patterson and James H. Anderson who started Japan on the way to defeat in the final of the American zone competition yesterday by victories over Shimizu and Harada in singles. The margin of superiority established in the singles yesterday was maintained by the antipodean pair today as their overwhelming victory.

In the last two sets the little Nipponese pair grove desperately and unsuccessfully to stem the Australian attack. They were driven into retreat by the barrage laid down by their opponents, the booming service of Patterson, Hawkes' deceptive, twisting left hand serves, hard hit drives by both opponents and Hawkes' effective volleying, the antipodeans ran over Japan roughshod, dropping but three games in two sets—these chiefly through errors.

The last set was different but the result was the same in the end. Playing their hardest, the Japanese postponed defeat through 16 games until a final burst by the Australians brought victory in set, match and zone final with a score of 9-7.

Patterson and Hawkes earned 45 points against 23 for the Japanese. The Australians were credited with 37 errors and Harada and Shimizu 62.

Tomorrow in the last two singles which now amount to little more than exhibitions Hawkes will play Masanosuke Fukuda, and Harada will meet Patterson.

LAST GAME OF SUB BASE AND RIVERVIEW SERIES TODAY

The Sub Base and the Riverview club will cross bats for the last time this season at the State Hospital diamond this afternoon. The game with the Sub Base is always a banner attraction as both teams can be depended upon to put up their best brand of baseball. Riverview has always had the edge on the Base and has never lost a series to this club. Manager Donovan will send Tony West against the Base and Gibbons, the premier pitcher of the flotilla will be on the mound for the gob.

The lineups will be as follows:

Riverview—West p, Belair c; Hamel 1b; Nap Liberty 2b; Normandin ss; Mills 3b; Noel lf; Moore cf; Allard rf.

Sub Base—Gibbons p; Anctil c; Harrell 1b; Hawes 2b; Gunning ss; Meska 3b; McDonough lf; Stubbs cf; Knepley rf.

The game is called for 2:45 o'clock.

Yantic vs. Mystic.

Sunday afternoon at the Yantic diamond the Yantic Mills team will play the fast Mystic club.

MORTON BEATEN BY YATES AT SHENNECOSSETT

EASTERN POINT, Conn., Aug. 21—Rain and dreary weather did not prevent players in the several flights in the annual invitation men's golf tournament on the Shennecossett course from making a start in the second day's pairings.

The sixteen in the first flight completed their eighteen holes of play afternoon, the feature match because of its closeness being that in which F. W. Knight, of White Marsh, last year's medalist and tournament winner, beat Quincy Ryan, of Short Hills, one up on the nineteenth hole.

The other matches resulted as follows:

S. Brainard, Pine Orchard, medalist yesterday, lost to W. M. Goss, Waterbury, two and one.

BERLENBACH TO MEET DELANEY ON SEPT. 11

NEW YORK, Aug. 21—(A. P.)—Promoters of the Berlenbach-Delaney bolshevik light heavyweight championship bout scheduled for the Yankee Stadium the night of September 11 today were ordered to proceed with the match after a physician connected with the New York State Athletic commission.

The bout originally was booked for August 28 but postponed when Berlenbach, who took the world title from Mike McTigue several weeks ago, reported that his hands were not in condition for the fray. He was ordered to report to the [illegible] but Dr. W. H. Walker [illegible] the statement.

"I have this date examined Paul Berlenbach at the office of the State Athletic [illegible] I examined both of Berlenbach's hands and find no functional defects and no inflammatory process at this date. He has in each hand old deformities received some time ago. These conditions are fully healed and leave no effect [illegible] time. [illegible] Berlenbach. I believe that he is fully able to engage at this time in a boxing contest."

The commission authorized postponement of the Tony Marullo-Mike McTigue and Jimmy Slattery-Maxie Rosenbloom bouts scheduled for tonight to tomorrow night.

KAPLAN TRAINS INSIDE BECAUSE OF RAIN

MERIDEN, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Rain did not prevent Louis (Kid) Kaplan, featherweight champion from training today, although it drove him indoors for the afternoon.

The champion changed from his headquarters at Hanover park to the Casino alleys. The latter, his fall and winter home welcomed him back though only temporarily. Tomorrow if the weather permits will find Kaplan in the ring open spaces again.

The titleholder boxed Tracey Ferguson three rounds, Eddie Lord and Nat Gargano two apiece. Lord and Gargano are from Waterbury, the latter joining the stable today. Another newcomer was registered when Moe Ginsburg, of New York, arrived. Ginsburg will work with Kaplan until Monday or Tuesday. This swells the Kaplan stable, the champion now having on hand his two brothers, Izzy and Nouh, Eddie Lord and Nat Gargano, of Waterbury, Tracey Ferguson and Moe Ginsburg.

Although the champion worked under a roof today he did not let up on his program and did everything called for in his dailyschedule.

WINGO'S TRIPLE & MARBERRY'S WILDNESS BEATS SENATORS

DETROIT, Aug. 21—(A. P.)—Wingo's triple off Coveleskie in the eleventh, followed by three successive passes to Marberry who relieved him, gave Detroit a 1 to 0 victory over Washington today in the series opener. Aside from a double by Bassler, the triple was the only watch while hit Detroit got off the veteran Senator.

Joe Judge, Washington first baseman was in a hospital tonight with a concussion of the brain and a possible fracture of the skull from being hit by a pitched ball in the second inning.

TAFTVILLE A. A. AND SOUTH WINDHAM TODAY

This afternoon at the Providence street grounds the Taftville A. A. will clash with the South Windham team in what is expected to be one of the fastest games of the season. The Windham team has been playing exceptionally fast ball during the summer and has a record of 15 victories out of 18 games. The personnel of the South Windham team includes a number of players that have performed in Norwich with the Yantic team one in particular, "Swede" sweet, having entered the Twilight league hall of fame through his heavy home run hitting. Others on the team that have played in Norwich are McCall and the Hoxie boys.

Taftville will use either Jarvis or Lefty Dugas against the invaders while Mathewson will oppose Taftville [illegible] line.

TODD HART WINS HIS SECOND RACE OF THE WEEK AT NORTH RANDALL OVAL

CLEVELAND, Aug. 21—(A. P.)—Todd Hart administered his fourth defeat of the year to Tommy Murphy's Trumpet toda ywhen he annexed the Century, $3,000 stake for 2:08 trotters, feature of the Grand Circuit races at North Randall. It was the second stake victory in a week for the gelding.

Each of the last quarters of the three heats were trotted in twenty-nine seconds or better, the first in 28 3-5 and the second one-fifth of a second faster.

Todd Hart took the first and third heats, but went into a break rounding the first turn in the second. He made up about eight lengths before turning into the stretch and was leading then, thinking he had the heat won, Harry Putnam quit driving and was beaten in the closest finish of the year.

After winning twelve consecutive heats, Norman Grattan, Sep Patin's good pacer, suffered his first defeat of the season today when Miss Czar Moko, making her first start for James P. Berry, Hartford, Conn., won the 2:12 pace. Norman Grattan led all the way in the first heat, which he won from Jean Grattan, pacing the first half in 59 1-5 seconds. Miss Czar Moko won the next two pulled up, equalling the world's record for seven eights of a mile in the second.

The three-year-old pace was a straight heat victory for Bob Seymore. Southward won the 2:16 trot.

RECORD SCORES MADE IN WESTERN GOLF PLAY

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Aug. 21—(A. P.)—Breaking all records for qualifying rounds, 65 golfers today won their way into the final 36 hole play of the Western Open Golf Championship at the Youngstown Country club with scores of 151 or better, the maximum score of admission being several strokes lower than ever before known.

In the van of these players was Al Watrous of Grand Rapids, whose fine pair of 70's made him medalist of the qualifiers, but his score of four under par for the double circuit of the 6,577 yard links gave him a lead of only one stroke over three other competitors. Densmore Shute, amatuer champion of West Virginia, MacDonald Smith and William Klein of New York, scored 141 each to tie for second place.

Individual honors of the day went to John Farrell of New York whose 68 was the only score to break 70 today. This with his 74 of yesterday put him in third place with 142. Larry Nabholtz of Cleveland, who led the field yesterday with a 67, today required 75 strokes in the high wind, but tied for fourth at 143 with Francis Gallett of Milwaukee and Emmett French of the home club.

Keefe Carter of Oklahoma City, western amateur title holder, failed by one stroke of getting into the finals.

Probably the best known golfer who failed to survive the elimination rounds was Bob MacDonald, of Chicago, who scored 79-75—154.

Bill Mehlhorn of Chicago did not show promising signs of retaining the title, as he was 9 strokes behind the leader tonight, with 149.

Walter Hagen, formerly national and British open champion, has a fair chance to win the western crown for a third time as his score of 146 while nineteenth on the list, was still only six strokes back of the leader.

Gene Sarazen, Metropolitan champion, played better today, scoring par 72 but his total of 147 was fairly well up in the list.

H. C. Lagerblade of Bristol, Conn., was among the qualifiers with a score of 73-76—148.

SEMI-FINALS IN WOMAN'S NATIONAL TENNIS POSTPONED

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 21—(A. P.)—Semi-final round matches in the Women's National Tennis Championship singles, postponde today on account of rain, will be staged tomorrow afternoon, starting at 2 o'clock eastern daylight time with a contest between Helen Wills, national champion, and Eleanor Goss, No. 4 in the national ranking.

One hour later Kathleen McKane of England, will oppose Mrs. Molla B. Mallory, former American champion, while at 4 o'clock there will be a doubles match with Miss Wills and Mary K. Browne facing Mrs. Lambert Chambers and Miss E. H. Harvey of England. A second doubles match at 5 o'clock will pit Mrs. May Sutton Bundyand Elizabeth Ryan, both of California, against Mrs. Marion Z. Jessup and Miss Goss, an eastern combination.

Finals in both competitions will be played Monday, the singles at 2:30 o'clock and the doubles two hours later.

BOXERS ARRIVE AT WESTERLY ON SUNDAY

Pete August, Steve Culver and a number of other boxers who are to appear on the card at Westerly on Tuesday evening will arrive in Westerly on Sunday to complete their training for the bouts. All the boys are reported to be in the best of shape and Promoter Joe Grills promises that every bout will be a hummer from start to finish. Those who have seen Pete August and know his record may rest assured that the Bridgeport boy is still there and going strong.

In behalf of the Shamrocks Baseball Team winners of the Junior League in New London I hereby challenge the winners of the junior league of Norwich to a series of two out of three games to decide the Eastern Connecticut junior baseball championship. If this challenge is accepted communicate with Edward Collins, Crocker House, New London, Conn.

ATHLETICS RECEIVE ANOTHER JOLT IN PENNANT RACE

CHICAGO, Aug. 21—(A. P.)—Chicago handed the Philadelphia Athletics another jolt in their pennant aspirations today by defeating them 8 to 2 in the first game of the series.

It was the fifth successive defeat for Connie Mack's Nine.

Ed Rommel, star of the Philadelphia pitching staff, was wild and ineffective when the White Sox had men on base. He gave way to a pinch hitter and Lefty Baumgartner was likewise unable to check the hitting of the Sox.

Groves succeeded Baumgartner and checked the scoring in the eighth. The Athletics defense, apparently working under a strain, contributed three errors, all of which figured in the scoring in the Chicago club.

Sheely and Mostil led the attack, Sheely having a perfect day at bat with four hits, one of which was a double and a sacrifice in five trips to the plate. Mostil's hits included a double and a triple.

Faber pitched a pretty game for Chicago and was given perfect support, the work of Mostil, Harper, Davis, Wanin and Sheely being especially noteworthy. Score:

RAIN CALLS HALT ON SPORTS IN EAST YESTERDAY

NEW YORK, Aug. 21—(A. P.)—Rain today hit tennis, baseball and boxing schedules.

Semi finals matches in the Women's National Tennis Championship at Forest Hills, N. Y., were found to be impossible with the courts soft and the downpour continuing at the time play was scheduled to start. The postponement will carry the finals over to Monday with Helen Wills, the champion, an her British rival, Kathleen McKane, favored to meet for the title.

Baseball fans in New York, Boston and Philadelphia were forced to desist. This will bring a double bill tomorrow, another the next day and a single game on Monday, a holiday, an open date on the schedule. All this is the last appearance of the Pirates in New York this year all games must be played out during the series.

All other national league games were postponed, in addition to four games in the Eastern League and one in the International circuit.

Promoters of the Coney Island stadium boxing show also postponed their card to tomorrow night. Several theatre and cabaret entertainers were to appear. Light heavyweight champion, Mike McTigue and Tony Marullo of New Orleans and a six-round contest between Jimmy Slattery, light heavyweight of Buffalo, N. Y., and Maxey Rosenbloom of New York will be featured.

HERMAN WILL MAKE HIS WEIGHT EASILY

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 21—(A. P.)—Any doubt that Babe Herman will make the weight for his match with Louis "Kid" Kaplan at Waterbury next Thursday for the featherweight championship was erased today when, despite the rain, the Californian had a hard workout.

After a five mile run with his mascot, a police dog, Herman went to the Fair Haven gymnasium where it was found that he tipped the scales at 125 pounds. After a period of shadow boxing, Herman boxed three rounds with Mickey Travers, of New Haven, three rounds with Kid Henry and two rounds with his brother, Joe Sousa. At the end of his workout, Herman weighed 127 pounds. According to his trainer he is ready to step into the ring at any time. Herman will have a lighter workout tomorrow.

"GARIBALDINI" REVUE 50-YEAR-AGO MEMORY

One of the impressive features of the procession in honor of Victor Emmanuel's twenty-fifth anniversary as King of Italy, was the squad of 50 "Garibaldini," who more than half a century ago fought their way with "the liberator" from Marsala to Capua.

Not only in parades, but often on ordinary days one may see these picturesque old men, with their red shirts and their long white beards and frequently in white trousers, hobbling along the streets on canes, sometimes mumbling to themselves and eyeing curiously the noisy, white, modern Rome, so different from the sleepy reddish-brown city for which they offered their lives.

Is the reverence which they inspire the product of a romantic legend? Perhaps. But they have a sound title to honor. They never attacked a foe weaker than themselves. They never persecuted the weak. They never humiliated or mistreated a conquered foe. They never confiscated the property of the poor. Not all the younger Italians who have used violence for patriotic ends have as good a record as theirs.

An Alchemist's Dream

That the dream of medieval alchemists of forcing nature to give up her secret of how to make gold is nearing practical realization in the prediction freely made in German scientific circles. In the seclusion of their laboratories, German scientists are working on this problem with great energy and secrecy.

Prof. A. Miethe, famous scientist of the Charlottenburg Technical high school, whose announcement of successfully making gold out of mercury created a sensation in the scientific world, now is reported to have closed a contract with the Siemens-Schuckert Company of Berlin for further development and realization on a practical commercial basis of his discoveries.

Queer Lead Mine

A unique and profitable lead "mine" is being worked in an abandoned cornfield long used as a target range by a Western trapshooting club, according to Popular Mechanics. Over the traps from which the pigeons are flung an almost steady hail of shot has been poured for years by sportsmen in practise and contests. The "prospectors" are reclaiming tons of the lead with a slime

Its hand though old, had a touch of gold.
And its chimes rang still the sweetest.
'Twas a monitor, too, though its words were few,
Yet they lived though nations altered;
And its voice, still strong, warned old and young
When the voice of friendship altered:
"Tick! tick! it said—" quick, quick to bed.
For ten I've given warning;
Up! up! and go, or else you know,
You'll never rise soon in the morning."

A friendly voice had that, old, old clock,
As it stood in the corner smiling,
And blessed the time with a merry chime
The wintry hours beguiling:
But a cross old voice had that tiresome clock
As it called at day-break boldly;
When the dawn looked gray o'er the misty way,
And the early air blew coldly:
"Tick! tick!" it said, "quick out of bed,
For alas I've given warning:
"You'll never have health, you'll never have wealth,
Unless you're up soon in the morning."

Still hours by the sound goes round and round,
While alone that ceases never:
While tears are shed for bright days fled,
And the old friends lost forever:
As near hearts on—though hearts are gone.
The hands still move—though hands we love
Are clasped on earth no longer!
"Tick! tick!" it said—"to the churchyard bed,"
The grave hath given warning:
Up! up! and rise, and look at the skies
And prepare for a heavenly morning!"

What I Live For

I live for those who love me,
For those I know are true.
For the Heaven that smiles above me
And awaits my spirit, too;
For the human ties that bind me
For the task by God assigned me,
For the bright hopes left behind me,
And the good that I can do.

I live to learn their story
Who have suffered for my sake,
To emulate their glory,
And follow in their wake—
Bards, martyrs, patriots, sages
The people of all ages,
Whose deeds crown history's pages
And time's great volume make.

I live to hail the season
By the gifted mind foretold,
When man shall rule by reason
And not alone by gold;
When man to man united,
And every wrong thing righted
The whole world shall be lighted
As Eden was of old.

I live to hold communion
With all that is divine,
To feel that there is a union
'Twixt nature's heart and mine
To profit by affliction,
Reap truth from fields of fiction,
Grow wiser from conviction,
And fulfill each grand design.

I live for those who love me,
For those who know me true,
For the Heaven that smiles above me
And awaits my spirit, too;
For the wrongs that need resistance,
For the cause that lacks assistance,
For the future in the distance,
And the good that I can do.

The Hindoo's Paradise

A Hindoo died—a happy thing to do
When twenty years united to a shrew.
Released he hoped fully for entrance
Before the gates of Brahama's paradise.
"Hast been through purgatory?" Brahma said.
"I have been married," and he hung his head
"Come in, come in, and welcome, too, my son!
Marriage and purgatory are as one."
In bliss extreme he entered heaven's door,
And knew the peace he ne'er had known before.

He scarce had entered the garden fair,
Another Hindoo asked admission there.
The selfsame question Brahma asked again:
"Hast been through purgatory?" "No," what then?"
"Thou canst not enter!" did the god reply,
"He who went in was there no more than I."
"All that is true, but, he has married been.
And so on earth has suffered for all sin."
"Married? 'Tis well: for I've been married twice!"
"Begone! We'll have no fools in paradise!"

HINTS ON LAMPSHADE MAKING

Dear Sisters: For fear some who would like to know about lampshade making I will rewrite some portions of it and I think I can make it little clearer. First select your frame. For a table lamp standing 20 inches high a frame should measure about 20 in diameter. A perfectly round shape is best, slightly funnel shaped, in preference to a flat one. For a floor lamp a modified oblong shape is prettier and newer.

Now the color: For the table lamp, gold and black, red and black, and orange and black. All of these make attractive shades and will go with any sort of furnishings. If any of your furniture, rugs, etc., are blue, you could use that color in your lamps, otherwise I would suggest that the floor lamp be red and the table lamp either gold or orange. Now the materials. If money is no object the material may be bought in the lamp shade department where you will also receive instruction for making; but an equally effective shade can be had by using less expensive material. Buy silk muslin for lining if you do not wish to buy taffeta. It is very much less in price. You will need the length that your frame measures around the widest edge.

Get your silk muslin first: same length of inch fringe, same of metal braid, and about 1-2 yard of georgette. Measure your entire frame, and allow twice that length of either silk or cotton seam binding, the same shade as the silk. To make, wind entire frame with binding forming it on the spokes, on the inner side of the shade. Next, split your silk down the length of the goods. Then take one length and pin the selvidge to the outer edge of the frame having the joining come to one of the spokes. Sew around firmly and draw it up on the under side of frame through the top of corner and tack it firmly, trimming off all except about an inch. Now take the other length and pin to the outer edge, joining in the same place, allowing the selvidge to fall about six inches below the edge to form a drop for the fringe.

Sew this firmly then draw the fullness up on each spoke and pin. Now sew to the collar plaiting it neatly between each spoke. The joinings need not be sewed, simply folded over.

Next cut your georgette across the material making two pieces 9 by 40 inches. Now sew your georgette around the edge and draw up and talk over the silk. Next sew your fringe around, having the edge even with the drop and joining it on the same spoke.

Sew your metal braid over the edge and also a narrow piece on the collar of the frame and your shade is done.

To the girl who advised me she was waiting for the remainder of the lampshade making, I have written these "Hints" about making the lampshades as she told me she was interested. I hope this helps you and if not clear I will be only too glad to help you further if I can. Let me know how you make out.

MOTHER AND DAUGHTERS

Dear Social Corner Members: I wonder if any of the other readers have been confronted with the situation that has come to me. If not perhaps a similar condition for I am sure the problem is one many are to deal with, having too, varying degrees of success.

With the many social diversion outside the home, the movies and dances and automobiles, my two daughters now in high school, are being taught things in the school about the influence of the home environment that mothers didn't teach us. When they bring their friends home they want to feel proud and know that it reflects those principles that have been taught at school. By certain attitudes and casual remarks I knew they were desirous of some changes in the arrangement of the house as well as some new pieces of furniture. When the holiday season came I was much surprised to find among my gifts a lovely chair.

Our income is a comfortable one but not enough to encourage any extravagance so I decided the time had arrived for a talk with them concerning what I knew to be their desires as well as my own. This was daughters right on the cost or running the home and the expense and dangers of too much aimless pleasure seeking outside; and to show them that if they really want nice furniture, I could give it to them only if they will do their part and forego a movie now and then, a new party dress or so many extra pairs of pumps and hose. I was sure I understood their viewpoint and wanted them to understand mine. They were more than willing to co-operate, I feel sure they are satisfied with their clothes, the social opportunities that are theirs. And in the two years since we began this system our home has had four lovely additions in furniture besides new draperies and a few other desirable changes. The best part is the understanding between us, the increased knowledge of the desirable in home furnishing, and the wise and careful expenditure of money. I am more than repaid when I read in their faces the pride and love of their home. They invite their friends with joy and they come with eagerness. More and above all is the beautiful relation between my daughters and myself. I am sure that when they come to homes of their own they will be well regulated, orderly and the money well and wisely expended.

REGRETS RED CLOVER'S DEATH

Dear Corner Friends: Was indeed pained to hear of the death of Sister Red Clover. I supposal she was getting along nicely.

Balsam Fir: Your accounts of the many different cities in Maine are very interesting to me as I have visited there many times and some of the places you mention. I especially enjoyed our trip to Biddleford pool, Saco, Deering, Portland, and Riverton park. Give us some more accounts of your trips.

Lular Wylie: What a time you must have had getting Siddy Ann! Hope you will send on to her also hope the knot the minister tied was a square knot and wont slip. Did you have them shined with a tallow candle? I heard a man say once when he was a young man he wore leather boots and when he was going any where, when he wanted to look rather kippy, he would carry a piece of a tallow candle and just before he would reach his destination he would brush off the dust then polish up his boots, prink up his collar and tie then they always thought he was one of the "berries." He was a very smart man and never was known to be beat at a trade. Now Lular Wylie did you save those wedding boots? Today they might be quite a curiosity for I don't believe there are many of them in existence.

E. L. M.: You certainly have me guessing. I shall have to put my thinking cap on and get busy. Did see where you attended the Larkin club? In the Bulletin I am reading all your home town news you see.

HOW TO MAKS A PAPER LAMPSHADE

Dear Members of the Social Corner: There is something irresistibly cosy and attractive about a room lighted or illuminated by the mellow glow of lamplight, filtered through shades of warm and restful color. The expensiveness of readymade shades has unfortunately deterred many from the enjoyment of this particular form of luxury, but such self-deinal is quite unnecessary for artistic triumphs can be achieved with no more costly side than a ten cent roll of crept paper a wire frame and a little art paste, plus good taste and nimble fingers. The frames, in various shapes can be purchased in many department and fancy good stores, or will be made to order by any wire maker. Their cost ranges from 5 cents to $1 or $1.50 according to size and style. A frame 20 inches in diameter is a suitable size for the average library table.

An empire shape is very pretty. The first step is towards transforming it into a thing of beauty is to wind all the outer wires with strips of crepe paper, keeping the free ends of the latter tightly bunched and changing from hand to hand as the paper is passed around the wires. Half an inch is wide enough for these strips, as if broader it is difficult to wind them smoothly. Their color should be the same as that chosen for outside covering. I think pale green pretty.

Measure the height of the frame allow a two inch margin top and bottom, and cut the roll of crepe paper to the width indicated. By using a pair of heavy shears, the roll can be cut across without opening it which saves time and assures a reasonably straight edge. I have what I cut wire with for paper flowers and I find it very handy to cut the paper.)

Apply a generous amount of paste to the upper and lower horizontal wires of the frame for a distance of six or eight inches, using a good sized bristle brush. Unroll the paper and hold by upper edge with the left hand, so that it projects 2 inches above and below the frame, with the thumb and finger of the right hand, gather the lower edge into folds, pressing them along the pasted covered wire, and turn the projected margin underneath. Treat the upper part in the same manner. Then paste another section of wire and repeat the operation until the entire frame is covered.

For the fringe which trims the shade cut lengthewise strip of crepe paper, five inches in width, stretch to their fullest capacity, then fold in several thicknesses, and slash as fine as possible, leaving a half inch heading to hold the fringe together. Roll briskly between the palms of the hands, shake out, and sew around the lower edge, just above the wire, using four thicknesses. The ruching used as a finish is made by gathering through the center, with silkateen or knitting silk to match, two strips of crape paper, each two and one half inches wide. Lay one strip upon the other and sew to the shade along the line of gathers, taking short stitches on the right side and long ones on the wrong. The final step is to trim off the ragged edges of the covering underneath the lamp.

When the lamp shade is completed successfully alltention will turn naturally to shades for the candles which grace the boudoir or add cheeriness and warmth of color to the table.

A dark brown framework with panels of rich clear green, gives a charming effect. Black, panelled with red or deep yellow suggests Venetian iron works while white frames filled in with paper of delicate tints or small flowered patterns are indescribably dainty.

A LOVER OF FLOWERS

Dear Social Corner Members: Well what a lot of picnics are planned I shall think of you on those days and how I would like to be with you but guess they are too far away. It is nice where there are enough of you near together so you can charter a bus.

Forget me not: Same here too; the next time I will take a book with me. I am coming to see that tree and maybe I will find you too. Do you and Kensy live very far aart? I think one of you told me you were about two miles from the village.

O. D.: Too bad you did not know you were near Forget Me Not for I know you would have enjoyed meeting her.

Blackeyed Susie: Of course I gave a good report of you to Tatting and I feel sure she will not stay behind next time. This week Tatting, interested Reader and Silent Stranger are having some good times together. I hope to be with them one day.

I wonder if any of you are troubled with a black bug destroying all your asters. I have not been bothered for a few years, but this year they have returned with all their relatives. I guess. Have had them sprayed with arsenate of lead and they have disappeared I hope for good.

Do any of the sisters raise Canterbury bells? Last year I had several plants given me and they were beautiful, so I planted some seed so as to have plants that would bloom this year, but never a seed came up. This spring I planted more seed but no plants. I wonder if it's too late to plant more seed now. You know you have to plant this year to get plants that will bloom next year.

Lash week while out riding I saw the most beautiful hollyhocks. They were pink and double like a rose. I have single ones but never had seen any double ones only in seed catalogues. One thing, if I had time and money, I would have a nice flower garden. For one with little time, I find geraniums, petunias, both single and double, and gladioli give one many blossoms. Guess I better leave a little spoce to some one else. E. L. M.

HOT WEATHER RECIPES

Dear Cornerites: Even in this hot weather I know you still find it necessary to eat. Here are some suggestions.

Potato Sandwich: Boil potato and mash fine 1-2 potato to each sandwichl Cut whole wheat bread in thin slices and spread with brush dipped while hot, and brush over with butter salt and pepper and grate just a little onion over the top.

Tomato Marshmallow: Cook and strain ripe tomatoes. If canned tomato is used it must be drained, cooked and strained. Make a syrup of 1-2 cooked strained tomato and 1 cup of sugar. If you have a thermometer cook to 230 degrees F. Pour this syrup over 2 3-4 cups of sugar moistened with 1-4 cup of cold water. Stir, add 1 cup of cold water and this I cook (240 degrees F.) Remove from the fire and add 2 tablespoons of gelatin dissolved in 1 cup of water. Mix and strain. With a wooden paddle beat the mass until it becomes foamy and white, then gradually add the beaten whites of 2 eggs, and continue beating until it is stringy and almost set. Sift in 1 tablespoon of cream of wheat or cornstarch, stir well, pour over a slab of marble previously dusted with confectioner's sugar. Let dry for 12 hours and cut in squares. If the marshmallow is to be eaten plain, roll in confectioner's sugar or it may be dipped in Crystal syrup and rolled in granulated cocoanut or coated with chocolate.

E. L. M.: Every night and morning put your feet in a pail of hot water, as hot as you can stand. Take them out and turn the cold water faucet on them. Do this at least 10 minutes, first the hot and then the cold. I quit often put my feet in cold water. That helps them quite a little.

For headache, get an outing flannel cap or get an old black stocking, sew across half of it or 1-4 if a big one (I use boys heavy ribbed ones). Half fill it with salt and heat it, double over the other place and lay it on the pillow and keep it hot one or two hours when you go to bed. What a relief it is. Is cures mine every time.

To the party who can't sleep nights Just fold a handkerchief so it will just lie across the nose and eyes and wet well with witch hazel. A glass of hot malted milk is very good drink before retiring.

To the reader who is troubled with gas, take 1-2 glass of cold water and in it dissolve 1-4 teaspoon of soda with a pinch of dry ginger. As you get used to it add a little more soda. The doctor told me people ought to take more soda than they do. It cured me of gas spells and those awful scared and "nerve" spells which I believe are caused by gas and worry about it. Take before and after meals.

Remedy for itching. Dip end of finger in alcohol and apply to the sp affected.

SEASONABLE RECIPES

Dear Social Corner: Here are some recipes which you will soon have a chance to use:

Grape Conserve: Stew one quart snow apples in cider. Wash 4 pounds of grapes and almost cover with water. Cook until soft. Dip about 3 cups of the juice from the top of the grape mixture, add to the apples and drain for jelly. Put remainder of apple and grape mixture through potato ricer; add chopped rind from one orange, one lemon, 1-2 pound of raisins, 1-4 cup walnut meats, 2 pounds sugar and cook 1-2 hour. The juice for jelly should be boiled 20 minutes, then to each 3 cups of juice, add two cups of warmed sugar. Boil 5 minutes and pour into hot glasses. The combined flavor of apple and grape is delicious.

Peach Conserve: 5 pounds peaches cut up, 1 pound raisins, 1 pound walnuts, 4 pounds sugar and 2 oranges. Cook until thick.

Heavenly Jam: 5 pounds grapes cooked and mashed through coarse sieve. Use three or four pounds of sugar, grind three oranges and one pound seeded raisins. Cook until thick and pour into glasses.

Elderberry Wine: 1 quart of berries, 1 quart of sugar, 1 quart of water. Measure your berries, then measure your sugar, add dissolved sugar in warm water, then add berries. Let stand in stone crock three weeks or until they come to top, then strain, bring to a scald, cool and bottle. Have made this for years. Will keep as long as you want it to. I think I should make currant wine the same only add more sugar, as they are so tart.

Blackberry Cordial: Mash berries with potato masher or wooden spoon, pour into jelly bag, and squeeze out the juice. For every quart of juice, allow one pound of loaf sugar. Put sugar into preserving kettle and put juice over. When sugar is melted, set over fire and add 1-2 ounce of cloves half an ounce of stick cinnamon and boil to a thin jelly. When it is cold, to every quart of jelly add half a pint of the best brandy. Stir all together, strain through a fine sieve and bottle. Keep in dark place.

Good for You

Good for you, it's good for you from morning until night, its good for you, Gene, or good for you Maggie, or good for you pa, or good for you Sonny, good for you Theresa, good for you Kate, good for you Mame, good for you left and right, from morning until night, until my poor head whirls, wits good for you Annie, or good for you Jane, good for you till I wonder if the woman knows what she's saying for ever it is the end of the story that has just been told, good for you, good for you, and it is good for the Bulletin, too.

FORSAKEN.

WORTH TRYING

Dear Corner Members: These recipes are worth filing for future reference if not used now:

Somerville Meat Loaf: 1 pound beef for a stew, 1 cup suet, 2 small onions, 1 cup bread crumbs or oat flakes, 2 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon Worcester sauce, 1 egg, 2 tablespoon horseradish, 1-2 teaspoon dry mustard, 2 tablespoons minced green pepper, 1-2 cup tomato catsup.

Chop meat, suet, and onion fine, add oat flakes, or bread crumbs, egg slightly beaten, and all other ingredients except catsup. Pack into a greased bread pan cover the top with tomoto catsup and bake one hour in a moderate oven. This loaf can be made with left over meat and is delicious hot or cold.

Beef Loaf: This is certainly delicious made like the recipe, 2 pounds chopped beef (I get beef for a stew) 1-4 pound salt pork, 1 1-2 cups oatmeal put through grinder, 2 eggs, 1-2 tablespoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon pepper, 2 teaspoons poultry seasoning (I use sage), 2 teaspoons tomato catsup, 2 teaspoons melted butter(1-2 cup cold water.

Mix together in order given, adding enough cold water to make it stick together, but leave it stiff enough to keep its shape when formed into a roll. Heat two tablespoons butter in a frying pan, put in the meat roll, and brown it slightly all over, and bake gently for an hour and a quarter, basting frequently. Add an onion if you wish, it is a great improvement.

GREETINGS FROM JOAN

Dear Social Corner Friends: It has been a long time since I have written but have not lost my interest in the Corner. Have enjoyed reading all the good letters others have written.

Uncle Billy's letters and all the other uncles, who wrote touching the present fashions have been amusing to me. I wonder if any remember the "blue glass craze" about 40 years or more ago? No doubt all will get their ultra-violet rays these days without it.

I was grieved to learn of Red Clover's passing away. Thought she was getting along all right.

I. J. B.: You have been in my thoughts many times since we last met.

Marigold asks for a recipe, so I'll send mine for making

Elderberry Wine: Strip berries from stems, mash them, let stand a day or two, press out all the juice you can. To one quart of juice add four quarts of cold water, five pounds of granulated sugar. Mix well, skim daily or when any scum arises, when done working, put into a jug or bottles Keep in a cool place.

J. E. T.: Have not seen you for a long time. Think you have found out who N. O. T. is by your letters in the Corner.

The summer has seemed very short to me but have enjoyed my flower garden immensely.

Wish best wishes to all.

JOAN.

JOINS THE CORNER

Dear Editor: May I join your busy and happy band? Dear Alwilda told me that she enjoys the Corner so much I'd like to try too.

MRS. DAN.

CLUB NO. 2 TO MEET IN ODD FELLOWS' BUILDING SEPT. 2.

Dear Corner Sisters: As the requirements for Sept. 2nd Social Corner meeting for Club No. 2 are new I will have to remind you for a few times that you and I will have to carry our own plate cup and silver, etc., to use at the table in our new meeting room in the Odd Fellows building on Main street, same side as the post office. It's the 3rd building toward Franklin square from the Post office. Think our hostess better put a yellow bow on the door for a guide.

We hope our visiting sisters will keep this in mind and come prepared with dishes as they do to their own clubs and out door picnics. We are starting a month earlier this year as our New London County fair opens at a much later date than usual.

To Red Clover's husband and relatives I extend my sympathy in the loss of a dear wife and sister. To me she has been a intimate friend for 28 years. I shall miss her kindly greeting and friendly chats so frequent in one place and another outside of the homes, as will others of her friends. We will all miss her at Club No. 2. Her sickness has been one of many months, since her fall in March at Club No. 1 meeting when all were so kind that day to her. Little did we think it would be the means of calling her to her everlasting home on high.

But when in days to come we too,
We too, shall reach the unseen land,
When bitter parting is no more
Perhaps we'll understand.

In sympathy to all in sorrow and hoping the sick a speedy recovery to be with us again.

CALLA LILY.

SANDWICHES AND STEWS

Dear Sisters: In making sandwiches the whole grain bread is always preferable. It should be evenly and thinly sliced and buttered with fresh swt buttr melted and spread on with a brush.

Celery Sandwiches: Finely cut celery, with lettuce makes a nice sandwich.

Combination Sandwichs: One each slice of bread place a lettuce leaf, 1 slice tomato, several slices of cucumbr, and, if daired, a little minced onion, add a layer of mayonnaise dressing.

Boston brownbread makes excellent sandwich.

Beef Stew: (eight portions), 3 pounds water, 2 cups cooked carrots, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup of cooked rice, 1-2 cup cooked cream of wheat, 1 onion, 1 green pepper, 2 cups tomato pulp. Wipe the meat off and cut in one inch cubes. Place 2 tablespoons of butter in frying pan and when hot add the meat. Brown thoroughly, add the water and cook for ten minutes. Pour into baking dish. And all the rest of the ingredients and bake in moderate over for one hour.

Dumplings— Two cups sifted flour, 1-2 cup cream of wheat, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1-4 teaspoon salt. Stir up with top milk until quite stiff. Steam 10 minutes without covering and 10 minutes covered. After the dumplings are done place on a hot platter. Thicken beef stew with cream of wheat (1 tablespoon) and pour th stew over dumplings or put the dumplings in the stew and reheat, but do not cook any more.

My Meat Cakes: 1 pound chopped beef (beef for a stew) 1 cup rolled oats, 1 small onion chopped fine, 1-2 green pepper chopped, 2 teaspoons buttr, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, dash Worcester sauce, about 3-4 cup hot water, 1 egg, 2 tablespoons milk, about 1 cup corn flakes, 1 tablespoon flour. Mix well the meat, oats, onion, green pepper, salt, and pepper, form croquette shape, roll in the beaten egg diluted with the milk, then in the toasted corn flakes crushed. Place in a pan with drippings, cover, and cook quickly. If the meat is not already cooked, broil gently, so as not to brown two quickly add flour to the juice in the pan, the hot water and the Worcester sauce. Serve with or over the cakes. This is enough to serve six.

IMOGENE GRAEF.

A DAY AT STORRS

Dear Sisters' of the Social Corner: I have been interested in reading about about the outings the sisters have taken. I too had a nice day at Storrs, during Farmer's week. It was a lovely day as to weather and the ride was delightful. After parking the car we registered and received a button and program. After hearing the morning address we ate our lunch under the trees where we had a fine view of the college buildings and the grounds. It is a beautiful place. We went through the greenhouse where we saw many plants and flowers and outside the flowers grow in luxuriance in beds and masses of different colored petunias and lantanas, and lovely blue flowers. One bed had flowers with the letters C. A. C. in flowers, also date 1925. A small pool of water contained pond lilies, white and pink, while a small gold fish darted around in the water. After spending some time here we climbed the hill to the library and museum. There we saw a human skeleton, and stuffed birds and animals, eagles, owls, ducks and small birds too numerous to mention, also many animals, mountain lion, wolf, beaver, mink, weasel, skunk, rabbit, woodchuck and many others. There are many butterflies or moths and a large collection of stones containing gold and other metals.

After spending some time there we returned to the building where Professor Allen spoke so enthusiastically on poultry, giving instruction and good advice. At the close of this we visited the poultry pens and were at the dedication of the poultry house that was given to be used for the benfit of poor students I think Connecticut may well be proud of her college in such a lovely place and trust it will will continue to grow and improve as the years go by.

I am afraid I have given a very poor description of all its attractions. Go and see for yourselves.

Aunt Jerushy: Wish you could see the hydrangea you gave to H. It has three large blossoms and looks like a florist's plant.

I must close for it is too long already.

SISTER BARBAR.

GIVE CHILDREN GOOD TIMES

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Have not written for some time on account of sickness, but have enjoyed the page every week with the trips of different members. This weeks page full of letters was especially helpful particularly the recipes, and will try some of them later. So kind to be remembered by the sisters for the shut-ins.

Gusta: You spoke of pretty sunsets. At my kitchen window is a pretty picture at sunset on a clear night which is beautiful, with the green cedars against the horizon. My first trip to Gardner lake I never shall forget. I then was in my teens. There was a crowd of eleven of us, wife father and mother, two brothers and wife, cousins, and sister, which made two loads. At that time the cottage was to be seen in the lake which looked rather out of place. What fun we had rowing and bathing (which they were allowed to do then,) but best of all was the dinner spread out as we were seated around on the ground. It was a long trip for us going with teams from Scotland. Father sat us up before daylight. My brother and another of the party swam across the lake.

Fathers and mothers take time to give your children good times while they are young and they will never forget it. I think it is so much better so than to let them go with mischievious children. Don't take them to the movies too often, unless you know it is a good picture. Keep their minds clean.

O, I certainly have enjoyed the birds this summer. I have lived out of doors under my "maple shade" of which I have six around my home. There were several new ones I had never seen and if I only had a good bird book I might have identified them. Having been a shut-in for two years has thrown me on things of nature for enjoyment.

Now I will ask for a pin as I am an old member.

Sassy: Am going to keep your letter on, Keeping Cool.

All those who are in sorrow have my heart sympathy. Be brave, I say to all shut-ins.

L. H. K.

AT SHAWOMET BEACH

Dear Corner Sisters: Greetings to you all. Perhaps you would like to know what U. C. E. is doing these hot August days. Well, she is trying to keep cool by the sea shore in Rhode Island at Shawomet beach, having a most beautiful time, bathing, and listening in on the radio. Between them I am kept very busy. Suppose many of you are listening in to the same music that I am. As I am sitting on the porch this afternoon I have a most beautiful view of the bay. But oh, the whirr of the automobiles makes me feel sometimes as if you were in the midst of a severe thunderstorm, but am willing to endure it all as the fresh breeze exhilarates, and enlivens one to the uttermost.

Esa: How are you these days?

Bumblebee: Hope to see you soon?

Nespa: Hope you survived that luncheon.

Queen Elizabeth: Wish you and the girls were here, to take a dip with me.

Esmaralda: Hope you and hubby are enjoying your vacation.

Golden Glow and Gypsy: Wish you were here. We would have our photos taken in our bathing suits. Ha. Ha. Will send in some verses which are very helpful to me. Thinking some one may enjoy them.

Will also send in a recipe for hot water pie crust.

Hop Water-Pie Crust: 1 cup lard, 1-2 cup boiling water, (salt) heat to a cream, let cool, add 3 cups flour and 1-2 teaspoon baking powder. It can be made the night before making pies and put in ice box to chill. Have tested this and I think it is very good.

Yours for the success of the Corner.

ADMIRES THE UNSELFISHNESS

Dear Social Corner Friends: A few days ago my morning paper contained a picture of a former congresswoman who, incognito, went to jail for a petty theft, came out and worked as a hotel chambermaid, cook, factory employe, etc., getting different "points of view," which she claims as indispensable and recommends them to all. She said it creates a strong spirit of helpfulness and sympathy for mankind. This was a truly courageous and praiseworthy thing for any woman to do and if many people would follow her example the world would profit by their so doing. There is nothing like seeing for one's self behind the scenes, nothing like having a corn on one's own toe to make one appreciate corns, nothing so illuminating as what one's own eyes see, what one's own ears hear, the injustices suffered by oneself, the overwork or hardships endured by one's own body. With all my heart I admire that woman's unselfishness and desire to serve mankind and I wish I were as brave as she.

What fine poems the Social Corner is furnishingly for our scrap books.

Rural Aunty: I hope you will give the Corner a good letter about your recent trip to New York. A few of us haven't been there yet. I haven't but I live beside a cement road and I hope the big city isn't much forse. With greetings to you all.

EVELINE BURR.

NOT ON VACATION

Dear Corner Sisters: As I have not written in some time perhaps you may think I am taking a vacation, nothing doing, I enjoy my home very much in the summer. I am on the veranda or in my garden in which I take great pleasure. This spring I planted 100 gladiolli bulbs and about 50 hills of dahlias besides all my seed and potted plants. Of course you know I do a bit of needle work also. So I am quite busy, most of the time.

We take week end trips occasionally to some of the surrounding cities or to the shore. That is about all the vacation I care for.

Robin: We did have a delightful time at your home even if it was so hot.

Eca: You have my consent to go for two weeks.

Maple Leaf: Take your guests and come to the Wigwam next Wednesday as I intend to go and hope to see some of the Corner sisters there.

Scottie: I don't think you have ever asked time to turn back and make you a child again.

E. L. M.: Was pleased to meet you at the beach and will look for you at Norwich some time.

It was sad to hear of the passing away of Red Clover, my sympathy goes out to her husband at this time.

Best wishes to all, I remain.

TRUE BLUE.

THE SIGN VIRGO

Dear Editor and Members: Virgo (the Virgin) is the sixth sign of the zodiac. It begins Aug. 23 and ends Sept. 23rd any year. Any one born in this period is subject to the Virgo vibration. Virgo corresponds to the bowels of mankind. It rules solar plexus and digestion, governs love, courtship and marriage. Virgo is cold, melancholy, feminine, maternal and barren. The colors are amber, gold and black. The gems are onyx and cornelian. The tribe is Benjamin, meaning "Son of Power". Ruling planet is Mercury. Venus and Uranus are strong. Virgo people like to travel, investigate or read of same. They succeed in literary and professional pursuits, and in large business enterprises. They like to criticise the faults in others forgetting that they may possess greater ones. Virgo people are happy when in rather large towns and near rivers. The important day of the week is Wednesday. Favorable time of the year May 10th to 17th and December 28th to January 4th. Use care from June 21 to 28th. Mercury rules moss agate and emerald; also carmel and medlor.

Esmaralda: Thank you for kind words.

Kentucky Wonder: Hello, this is your sign.

ARIES.

HELPER'S PICNIC AUG. 25TH.

Social Corner Friends: I neglected to tell you how you can get to Windham from Willimantic. I called up Harry Mosley, our Star route letter carrier and asked him if he couldn't bring two loads from Willimantic between his work. He will bring two loads if you will be at Jordan's Hardware store at 9:30 and 10 a. m. and he will carry you back for 25 cents each way. He brings you right to the door. You can call him by telephone and make your arrangements. 835-2 Willimantic

CHILDLESS HOMES

Read Mrs. Benedict's Letter Praising Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Kewanee, Illinois.—"When I was married about a year and a half I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because of ill health. I did not have any children. I now have two healthy little girls and I am sure I would not have had them had it not been for your medicine. Last spring and summer I got all run-down, irregular, and I had awful headaches, and my back and side hurt me so that I could stay up only a short time. My limbs would get so tired and ache till I could cry. I started to take the Vegetable Compound again and used the Sanative Wash, and it was not long till I was relieved. Now I do all my own work and help others. I sure praise Lydia E Pinkham's medicines to any one I meet that is suffering from similar troubles. I think if mothers with girls would give it to them when they come to womanhood it would make them stronger. People who have known me all my life are astonished to see me now as I was always sickly when in my teens and until I started taking the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. MARY R. BENEDICT, 213 Payson St., Kewanee, Ill.

GREETINGS FROM N. O. T.

Dear Social Corner, Well I must confess, J. E. T., that you have done well. I thought that "You can't swing on my gate" would set you thinking.

I am making my own kraut just the same and find that they turn better than my neighbors.

You haven't heard from Last one yet. I will send you a card as soon as it is received from the printer.

The title of it is "I took you a long time to catch me, Jessie." No long jaw or blues after swearing along with this song. Not very much in it but just enough to make it snappy and interesting. It will make fine with your banjo or frying pan I mean.

Mrs. Be returns "Kiss compliment. Very glad to hear from you.

A SILVER SHOWER

Dear Corneritos: Hello Everybody! Just to let you know, my luck is not dried up, and I am entered for living Hooks during the summer.

I am busy as ever. Company here most of the time.

Sunday Father celebrates his 65th birthday, and it was about like Pickens Thanksgiving—three days long. He had a delightful party and celebration. The feature of the day was a silver shower in money.

I was much amused on the same occasion to learn of Red Clovers passing. My sympathy to her family and to her corn which has lost a good worker. I know.

Cordially yours,

NEIGHBOR EVEREADY.

For the first time in history a religious meeting is scheduled to be held at Block Island.

WESTMINSTER

The text last Sunday was "As in Adam all die so in Christ shall all be made alive," and the theme, "Dead to Sin, Alive to Righteousness."

The usual mid-summer work social of the Westminster Church school was held in the temporary parsonage Tuesday afternoon. The two captains were Eleanor Stahlberg and Harry Hellstrom, who alternately chose members for their teams and supervised the post card work to be sent to the children of Ellis Island. Eleanor Stahlberg's team beat on the quality of work done, while Harry Hellstrom's side accomplished far the greater amount of work. Games and refreshments concluded a happy afternoon.

Twenty-two children and several grown-ups were in church school Sunday, the record attendance.

Deacon and Mrs. A. C. Greene of Danielson, for sixty years residents here and active in church and community, motored to Westminster Saturday with their son George, of Boston, and daughter, Miss Alice Greene, who is with her parents. The party inspected the parsonage under construction, expressing satisfaction with what they saw. They then made a brief call at the temporary parsonage, not stopping long as Mr. George Greene had to reach Boston that night, after which had returned to Danielson. Deacon Greene has recovered marvellously from a long and critical illness in the early part of this year and is now nearly or quite as well as prior to that.

Mike Skivington has gone to work for the Strombergs beginning the first of last week.

Mrs. Helen Anderson Connelly and her husband of New York are spending a vacation at Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lawson's.

Mrs. Wirt E. Davis of Elm Arch Farm, and Mr. Allen, the brother who is spending the summer at her home, have returned from a visit with their sister, Mrs. Andrew J. Nash in Darien, Conn. They made the trip of about 300 miles by automobile, calling on friends and relatives in Westport, Norwalk and Noroton.

Local motorists report unusual heavy traffic between Willimantic and New York, and rarely a day passes without one or more serious accidents.

Farmers report a large yield of hay except in newly seeded land. Corn promises a good crop if there are no severe frosts. The late spring caused late planting.

Mr. and Mrs. William Johnson, who recently moved from Milford, Pa., write of reaching their new location in Miami, Florida, after a very pleasant trip by automobile. Mr. Johnson expects to enter the real estate business. Their grand daughter, Miss Bonita Dusenberry and her mother, Mrs. Hinne have been residing in Florida for some months. The Johnsons have good tenants on their place here in the Rudyks, who have lived on it for over a year.

Mrs. Fred Green and daughter Isobel are visiting the former's sister in Massachusetts.

Mr. and Mrs. Mann Page of Port Washington, N. Y. were week-end guests of Mrs. Freeda Moody, at Rest Awhile. They have not been here for about two years and had to start on their return automobile trip early Monday morning. Mrs. Page (for many years Miss Izola Forrester Merrifield, a resident with her children) and her husband, are well known here. They brought and left in Mrs. Moody's care, their three younger daughters, Izola, Reggie and Rosamund, expecting to come for them in time for the children to begin the school year at their home in Port Washington.

School houses around town are being put in condition for the coming school year.

Deacon and Mrs. Charles Barstow were guests Sunday of a brother in his home at the Camp Grounds in Willimantic, attending service there and making the trip with another brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Robinson, of Attawaugan.

Mr. and Mrs. Moses A. Linnell, of Manchester were week end guests at Rose cottage, returning to Manchester for a few hours, then visiting Mr. Linnells' uncle, Moses Linnell in Moosup and returning to Westminster, Thursday for a further visit.

Miss Margaret Inglis of Plainfield was a week-end guest of her sister, Mrs. Frank Pellett.

Mrs. Cemira Raymond and Mrs. Maria Burrill of East Weymouth, Mass., have been visiting Albert Barnett and his sisters.

BLACK HILL BARN AND CONTENTS BURNED

A barn owned by Willard Cornell of Black Hill was discovered to be on fire about eleven o'clock Thursday evening. The fire had made much headway when seen by the family and nothing could be done to save it. Being at some distance from the other buildings, on what was known as the Hicks farm, before it was purchased by Mr. Cornell, they were not endangered. There were no cattle in the barn it being used for young stock in winter, but a large quantity of hay had been stored there and a wagon and some farming tools were underneath and all were destroyed. No one of the family had been in the building for two or three days and the origin of the fire is a mystery. Several Canterbury people saw the blaze and drove over.

The famous Yankee brig Enterprise was lost by going ashore on the Little Curacoa.

FACE DISFIGURED FOR TWO YEARS

Large, Red Pimples Broke Out. Lost Sleep. Cuticura Healed.

"I suffered from large, red pimples that broke out on my face. They bothered me a great deal and sometimes I could not sleep on account of the irritation. My face was disfigured by the eruptions, and the trouble lasted about two years.

"I tried other remedies but they did not help me. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and in a short time I could see an improvement. I continued the treatment and now I am completely healed." (Signed) Samuel Singer, 54 Spring St., Boston, Mass.

CELEBRATION TO RECALL FIRST ZEPPELIN FLIGHT 25 YEARS AGO

FRIEDRICHSHAVEN, July—(AP)—The 25th anniversary of the first Zeppelin flight will be celebrated in this city in August. On his first flight Count Zeppelin succeeded in remaining in the air only 20 minutes. To the coming celebration, a number of prominent personalities in the world of economics and science will be invited.

Count Zeppelin was born at Constance, in Baden, Germany, in 1838. During the American Civil War, he served as a volunteer in the Union army. It was while he was in America that he made his first ascent in a balloon. He died in Berlin in 1917.

EASTERN STAR

The 43rd annual outing of the state Order of the Eastern Star, celebrating the 107th birthday anniversary of Robert Morris, founder of the order, will be held on August 31 at Savin Rock. The business meeting will be held at 1:30 o'clock, followed by a dinner.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

More than five thousand Knights of Columbus from all parts of Connecticut are expected at New Haven Saturday to participate in the first annual field day and athletic carnival conducted under the auspices of the state K. of C. council at the Lighthouse Point Municipal park. Saturday's celebration will be the first state-wide demonstration ever staged in Connecticut by the Knights of Columbus and is drawing large groups of Knights and their families from every part of the state.

The festivities will include track and field games in the afternoon, basket picnics, swimming with a full tide at bathing, boat rides across the harbor and to the various neighboring beaches, boxing and vaudeville in the evening. The athletic contests will bring together the best amateur athletes in the state.

The committee in charge of the arrangements for the day is composed of members of Knights of Columbus councils throughout the state, and this general committee is working under the direction of an executive committee.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE TO HAVE COAL COMMITTEE

BRISTOL, Conn., Aug. 21.—(AP)—The board of directors of the Connecticut chamber of commerce elected Alton Farrel, treasurer of the Farrel Foundry and Machine company, of Ansonia, second vice president, of the chamber at a meeting held at the Chippanee Country club here today. Mr. Farrel is a director in a dozen different Connecticut corporations. Mr. Farrel succeeds George T. Kimball, president of the American Hardware corporation of New Britain, who resigned because of his acceptance of a place on the new pollution of streams commission.

The directors elected Charles T. Treadway, president of the American Trust company of Bristol, a director of the state chamber to succeed Winthrop M. Daniels, professor of transportation at Yale university and former chairman of the interstate commerce commission. Mr. Treadway is a director in over a dozen Connecticut corporations.

The special nominating committee which has had charge of selecting the two foregoing officials is composed of Ernest E. Rogers, treasurer of the state of Connecticut, and president of the chamber; Stanley H. Ballard, of Bridgeport, vice president of the Ballard Machine Tool company; and Frank H. Johnston, of New Britain.

The Connecticut chamber of commerce directors today authorized President Rogers to appoint a special coal committee should an emergency arise before the next meeting of the directors of the chamber whereby the welfare of the general public seemed threatened. One director in a position to speak with exceptional authority stated today that he believed that there would be a suspension of mining activities on September first lasting at least three or four weeks. He predicted the possibility of a coal shortage in the fall and the necessity of selling coal on a ration oasis.

The directors endorsed the New England conference which was recently organized at the instigation of the governors of the six New England states. George B. Chandler, executive vice president of the Connecticut chamber of commerce, is the chairman of the delegation representing Connecticut.

It is voted to discharge the following special committees of the chamber: Medical practice, Storrs College, New York exposition, and pollution of streams It was voted to continue the following committees: Forestry, Legislative, prevention of auto thefts, preservation of scenic beauty, revision of freight rates, standardization of municipal accounting, survey of state finances, taxation, survey of means of transportation, financial responsibility of automobile owners.

The directors voted to appoint separate committees in the future to represent the banking and the insurance interests of the state respectively. In the past, one committee has represented both.

The directors of the Bristol chamber of commerce met with the directors of the Connecticut chamber of commerce today.

MASONS

Final plans for the observance of the 100th anniversary of the institution of freemasonry in Mystic are being made by the committee appointed for that purpose and which comprises Edward E. Bucklin, senior warden; R. K. Burrows, David H. Seamon, Jesse B. Stinson and Percy H. Morgan.

In addition to the members of Charity and Relief lodge, No. 72, invitations have been sent to nearly 300 guests members of other Masonic lodges and judging from the returns that are coming back nearly 300 members of the order will be present.

Among those who have sent their acceptance are Right Worshipful Grand Master F. A. Arnold, Deputy Grand Master Arthur Nash; Grand Marshal Darble, Past Grand Master Thomas MacKenzie, A. H. Brown and C. C. Perkins, District Chaplain F. W. Hazel of Groton, and District Deputy Grand Master Norton of Colchester.

The members of Charity chapter, No. 61, Order of the Eastern Star, have also been invited to attend the services at the Mystic Methodist church. They will meet at Masonic temple at 7.30 o'clock Tuesday evening, to march to the church with the members of Charity and Relief lodge.

EAGLES

Norwich Aerie No. 367 F. O. E. held its regular meeting on Monday night with a large attendance of members, Worthy President George Nadolny presiding. Routine business was transacted. The aerie is planning for another class initiation on Sunday, Sept 20. A committee of fifteen was appointed to make the proper arrangements as this class is intended to be the largest the aerie ever initiated. There are twelve applications in so far.

The aerie is to have a ladies night on Tuesday, Sept 1. It will be the first ladies night at the new home. The next regular meeting will be held Tuesday, Sept 8, at 8.15 P. M., on account of Labor Day. The members are showing more interest in the weekly pinochle as the numbers of players are increasing every week.

U. S. HAS MORE THAN HALF OF TELEPHONES IN WORLD

LOS ANGELES, July—(AP)—Statistics compiled here recently by the Southern California Telephone Company show that the United States with approximately 16,000,000 instruments, leads the world in telephone development. Of the world's telephones 63 per cent are in the United States, 26 per cent in the countries of Europe and 11 per cent in countries of other continents.

In European countries the average number of telephones is 12 for each 1,000 inhabitants, while in the United States the figures show that there are 131 telephones for every thousand.

The statistics revealed that in cities in the United States of 50,000 population or over the average number of instruments was 177 for each 1,000 inhabitants. Atlantic City, N. J., shows the greatest development, having 336 phones per 1,000 persons. Omaha, Neb., with its 284 per 1,000 is second. Pasedena, Cal., with 275; Des Moines, Ia., 267; Lincoln, Neb., 262, and San Francisco with 259 rank third, fourth, and fifth in the order named.

Chicago ranks thirteenth with 238 telephones per 1,000 population; Boston is twenty-fourth with 222, and New York City, despite the fact that it has more instruments than Berlin, London, Paris, Liverpool, Rome, Antwerp, Brussels, and Shanghai combined, ranks in forty-third place.

YOUNG LEAGUERS WARNED AGAINST MODERNISTS' TALK

SAN FRANCISCO, July—(AP)—Young people attending the convention here of the Walther League were urged in an address by the Rev. J. W. Behnken, vice-president of the Texas district, "to be on guard when modernists undertake to praise Jesus Christ, because the Bible speaks in very plain and positive language."

"When modernists begin to use words of praise about the Bible, about Christ, about any scriptural doctrine, we had better beware," he said. "You know that the soft catspaw conceals sharp claws. When the paw of modernism is subjected to careful examination, it reveals the horrible claws of the denial of the inspiration of the Bible, of Christ's Diety, of the glorious work as our Substitute, of His bodily resurrection and in fact of everything which is dear to a true child of God.

"Do not permit yourselves to be deceived by the flowery language and astounding expressions which these great exponents of modernism use. What have these people accomplished? They have undermined the faith of thousands. They have started confusion in their churches, in their denominations and in other bodies.

"Just keep in mind that the Christ of the Bible is none other than the Saviour, who by the shedding of His blood and by His suffering and death wrought for us an eternal redemption. Compare that with the caricature of Christ which the modernist presents, a Christ who is a mere example for our imitation, and you should be convinced that it is not the Christ of the Bible."

BULGARIA MOVES TO PREVENT PROFITEERING IN FOODSTUFFS

SOFIA, July—(AP)—Minister of the Interior Russeff has directed the chief Commission of Provisions to begin proceedings against fruit and vegetable merchants in half a dozen cities to compel them to sell their produce at reasonable prices. Complaints had been made that prices three times as large as they should be were being charged. Some milkmen, who were said to be charging excessive prices, also were included.

The provision authorities were instructed by the minister not only to fine those found guilty of profiteering but to impose prison sentences of one year as well.

Japan Plans Railway Radios

TOKYO, June — (AP)—Eight special coaches are under construction by the Japanese Railway department to be used in experimenting with radio service for passengers. The train will be equipped with the vacuum-typed, dual system radio apparatus with an antenna over the entire length of the carriages. It is expected that operators on the train will be able to broadcast messages and also receive telegrams from the various stations. In addition radio loud-speakers will be installed so the passengers may be entertained by news dispatches and musical programs.

Ireland Checking Tuberculosis

DUBLIN, July — (AP)—Tuberculosis in the Free State is gradually lessening, statistics show. In 1911 one in about every 70 of the population was affected by some form of the disease while in 1923 the proportion had diminished to about one in every 90. The decrease in deaths from all forms of tuberculosis in five years was 1.-711. In 1923 the tuberculosis death rate was 1.47 per 1,000.

Germany Building Long Dike

WESTERLAND, Germany, July—(AP)—A dike 6.3 miles in length is in process of construction between the island of Sylt and the mainland. Three and a half miles have been built and the entire length is expected to be completed in 1925. The foundation of the dike is constructed of granite and is 165 feet wide. The height will be 6.5 feet above the highest water mark.

In Japan it is a custom to set food before guests at whatever time of day they call.

TWO VIOLATORS OF AUTO LAWS GIVEN FINES IN NEW LONDON COURT

(Special to the Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 21.—Two serious violations of the automobile laws of the state were tried before the police court this morning, and in each conviction followed the taking of testimony. Howard Lockwood was fined $50 for recklessly operating a Dodge car that he borrowed from William Maynard of Waterford and which Lockwood declares he used to convey a cook to work in the Liberty restaurant on State street. The Lockwood car ran into the pleasure vehicle which Morris Mallove was driving and in which was Mrs. Mallove. The crash came soon after the Mallove care had come into Main street, near the Swan garage. The mud-shield and a section of the running board were damaged. Mr. Mallove declared that Lockwood cleared out as soon as he found after the accident and it was for this he was prosecuted. Mallove did not mean to let him get away and secured assistance from a driver on the street, followed Lockwood, pursuing him through state street to College street, then to Franklin street, where he was overtaken. Mr. Mallove accused the members of the Lockwood car first then asked for his arrest. He was found at his boarding place on Federal street. Mr. Mallove declared that Lockwood was intoxicated, but this the latter denied, saying he did not drink any liquor that day. The result of the trial places the responsibility for the damage to the Mallove car upon Maynard, as the owner of the car that did the damage, for the law holds the owner responsible, rather than the driver.

Archie A. Blatchford, stationed at the submarine base as an orderly, was fined $100 for operating a motor vehicle while he was under the influence of liquor. He pleaded guilty. Blatchford was in control of a government truck and on Montauk avenue ran the machine against a car which a woman was driving. She protested, but getting no satisfaction she continued to the police office, and then a patrolmen and traffic officers were instructed to be on the lookout for the reckless marine and were told to take him into custody if he appeared. Blatchford finally drove up Bank street and was stopped and arrested by Officer William Corcoran. Both men paid their fines and the attending costs.

After being detained in the county jail here a fortnight Daniel C. Beckwith, a young man, was given his liberty today when the state announced that it did not possess the evidence needed to connect Beckwith with recent robberies in stores of this city of which he was suspected. The police now declare that Beckwith is guilty, but they admit that they cannot obtain the information they have been seeking. A storekeeper on Hempstead street pointed out Beckwith as being the man who offered to sell him cigarettes at a price suspiciously low, but again he was doubtful about the identity. Beckwith told some suspicious stories to account for his movements, but he would not admit a fact that would connect him with the robberies. He could not account for the fact that he came away from his home at about 3 o'clock in the morning, the hour at which it is claimed the robberies were committed.

City Manager William A. Holt today decided to cause automobiles, [illegible] to park on Pequot avenue, other than opposite Butler's bench, a section of city property that is devoted principally for playing by children. In order that his wish shall be carried out the city manager today instructed the police to put a stop to the practice of autos parking on either side of the avenue, opposite the bathing place.

The New London police were requested by the authorities of Narragansett Pier, this morning, to be on the lookout for the appearance here of three sailors, suspected of having robbed three stores at Narragansett Pier last night, the loot obtained by the thieves including a quantity of jewelry. The Narragansett authorities [illegible] early this morning the bluejackets, two of them carrying grips, were known to have solicited and obtained a ride from Narragansett Pier to Westerly and to have [illegible] that they were on their [illegible]. The sailors are also [illegible] obtained an auto ride from Westerly in a machine that was headed towards New London. No trace of the suspected sailors was obtained here.

Eleanor and Catherine Wall have sold to Mattie and Hubert Arnold a [illegible] lot corner of Konomos and [illegible] streets.

[illegible] today sold a tract of land on Jefferson avenue to Archibald MacFarlane. MacFarlane later [illegible] of the realty to Morris Tur-

Mrs. Gus Pandagis, of 100 Crocker street, Hartford; Mrs. Paul Mather and infant son, 168 Lincoln avenue; Grank Jesuf, schooner Sterling; Mrs. Charles Blake, 121 Broad street, and Mrs. Bernard Wolfe, 50 Baker avenue, Groton, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged today.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today caused the operator's license of Morgan Hicks, 56 Montauk avenue, to be suspended.

Motorcycle Officer George McCaskey sustained a painful injury last night when thrown from his cycle, receiving a severe sprain of his left hand, which required the attention of a physician. McCaskey was driving his machine through State street when one wheel became caught between the pavements and the rails of the Connecticut company. The machine skidded and finally overturned, throwing the officer to the street and in such a manner as to sprain the hand.

The continued hearing of Sam Santinella, 44 Shaw street, and George Librizzi, 135 Jefferson avenue, public service operator, charged with violation of the prohibition law in having liquor in their possession and with transportation, was again continued, when the accused were presented this morning before United States Commissioner Russell H. Corcoran. The latest continuance was to the 28th inst. at the request of Assistant United States District Attorney James Danaher, Hartford, who was unable to be in attendance at the hearing here today. Santinella and Librizzi furnished a bond of $500 each for the hearing next week. Santinella and Librizzi were taken into custody a fortnight ago by prohibition enforcement agents and state police who raided a barn in Center Groton and which is alleged to have been a place of storage of Santinella's liquors. A small quantity of liquor was found there, but a greater quantity of liquor and hooch, including spurious labels, corks, etc., were seized in an automobile, alleged to be owned by Santinella and which is registered in Librizzi's name. The automobile was seized after a chase of two miles by Prohibition Enforcement Officer Harry W. Avery and after the car had been abandoned.

Lucretia E. Bly, year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen L. Bly, 34 Woodbridge street, died this morning at the residence of the child's parents.

Miss Caroline Quinn, Montauk avenue, is visiting friends at Poquyogh.

Miss Addie Fitch, of Riverview avenue, resumed her duties today as chief clerk and cashier in the office of the board of water and sewer commissioners, after having enjoyed her annual vacation, which was spent in Ontario, Canada.

George H. Miller has sold a house and two parcels of land at Bentley avenue, Ocean Beach, to Sidney Sulman.

Captain of Police Charles A. Pinney underwent an operation this forenoon at Lawrence-Memorial hospital for the removal of gall-stones. At the institution this evening it was stated that Captain Pinney's condition was as comfortable as could be expected and it was believed that the operation had been a success.

By the derailment of two cars of the Connecticut Company here this evening, traffic was greatly interrupted, both trolley cars and vehicles.

The first derailment occurred when the trolley car, scheduled to leave New London at 8.13 o'clock, split a switch at the corner of Main and State streets, the rear trucks leaving the rails and continuing to the southbound tracks. The derailment tied up traffic greatly in all directions and after the crew had worked three-quarters of an hour attempting to get the car back on the tracks, a wrecking car from the New London barn was brought into service and the derailed car was replaced on the iron after about five minutes. Prior to the derailment of the Norwich-bound car, an Ocean Beach bound car left the rails at the corner of State and Bank street, but little difficulty was encountered in getting that car back on the tracks. Cars have left the two points of derailment several times of late.

Navarre E. Duane, a stranger here, was arrested tonight by Patrolman Clarence Martin charged with violation of the automobile law in operating his machine while under the influence of liquor. Duane is at the police station awaiting trial in the police court tomorrow morning.

A group of local Catholic children has been organized for instruction in liturgical music. The purpose is to bring back the Gregorian chant in place of modern church music. The group was organized by Miss Delia Marooney of the Diocesan Bureau and is being instructed by Miss Josephine Shine, of New York. During the past five weeks the group has progressed so well that it has given seven recitals, two each in St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, St. Joseph's and Our Lady of Perpetual Help and one in Sacred Heart church at Groton, where the juvenile singers chanted Missa de Angelis.

The children are of Irish, Italian, Spanish, German, French, British, West Indian, Portuguese, Greek and Polish descent and are divided into classes from the three Catholic churches in this city. A community concert is being planned to end their season.

Two pedestrians had a narrow escape from injury, this noon, when they barely escaped being struck by a granite cap of one of the windows of the three-story structure, corner of State and Maine streets, owned by Thomas R. Robinson, of New Haven. The cap became dislodged from one of the second story windows and fell to the sidewalk. Because of the danger of other sections of the granite trimming falling, a section of the sidewalk was blocked off to prevent pedestrians being endangered. This afternoon Inspector of Buildings Benjamin R. Linicus notified Mr. Robinson of the hazardous condition of the building and ordered that immediate repairs be made. The pedestrians who escaped being struck by the falling granite, a strip about three feet in length and about a foot thick, were Joseph Solt and Jacob Solomon Main street merchants. Mr. Soltz and Mr. Solomon had just returned from State street into Main street when the cap dropped to the walk, missing their heads by inches only. As it crashed to the sidewalk it was broken into a score of pieces. The falling of the cap occurred a few minutes before clerks of the State and Main street stores were leaving for lunch.

CONDUCTOR C. W. CRUICKSHANK DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 21.—Charles W. Cruickshank, about 60, conductor in the passenger service of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, died this afternoon at his home 112 Connecticut avenue. He is survived by his wife and two sons, one son being Robert Cruickshank, of New Haven. Mr. Cruickshank had not been in sound health for a long time. He was a member of the Order of Railway Conductors. Mr. Cruickshank had been in the employ of the railroad about 35 years and for a score of years was in charge of trains running between New London and Worcester and New London and Norwich.

HERTZ FRACTURES LEG WHEN CAR STRIKES A TREE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 21.—An automobile in which Harry Hertz, 32, Ocean Spray hotel, Ocean Beach, and George Halpern, 156 Ledyard street, were passengers, was wrecked this evening near Saybrook. Hertz sustained a fractured leg and a severe scalp wound, while Halpern received an ugly laceration of the scalp, when the automobile crashed against a tree. Both Hertz and Halpern were brought to New London and taken to Lawrence hospital, where Hertz is a patient. Halpern was sent to his home, after his wound had been dressed.

The automobile was en route to this city from New Haven. At Saybrook the road was exceptionally slippery because of the constant rain of the day and early evening. While the car was traveling at a fair rate of speed, it began to skid and before it could be brought under control, darted across the highway and came to a stop when it bumped into the tree.

PLAINFIELD

The funeral of Agnes Maria Tarnox, wife of William S. Harvey, will be held today (Saturday).

Mrs. Harvey was a daughter of late Caleb and Maria Clark Tarbox of Canterbury. She is survived by her husband, William S. Harvey, long prominent townsman, who with his family came here about 40 years ago.

For a quarter of a century they have owned a beautiful home in White Hall district. One daughter, Mrs. Edward Hall and several grand children also survive.

The death of Israel Seguin this week at his daughter's home in Bristol, with burial in the family lot in Evergreen cemetery, marks the passing of one of the town's enterprising citizens and business men for many years. He has been ill for a long time.

The Baptist Church at Packerville will be ready to use again and will be opened up Sunday morning. The work of repairing has been completed.

FILIPINO WITH NOTABLE U. S. ARMY CAREER DEAD

MANILA, June—(AP)—Major Crispulo Patajo (Filipino), retired, one of the first Filipinos to obtain a commission in the U. S. Army, is dead. He served in the intelligence office of the days of American occupation and it was in recognition of his services that a lieutenant's commission was given him.

The late Major General J. Franklin Bell, who saw much service in the Philippines during the insurrection, recognized Patajo's value to the army and is said to have attributed in a large degree the success of several engagements in Northern Luzon to information furnished by Patajo. General Bell is once said to have remarked: "Patajo's services to the U. S. Army were equivalent to a regiment."

Retired from the army, after 20 years of service, Major Patajo acquired extensive agricultural interests in Central Luzon.

MARK TWAIN MEMORIAL TO FEATURE BUILDING

KEOKUK, Iowa, Aug. — (AP) — A memorial for Mark Twain will be included in the new building of an insurance company here.

The new building will be located next door to the old print shop in which Mark Twain worked as a printer during 1856 setting type for a city directory, which his brother, Orion, published. In this directory the humorist gives his occupation as an antiquarian.

A room or library in which will be kept many of the records of Clemens' personal life is the memorial planned. A printer's case, photographs, autographs and possibly a copy of the directory on which Clemens worked will be included as part of the equipment of the room.

COAL PRODUCTION IN THE UNITED STATES

The United States is the world's largest coal producer and has also the world's largest underground supply says the Trade Record of The National City bank of New York. The coal produced from the mines of the United States in 1924 was 520 million tons against 273 millions in Great Britain, 257 millions in Germany, 45 millions in France, 35 millions in Cecho-Slovakia, 32 millions in Poland, and 30 millions in Japan.

Not only are we the world's largest producer, adds the Trade Record, but we have the world's largest underground stock or "reserve," as the geologists call it. The world's known coal "reserve," or underground stock of coal, was estimated by a geological congress in 1913 as follows: United States 3,854 billion tons, Canada 1,234 billions, China 966 billions, Germany 423 billions, United Kingdom 196 billions. This estimate of geologists puts the known underground coal stock of the United States at 52 per cent of the world's total, most of which exists in the northern part of the globe, the known coal supply south of the equator being but a small fraction of that in the northern section, chiefly in North America and Europe.

The recognition which the world has given to American coal has increased in recent years. Our coal exports have advanced from seven million tons in the fiscal year 1900 to 13 millions in the calendar year 1910, 17 millions in 1914, 24 millions in 1918, but declined (with the post-war increase in European production) to 18 million tons in the calendar year 1924. The exports gained slowly up to the opening of the World war, which checked European production and caused a big jump in American exports, which however, declined when European mines resumed their normal output following the close of the war. The value of coal exports from the United States advanced from 54 million dollars in 1914 to 120 millions in 1919, 168 millions in 1921, and 105 millions in the fiscal year 1925. The total value of coal exported from the United States since the opening of the World war is over one billion dollars. Prices meantime have advanced, as is true of practically all other commodities. The export prices of coal which are stated by the department of commerce as "the market value at port and date of exportation" advanced in the case of anthracite from an annual average of $5.30 per ton in 1913 to $11.10 per ton in 1924, while bituminous advanced from $2.53 per ton in 1913 to $4.64 in 1924.

Bituminous, or "soft" coal as it is frequently called, forms by far the largest share of our coal exports, the total quantity of bituminous coal exported in 1924 having been 15 million tons and of anthracite only 3 1-2 million tons. Our production of bituminous coal is of course much larger than of anthracite, the total bituminous produced in the United States in 1924 being estimated at 438 million tons and of anthracite only 82 millions. About two-thirds of the anthracite coal produced in the United States is used for domestic heating, while only about one-sixth of the bituminous is used for domestic heating, the remainder for industrial and transportation purposes.

Our distribution of coal is world wide. Canada, although having a very large underground "reserve" still finds it more convenient to buy from the United States than to dig it out of the ground especially in view of her limited labor supplies, and our coal exports to Canada in 1924 were 41 million tons; to Europe as a whole 1,350,000 tons; South America approximately 1,000,000; to Brazil, 759,000; and to Cuba, 535,000 tons.

Despite this large increase in our exports of coal in recent years the United States still holds second rank among the world exporters, the British coal exportations since the close of the World war having been about twice as great as those from the United States. This excess of exports from Great Britain as compared with the United States, a larger producer, is due in part to the fact that Great Britain's "next-door neighbors" on the continent of Europe are large importers of coal and naturally draw their imports from the nearest source of supply, while the fact that British outbound vessels loaded with manufactures can carry coal at practically "ballast" rates facilitates British sales in overseas countries.

World production of coal adds the Trade Record, as 726,000,000 tons in 1924. Our share of world production in 1900 was 34 per cent and in 1924, 38 per cent.

CARAMEL NUT

Tait Bros. Venetian Ice Cream special for this week—Aug. 22nd to 29th—will "strike twelve" with the sweet tooth of thousands.

Caramel flavor—as the Tait chefs know how to make it—plus the rich touch of chopped English walnuts.

—A blend that would make any ice cream good. But Tait Bros. Venetian Ice Cream has the basic goodness that comes with pure, rich cream and milk from properly supervised dairy farms.

Plan your desserts for the week to include Tait Bros. Caramel Nut. There's a Tait dealer "around the corner" from most everybody.

Telephone 775 and we will call for clothes to be cleaned, pressed or dyed, and also lace curtains cleaned and all sizes of rug shampooing.

"BUSTED."

Man-fortunes, we know
Like tides, ebb and flow.
They bring either sorrow or joy;
But what man would swear,
His problems compare
With marble-time woes of his boy?

If fortune be his,
A tyrant be is,
It's only boy-nature, that's true
Yet if he gets stuck,
Runs rotten in luck,
His soul turns an indigo blue!

He mumbles and groans,
Throws brick-bats and stones
At dogs—once his intimate friends.
He kicks up the ground,
Lies down, rolls around,
Then looks for the winner who lends.

"Aw, lend me a few—
I'll do that for you!"
He pleads—but the others recall
How czar-like he stood
When his luck was good—
Which proves them just boys after all.

One marble will do
To start him anew;
They lend it—he fights with a vim!
One marble—and then
He's winner again—
The "busted" must borrow from him!
—Wm. Herschell in Indianapolis News.

THE SONG.

A song lay silent in my pen
Where yesterday I found it,
Right cozy in its gloomy den,
With a melody wrapped around it.
Through all the years 'twas waiting so,
To hear the summons of that minute;
I thought I loved the rose, 'twas true,
It was the song within it!

Today my lady sang to me
My song in sweetest fashion;
Unwrapped it from the melody
In the radiance of its passion
As one might see a blessed star,
Yet never see the sun above it,
I thought I loved the song, but no!
It was her singing of it!
—John Erskine.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

"Hear about Josephine having her face lifted?"

—"No. Where did she get the slack?"—Exchange.

Many a youngster that gets out of college this month will soon be wishing he had got more out of it.—Norfolk Varsitian-Pilot.

Tailor's ad—"I'll take your measure and give you fits."

"No, you won't; that is our wife's exclusive privilege."—Boston Transcript.

Bashful One: Will you marry me? Object: Ask father.

R. O.: "Well, how about a close one then?"—Wabash College Cavemen.

She—If Shakespeare were alive today we shouldn't consider him a very remarkable man.

He—Still, he would be, you know, for he'd be over 350 years old.—Exchange.

"You seem troubled about your gardening proposition.

"Yes, I am wondering whether I can raise enough to take care of the exceptional appetite the outdoor exercise will give me."—Boston Transcript.

"I tell you, my love for you is making me mad—mad—mad."

"Well, keep quiet about it. It's had the same effect on my father."—Williams Purple Cow.

Bootlegger (to man fishing)—"Have any luck?"

Man—"No."

Bootlegger—"Try some of this on your bait."

Man pours something from bottle over the worm on the hook and lowers it in the water.

Soon a great splashing about is heard and the line is jerked up. The worm had a strangle-hold on a catfish and was punching him in the eye with his tail.—The Harvard Crimson.

Though exports of American funds for charitable purposes decreased decidedly during 1924, compared to 1923 they still amount to $55,000,000, the department of commerce has estimated. Of this amount $25,000,000 was for direct charitable and relief work and $30,000,000 for religious and missionary purposes. The total, though nearly $20,000,000 less than the previous year is greater than that expended by any other country in the world.

Cullen Chancellor, seventeen, of San Antonio, Tex., carried his objective of being neither tardy nor absent during his high school course, which recently ended. For five months during his freshman year he was ill, and a doctor stayed with him every night, but when morning came, the boy would say that he mustn't miss school, so he would get up, put his bottle of medicine in his pocket and be on his way to his classes.

From an exploring ship in the arctic for Admiral Peary to the prosaic job of furnishing electric power for an island community in Puget sound is the fate of the ocean-going tug Roosevelt. The Roosevelt, built in a Maine shipyard in 1905 and used by Peary in his polar exploration voyage, was taken to Pudget sound several years ago. Converted into a tug, she saw service in the fishing industry. Then, when the Vashon island electric plant was destroyed by lightning, the tug was placed in commission as a substitute power plant
